I had been able to quote low on these articles because I had been able to draw out of the clerk what the goods on the shelf were marked, but after this I would be at a loss. The profit made on files and rivets was about 7½ per cent., but those were goods. the leading Eastern houses sold on a small margin. I determined to ask 10 per cent. on anything else he wanted, unless it was some little notions that ought to pay more. I adhered to this, and my prices suited him. He gave me an order amounting to $75, and about $15 of it was small brass and iron goods, upon which I made a good profit.

I had abundant reasons for being satisfied with my day's work, and I was satisfied. I sat with Mr. Clymer until nearly supper time and when we shook hands, I felt on my part as if he was an old acquaintance. I called on my German friend and had another glass of wine with him, and then I was ready for the evening train to Bremont. I had inquired about hotels, and selected the Kessler, going up from the depot in a 'bus. It was about 7:30 when I had registered, but I concluded I would look up the party whose name was on my book as having bought of us heretofore.

The store was but a short distance from the hotel, and I found Mr. Simpson in. It has been my fortune to meet a good many pleasant merchants in the years I was on the road, but I have never been received so cordially and kindly as Mr. Simpson met me that evening. I did not care to do more than beat around the bush at that hour, but I did my best to get under the crust that every man has against a stranger, and I saw signs that I was succeeding. The story I had for every one I told him—about my anxiety to do well that trip, because it was a trial trip, etc.—and when I got up to say good night I told him I should be around in the morning, and if there was anything at all that he wanted I hoped that he would give me a bite.

"Come in," said he; "there may be something in the want-book; but come in any way; make yourself at home."

I had a good room and bed that night; after copying off my orders and seeing that they would be mailed in time I went to bed and had a good night's rest, not waking till the gong sounded for breakfast.

My first call was on Mr. Simpson, whom I found full of business, but very cordial, and he gave me a chair and the morning paper, telling me to make myself at home. After a little he left a customer a moment to ask me if I had seen the last Iron Age. I had not. "There's a sketch there," said he, "that will interest you, as you are new on the road." He found the paper for me and then went back to his customer, while I devoted myself to the sketch, which was headed:

A SPLENDID TALKER.

"I've come across a man at last," said my partner, "that will suit you. He's been in the retail trade all his life and is a splendid talker. I believe he'd sell piles of goods on the C. H. & D. road."

"Who is he?" I asked.

"His name is Tom Bowers, brother of Ephriam Bowers up in Washington, and you know he's about as sharp as they make them."

We were talking of a man who had applied for a position as travelling salesman. For two or three months we had been on the look out for an experienced salesman, but none were to be had. It had finally been decided that we must break in a man, and from what my partner said I didn't see but what Bowers would be a good one to experiment with. Later in the day he came to see me, and I was pleased with his appearance.

He must have been about 40 years old, was dressed neatly, but wore nothing flashy, and had a pleasant face. There was no embarrassment in his manner when introduced to the proprietor, as there is usually with green hands; his air was one of cordial good will, and he was entirely at his ease. I think however, that he considered himself already engaged by my partner, and looked upon his visit to me as a mere matter of form.

"Nice day," said he; "you've got a splendid store here; best in town, ain't it? Beats any I've been in. You can hold your own with any of 'em now. Trade dull, I suppose? Is everywhere. Got a big stock of goods. How are prices? Pretty stiff ain't they? I always liked to sell hardware; paid big profits."

Thus far he had bounded from the time he began, and without giving me a chance to answer one of the many questions he asked, or to get in a remark of my own.

"My partner says you would like to go out on the road—"

"Yes" he broke in, "I met him up in the lodge last night and we had a little talk. I told him I'd like to go out for a trip and show you what I'm made of. I never took hold o anything yet but what I made it go, and I'd rather sell goods than eat. I don't know how it is, selling on the road, but I ain't going to back down very easy, you bet. I—"

I saw it wouldn't do to wait for him to finish his speech, if I expected to do any work that day, so I interrupted him with the question:

"How much of a line of hardware have you ever handled ?"

"Handled ? Ive handled it all; everything from a mowing machine down. But I can sell anything, I don't care what it is; just give me prices and let me go in; I ain't afraid of any of 'em."

Some men saying as much as that, would naturally have disgusted one, but it had no such effect on me now. His air was one of quiet assurance, as if he was simply claiming to be able to do what he had satisfied himself he could do. If I am selling an article of merchandise, I am expected to show up its merits in the very best light; if a man is selling his services, I don't know any good reason why he should not do as well by them as he does by a piece of merchandise.

I excused myself a moment, and went to see my partner.

"How do you like Bowers ?" he asked.

"He looks sold and intelligent," I said, "and as if he might sell goods, but he talks like a woman with two tongues."

"Yes, he's a good talker, and he's a good man. I've known him for years, and he's a first-rate fellow."

"Shall we give him a chance ?"

"Just as you think about that, but I'm in favor of it."

So I engaged Tom for six months, and he came to work the next day.

During the week he was in the store, posting up and making a price-book, it was natural that I should watch him closely. A better natured man could not have been found in the city; every body in the store, from the porter to the head clerk, ordered him about at their own sweet will, and he obeyed their commands with the utmost cheerfulness. But he was not displaying the "gumption" that was to have been expected of a man of his years.

One day I met him on the street, and he complained because he couldn't find any brass square circles for the head clerk. Another day I heard the boys send him for a half-dozen nickel plated wash-boards, and I heard the porter telling how Tom was out after leather oil-cans, not half an hour after he announced that no one had any nickel-plated wash-boards in the city.

Such innocence in a man is calculated to make one smile. but is not reassuring in one who is going to represent you in the country. If he will take a "square circle" and a "leather oil-can" on trust, what will he not believe ? But my partner, who was out in the store much more than I was, seemed to retain his confidence in Tom, and I tried to brace up my faith in him.

When the time came to send him out on a trip, I prepared a list of dealers on the route, and at each name made a minute, to show whether the party was a close buyer or not. Tom came back to the office for this book, and I proceeded to give him some general directions about selling goods, but it was impossible to say more than a dozen words when he stopped me.

In the best natured way in the world he explained that he understood just what to do, and just how to approach a country dealer, and he showed me that he had already estimated how many goods he would sell the first week out; he was not only going to sell every man we had ever sold, but he was going to draw in a great many that we had been unable to touch up to this time.

He made the trip, and there was nothing in the result to show whether he was a success or a failure. His sales were not large, but it is asking a great deal of a man that he shall introduce himself and sell largely the first trip out.

Much to my dissappointment, his second trip out was not equal to his first, and his profits did not begin to pay his railroad expenses.

When he came home I found him not in the least discouraged.

"Devilish dull down there," said he as glibly as only he could, "and I was mighty lucky to get a single bill. But I went for 'em," and he chuckled at the memory, "I went for 'em like all out doors. 'I don't go out of here till I get a little order," I said to 'em, and I brought it. I know 'em."

But what was the matter ? Times were good, dealers were buying, and the men on that route had been our best customers for years. It could't be prices, for Tom had been ordered to quote low; and such orders as he did get were taken at very low figures; the fault must be with him.

I dropped a line to a retailer on the route, a personal friend asking his honest opinion of our new salesman. In a few days I received the following reply :—

"My Dear Sir :—My honest opinion of Tom Bowers is that he is crazy. I have known him for years, and the older he gets the craizer he gets. I gave him a little order to get him out of the store; if I hadn't he'd have talked me blind. I need some goods and will be down in a few days."

I handed the letter to my partner and he digested it slowly. "Well," said he, "I had faith in Tom till this morning. But when I find a man of his age asking for brass hand-saws, I give him up."

"What do you mean ?" I asked.

"I mean that Bill told Tom to go and see if he could find some brass hand-saws, and he went without a word. I met him down in———'s store, and I thought I would die laughing. He was as solemn as an owl, and when I said that he could not find them anywhere, he turned back, but doesn't suspect now that Bill played a trick on him."

"Shall we let him go ?"

"Switzer is in town; let us see what he says about him. Tom was at his place last week, but didn't sell him anything."

In the course of the day I saw Mr. Switzer, and while selling him a bill I took occasion to inquire how he liked our new man.

"You mean dot grazy tic of a Bowers ?" he asked.

"I mean Tom Bowers, yes."

"He is grazy; dot fellow is as grazy as the tuyvil. He gooms into de shtore und dalks und dalks und dalks so fast I gant't hear myself dinks. My gootness ! vere does he get so much dalk ?"

"Did he try to sell you pretty hard ?" I asked.

"Dry ? Yah, he dried, but he shumped from one ding to anudder so fast I didn't got time to ordher. 'Let him alone,' says my poy, 'und de vill dalk himself oud;' but he gould dalk for all the time und never run oud. Dot fellow is grazy."

Somehow I felt sorry to tell Tom he was a failure, and put off the task as long as I could; but it had to be done, and I communicated the fact to him as gently as possible. And then he began to explain, and I never watched a machine with as much curiosity as I watched his tongue go for the next hour. He thought he hadn't had a fair chance yet, and he attempted to explain why. But life was too short for it. I gave him an hour, and then I said I had an engagement. He followed me to the door; I couldn't shake him off there; then up the street until we met a brother merchant, against whom I had a little score, and I introduced Tom to him. I got away, but that merchant swears he owes me a grudge to this day, and all because poor Tom was such a splendid talker.

But we learned, most effectually, in our store, that something more than a glib tongue is needed by a man on the road.

I finished the sketch and wondered if there wasn't a lesson in it for me, but just then Mr. Simpson, was at leisure and demanded my attention.

"We want some screws,' said he, "how well can you do on them,

I had been turning over matters in my mind, and concluded, from the intelligence of Simpson, the large stock he carried, and the size of the town, that if I was to sell to him anything I must sell it down at the very bottom. Screws were jobbing at 75 and 5 off the list in New York; we were getting 70 off from small trade : I told Mr. Simpson I would sell him screws at 75 and 2½ off. "That is as well as you can do in New York," I said, "when you take into consideration the freight."

"The price was satisfactory," he said, and he proceeded to give me an order. He almost took my breath away. No such order had ever been filled in our store, since I had been in it. Those we usually received were for one or two gross of a size, but Simpson ordered by twenty and thirty gross ; I had made a strike.

The next article was table cutlery ; had we a certain number of Lamson & Goodnow's? Yes, I had it. What could I do on that?

I thought a minute. "Mr. Simpson, I'll make this arrangement with you on table cutlery ; we will sell it to you at 10 per cent above cost. We get an extra discount of at least 7½ per cent. more than you would get because of the quantities we can afford to buy, and I think you will find my price net you as low as if you ordered from the factory. And you can buy one-half gross of me or ten gross ; just as you please."

"Let us test it," said he ; "what does that knife cost you?"

I told him.

"You may send me a gross," said he ; "the figures are all right."

He gave me a few small items more and then said that was all. I began to tempt him to go outside his of book, but it was difficult. At last I remembered a currycomb in my valise, and persuaded him to come and look at my samples. The comb cost us 60 cents a dozen. No comb was selling for less than $1 a dozen at that time, and we were, to the small trade, getting $1.20 a dozen for it. I showed it to Mr. Simpson.

"We get $1.00 to $1.20 for this comb, Mr. Simpson, but we could sell it to you so that you could retail it at 10 cents." I saw that he was interested at once. "If you will give me a good order I will call them 75 cents."

"The comb will sell," said he ; "send me twenty dozen."

Then he picked out a few dozen better combs ; two or three half-dozens of horse brushes, and a few other items, paying me a good profit on all these. When he was through I thanked him cordially and sincerely. I think I made him understand that he had helped me and that I was grateful for it.

There were two more large houses in the city, but I could do nothing with either of them ; the buyers took my card, read it, laid it down, and said they wanted nothing. I could make no impression on them, and had to go away as empty as when I went in. Passing down the street I saw a jewelry shop with a nice assortment of cutlery in the window, and I went in to try my hand there. I persuaded the proprietor to go to the hotel and look at my samples and sold him a small bill—quarter dozens mostly—amounting to $30 in all. Then I traded him an old watch for a new one, paying him boot, and he looked as well pleased with his sale as I felt with mine.

I was intending to take the noon train on a short one-horse road, but I still had an hour to spare. On my way to chat with Simpson I passed a drug store, the sidewalk in front of it being covered with kegs of white lead. I was reminded that I had white lead to sell, too, and here was a good place to try my luck.

Toronto Markets

TORONTO, October 30, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The last week in October is usually a very quiet one for the grocery trade. It has been so this year. The demand for strictly autumn consumption has been weakly, losing the velocity it acquired at the close of harvest, till trade this week is quite dull. The languishing of the demand, however, has not affected the prices of any class of stock that is dependent solely on that demand. Canned goods are exceedingly firm, and sugar is very steady. In dried fruit there is no change.

CANNED GOODS.

The market is bare of salmon quotable below $1.30, and at that price a very limited quantity can be had. The top figure of last week's quotation is firm for small quantities, and $1.35 is about the lowest for lots of the best brands. The advance on the coast, and the advices based thereon rule prices here, and there is every indication that the present firm position of the market is assured. What strengthened the Toronto market was the appearance upon it of jobbers who refrained from buying of the packers at the outset of the season, believing that there would be an over-supply. One of these jobbers made a bid on a car lot of 2 1-2c. higher than retailers' lots were sold for a fortnight ago. Corn, peas, and tomatoes are very firm. A bid of $1.20 was made for a carload on Saturday, and its refusal is a sign that all lower figures are repealed, and that little stock can be got at that price. The day before a sale of 20,000 cases was made at $1.19.

Liverpool buyers are still picking up Columbia river flat canned salmon in New York in lots of 100 cases and over. A line has been taken at $1.80, and there are enquiries for more.

Sloan & Crowther report the arrival of the first car of Clover Leaf salmon in tall tins. They hold them at $1.55.

COFFEES.

The market is practically unchanged, prices being well maintained though there is little buying. Outside there has been an advance on Java coffee, but this market has not answered to it yet, and there may be a decline at point of production before many days. The coffee of Brazil is coming forward rapidly to the port of Santos. Rio receipts are as meagre as ever.

DRIED FRUIT.

The tendency of Valencia raisins to easier prices has been arrested and the market is seemingly on the verge of an upward movement. On Monday a Denia cable reported prices to have advanced 1s. on the market and the stock to be nearly exhausted. The demand here is fairly good. Freights have advanced ⅛c. per pound. Currents are firm at last week's quotations. A Triest cable on Friday reported cask prunes equal ½c. dearer, and cases ½c. with the market likely to go higher, as the demand is brisk and stocks light. At present prices casks are about 150 per cent. dearer than a year ago. Stocks of Malaga raisins continue to be light, and are going at last week's quotation.

NUTS.

The trade in nuts is low, and no revival is looked for till the next month is pretty near or quite to its close. Prices are the same as last week's quotations showed.

RICE AND SPICES.

In reviewing the situation of the domestic crop of the United States, the Savannah Times says: In the rice-producing sections India and Japan the crop has also been a failure, and for this reason the prices should be good, which will compensate in some degree for the losses sustained. The failure of the crop in Japan has amounted to almost a rice famine, and the grain is so scarce that the Covernment, fearing the effect of the speculative operations, has forbidden the exportation of it. Heretofore, despite the duty imposed, the Japan rice has come in close competition with the American product, and has frequently affected the market seriously. From this we will not suffer this year, however, and we should rejoice accordingly.

SUGAR.

The demand is languid, but prices do not suffer. Refiners refuse to shade granulated, despite the dullness of trade. Granulated is still 7c. for 15 barrels and greater quantities, and 7⅛c. for smaller quantities. Yellows run from 5¼ to 6½c. Raws are 5⅛ to 5¼c.

Willett & Gray, New York, in their weekly review of the sugar situation, say: Total stock in all principal countries, at latest uneven dates, is 326,500 tons, against 427,868 tons at same time last year. Raws have been neglected by buyers, and few sales reported. Holders wait with patience for a demand, which they think must come, for the small amount in stock, and hope for circumstances to enable them to obtain a slight advance from the anticipated necessities of refiners. In the meantime refined is decreasing in demand, except on occasional days, and meltings, it will be noted, are being reduced to correspond. The Brooklyn refinery is now added to the houses closed for the season, and other houses must be working but partially. The west are evidently getting ready for the Louisiana crop to be offered more freely. This crop will exceed last year's by perhaps 50,000 tons, which is an important matter for consideration in the price and demand for refined until free sugar reaches the market, which will not be until next April, although some leading papers are misleading their readers by saying that sugars are free now.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are in fairly strong request. They are unchanged at last week's quotations. Molasses are going up in outside markets and are firm here, but the question whether Boston operators on the Montreal market will sell their stock on this side of the line or not, leaves it doubtful whether prices will keep their present strength or not.

TEAS.

The demand is now moderate. Low grade Congons are offered at 12 to 15c. The scarcity of low grade Young Hysons and Japans is still a drawback to trade. Some low first Japans has sold lately at 23c. There is not much to report about Indian and Ceylon teas, the market remains much the same as last week. The Indian tea market in London has remained steady. The common grades have slightly declined in value, but the change has been principally confined to the more undesirable teas. The better kinds have quite maintained previous rates; indeed, in some instances, at the later public sales, a firmer tendency was noticeable. An arrangement has been made by the importers to limit the quantity of Indian tea to be offered weekly at public sales. If this is supported, the heavy fall in values that the market has been accustomed to at different periods in previous seasons may to some extent be averted. For the lower grades prices were slightly in favor of buyers, while Pekoes under 1s., which have been in full supply, are now selling nearly at a par with the lowest point last season. For the better descriptions, in some cases, improved rates have been paid, and the market generally closes firm. Although the supplies of Ceylon growths are as small as at any time during the last few weeks prices have on the whole been slightly easier, with the exception of fair leaf Pekoe Souchongs, which still sell at from 9¼d. to 9½d. This result is no doubt due to the larger supplies and declining rates of Indian teas, and a firmer feeling will probably supervene as soon as the market for the latter becomes more settled.

PETROLEUM.

Refiners are doing a very good business at firm prices. There is no change to note.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Trade is good now, buying being brisk at the end of the month to gain the advantage of dealing from the beginning of next month.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The demand for good butter is very strong now, and there is a better response to it than there has been for a considerable time. Cood dairy brings 14 to 16c., medium is 10 to 13c., large rolls, crocks and pails are 12½ to 14c., pound rolls are 17 to 19c., creamery rolls are 25c., and creamery tub is 21 to 22c.

Cheese is firm at 10½c. for best.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Range all the way from $1.50 to $3.50. The supply is limited.

BEANS—Sell at $1.60 to $1.75, and a fair amount of buying is now done.

DRIED APPLES—Are about as scarce as any commodity now in commission men's or dealers' hands. Dealers are bidding 7 to 7½c., and are selling here at 7½ to 8½c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Are still very firm.

HIDES—Are weaker but so far are unchanged in quotation, cured being 7½ to 7¾c. No. 1 green 7c. and No. 2 green 6c.

HONEY—Is in reduced demand. The prices are yet ; 12½c. for good clear, 11c. for medium clear, 7 to 8c. for low grade clear, and 14 to 20c. for combs.

HOPS—Everything favors the belief that hops will stay as high at lowest as they are now. The price of the new crop is still steady at 30 to 40c.

OATS—Are coming forward slowly at 39 to 40c.

ONIONS—Are $1.75 to $1.90.

POTATOES—Are 48 to 50c. for good stock on track, and 40 to 45c. for ordinary. Out of store lots go at 60 to 65c.

POULTRY—Chickens are per pair 35 to 50c., ducks are 40 to 60c. Geese are per pound 6 to 6½c., turkeys 10 to 12c.

SKINS—Are 85 to 90c. for good sheep.

STRAW—Is $6 to $6.50 for good oat.

TALLOW—Is 5½c. for refined, and 2c. for rough.

WOOL—Is 20c. in fleeces.

FISH.

The market is now well stocked, but there is a lull in the demand. The abundance and cheapnest of poultry are now limiting the fish trade. Salmon trout is 6c., frozen B. C. salmon is 14 to 15c., lake herring is $2 per hundred, Lake Nippising pickerel is 5c., Lake Huron pickeral is 5 to 6c., and pike is 4c. In dried and smoked fish, finnan haddy is 7½c., Labrador herring, 6½c., cod (40-lb. boxes) 6½c., 1 lb. rolls 8½c., boneless fish 4½c., boneless cod 8½c., shore herring 5 to 5½., codfish (quintals) 5 to 5½c., Bigley herring 16c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit trade is recovering. Jamaica oranges are in very good demand at $7, and Floridas at $5. Malaga lemons, about the only class now in stock, are $6 per box, $7 per case, and $13 per chest. Sweet potatoes are $3.50 to $4 per barrel. Malaga grapes, also in now, are $6 to $6.50.

CRANBERRIES.

Local fruit is $7 to $7.50 per barrel, and Cape Cod berries are $11 per barrel.

PROVISIONS.

BACON—Long clear is 8 to 8¾c. Backs are 10½ to 11c. Bellies are 10½ to 11c. Rolls are 9½ to 10c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are worth $5.75 to $6.

HAMS—Are firm at 13c. for smoked, and 11c. for sweet pickled.

LARD—Is 9 to 9½c.

MESS PORK—Is $15.00 to $16.50.

SALT.

The demand for salt is usually strong at this season. The market then begins to feel the impulse which the slaughtering of hogs gives and maintains. Prices are unchanged in all but dairy salt, which quotes 5c. lower in wholesale quantities. The Toronto Salt Works reports the following sales : 3 cars bbls at $1.40. ; 2 cars sacks at 70c. ; 2 cars dairy at $1.20. Smaller quantities sell at $1.55 to $1.60 in bbls. ; 85 to 90c. in sacks, and 55 to 60c. in ¼ sacks. Labrador salt is scarce.

DRY GOODS.

Trade is very good just now. There is no feature which is the outgrowth of this week's trade. Prices are unchanged. Owing to the lowness of all Canadian manufactured goods there seems to be a brisker trade in these, buyers evidently believing that there is every probability that early orders catch the best prices.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

OCT. 30, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The grocery market has developed very little change of a general nature during the past week, and it will be sufficient to state that a fairly general trade is passing. The meager sales of green fruits, etc., which take place this week is no doubt instrumental in keeping back buyers somewhat, but in a general way there has been a moderately fair movement.

SUGAR, SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is no change to the general position of the sugar market which continues steady. Granulated is quoted at 6⅝c., and the refiners claim to be refusing offers for 200 and 500 barrel lots at 1-16 under this figure. No yellows are offering under 5⅛c., prices ranging from this figure up to 6⅛c. A fair healthy movement has been in progress during the week.

Syrups show no change, and continue to hold very firm at 3⅝ to 4⅜c.

Molasses is strong, as the indications now are that the lot held in bond, on American account, will be taken across the line. Not only this, but the same parties are now negotiating for the purchase of 300 puncheons more. We cannot quote therefore, but the 40c. idea that we have referred to previously is freely spoken of.

TEA AND COFFEE.

There is nothing doing in teas, the trade generally holding off for Major Bros. sale which takes place on Wednesday next, when a choice assortment will be offered.

RICE.

Rice is unchanged, the demand continuing fairly satisfactory and prices holding steady. We quote: Common $2.70; Japan $4.10 to $4.25; Patna $5.50.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a fair jobbing business in canned goods during the week, the feature being strength in Tomatoes. The season was most unfavorable for tomato growing and the pack is small and dealers therefore are holding firmly. From $1.20 to $1.25 is freely quoted here and sales have been made at these figures while some expect further advances shortly.

FRUIT.

There has been but little doing in fruit during the past week, except that it be the speculative purchase of an entire lot of 28,000 boxes of raisins at holders figures. Outside of this, trade has been quiet, as most of the Escolono's lot which got in to-day was in two or three hands, and only amounted to about 38,000 boxes which made very little difference to the market. Further advices now places the Florence's lot at 80,000 boxes, but the bulk of this will be in two or three hands and we do not look for any great variation in present prices. Advices from Drina speak of 20s. f. o. b. which would mean stiff figures here, but it has not been confirmed. New York has quite recovered from the depression of a week ago and nothing could be laid down from there under 6 1-2c., so we quote prices firm and unchanged at 6 to 6 1-4c. Currants are stiff at 5¾ to 6½c., according to the size of the packages.

APPLES.

The apple market is firm and unchanged, further advices from England being of the same satisfactory character. Monday cables from Liverpool quoted sales of Baldwins, 25s. to 27s., greenings 22s., spys, culverts and russetts at 24s., and kings at 31s., which net quite long figures on spot. Operations in a local way are conducted cautiously and $4 is the extreme inside figure, while the range runs to $4.50.

CHEESE.

The market continues dull and we fail to find any activity. The English demand continues unresponsive as a general thing and with the exception of some little business on Bristol account there is nothing to note. This was at pretty low figures.

BUTTER.

This product occupies the same position as formerly and business continues to be mainly of a jobbing character. Choice Townships dairy in a jobbing way brings 15 to 20c. and selected late made creamery 20 to 22c., while western dairy is quoted at 14 to 14½c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The general position of the grain market is unchanged. The cost of Manitoba wheat laid down here is still problematical ; but it would cost a pretty long figure here judging from prices now ruling in Manitoba. It is expected that our estimate of 175,000 bushels to arrive between now and the close of navigation will not be far out. There have been no transactions on spot and the only arrival up to date is 17,000 bushels on millers' account. Ontario wheat is scare and held higher at $1.06 for No. 1 hard delivered in Montreal. The only movement on spot of any importance is in peas which are meeting with some attention at quotations. There is nothing doing in corn, but holders are firm in their views and would not likely do business under our figures. The ocean freight market is steady, and space is pretty well taken up from now until the end of the season for local grain.

The flour market does not show much change, but there is a somewhat better demand with the advance of the fall. Low grade flours continue very scarce and prices generally are steady. Patent winter, $5.50 to $5.65 ; Patent spring, $6.30 ; Straight roller, $4.80 to $4.90 ; Extra, $4.50 to $4.66 ; Superfine, $4 to $4.25 ; Fine, $3.25 to $3.50; City strong bakers' $5.75 to $6 ; Strong bakers' $5.75 to $6.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market is strong at the moment, and dealers report a good jobbing demand for pork at quotations. Lard is also in good demand. Canadian short cut, per brl, $17.50 to $18; mess pork, western, per brl, $16.50 to $17 ; short cut, western, per brl, $17 to $17.50 ; hams, city cured, per lb., 12c to 12½c; hams, canvassed, per lb, 12½c to 13c ; lard, western, pails, per lb, 9 to 9¼c; lard, Canadian, in pails, 8¼c to 8½c ; lard, C. O. P., 10½c ; bacon, per lb, 9 to 10c ; lard, com., refined, per lb, 8 to 8½c.

EGGS.

The egg market is unchanged. A few small lots of fresh gathered eggs are coming forward and are moving freely at 18 to 19c., limed eggs being unchanged at 17 to 18c.

Mr. Wm. Baker, merchant, Ayr, suffered a very severe stroke of paralysis on Sunday, and now lies in a very critical condition, Mr. Baker is one of the oldest business men in the county.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS.

A special meeting of grocers, under the auspices of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, was held in Richmond Hall on Monday evening, for the purpose of devising means to break up the combine of the wholesale grocers. The President, Mr. Robt. Mills, occupied the chair, and among those present were Messrs. Clarke Wallace, M.P., J. Westren, Wm. Radcliffe, Wm. Smith, Jos. Goode, Henry Lindsay, David Bradshaw, I. Dallimore, F. S. Roberts, Wm. Mara, R. Donald, F. Johnson, Herbert Tolchard, A. White, J. F. Thackray, J. G. Gibson, H. W. McCulloch, H. Clarkson, Albert Shaw, W. Calhoun, A. F. Barker, A. G. Booth, David Black, Harry Hodgins, Robert Barron, Wm. Binnie, John Butcher, W. F. Britton, W. Parkhill, F. Britton, A. K. Williamson, A. E. Saunders, J. T. Morrish; and R. J. Flack

The Chairman, in opening the proceedings, said: Gentlemen, I may just remind you that the meeting is a special one, held under the auspices of the Retail Grocers' Association, and arising out of a resolution adopted at our last meeting, condemning the action of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, and binding ourselves as merchants to do all in our power to break up that combine in the protection of our trade. At that meeting a committee was appointed to take the necessary steps to accomplish this object. That committee have met and were almost unanimous in their decision as to what ought to be done. They decided that we shall fight the Guild in this manner: That the retail grocers of Toronto shall decide upon some one wholesale house with which they shall deal, and by this means it is hoped to break up the combine which has proved so injurious to our trade. They feel that if we in Toronto adopt this course, our brother grocers would follow in the wake and deal with the house chosen by the association. The secretary will read the resolution for you, and it will then be for you to express your opinion on the advisability or otherwise of adopting the course suggested. I think it is most important that all present should express an opinion on the point. Anyone in favor of the report of the Committee, should let himself be heard from, and if the report be not approved by any gentlemen present, we will be happy to hear from him—to hear his grounds of objection and any suggestion he may have to make. By this means we will see what sympathy we have, and how best we can accomplish our object. I hope, however, that we will be calm and sincere in our deliberations and not advocate anything that we cannot carry out. At meetings of this kind men often, in the excitement or enthusiasm of the moment speak far ahead of their opinions. Let us not be rash in any of our opinions, but just say what we intend to do—what we can do—and make no threats. I may also express the hope that politics will not be introduced into our discussion to night. At one of our meetings, I remember, it was suggested that we should petition Parliament to have the duty removed off sugars. Now we should all know that this could not be done. The revenue in this Dominion from sugar is a very important one, and there is no probability of that duty being removed. I believe that our worst foe to-day is not the cutter in business but the hundreds and hundreds who have been brought into the grocery trade and know nothing what ever about the business. I don't believe that the men who do the large trade are the cutters, but it is the men who are brought into the trade by the combine—men who have small families to look after their little store and are not altogether depending on it for a living. Many of them are mechanics, working at their trades, but holding little grocery stores to supplement their income. These are the men who do the harm. Now gentlemen, we have a good deal to do, and I would suggest that we should make our speeches short, but as general as possible, and be prepared to take some action in the line indicated. In the past as grocers, in Toronto, we somewhat tied up our hands when we favored the combination in the matter of the granulated sugars, thinking it would be of benefit to us, and the guild, finding us so ready to treat with them in this matter, have by degrees strengthened their hands, until now they have almost every article we sell regulated by the combination price. If we let this thing go on, I tell you that what we are feeling now will be nothing to what we will have to experience from them in future. If we had not taken action in the matter within the past couple of weeks it is very probable that we would have the price of yellow sugar raised on us also. The action taken by us has prevented them from doing much that they would have done. If we do not take further action in the matter to night, you will find that our trade will be made so unprofitable and distasteful to us, that it won't be worth carrying on.

Mr. Thackray, secretary, read the minutes of last meeting, at which it was resolved that a committee of four be appointed to draw up for the consideration of this meeting an expression of the feeling of the Association upon the matter of combines as they now affect the grocery trade. The committee had submitted the following report, which had been unanimously adopted:—

Whereas:—Owing to the excess to which the combine system is at present being carried by the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild; and, whereas, owing to information of further movements in that line, which are in reality an extortion felt severely by the retail trade; the result being a partial, if not total wiping out of the retailer's margin of profit and a hampering of our freedom as business men: We hereby pledge ourselves to substitute in every case possible, other goods for those at present under "combine" prices, as we feel it is in our power as caterers to the consumers to place upon the market any first-class article instead of the goods under the combine. We think combination prices are unjust to the consumer as well as the retailer, and knowing this fact, we now decide to oppose on every line possible, the action of the wholesale combine.

Be it also resolved—That we feel some action must be taken to procure our goods at first hand independent of the combine.

It had been further moved by Mr. Barron, seconded by Mr. Radcliffe, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Secretary of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, to each of the city papers, and to the different trade associations throughout the country.

A committee had been also appointed to devise means to accomplish the object in view, and their report, submittee at this meeting, was as follows:—

"Your committee suggest that in order to show their disapproval of the actions of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, inasmuch as the prices on combination goods with all those houses are now the same, that the grocers of Toronto agree to place their trade exclusively with one of such houses, as may, on vote being taken, seem to have the preference of the retail trade."

He also read the following correspondence :—

"KINGSTON, Nov. 1, 1890.

"We await result of your meeting with interest. Kingston merchants are against combinations, and I think will support any measures against the same.

"Yours truly,

JOHN GILBERT."

"GUELPH, Nov. 1, 1890.

"DEAR SIR,—Our Association met on Tuesday evening last, but owing to small attendance the matter referred to was left over for further consideration to next meeting.

Yours truly,

W. LOCK, Sec."

"LONDON. Oct. 28, 1890.

DEAR SIR,—At a special meeting of the London Association of retail grocers your communication was read, when it was moved and seconded that the London Association act in conjunction with the T. R. G. A., and endorse their action relative to the combine of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild —Carried unanimously.

I remain yours respectfully,

JOHN B. SMITH, Sec."

Mr. Thackray explained that he had communicated with Hamilton and Peterboro', but that there was not time to hear from these places.

A lively discussion ensued on the report of the committee.

Mr. Mara said he would not be disposed to give the entire trade of Toronto, as suggested, to one house. It ought to be distributed between two or three houses, and the result aimed at would be more satisfactorily achieved. "My idea is," he added, "that this would be a better means of drawing them into focus. The remaining houses would not be pleased with such an arrangement, and would soon come to their senses. I do not think that one house would be enough to supply the trade.

Mr. Booth suggested that it was quite possible that the wholesale houses would boycott the retailers if such action were taken.

Mr. Gibson—I think perhaps we might have two houses. As far as the wholesale men are concerned they will do nothing for us unless they are compelled. They seem to run with the hare and bark with the hounds. I went around to see them, and they were so good with me that they would promise to do almost anything. They say they are inclined to leave the discount as it is, but they are all very anxious to get our support. I believe that four months is too long to allow for groceries, but thirty days is too short for sugar. If they made it 45 days for the one and three months for the other it would be reasonable enough. If a man is doing a credit trade he cannot very often pay up in one month, and if he has to let it run longer they charge him for it. With regard to diverting the trade to two or three houses, I don't think this arrangement would interfere much with any of us. If you confine it to one house, it may be a hardship on some men who are dealing with a house that that resolution should bind him not to deal with. I have done a great deal of business with J. W. Lang, and if I have to leave him perhaps I might not like it, but if he persists in remaining in the combine, and the meeting says he is not to get our trade, I will abide by the decision.

Mr. Donald said that although he was not regular in his attendance at the meetings, he, nevertheless, took a very active interest in the Retail Grocers' Association. He complimented the Secretary upon his efficiency and the Association upon its good work, but proceeded to say that he believed the present state of affairs to be the outcome of direct carelessness on the part of the big grocers of Toronto. The Guild which they were now endeavoring to crush, started with sugar, and had the support of the retail trade. They would not be opposed by any retail grocer in the matter of granulated sugar, because the profit on sugar was such that a mere fraction would make a material difference; but after settling the price of sugar, the Guild proceeded to settle the prices of everything else, until now they controlled the price in too many articles—tobacco, C & B pickles, blue, starch, nearly everything. When these encroachments were being made, the grocers spoke the matter over, but took no action, and now the question arose, "Where is this sort of thing going to end?" The wholesale men now undertook to tell them where they must buy and what they must buy, and the man who pays 100c. on the dollar, got no greater prieileges than he who only paid 20c. (Hear, hear.) Every grocer on looking over his accounts at the end of the month would find that there was one house which got more of his custom than another, and perhaps the most effectual way of dealing with the present grievance would be for each retailer to go to the man with whom he leaves most money, and just say to him, "I respect you. I get my goods from you, but from this day forward I won't leave you a cent of my money unless you get out of the Wholesale Guild." If this were done, the Guild would soon be split up.

Chairman—Don't you think that a combine in yellow sugar would be more injurious to us?

Mr. Donald conceded the point, but said that such a combine would be impossible. No sane man would go into it.

Mr. F. S. Roberts—They want to fix a minimum price on yellow sugar.

Mr. Gibson—They tried it.

Mr. White suggested that if the members of the Guild were consulted on the point—if they knew the feeling of the retail trade on the subject—the whole thing might be amicably settled.

Mr. Lindsay—They know our feeling on the point well. Did they not get a copy of that resolution passed at our meeting?

Secretary—Yes, but never acknowledged it. No doubt it will be thrown into the waste paper basket.

Chairman—They speak one way to one man and another way to another, but they appear to agree among themselves all the time.

Mr. Radcliffe—I went round and saw them but I did not find one man of them who said he wanted to belong to the Guild, but yet at their meetings they have a shot at us every time. I tell you, gentlemen, that you can't take too decisive action to-night. Things are going from bad to worse, and this is only the beginning of the end.

Mr. Mara moved that the report of the committee be altered so as to have three wholesale house available instead of one, as suggested.

Mr. Lindsay seconded the motion.

Mr. Radcliffe moved that the number be limited to two.

Mr. W. F. Britton seconded the amendment.

Before, however, the question was put, the Chairman suggested that Mr. Clarke Wallace should be heard—a suggestion which was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Clark Wallace, who was received with applause, thanked the meeting for giving him an opportunity of speaking on the question of combines, and said that it was very pleasing to him to see such unanimity on the point. The Retail Grocers' Association were evidently convinced that the combine was detrimental to their interest. His attention had been called to the danger and injustice of those combines through the action of a wholesale grocer, and it was in this way: A traveller came round to him and offered a line of the "combination" goods, and when he did not book the order he said "you might as well deal with us as with any one else, because we have combined on that, and we all charge the same price now." Combines are spreading. The coal combine here did the same thing—they agreed upon a price and maintained it. When the matter was brought before Parliament and a commission appointed to enquire into it, it was found that the most objectionable of all the combines was that of the wholesale grocers. (Hear, hear). With regard to the action of the retail grocers of Toronto, the action they took with reference to the sugar combine did not bind them now, for at that time they did not anticipate the danger of their act. They were at perfect liberty to-day in the matter, and should not allow their agreement at that time to hamper them now. The question now was, what steps should be taken to rid themselves of this themost objectionable of all combines ? The undue selfishness of the wholesale grocers' induced them to use their power to grab everything for themselves, and having made so much money out of their operations, they now tell you, "Oh, we don't want to get into the combine, but you see we are forced into it," but the report of the commission clearly showed that these men were vying one with the other in their zeal to force up the prices, and bring everything under the control of their combine. (Hear, hear.) From the cradle to the grave people were handicapped by those combines—from Nestle's food in infancy to the coffin in which they were carried to their grave. (Laughter and applause.) The measure which passed the House of Commons was calculated to break down these combines, but when it reached the Senate—when the liquor lord, the coffin lord, the coal lord, the cotton lord, and the sugar lord (laughter)—had a hand in it, it was considerably altered, but not so seriously as to make it ineffective if duly enforced. These men practically said, "We won't join your Guild, but let you fix the prices and we'll stick up to them." He had a letter from Sir John Thompson, in reply to a query as to what steps should be taken with these combines, and the advice given was, "Apply to the Attorney General and have those who break the law put behind the bar." (Applause.) He would be sorry to see, for instance, his friend Mr. Ince behind the bar; but the time had come when every man who violated the law ought to be punished by the law. (Hear, hear.) The combine existed and operated, but those in it tried to keep within the law. They used to send round printed circulars every week, arranging the prices of sugar, but as such a course would now be illegal and such a document would be a nasty piece of evidence against them, they no longer send printed instructions, but pass them round by word of mouth, or by some other means. These gentlemen sit down and agree that they would make five or six per cent. out of sugar, but the retailer can't do anything like that; if he made his own money out of it he was satisfied. But the gentlemen in the combine make their six per cent., and that 365 times in the year. One house alone had made $6,000 in the year on this per centage charged the retail trade. Now, three means had been suggested of getting rid of those combines. One was to give a preference to articles not in the combination—to substitute other goods for those. But Mr. Starch had entered the combine (Laughter). The second proposition was to buy first hand; and the third to deal exclusively with two or three houses. "Take care," said Mr. Wallace, "that in your zeal to break down these combines, you don't get breaking the law yourselves. This may be an illegal boycott." Then as to dealing exclusively with one or two houses, this might be difficult for some of the retail men to do. They might, for instance, be running a line of credit with a particular house, and this particular house might not be one of those selected. But apart from this consideration, he scarcely thought the plan practicable. What he asked, was to prevent these wholesale men putting their heads together and arranging to supply the two houses selected, and share in the profits of their goods just as at present. With all their cunning, and all the wealth at their back, they would be able to frustrate the action of the retailers in such a case. The proposition to get the goods first hand appeared to him to be the most practicable. Why should it not succeed? Why not form a wholesale company among themselves. It had been suggested to them that the grangers tried this experiment and it failed. Of course it did, because the grangers did not understand the business. But grocers understood their business well, and not a set of men were better qualified for the successful carrying out of such an undertaking. A hundred men doing a business of say $10,000 a year would be a nice guarantee of success were such a plan adopted. It could be marked out cheaply too, and the trade would reap the advantage. The wholesale houses had each, perhaps, half a dozen travellers on the road, averaging about $2500 a year each. All this would be saved if the retail grocers took the matter in their own hands. There was yet another way of breaking up the combine. If it can be shown that the combine is illegal, let those who are in it be prosecuted and punished under the provisions of the Combines Act.

Mr. Mara asked how they were to get their sugars if the sugar combine refused to supply them ?

Mr. Wallace did not anticipate much trouble on this point, believing that if Redpath of Montreal was given an order for one hundred casks of sugar and the order was accompanied by a cheque, the sugar would be supplied. He knew an instance in which the combine was not adhered to, a reduction of 1½c. being made in favor of a man who refused to pay the price quoted. He had spoken to Montreal and Ottawa merchants on the point, and all were in favor of joining in an effort to break up the Wholesale Guild. A great deal depended on Toronto, and from the unanimity displayed at that meeting, he was convinced that the retail grocers of this city were determined to break up the Guild. One article after another was brought into the combine until the retail grocer was becoming a hewer of wood and a drawer of water to the wholesale men. (Applause).

On the motion of Mr. Mara a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Wallace.

The Chairman explained that in deciding to confine their dealings to one or two houses, if such a decision was arrived at, it would be no cast iron rule to which a man would have to subscribe his name. It would be a matter of honor among traders to give their business to the house or houses selected. In this sense he did not think their action could be construed into an illegal boycott.

Mr. Britton—The object in selecting two or three houses and giving all our trade to them, although these houses are in the combine, is that by so doing the others will see that it does not pay to be in it, and they will come out.

Mr. Western—In case this resolution is passed, how will people deal who are bound to certain houses?

Mr. Williamson—Or what object will be gained by dealing with two houses, both of them in the combine?

Mr. Mara—It will make the others tired of it and they'll come out. If we select but one house such an arrangement between the wholesale men as Mr. Wallace suggested might be carried out, but when we have two or three houses it would be impossible. If three houses here were getting the benefit of all the trade, you would have the others out of the Guild in a week.

Mr. White did not see that there was any great advantage to be gained by kicking against the combine. If they put up prices, the retail grocer would have to raise them in proportion, and if prices went down, the grocer would also lower. "There is a feeling," he added, "among the small men in the trade that the large dealers are just trying to crush us out."

The chairman said there was no such intention.

Mr. Donald suggested that each dealer should go to the house with which he trades and say, "I won't buy another cent's worth from you unless you get out of this combine." If this were done there would not be one of them in the combine in a month—they could not afford to be in it.

Mr. Butcher suggested that legal advice should be taken as to the course it was proposed to pursue. If this boycott could be considered as an offense against the Act, then they should not pursue it; but if the course was legal it would be well to send a man to Montreal, Hamilton, and other cities to get the support of the trade in these places.

After some further discussion a vote was taken when a decision was arrived at to adopt the committees report, amended so as to confine the trade as far as possible to two wholesale houses, instead of one as suggested. Eighteen voted in favor of this; four for giving trade to three houses and four for confining the trade to one house.

The following committee was appointed to bring the action of the association under the notice of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, also to take legal advice as to the legality of the action proposed to be taken, and whether the members of the Guild are open to prosecution under the Combines Act:—Messrs. Donald, Radcliffe, Barron, Mills, Butcher, Gibson, Hodgins and Mara.

The meeting adjourned until Monday evening next, by which time the committee will have their report ready.

THE GROCER GUILD.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER:

Dear Sir,—In your issue of 26th September, you preface your report of the proceedings of the Dominion Grocers' Guild, at their last meeting in Quebec, by characterizing the resolutions carried as material improvements which have been inaugurated, and in view of the fact that the larger number of retailers in Ontario regard those of the resolutions as affect themselves as the reverse of material improvements, I would ask how it is that a journal which is professedly published in the interest of the retailer is so much out of touch with its clients on matters which are admittedly of such vital importance. I do not wish to impute motives or make unpleasant suggestions, but prefer to wait for explanations, and will, with your permission, point to the results which will accrue to the retailer from the carrying into effect of the so-called material improvements. Take the changes in length of credits and discounts. To the man who has usually taken his full time, it means that he is obliged to pay a month sooner, or as time is money he pays one per cent. more for his goods according to the value placed on that amount of time by the Guild in calculating discounts. The retailer who pays for his goods in thirty days, taking his discounts, will now receive two per cent. instead of two and a-half on general groceries as recently or three per cent. as formerly. Then as to making a minimum price for yellow sugars, the retailer is at once deprived of the benefit heretofore enjoyed of competition in an article which usually has a larger aggregate turnover than any other article he sells. Therefore, I submit in each of the cases I present there is a direct loss to the retailer and a corresponding gain to the members of the Guild, and will be no doubt appreciated by them as very material improvements, but which will be regarded by the retailers as little less than systematized extortion, and I venture to predict that the retail trade generally will resent this altogether one-sided arrangement in which the party of the first part is the only party in it. The Guild by agreements or combinations with manufacturers practically limit the profits of the retailer on combination goods to the very narrowest margin possible; or, in other words, raise the price of such goods, over cost of production, to the very last notch and whack up with the manufacturer, as witness the ever increasing list of combination goods and the way they are pushed in preference to lines not included in such list. Also please note the divide on starch the other day, the effect of which will be to take half a cent per pound from the profits of the retailer.

These few comments I have offered are made from the standpoint of the retailer of course, but I have endeavored not to lose sight of the legitimate objects for which the Guild was formed, and the perfect right of the wholesalers to combine to achieve what is reasonable and just if he can do so to better advantage by uniting than individually, but a right conception of what is just and reasonable is the rock on which they are going to founder. I do not think the various Guilds in Ontario are wholly ignorant of the necessities of the retail trade or that the pilgrims to Quebec expect to revolutionize the grocery trade of the Dominion, but it does look as if they were temporarily afflicted with the disease known as big head, and fancied anything legitimate that placed money in the pockets of themselves. Yours, etc.,

Florence, Oct. 24, 1890 WALTER DREW.

[Mr. Drew simply wishes to know if THE CANADIAN GROCER is the official organ of the Dominion wholesale grocers Guild? Our answer is that it is not and never has been. Canvassers of rival papers have used this argument for months past to induce retailers to give up THE GROCER. The same canvassers have gone to the wholesale trade and asked them to withdraw their advertisements from THE GROCER, because it was the organ of the retail trade and was likely to do the advertisers an injury. These assertions have not affected us, because THE GROCER is not a missionary enterprise. We do not ask advertisements to help it along because it will pay the advertiser. Most of the advertisements now running were not inserted until the advertisers found it paid them to do so. THE GROCER's aim is to be a first-class trade newspaper, keeping its readers, both wholesale and retail, correctly informed on every subject of interest to them. The article which Mr. Drew quotes was not an editorial, but a report of the annual meeting of the Guild. —ED. GROCER.]

LIKE A GREEN BAY TREE.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is flourishing like a green bay tree. The autumn number is an excellent sample of a well edited and well printed journal, industrious in its news gathering and careful in its quotations. We give this notice with pleasure, but did you ever hear of a Toronto paper paying a compliment to an outside journal though it be often deserved?—Kingston Whig.

There are many provincial papers that deserve to be copied and complimented by the metropolitan publications. The oversight is not intentional, but is due to the system. Canadian exchanges are examined by juniors whose aim is to get over them as quickly as possible. Then perhaps the department editors rush through them. If the chief or managing editor or managers did this, the good work done by exchanges would receive more frequent notice. A paper sending out a special issue or one containing someting of more than ordinary importance should send a marked copy to the chief editor, writing him at the same time.

The grocery stock and business of F. J. Dougall, Windsor, is advertised to be sold Thursday, Nov. 13. The stock is valued at $2.725, fixtures, etc., $350, and horse, waggon, etc., $200.

The Imperial Produce Company of this city is putting up prime apples in fancy packages for the English market. The cases are similar to those in which lemons are packed, and the apples are wrapped in tissue paper. There is a strong demand for them in England.

At the last regular meeting of the Retail Grocers' and Bakers' Association the principal business under consideration was the Wholesale Grocers' Guild. The matter was discussed but no action was taken, the feeling being that it would be better to have a fuller meeting before a definite opinion was expressed.

Recently a St. John, N. B., importer who says he had ordered a consignment of prepared meats before the change in the tariff last session, but which was not delivered until after the new tariff came into force, applied for a refund of the difference in the two duties consequent upon the change. The matter was referred to the treasury board, but the board decided that it could not do anything.

Messrs. A. P. Tippet & Co., St. John, N. B., state that the sales of indurated fibre ware have been very large in the Maritime Provinces the past year, car load orders being about as frequent now as gross orders were two years ago. The steady growth in the demand for this popular ware is the best recommendation the manufacturers could have. Where many grocers used only to handle the pail and fire-bucket, now all of them are ob iged to keep a full line, including wash-tubs, wash-basins, fish-pans, bread-pans, etc. Messrs. Tippet & Co., as importers, manufacturers' agents, and commission merchants, St. John, N. B., do a large business throughout the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. A. L. Goodman is one of the largest importers of foreign fruits of all kinds into St. John, New Brunswick. His fruit season lasts the year around. His banana trade during the season is from three to five hundred bunches per week. There is no steamer enters that port but has consignments of some kind for him. Mr. Goodman's trade in native fruits is large when the crop is good. He also handles cheese, lard, pickles, cranberries, nuts of all kinds, sweet potatoes, foreign and native onions, in fact everything that goes to make up a first-class fruit and vegetable depot. His shipping trade extends throughout the Maritime provinces, and some of the lower districts of Quebec.

THE CHEESE SITUATION.

Cheese occupies a peculiar position at present, unlike anything in fact that has been known for the last ten years, and in an argument the conditions certainly favor a bearish view of the situation. This is easily understood when one realizes that the pick of the season, the bulk of the September and October make, is still held on factorymen's account. There is usually a good competition for this portion of the make, and in former seasons the load has, as a general thing, been divided between the dealers and the factorymen by this time, but this year the latter are carrying it all by themselves. If statistics don't lie it must be almost as much as they can bear, for information from a reliable source is to the effect that the present stock of cheese in first hands, with the make for the balance of the season, will approach closely to 300,000 to 350,000 boxes, against 250,000 to 300,000 last year. Now a considerable portion of this latter quantity had passed out of factorymen's hands last year, whereas this year there has been no contracting to speak of and the situation is practically the reverse. Of course this estimate is subject to alteration, but judging from the course of the present season it does not seem as though the following figures are much out :—West of Toronto, 150,000 to 175,000 boxes ; between Montreal and Toronto 150,000 to 175,000 ; province of Quebec 25,000 to 30,000. Therefore the argument of the bears, that if the Englishmen hold off much longer there is bound to be a break, seems plausible enough, and, so far, the latter have shown but little indication of altering their policy. It may be staved off, they say, until after the close of navigation, but come it will unless something now unseen turns up as a leading factor of the situation. Accordingly the speculation in the bear camp at present runs to the idea that there will be plenty of September and October make to be had on the basis of 9½c. The opposition says they wont, of course, but the former certainly have the best of the argument at present. They intimate, also, that the bulk of recent country purchases which have been made on the basis of 10c. to 10⅛c. were more as "stiffeners" to the position than trading of a regular nature, and the facts certainly incline that way. At any rate the market at present cannot be called active, for during the present week the aggregate transactions on spot were not over a few odd thousand boxes, which is not a large turnover for a market like Montreal. In fact, a thorough canvass of the trade fails to elicit any information as to business, except in an odd way in small lines. It is pretty well known, too, that some tempting offers have been made without eliciting much response, except some ridiculously low answers that utterly preclude the idea of business. It is generally admitted, also, that stocks on spot are pretty large, but although they are not much in excess of last year, the load is bearing on few shoulders, as some two or three houses are reputed to be holding the great bulk of the stock.—Montreal Gazette.

"THE GIFT OF CONTINUANCE."

In that valuable and stimulating book, "Self Help," Samuel Smiles quotes a lady as exclaiming of her gifted but careless son, "Alas ! he has not the gift of continuance." By this she probably meant that he was endowed with qualities and talents of a high order, which might have fitted him to fill a high and honorable place in the world, had he but concentrated them and applied them to the accomplishment of some worthy end. "Continuance," which may be understood to include such virtues as perseverance, application, concentration, is not so much a gift as an acquirement, and one, without which, very little is attained. It may be affirmed as a well-nigh impregnable truth that no great work either in literature, in science, art, commerce, or any of the numerous pursuits which men set themselves to, has been accomplished without the most rigid concentration of thought and action. There is a popular notion that the quality known as "genius" exempts the possessor of it from labor ; that the achievements of a "genius" are off-hand ; that he has a "knack" or facility denied to his less fortunate brother ; but there is no greater fallacy. Buffon, the great natural historian, said that "genius is patience," and Carlyle concurred in this opinion and defined genius as the capacity for taking infinite pains. We call him a genius who invents a telephone, who plans and builds an East River bridge, or who applies some force in nature to an hitherto unthought-of end. But shall we deny this title to one who establishes a business and conducts it with satisfaction to his patrons and profit to himself? Certainly not. Because the latter achievement is more frequent is no reason for undervaluing the performance. The difference is one of degree rather than kind. All had a well-defined idea of what they wanted to accomplish, and by concentration, confidence and patient labor achieved their purposes. They had the gift of continuance.

These qualities, the very marrow and sinew of genius, are within the reach of all. The lives of men as related in biography and history, are full of examples which bear testimony to the necessity of concentration of mind and action to the accomplishment of great ends. An extreme case is that of Auguste Comte, the founder of what is known as the "Positive" philosophy. Comte sacrificed position, time, health, and all the amusements and opportunities of society to the elaboration of one idea. He found that commonplace acquaintances disturbed his work and interfered with his mastery of it, so he resolutely and unhesitatingly renounced them. The example of Comte is not, perhaps, one for emulation, but it is interesting as showing the value which he set upon this quality of concentration.

Sir Isaac Newton remarked to Dr. Bently: "If I have done the public any service it is due to nothing but industry and patient thought." Our own Emerson admonishes us to "stop off decisively our miscellaneous activity, concentrating our force on one or a few points." "The one prudence in life is concentration ; the one evil is dissipation.', * * * "Concentration is the secret of strength in politics, in war, in trade, in short in all management of human affairs." Emerson quotes the poet, Campbell, as saying that "a man accustomed to work was equal to any achievement he resolved on," and Sir Walter Scott put these words in the mouth of Diana Vernon : "Everything is possible to him who possesses courage and activity' and to the timid and hesitating everything is impossible, because it seems so." But we might go on multiplying examples indefinitely. Our own observation and experience will afford us numerous instances of success in life due wholly to the acquirement and application of these invaluable qualities, and also to miserable failures due to the neglect of them.—American Grocer.

LEFEBVRE & Co's. PRESERVES, Etc., Etc.

That the finer grades of jams, jellies, and other European preserves, have such a hold upon public favor in this western country, is due in a great measure to the fact, that heretofore Canadian makers have not only failed in producing a first-class article, but have displayed a great lack of uniformity in the character and quality of what they did make. People here must have an article uniformly good, and they are always willing to pay for such, rather than take an inferior one at a reduced figure. Messrs. Michel Lefebvre & Co., of Montreal, the well-known manufacturers of pure vinegars and pickles, have, we see, launched out in the line of putting up jams, jellies, and other preserves, and in their circular to the trade, recently issued, they announce their intention of turning out goods equal to the finest imported brands. Their announcement will be well received by those merchants handling such goods, as reliance can be placed in their promises with respect to the quality of goods. They have already taken a front position in the manufactures of vinegars and pickles, and secured a reputation which they cannot afford to tarnish with worthless promises as guarantees about their preserves. If they can only reach the same excellence in their newly added department, as they have in the lines they have been manufacturing for years, they will fulfil every promise of guarantee they make in their circular. A reliable house, which can furnish the finest grades of jams, jellies and other preserves is much wanted at present, and there is every reason to believe that Messrs. Michel Lefebvre & Co., will fill the bill.—The Commercial, Winnipeg, Sept., 1890.

THE CREDIT SYSTEM.

There is one point seldom taken into consideration when discussing the credit system. A great many retailers never think that the accounts upon their books represent so much money loaned. They would not dream of letting three or four thousand dollars in cash loans remain outstanding or become overdue without any returns for its investment; yet this amount, and frequently more, forms the book debts of a great many retail merchants. The legal interest on what might be made from the investment of such a sum in good securities would yield over $200 profit annually. But the reverse happens with book debts upon which, through careless collections, heavy losses are yearly experienced. When one considers the cash discounts that might be secured from a careful system of credit and a watchful effort to liquidate bills within thirty days, the importance of this subject is realized. The motto of the retail merchant should be "prompt collections and cash payments to secure discounts.—Ex.

CHAPTER IX.

If I was ignorant about hardware I was much more so about white lead. All that I did know about it was from having heard Mr. Heman trying to sell it once or twice, but I had remembered every word he said, and was prepared to draw upon my imagination for any emergency. The firm had given me a little bottle of lead for a sample, and my impression was that I ought to sell to the largest houses, because of the favorable contract we had with the manufacturers. At that time pure white lead was selling for 13 cents, and cost 12; our lead cost 10, and was sold for 12½ to the small trade, with which we mostly dealt. I saw that the house before me was not a small concern; we rarely sold more than a case (200 pounds) at a time, while this firm evidently bought in ton lots. But my success had been so great up to this time I was prepared to lay siege to the largest house in the country; I had said so often that our buyer was the closest and the shrewdest man in the country that I was beginning to believe it myself.

After a quick study of the brand of lead on the sidewalk I walked into the drug store, and presented my card to the pleasant old gentleman who came towards me.

"We don't do anything in the hardware line," said he.

"I want to talk with you about our brand of white lead," said I.

"We have just laid in a full stock."

"I am sorry for that, but if you are not too busy I would be glad fo show you a sample of my white lead, and tell you my story about it; it won't cost you a cent, and I shall feel better."

"All right." said he laughing, "pitch in."

"This lead," said I, "is made exclusively for us; it is finer and whiter than any other brand of lead in the market; it is made by a peculiar process, so that it is more durable than other leads; we know of houses painted with it six years ago that are whiter to-day than when it was first put on; that is one of the points claimed in its favor, it will grow whiter with age, whereas other pure leads assume a yellow appearance; 100 pounds of it will cover more surface, so that at the same price of other leads it is the cheapest; but our price is always lower than for the other brands, and consequently it is the most profitable lead to handle."

"What do you call your lead?"

I told him.

"Where is it made?"

"In New York."

"What can you sell it for?"

I had to stop and think. What should I ask him? I knew he must get pure lead at the bottom price, 12 cents; at the same price there would be no inducement to change to ours; I must make it an object for him to take hold of my lead.

"Our price is 12½ cents in small lots, 12 cents in large lots. I am anxious to have you try it, and will make you a very low figure. I will sell you at 11 cents."

"Do you call your lead pure?"

"I do, sir."

"Why, it can't be at that figure! I have been around among the lead manufacturers, and 12 cents is the very lowest they can afford to sell at; I know it to be so. Now, here is your lead with a wholesaler's profit on top of the manufacturers', and yet you offer it at 11 cents! There's something wrong somewhere, my young friend."

I had overshot the mark; I quoted too low a price. I was not going to give up, however.

"Just test the lead, sir," said I, taking out a little on my knife blade. "If you have a piece of glass, please test this."

He found a piece of glass and I spread the lead on it; then he pressed his spatula over it to see if it was at all rough or gritty, and acknowledged it was fine and white. "But it isn't pure lead," said he.

"If it isn't, you need not pay for it," said I. "We have been selling it for years, and know just what the lead is, and we will warrant it to be just as I say it is. I wish you would try a few cases of it."

He shook his head.

"I think you are honest in saying the lead is pure," said he, "because you believe it is, but I am satisfied it isn't, and I am determined to keep nothing but a pure article. I have built up a good lead trade here, and I am not going to take any risks now."

"Let me send you just one case?" I pleaded.

"Not this time."

"How is your stock of putty?"

"We have plenty just now."

"Can you buy better than 2½?"

"I paid 2 cents for the last barrel."

That was just what ours cost.

I was getting discouraged. "Do you keep any cutlery?"

"No," said he, "I leave that to the hardware dealers."

"Then, I'm afraid I can't do anything for you to-day."

"I am afraid not," he said, and we parted. I was not near so large a youth when I came out as I was when I went in. Here was a man in this little town who bought goods as cheap as we did! I lost faith in the buying abilities of our buyer, and began to think our concern was not much of a one after all.

(When my trip was over, and I was detailing it to one of the firm, I mentioned this effort in white lead. "It was lucky he didn't take up your offer," said he. "Why?" "Because we can't warrant it to be pure; I don't know that there is any lead at all in it." "Phew!" was all I could answer.)

I considered my work in Bremont was about done; so I packed my samples, and was ready for the noon train over the strap road to Custer's. I looked forward to the town with hopeful anticipations, as there were three or four firms there who had dealt more or less with the house. Custer's was only eighteen miles from Bremont, but we were over three hours in making the distance. I sent my samples to the hotel, and walked leisurely up the street looking at the signs and picking out familiar names. One name especially I was looking for. The owner was a particularly good friend of the firm, and I was sure I would get a good order from him. At last I saw it and in a moment was in his store.

A boy of 10 or 12 came to wait on me.

"Is Mr. Kingston around?" I asked.

"No, sir; he is out of town."

"When do you expect him back?"

"Not till the day after to-morrow.

My spirits went down below zero at once. I had counted on getting an order from him the day I determined to go ont on this road, and such a thing as this being away from home, or refusing me an order had never suggested itself to me.

"I am very sorry he isn't here," said I. "Are you his son?"

"Yes, sir."

"Here is one of my cards; please show it to him and say I was very sorry I missed seeing him."

"He will be sorry, too," said the boy; "I heard him speak about some one coming from that house."

I inquired where the other dealers were, and found the lad so bright and quick that when I went out I promised to come in again and see him.

My next call was on a grocery firm. All hands were busy, so I had a chance to look around, and seeing a few knives, forks and spoons in a corner, I concluded there might be a chance for some business here. When the buyer was at leisure he came toward me, and I gave him my card.

He was a big, broad-shouldered fellow, with a merry face.

"Hardware, eh?" reading the card, "we don't do much in that line."

"No, I suppose not, but you keep a little cultery, don't you?"

"Yes, we have to keep a few such notions, but I always buy them where I buy my crockery."

"You are big enough to know better," said I, "the hardware stores sell fifty gross of table cultery to the crockery dealer's one. When you see my samples you will be sorry you didn't buy of us."

"Then you think you can sell cheap?"

"I know I can."

"Do you ever drink cider?"

"Whenever I can get it."

"Well, come down cellar and have some. I'm dry, and then I'll talk cutlery with you."

He had some bottled cider in the cellar and I helped him finish a pint, and then I "laid myself out on cutlery. I told how many gross I had sold since I had left home; how I sold to such large houses as Simpson & Co., Bremont, and that I was prepared to outsell any live man that traveled.

"Bring your samples in," said he. "No, come over to the hotel; we can be undisturbed there."

We went over; I spread out my roll of knives and forks, and before I got through with him I sold him about $40 worth of goods, making a good profit on everything.

After supper I called on the hardware and stove men. Lewart & Brother were in, and I found them not at all in a talkative mood; they said little, but that little meant business. They needed nothing at all, they informed me and if they did they were satisfied that they could buy better East than they could in our city.

I did not attempt to deny this point blank, but took the liberty of doubting it. I liked the men, and did not propose to give them up until after a regular siege. I sat down and endeavored to start a conversation, but it was up-hill work for a long time; at last I touched something that interested them, and pretty soon we were chatting as lively as old friends. I got up to go about 8 o'clock, but the older brother seemed so cordial in inviting me not to go just yet that I sat down again, and we talked until 9 o'clock. I had drawn out a history of their struggles in the first few years they had been in the business, and I told them my story in a way to get them interested in me. When I was going they said, "Well, come around in the morning."

"I will, and I hope you will try my figures and see if you can't do as well with me as with anyone."

"All right; come in. Perhaps we may need something."

In the morning I called on a stove man.

"Don't want anything from your house," said he, after reading the card.

"What is wrong?" I asked.

"Well, mistake or not, I don't intend to buy anything more of them."

"But what is wrong, Mr. Talcott?"

"Why, Heman's partner was here last fall, and I gave him an order for cutlery and other notions, and was to have four months' time on the bill; instead of that they dunned me in thirty days. I sent the money; but he can't play another such trick on me."

TO BE CONTINUED IN NEXT EDITION.

The St. Antoine Ward Trumpeter, published in the interests of the ward by the Co-operative Grocery Co., 295 St. Antoine st., Montreal, is a well edited little paper which has just been issued. This is a much better way of advertising than many grocers adopt, but we doubt if it will be as cheap and we feel sure it will not be as effective as a good advertisement well looked after in those Montreal papers which have a good circulation in the district supplied by our friends. The fact is that printed matter other than newspapers is generally looked at only when there is nothing else to read.

TORONTO, Nov. 6, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The fall grocery trade has acquired no new features in this week's addition to it. A fair demand is about the best that can be credited to any line, and in the majority of lines there is a monotonously quiet trade. Sugar is dull. In dried fruit there is a moderately active continuance of the business indicated in former reports relating to the new stock. Canned goods are firmer, and in some departments higher. The trade in tea is sobered down considerably from the tendency to lively operations of a few weeks ago. Money is still felt to be scarce.

The new terms of credit and discounts agreed to by the wholesale grocer's guild came into effect on Saturday. The new terms are: General groceries—Three months' time with an allowance for cash payments at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum for unexpired time. Sugars, syrups and molasses, canned goods, fish of all kinds and produce of all kinds—thirty days' time with an allowance for cash payments at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum for unexpired time.

CANNED GOODS.

The week has no great turnover of stock to record, buying being quieter than it was last week, but the strength to which prices had then grown has been preserved and in some cases increased. Peas are not now to be had under $1.20, having advanced 5c. during the week The top price is $1.35. For tomatoes there is little stock purchasable under $1.25, the chief exceptions being '89 goods at $1.20. Corn has manifested a sympathy with other vegetables and is stiffening. The feeling that a surplus of the '89 pack along with a conjectural large pack this year would keep prices down, has given way to a conviction that the stock available is none too great for the consumption there is for this vegetable. Canned salmon is relinquishing no part of what it has gained in the later movements of the market. Clover Leaf lobster is becoming scarce, and an advance in price has to be chronicled, the lowest quotation now being $2.75.

COFFEE.

Steadiness in the local coffee market continues to be the ruling condition. Prices still have a restrictive effect upon consumption. The lowest Rios are 23c.

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia raisins are worth 6 to 6½c. for off-stalk fruit. The firmer position, we noted a week ago, which a Denia Cable reporting the exhaustion of all Valencia stock, has been modified somewhat by a London cable which states that but little reliability can be placed in the Denia advice. Malaga raisins are unchanged, London layers going at $3 to $3.25, and black baskets at $4 to $4.25. Sultanas are unchangep, though there are few to be bought at our lowest quotation, 14 1-2c. Currants are unchanged. All dried fruit of the later importations will now come higher on account of the increased cost of freight which is now in effect. This week's trade in currants, raisins, etc., has been a quiet one.

NUTS.

The stocks held here are all small, and on that account, as well as on account of firmness outside, prices continue at the stiff quotations given some time ago. At the same time trade is better than it was, the long evenings of the autumn having given a stimulous to the consumption of nuts.

RICE AND SPICES.

The demand for rice is very weak. There is no change in quotations. Spices are going out quite freely.

SUGAR.

Trade is very quiet. The prices of granulated are unchanged, lots of 15 barrels and over selling at 7c., while quantities under 15 barrels are 7⅛c. Yellows are not quotable to so low a point as they were a week ago. No yellow sugar can be bought under 5⅜c. The recent advance in freight which makes sugar 8c. dearer per hundredweight to Toronto wholesalers, is the leading cause of the advance in yellows. Raws are 5⅛ to 5¼c.

Willett & Gray, New York, in their weekly statistical say: At this date it is too early to make close estimates of the growing cane crops However, the latest information received indicates that they will aggregate about 90,000 to 100,000 tons more than the production of 1889-90, which, added to the estimated increase of 85,000 tons in the new beet crops, would make a total probable increase in the world's production of 1890-91 of about 150,000 tons The crops throughout the West Indies have suffered severely from drought, but in Cuba, Brazil and Louisiana the prospects are very favorable and point to a considerably larger production than that of last year.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The position of the market is practically unchanged, the advance of Trinidad puncheons to 38c. as a lowest point being the assertion of a firmness that warranted such advance some time ago There is a fair trade in molasses and also in syrups.

The Canada Sugar Refining Company have put a syrup on the market in two-pound tins which should take very well at the price.

TEAS.

The scarcity of low-grade Japans and Young Hysons is yet an obstacle to great activity. There is no enthusiasm in the demand for the medium and superior grades of these teas, but what activity there is is mostly on the side of the former. In Congous, on account of the market being well stocked with low grades, there has been a very good trade. The demand for Indian teas is small but steady. In London Indian tea has been more freely offered, and a good business has been transacted in most descriptions. Prices have been less firm for both whole and broken Pekoes, and those worth over 11d. have fallen in most cases from ¼d. to ½d. per lb. This drop has, however, stimulated the demand, and a large business has been transacted in these teas, which undoubtedly show good value. There is no diminution in the enquiry for the lower grades, and previous rates have therefore been maintained, notwithstanding the increased quantity offered. This is especially the case with the lower grades of Pekoe, which are going freely into consumption, and will no doubt continue to do so at the present range of values. On the other hand the common Souchongs and Broken teas although meeting with good competition, are still comparatively high in price, and it is not improbable that, with increased supplies, the market will become easier later on. The enquiry continues strong for the finest grades, and although a fairly good proportion has been offered, values show no sign of giving way.

Ceylon Teas.—The quantity of Ceylon teas offered for sale has again been below the average, but prices have nevertheless been a rrifle easier generally, due more to the large supplies of Indian tea than to anything else. The grades most affected are Pekoe Souchongs at from 9¼d. to 9½d., the fall in these amounting to ¼d. per lb., but Pekoes worth from 10½d. upwards, and broken teas generally, can only be quoted as rather easier, prices having been somewhat irregular.

The remainder of Messrs. Sloan & Crowther's purchase of Congou tea, 850 packages of which we reported to have arrived last week, is now coming forward via C. P. R. It comprises 156 half chests of the same quality as that already received and which is selling well.

PETROLEUM.

Trade is brisk. The only change in prices is an advance on Canadian water white to 22c. as its topmost figure. The lowest quotation of last week, 20c., is still the minimum for this week.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Trade is still good, the orders coming in quite freely for thus early in the season. Soda bi-car-bonate is $2.50 to $2.60, an advance of 50c. from the lowest point having been made within the week. Sal soda is firmer.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The sharper demand for good dairy butter has had an elevating effect upon the market inasmuch as more good dairy has been forthcoming the last week than for some time. The demand continues a little ahead yet, and the price of prime dairy tub is 1 cent better than it was last week. It now brings 17c. Medium tub is all the way from 12 to 16c. according to the closeness to or distance from excellence. Large rolls, crocks and pails are 13 to 15c. Pound rolls are 18 to 20c. The supply of creamery to this market is low. The Montreal market has received the bulk of what would have come here within a week in ordinary circumstances of the outside market. Creamery rolls are 24 to 25c. They are now ceasing to be made, and the demand for creamery butter will be henceforth attracted to the tubs, which for that reason and because of the demand on Montreal account are dearer, selling now at 23 to 24c.

Cheese is unchanged, and is selling moderately fast at 10 to 10½c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—The market is rather weak here, because of the inferior stuff that makes up the bulk of the stock upon it. Prices are $2 to $3. Good winter apples are in demand and will bring strong prices, from $3 to $4, culls being rejected.

BEANS—Are $1.60 to $1.75, and the market is fairly stocked.

DRIED APPLES—Are going up, reports of their scarcity being confirmed by the inability of the market to answer to large demands. Prices are 8½ to 9c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Are still scarce and are selling at 14c.

EGGS—Are far from plentiful. They bring 20 to 21c.

GAME—Venison is 4½c. per pound, ducks are 40 to 50c. per brace for good ones, partridges are 45 to 50c. per brace.

HAY—Is $9 to $9.50 on track.

HIDES—Cured are 7¼c. Green are 6½ to 7c.

HONEY—Is unchanged and dull. Good clear is 12½c., medium clear is 11c., and low grade is 7 to 8c. In the comb, prices are 14 to 20c.

HOPS—Are unchanged at 30 to 40c. for new and 20c. and upwards for yearlings.

OATS—Are 40c.

ONIONS—Are firm at $2. The market is meagerly supplied.

POTATOES—Are over-plentiful for good prices to be reached and kept up. They are 50c. in carloads and are 60 to 65c. out of store.

POULTRY—Turkeys are scarce, probably because the demand for Thanksgiving day. They are firm at 10c. Geese are 5 1-2 to 6c. with stock very plentiful. Chickens, dry-picked are 30 to 50c., and ducks, dry-picked, bring 40 to 60c. The supply of ducks and chickens is large, and the best prices go for dry-picked.

The Imperial Produce Company is arranging to make up a small sample consignment of turkeys for the London market.

SKINS—Good sheeps' are 90c.

STRAW—Oat is $6 to $6.50.

TALLOW—Is 5 1-2c. for refined, and 2c. for rough.

FISH.

There is a scarcity of fresh fish at present and will be until the close season is over, which is on at present. An active trade is being transacted in dried fish. Bloaters have advanced to $1.00 to $1.50 per box which is the only change in the prices of dried fish for this week. The close season for Pickled and salt fish is also on making a limited quantity in stock. They are expected to advance in price next month on account of the scarcity.

GREEN FRUIT.

The quantity of stock carried is small on account of the demand being usually low in the autumn. Trade has been quite as good as it was expected to be. Florida oranges are selling at $5 to $5.50, and Jamaicas are $7.50. Malaga lemons are $5 to $5.50. Malaga grapes are $5.50 to $6 per keg. Sweet potatoes are $3.25 to $3.75 per barrel.

CRANBERRIES.

In barrels local fruit is $9 to $10, and in cases it is $3. Cape cod cranberries are $10 to $11 in barrels and $3.50 in cases.

PROVISIONS.

The demand has been strong and steady for smoked meats and long clear bacon, and has also been very good for mess pork. Hams are scarce. Hogs are coming forward more freely, and the call for them is stronger.

BACON—Long clear is firm at 8¼ to 8¾c. backs and bellies are 10½ to 11c., rolls at 9½ to 10c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are firm at $5.75.

HAMS—Are firm and scarce at 13c. for smoked, and 11c. for sweet pickled.

LARD—Is 9 to 9¼c.

MESS PORK—Is $15.00 to $16.50.

DRY GOODS.

This week there has been a slight decline from the activity that was noted last week. Orders come in yet rather freely, but not nearly as freely as they would be expected to come if the weather were colder. Money, either to purchase or to pay, is felt to be still scarce.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

NOV. 6, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The grocery market generally as will be seen from the appended detailed reviews of its different branches has shown little or no change of importance since our last. Business has been quiet and the movement diminished as buyers have been supplying themselves somewhat liberally of late and now claim to be well stocked up ahead. The general tone is steady as instanced by the feeling in leading lines, such as sugars, teas, dried fruit, etc.

FRUIT.

The market in general has shown but little change during the past week, and business has been of an ordinary character. In dried fruit, for instance, there was nothing to induce a change. The Escalona, which arrived during the latter portion of the week, had only 33,000 odd boxes of raisins, which were already so well distributed that they had no influence on the market whatever. Prices, on the contrary, have a hardening tendency, and perhaps some of our Western friends who have been obtaining their supplies from New York previous to this would do well to realize it. The New York market has been gradually stiffening, the process having its inception a week ago as noted by us, and now recent telegrams state that prices are fully a ¼ of a cent higher there on best Valencias, and now we quote the fruit at 6¼ to 6½c. here for all through, there might be some holders on spot who would let go at the old figure 6c., the fruit could not be replaced at the same figure, that is as matters are at present. New York is as we said a ¼c. higher, with leading brands quoted at 4¼c. in bond. Denia advices continue of the same tenor as those noted by us last week, while, as we have intimated already, the Florence—which is now in the river—has 80,000 boxes, but they are in few hands, and will be held pretty firm under existing circumstances. Bids have been made for stock to arrive, but holders will not consider them yet. Our Western friends, therefore, who happen to want stock should take heed. In other lines of dried there is no change. There were no currants on the Escalona, and the Florence as stated has but a limited quantity, so that holders are firm at quotations, and we quote 5¾ to 6¼c. In green fruit there is no alteration. As stated last week Florida oranges are to hand, but the quality is none too good. We quote, $5 to $5.50 per box. Lemons have been rather quiet in consequence of the auction sale of 2,000 boxes ex Escalona, of Malaga fruit. These sold at a range of $2.75 to $3.50 per box. Old stock remains the same at $11.50 to $13 per case.

APPLES.

The apple market moves along in a manner highly satisfactory to holders of really good fruit. Cables on Saturday from Liverpool quoted a range of 22s. to 30s., so that it will be seen at once that the market keeps steady on the opening level. On spot there is a fair movement in a local way at $3.75 to $4.00 for round lots and $4 to $4.50 for small lots. The shipments continued heavy and as the close approaches the fruit is being rushed forward in still larger quantities. From 15,000 to 20,000 barrels has been the average weekly shipments of late, most of these being on consignment owing to the strong position of the Liverpool market.

SUGAR, SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The general tone remains the same inasmuch as this article is concerned, and the present movement is mainly of an ordinary jobbing character. Raw sugar has a somewhat easier undertone, but the trade here do not anticipate any appreciable change to the position for some time to come. No yellows are offered here under 5¼c., while brights are held for 6⅛c. Granulated is unchanged at 6⅝c. Syrups remain the same and holders appear to be above buyers ideas. Prices range from 48 to 50c. Molasses unchanged, with the firmness fully maintained. All the talk about the recent purchases on American account being retained in the country are utterly without foundation, and last week the journal that made the statement took back water. The position therefore is firm at 38 to 40c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The tea market continues quiet, and business generally has been moderate. Buyers have stocked up pretty well of late, so that for the time the movement is naturally limited. Japans at about 15 to 20c. per pound move out, but blocks are slow of sale. Coffees about the same, and we have no alteration to note, business being small.

CANNED GOODS.

There is a fair movement in this line. Tomatoes are all in jobbers hands and the same remarks now apply to peas. Corn rules easy and it seems very likely that we will have a heavy supply here. Canned fish show no change, and we quote: Mackerel, $4.75 to $5.00, lobsters, $7.25 to $8 per case, and salmon $1.30 to $1.40 per dozeu.

HOPS.

The market rules the same and we cannot hear of much business doing on spot. Brewers are pursuing the same policy as heretofore, and the result is a small jobbing movement on the basis of 35 to 40c. of an odd sale or so, this market showing no inclination whatever of following the New York one, which continues to stiffen. Nor do we hear either that there is any buying on consumers account in the country, so that it would seem to be a stand of in the hope of a reaction. Operators hold that buyers will be disappointed.

ASHES.

But little can be said of ashes, except to state that the market is firm. Stocks continue low, while the receipts are such that they are likely to remain so. In consequence of this the feeling is decidedly strong and it is doubtful if No. 1 potash could be bought under $5. Pearls are nominal.

GAME.

The only thing offering so far is partridge, which are in excess of the demand, and large quantities are going into cold storage. No. 1's move slowly at 50c. per brace, and No. 2's 25 to 30c.

DRESSED HOGS.

Arrivals of dressed hogs continue light, and are likely to be so until the cold weather sets in in earnest. Business therefore is as yet unimportant. The few light weights offering are picked up by butchers at 6½ to 6¾c.

POTATOES.

Potatoes move along steadily, and the offerings of local growth continue light. We hear of sales at 40 to 60c. on the cars.

EGGS.

The egg market remains practically unchanged. Arrivals run light and as far as we can learn there is no accumulation of stock. Fresh new laid encounter a good demand and all offerings move out freely at 20 to 21c. Held stock also meets with a fair sale at 18 to 19c., white limed move somewhat slowly at 16½ to 17½c.

PROVISIONS.

Some enquiry on Gulf port and Lower province account, led to a good free movement of pork during the week at unchanged prices, but the bulk of the business is of a local character. Our quotations are unchanged as follows. We quote:—Canadian short cut, per brl $17.50 to $18; mess pork, western, per brl $16.50 to $17; short cut, western, per brl $17.00 to $17.50; hams, city cured, per lb 12 to 12½c.; hams, canvassed, per lb 12 1-2 to 13c.; lard, western pails, per lb 9 to 9¼c.; lard, Canadian, in pails 8¼ to 8 1-2c.; lard, C. O. P., 10 1-2c.; bacon, per pound, 9 to 10c.; lard, com., refined, per lb, 8 to 8½c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The grain market continues quiet, and the feature in comparison with the condition last year is the absence of any offerings of Manitoba wheat. None has arrived since the quantity noted a few weeks on millers' account, and none is expected to arrive until the second week in November. No spot transactions in it are reported therefore, but there has been business in Ontario wheat on the basis of $1.06 to $1 07 for No. 1 red and white in cargo lots. Corn and peas rule about the same while oats are rather easy. We quote: Peas, 75 to 76c. per 66 lbs., in store; 76 to 77c. afloat; L. C. oats, 40 to 41c.; U. C. oats, 42 to 44c.; corn, 69 to 70c., duty paid; 62½c. in bond; feed barley, 50 to 52c.; good malting do., 65 to 70c.; rye, 65c.

In flour there has been a little more animation during the week owing to some enquiry in a stocking up way due to the approach of the close of the season, but it has not amounted to much business in the aggregate. Low grades are scarce and in some enquiry, while Patent winter move out at $2.45 to $2.50 in bags. Extras and fines in bags are also pretty well cleaned up. We quote: — Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; Patent spring, $6.05; Straight roller, $4.75 to $4.85; Extra, $4.50 to $4.60; Superfine, $4 to $4.20; Fine, $3.25 to $3.50; City strong bakers' $5.75 to $5.85; Strong bakers' $5.75 to $5.85.

THE STOCKS IN STORE.

The stocks of flour in store show a decrease of 4,607 barrels compared with a

HOW TO Help your Travellers

Some firms say they have travellers on the road calling upon retailers constantly and there is therefore no necessity to advertise in THE CANADIAN GROCER & GENERAL STOREKEEPER. Experience proves that an advertisement is of very great assistance to the travellers.

Thos. Davidson & Co., Montreal, Manufacturers of tin and stamped ware, write:—"Our travellers found our advertisement in your paper a great assistance."

Mr. J. H. Wethey, St. Catharines, Manufacturer of Condensed Mince Meat, says he had frequently called upon a retailer in that city but could never make a sale. He put an advertisement in THE CANADIAN GROCER and about three weeks later the retailer referred to called upon him to make a purchase and said that until he saw the advertisement in THE GROCER he had no idea there was a condensed meat factory in that city.

Tarbox Bros., Toronto, Manufacturers of Mops, Grocers' Specialties, etc., say the advertisement in THE GROCER has helped their travellers materially. They tell of several instances where a retailer would not look at their goods until he saw the advertisement.

week ago, and 20,146 barrels compared with the same date last year.

The stocks of grain in store compared with those of a week ago, show an increase of 387 bushels of wheat, 37,379 bushels of peas, 1,761 bushels of barley and 7,081 bushels of rye, and a decrease of 12,867 bushels of corn, and 6,033 bushels of oats. Compared with the same date last year there is a decrease of 53,000 bushels of wheat, 70,424 bushels of corn, 11,907 bushels of barley, and an increase of 42,008 bushels of peas, 59,275 bushels of oats, and 16,891 bushels of rye.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The butter market shows but little change, and business continues to be of a jobbing nature principally in the better goods of stock. Stocks in the country are an unknown quantity and seem to be pretty firmly held, but unless there is some export movement previous to the closing of navigation they will be bound to press, as the local demand is not sufficient to account for them, and there will be butter begging for a market. At 21c. there is a chance for business with the other side, so far little has resulted as holders want 22c. for creamery in the country, which of course procludes the idea. We only hear of some little business on Bristol account at 21c. and this was not in the latest made stock. In dairy butter Townships choice commands a ready sale in a jobbing way at 18 to 20c., while Western dairy moves rather slowly at 14 to 14½c. for best varieties.

Cheese is an unsatisfactory subject to write about at the moment. The past week witnessed no movement and the situation may be briefly summed up in a few words, anxious factorymen and indifferant buyers who appear fully aware of the large make unsold in the country and resolved to work it for all it is worth. In consequence 10c. is now an extreme figure and very difficult to obtain if shippers are to be believed. In fact there can be no doubt that England is unresponsive.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is the acknowledged organ of the trade in this country, and well it might be, for it is carefully edited and its information is reliable. From the large number of advertisements THE GROCER contains it is evident that shrewd business men appreciate its columns as an advertising medium.—Daily Mercury, Guelph.

MONTREAL NOTES.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has sent us a copy of its special fall number, which is undoubtedly a splendid issue, both in typography and reading matter. We notice in it also many advertisements of Montreal wholesale houses, which appear to appreciate the worth of our Toronto contemporary much more than that of the papers of their own city.—Le Prix Courant.

The Canada Sugar Refining Co. with their usual enterprise have put something entirely new on the market. It is their golden syrup put up in two pound tins with handsome varnished labels and made to retail at 15c. per tin, which leaves the grocer a good profit without considering the trouble saved on the old style by the bulk, that is when only a small quantity is required.

The CANADIAN GROCER, a technical journal, devoted to the interests of the grocery trade, has published a special fall number containing fifty-two pages, which is a credit alike to the publishers and the trade which keeps up such a journal. A feature of this special number is a tariff list of groceries which, unlike the majority of tariff lists, is understandable, and the market reports are unusually full and accurate.—Witness.

Mr. W. S. Dobson, a member of the firm of J. O. Whiting & Co., wholesale molasses dealers, of Boston, was in the city last week. Mr. Dobson's visit here is for the purpose of securing reduced freight rates for the six thousand hogsheads of molasses recently purchased by them, and which is stored at Montreal, Quebec, and Halifax. This large purchase was made on account of the shortage in the American market, which is said to be over ten thousand barrels short.

We have just to hand the fall number of THE CANADIAN GROCER, which is a credit to the J. B. McLean Company, the publishers. The number in addition to a number of live leading articles on subjects of interest to grocers generally, contains thorough reviews of the various branches of the trade, both at Montreal and Toronto, and cannot fail to be valuable as a source of information for future reference. The letter press and make-up of the number is workmanlike, and the matter so arranged that a reader can have no difficulty in turning to any particular article he desires.—Gazette.

The Empire Tobacco Co. of this city have a novel and effective way of advertising. They write to the retailers throughout the Dominion, enclosing blanks, and asking for the names of their customers, each of whom receive the following letter, together with a pouch, an illustration of which is seen in another column :

DEAR SIR,—It does not matter how superior an article of consumption may be, people will not call for it unless they have at least heard of it. We know that in our "Empire" brand is to be found the best chew that fine leaf, pure ingredients and intelligent workmanship coupled with spirit cured wrappers and champagne flavor can make it. We are also aware that the chewer will not find this out until he uses the tobacco. It is in view of this fact that we personally request you to try the tobacco, and when you are satisfied with it perhaps you will kindly recommend it to your friends. The "Empire" brand can be had at the store of.....

Buy a plug and you will thank us for suggesting to you the use of a brand of tobacco that will give you better satisfaction than any other. A ten cent cut of "Empire" will fit nicely the enclosed pouch which will make it more convenient to carry in your pocket. Try it. If you are a smoker we would also ask you to try our "Golden Plug" brand made from fine Virginia Leaf which we can recommend most highly.

DECEPTIVE ADVERTISING.

A Western trade paper remarks : "It is not to be wondered at that the general public, the vast army of buyers, look with suspicion upon 'bargain sales,' sales 'below cost,' 'closing out sales,' and indeed upon all announcements that goods are to be sold much below a fair profit. All such notices bear upon their face an appearance of improbability. These assertions, bordering closely upon the boundaries between truth and falsehood, are not what attract people." Several other papers have spoken approvingly of these utterances, and as there can be no question as to the deception practiced by many dealers who advertise in the above mentioned manner, these journals are certainly right from a moral point of view, but looking at the question from a business standpoint it cannot be denied that it pays many retailers to humbug the public to the extent of advertising "below cost" and "closing out" sales. This style of advertising is quite common in the dry goods trade, and although there is nothing novel about it the public are almost always attracted whenever it is tried. The way it is worked is generally this : One article is marked down to cost or below it, thus enabling the dealer to salve his conscience somewhat, and the public having been drawn to the store invariably purchase all that they can get of that particular thing, and a great many of the people thus attracted will also buy other goods, the prices of which have not been reduced. It is generally provided that not more than a certain quantity of the goods reduced in price shall be sold to individual customers. One would imagine that the public would soon grow tired of being deceived in this way, and perhaps if the mass of the patrons of "closing out" and "bargain" sales were men, some other way of pushing goods would have to be introduced by live and not too scrupulous dealers, but where retailers have principally women to deal with, as in the case of the dry goods trade, a certain amount of humbug and deception can often be risked without detriment to the business, but quite the contrary. Deception in advertising cannot of course be defended upon ethical grounds, and we have no desire to do so, nor, for that matter, on any other. All we wish to point out is that it often pays business men to practice it continually, and while it is remunerative it is useless to denounce it. There is another thing to be said on this question, namely, that it is a little too much to expect that small retailers, struggling against the keen competition of large cash dealers, should stick rigorously to the truth in their business announcements, while it is a well known fact that many large fortunes have been built up upon lying advertising and that the process is still going on in many lines.—Merchants' Review.

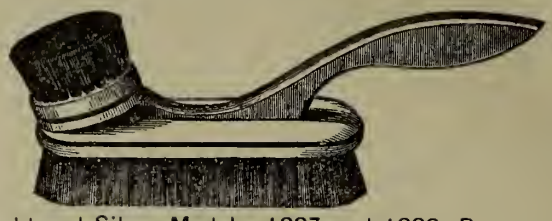
EGG NOTES.

Mr. G. Curry, the leading dealer in eggs and dairy produce in Great Britain, purposes establishing an agency in Montreal, just as he has done in Belgium, Holland and other great egg-producing centres on the continent.

Mr. William Richardson, of Walkerton, who is the largest egg dealer in the county of Bruce, has received advices about freights to England which will enable him to place his eggs on the London market at a rate of one cent per dozen over the rate to New York. In the meantime he continues to pay the same price for eggs as before.

The Minister of Finance is following up his enquiries in regard to cold storage accommodation on board the Atlantic liners for the shipment of eggs and poultry to Great Britain. There is no lack of shipments of eggs, but exporters are somewhat diffident about embarking in the poultry business until they are assured of the requisite refrigerator accommodation. The Beaver line has already put into the vessels revolving air circulators by which, in that portion of their steamships perishable goods are stored, a supply of pure air is constantly secured, and it is expected that the Allan and Dominion lines will immediately follow suit.

A meeting of egg buyers representing the district between Peterboro' and Montreal, was recently held at Kemptville Junction, and many questions concerning the egg trade in Canada were discussed. Mr. Saunders, of Kemptville, who is perhaps one of the largest individual egg buyers in Canada, and who has an experience of 30 years in the egg and poultry business, gave some valuable hints as to the method which should be adopted in shipping eggs to the old country. The meeting decided to send a deputation to Ottawa, with Dr. Ferguson, M. P., of Kemptville, to ask the Government to send a man to the old country to study the system adopted by other countries in shipping eggs, how they were received on the English markets, how disposed of and the modes of packing.



The analysts of the laboratory branch of the Inland Revenue Department are engaged upon an analysis of spices, which will afford material for a very interesting report. The samples of white and black pepper and mustard now undergoing chemical tests are said to show an extent and variety of adulteration that will surprise consumers of these condiments very much. Scarcely any of these in the ground state in which they are generally sold are found to be pure. The pepper is largely mixed with starch and other substances. The mustard contains flour and even plaster of paris, while the ground cinnamon, it is said, contains scarcely anything of the genuine article, beside the flavor.

COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER.

The Best Grocers Make a Point of Keeping it always in Stock.

FOREIGN RAISINS.

The position and prospects of the market for raisins, says the London Grocer, are scarcely so favorable as could be wished, as there are three important circumstances in operation which must militate more or less against an unrestricted consumption of the article in the United Kingdom, and act as a kind of drag upon the general enterprise of the trade. First there is the fact that the Customs duty remains unaltered from the old figures of 7s. per cwt.; secondly, there is a stronger demand than usual for shipment to places abroad; and thirdly, there is a positive scarcity of some descriptions, which is merely another term for materially advanced rates. The chief, if not the only, exception to these unfavorable statements in the general account is the very abundant crop of Valencias, which promises to be equal to 40,000 tons, or 14,000 tons heavier than in the preceding year, but it is coming forward rather slowly, owing to the larger American, Canadian, and Continental orders that have to be fulfilled, the latter taking the place of those for Elemes, through the crop of that class of fruit being almost a total failure this season.

The Valencias are of excellent quality, and prices being at a reasonable point, an extensive and prosperous trade is anticipated. Sultanas will furnish only one-third of an average stock, viz., not above 8,000 tons, in stead of 24,000 tons, and as an evidence of the firm hold this sort of fruit, as a hot favorite, has upon consumers, it may be noted that a few weeks ago, when the meaning of so short a yield was duly appreciated, the value of the article doubled itself, and mounted up to 90s. and 100s. for the best grades; but whether prices so dangerous as these appear to be will be maintained as the season progresses, rests entirely with the public themselves, who are the sole arbiters in the matter, as no speculation is answerable for so great a rise as is here shown, and the retailers for the present are advised to adopt the "hand-to-mouth" policy in dealing with Sultanas. Muscatels, nevertheless, will, it is said, produce a good crop, and the portions that have yet arrived have given satisfaction to the trade.

ABOUT VANILLA BEANS.

The odor of the vanilla bean is sweet and sickish, and the druggist who had a pound and a half of them tucked into a glass jar has had to take the cover off so many times to explain about them to the inquisitive friends who call, that he is getting disheartened at the smell of vanilla. It is curious, he says, that so few people know anything about the vanilla bean. All sorts of questions are asked him, and he answers them, just appreciating as he now is, that there is no article of the least uncommon use that the world will not ask questions about. For our interest, he opens one of the long twisted pods and shows the black sticky interior filled with innumerable seeds no bigger than needle points. On the outside are long crystals, white and hair like. "It is the crystal of the active principal of the vanilla," said he. "It looks like the dew on the underside of leaves, doesn't it?" The vanilla costs high. Prices vary in accordance with quality, and they range upward to $16 a pound, so that the jar of the vanilla bean which he held in his hand was worth close to $24, being of the best quality. The substitute for vanilla is the Tonka bean, a purplish-black, hard-shelled bean as big as an almond in the shell, and very hard and brittle. Its odor is an approach to the vanilla, but much less pleasant, more crude and eminently sickening. This bean costs $1,60 a pound, which is somewhat less than $16 a pound, but which makes quite a change in the cost of flavorings. The expert has no difficulty in distinguishing the adulterations in flavorings.—Ex.

SPECIFIC RESULTS.

The first general rule to be laid down for the retailer is: Aim for specific results. The old style of newspaper advertising, such as

JOHN JONES,
FINE STATIONERY,
214 Blank Street, Blankville.

was never effective and has long since been discarded by intelligent, wideawake men. Try to tell the public in as interesting a way as possible about one or two of your recent novelties, rather than attempt to enumerate your entire stock. John Jones cannot best attract customers by advertising that he keeps "a full stock of stationery, pens, ink, mucilage, pads, albums, files, pencils, inkstands, fountain pens, sealing wax," etc. Any well regulated stationery store is supposed to contain these articles. But let Mr. Jones try advertising some special thing each week—something new if possible—and note how much difference there will be in his returns. For example, if he receives a novelty in note paper, let him write a bright snappy advertisement of it; tell all about it, what there is new in it, what its merits are, and so on. Don't be afraid of going into details. Another point: Have a new advertisement each week. Don't let the old one go in twice if you can help it. No matter if you do have to pay a little more for changing copy regularly; it is better to have a new advertisement in every other week than the same card in every issue. Besides, labor is generally cheap on country papers, and it will not cost much, if any, more to have a fresh, attractive announcement. The commonest excuse for the retailer to make is that he hasn't time to keep constantly getting up new advertisements. Then make time. How it would sound for you to say after a case of goods had been delivered that you didn't have time to unpack them, and so let them remain nailed up until they were out of date or were spoiled! Yet the two instances are clearly parallel. An investment in printers' ink is just as much money out of your pocket as the salaries of your clerks, and it will go to waste unless you look after it sharply, just as much as your clerk hire would if your clerks were allowed to take five out of six months as vacation.

"Oh, it is all very well," says some reader, "to say make time and advise us to devise attractive advertisements. I have no literary skill; writing is irksome to me anyway, and if I must go to all that trouble I prefer not to advertise at all."

That being the case, it will be best to turn the whole matter over to one of your brightest and most trusty clerks, who, if he has any taste for it, will soon become something of an adept, and your advertisements will begin to overtop those of your more slow going competitors, with direct results upon your cash account. It is best, if possible, for the proprietor himself to have the advertising in charge, for he understands his business and customers more thoroughly than anyone else can.

It is a good plan to make your show window display work in with your newspaper advertising. For instance, if you have just received a consignment of new designs in tablets, make them the chief attraction in your window. Mass them in the centre and then arrange them about the sides so as to show to advantage the various designs Now write your newspaper announcement and confine it to tablets. Tell how popular and convenient they are, and what are their principal advantages.

Next describe your new styles, mentioning the fact that they are displayed in your window. If you will take some of the papers of large cities and study the advertisements of dry goods and clothing houses which are recognized to be clever at this sort of thing, you will be able to gain many points. Don't copy, but adapt as your own good taste suggests.

In conclusion, advertising when intelligently conducted, is a very valuable aid in drawing customers, and when one considers that it was said by Robert Bonner, "My success is owing to liberality in advertising," he may well agree with the great showman, P. T. Barnum, that "the road to fortune is through printers' ink."—American Stationer.

One thing in particular should be impressed upon clerks—the necessity of careful attention to small customers.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday's yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

CREDITS AND DISCOUNTS.

CONFERENCE BETWEEN THE RETAIL GROCERS' AND THE TORONTO WHOLESALE GROCERS' GUILD.

A conference between the Toronto Wholesale Grocers' Guild and representatives of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in the council chamber of the Board of Trade on Friday evening the 7th inst.

The following representatives of the wholesale trade were present: Messrs. A. M. Smith, (Vice-President of the Guild), John I. Davidson, J. W. Lang, Hugh Blain, Thomas Kinnear, J. Young, J. Sloan, W. C. Crowther, H. C. Boomer, J. P. Eckardt and Wm. Adams. Representing the Retail Association were Messrs. Robert Mills, J. G. Gibson, H. Hodgins, W. Mara, R. Donald, R. Barron, F. Britton, J. Butcher, W. Radcliffe and J. F. Thackray, secretary.

Mr. A. M. Smith was moved to the chair. Before the conference had begun, Mr. Wills, secretary of the Board of Trade, stated that a representative of the CANADIAN GROCER was present in order to furnish a report of the meeting to that journal only. The GROCER had supplied a verbatim report of the proceedings of the meeting of the retail men, and he presumed that there would be no objection to the same being done at this conference. The matter was submitted to the meeting by the chairman, and the decision was in favor of having a report of the conference appear in THE GROCER only.

The chairman in opening the proceedings said, I am not going to make a long speech, but I may state that the members of the wholesale Guild had a meeting this afternoon at which they discussed the complaints of the grocers. I may say to you that it is the desire of this Guild as far as possible to meet you. That desire on our part is unanimous. We have hitherto tried to aid you in any way that we could, both with our time and our money. We helped you through very serious difficulties at any rate on the tobacco question. We would be very glad to help you through this difficulty if we can do so, but you must bear in mind that we have two classes connected with this grocery association to protect. The one is the monied man who wants his dollar's worth at once, and the other is the man who requires to take his time. We will do justice to both as nearly as we know how. I think the entire feeling of the Guild is to do so. We will be very glad to have you lay your case before us, and we will endeavor to deal with you as fairly as it is within our power—justly, fairly, rightly, doing justice to both sides of the question. I think with these few remarks might ask the grocers' association to state their case.

Mr. Robert Mills—Mr. Chairman, I suppose it would be well for me at the outset to explain the reasons why we are here to-night. You are doubtless aware that for some time there has been a feeling of discontent prevailing among the grocery trade relative to duties—the protective duties—of the Wholesale Guild in matters that affect their interests. Several meetings have been held. A meeting was held recently, which, if it did not comprise all the grocers of Toronto, at least comprised a large number of the best buyers. It was a very influential meeting of the trade. It was resolved at that meeting that action should be taken to fight this matter out. I may say in reference to this meeting, that while we had not as large an attendance as might have been expected from the number of grocers in business in this city, still you are doubtless aware that we have the sympathy and help of a large number who were not at our meeting; men doing probably the largest grocery trade in the city, and almost in any city in the Dominion. At this meeting it was resolved as I have mentioned, that immediate action should be taken. A unanimous vote was recorded to that effect. The feeling was among some members that this matter ought to be solved, and that we should see if we could not have redress before going to extremes. In deference to that opinion we thought, before putting the resolution into effect, that we might see some of the members of the Guild, ascertain their ideas and see whether they were willing to meet us. We met the Vice-president of the Guild accordingly, and through his wish we have met you here to-night. It may be asked at the very outset what grievances we have. That question has occurred to all of us. We have an objection to the proceedings of the Guild on principle, and on these matters which touch our pockets. I think I will be able to show you how they affect us in both regards. In the first place you make no difference as to the buyers. That is the general opinion of the trade all through the country. We cannot make fish of one and flesh of another, and therefore we are bound to trade with all classes alike. For instance, to the man who buys $2,000 worth of goods—take granulated sugar for example—you will give the same terms, almost in every respect, to the man who buys $50,000 or $60,000 worth. Is that not one of the principles of the Guild? Is that the principle of British trade as it is carried on all over the world? Is a man who buys a small quantity to have the same terms as a man who buys a large quantity? It is so in your own Guild. If a man buys a large quantity he does not get a proportionate decrease in the price.

The Chairman—You get it. Excuse me for interrupting.

Mr. Mills—I mentioned sugars at the outset. Now, if I buy ten caddies of tobacco, do I get any better terms than if I buy one?

The Chairman—Take general groceries, and you will find that the large buyer is in many instances doing a great deal better than the smaller one.

Mr. Mills—With regard to the articles on the combine ?

The Chairman—(Laughing). No sir.

Mr. Hugh Blain—With regard to sugar we do not prevent you going to the refiner.

Mr. Mills—You do : would Mr. Redpath sell to me ?

Mr. Blain—I think not.

Mr. Mills—No, nor Mr. Macdonald.

Mr. Blain—Mr. Macdonald won't sell to you at all, but Mr. Redpath will, I think, making a difference as to quantity.

Mr. J. G. Gibson—Let him proceed without interrupting.

Mr. Mills—As I have said, in the articles on the list, there is no difference made between the large and the small buyer. I would like to know whether this is the effect?

Mr. John I. Davidson—Take Reckett's blue ; is there no difference in that ?

Mr. Mills—Take Dingman's blue, and soap, and Crosse & Blackwell's pickles.

Mr. Davidson—The whole profit on five barrels of Crosse & Blackwell's pickles does not amount to that much. (Snapping his fingers).

Mr. Mills—Well, Mr. Chairman, I maintain our open conviction, and if you like to take me up afterwards you can do so. You say that in regard to the majority of these articles on the combine there is no advantage to buyers of large quantities. That is one of the most serious effects of the arrangement. It is hardly worth while for me to be in business now. There are those who buy in far larger quantities than I do. The effect of the arrangement among the wholesale trade is to lay down the law, that a man once a retailer must remain always a retailer. There is no possibility of doing any jobbing trade whatever. Some gentlemen who are members of the Guild would not be in the wholesale trade to-day if such a law had prevailed in their day. Another thing, gentlemen, is this. The tendency of the proceedings of your Guild is to degrade the retail business and make it a mere matter of machinery. No matter whether a man has little experience or large experience you are going to deal with all alike. The mechanic, or the farmer, you are willing to take their dollars and give them stock although they have had no experience in the grocery trade. You don't care whether they know nothing about the trade or whether they may have had twenty or thirty years' experience in it. That is what the trade is suffering from to-day. A great many are talking about the decrease in the business. It is because people going into the trade don't know what trade is. Although it may be a very fine time for you just now, gentlemen, the time will come when you will suffer from it. And you will suffer a great deal more than we are doing now. Men are coming into the business who degrade it, and the effect must be a heavy crop of bad debts.

You may say that this regulating of prices prevents at once the possibility of doing a cutting business. I maintain that the grocery trade of Toronto would not be so much hurt by a cutting business. But I also maintain that the men doing a large business are very careful about what they do. Our wish is to elevate the trade, and by seeking to do a large business we would have the tendency in that way of drawing others up after us (hear ! hear !). I think it has been stated here that it is only a few of the Toronto retail merchants who alone feel these grievances.

Mr. Davidson—That has not been stated to me.

Mr. Mills—At all events that has been commonly reported. But, gentlemen, it is a cause of grievance which appears to us every day. I am not saying that the members of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild have said this, but still the report has gone abroad that it is only a few of the grocers who are dissatisfied with the arrangements of the Guild. I have letters here, and the secretary of our Association has letters from various places in the country, showing that there is a great deal of feeling in regard to this matter. You will find that this is correct. I do not wish to say here all that these letters say. It is better for us to leave that aside till we find what action you are going to take in regard to the grievances which we place before you. I am not in a position to-night to speak as fully as I would speak on this matter among my fellow-grocers. I can tell you, however, that if you only look at the matter in the light that we are looking at it, if you will but place yourselves in our position, you will come to the conclusion that our grievances are serious. It is serious for all in the trade, and not only for us, but for those who are behind us. I might as well go out of the business to morrow as go on doing what I am doing to day. Before I close I will take up again one line of trade that affects me, and probably affects other gentlemen here in a far greater measure. Take for instance the price of tobacco. Mr. Macdonald did not put the price on himself. It was at your desire it was done, for tobacco had been cut down to a pretty low price. The consequence is, that around the market to-day a small jobbing trade is done, while we have to sell at the price we paid for it. You will ask what should be done then. Gentlemen, we cannot advance the price. If we buy at 50c., we have to sell at 50c. When small stores sell at 50c., we cannot change the price to 51c.

The chairman—You don't buy from us at all.

Mr. Mills—We make nothing in the same way on a lot of articles. When articles are labelled, the public know the price, and it is absolutely impossible for us to change. Take again Kingsford's corn starch. If we have been selling that at 10c., for the last ten years we cannot change to 11c. now.

The Chairman—It is not the Grocers' Guild who have put up the price on Kingsford's.

Mr. Mills—I wish to say a few words with reference to discounts, and that is a very serious matter to the trade. We have no objection, in some cases, to a limitation of the time, but it is going to be a very serious matter to a great many traders in the country, if it is to be a demand for spot cash for goods. You, gentlemen, are losing nothing by the transaction when you take your per centage out of all articles which you sell during the year. But look at the country trade. A man orders goods to-day and it is four days before he gets them. He will lose that time, and although he is perfectly able to pay the money, he objects to the loss of that time. Another matter is the short notice which you have given of this. In this regard I also wish to say for the cash buyer, that before taking off his discount you should have made him a greater allowance. Again, you are going to have a great number of renewals. It may be impossible for a man in the country to meet his engagements. The consequence will be, that you are going to carry this man at a better rate than you are going to give us. Your Guild does not limit the rate charged for renewals of paper. That has been left to your own option. Each is left to deal as he sees fit. In that way the cash man loses the advantage you give to the man who wants a renewal of his paper. You may say to us to-night, that we were very favorably impressed with the arrangements of the Guild at first. At that time you must remember, that there was nothing but granulated sugar on the list. We were then apparently satisfied that we could work out our own interests in respect to the matter of granulated sugar, for we were all very anxious to see something done in order to do away with the practice of giving granulated sugar away. But a dozen more things were put on your list which were never anticipated by us. That is the reason we feel so keenly about it. We did wrong to encourage the thing or to sympathize with it at all, even though it professes to elevate the trade and do away with cutting. It was a mistake, and I think my fellow-grocers will bear me out when I say so. Another point which I might mention here is this. You gentlemen are all honorable men, but you cannot tell what your travellers do. Some gentlemen here are suffering very materially by the arrangement in regard to granulated sugar. Some travellers I find are prepared to make a bid in the shape of a bonus if buyers of granulated sugar take a certain line of goods from them. There is a temptation to me in this, in order that I may be on terms of equality with grocers around me. Surely you are not going into the business to put yellow sugar on the same basis as granulated sugar. Yet that has been tried.

The thing amounts to this, that if a man will buy 30 barrels of sugar at such a price, he will get half a chest of tea thrown in, (laughter). Do you really expect that men will do business in that style. Some of us would not accept it. But there are people who will accept it. We don't want to do business in that style. And that does not refer to sugar alone, for every article we can touch is going to be the same. We want to do business fairly and honorably. I am not prepared to say here to-night what will be done by the grocers in face of these things, but for myself I am henceforward, instead of dealing with five or six or seven houses, going to concentrate my trade all in one house. I also can find an advantage in buying as little as possible at a time. I can no longer do business as I have been doing it. I would rather go out of it to-morrow than continue as I have been doing. Mr. Donald, my colleague, will follow me and will no doubt touch on a great many matters that I have touched upon.

The chairman. Mr. President you have told us all our sins of commission and omission, but you have not told us what concessions you want. We would like to hear this stated.

Mr. R. Donald said, I have great pleasure in appearing before such a large number of the wholesale men of Toronto. I would like to understand, before proceeding any further, whether the members of the Guild at the meeting this afternoon considered their responsibility for the impertinent remarks in Wednesday's Empire.

The chairman. I don't know what these remarks were. I never saw them.

Mr. Donald. They were neither polite nor courteous to the Retail Grocers' Association, considering that we, at our meeting on Monday afternoon, decided that, inasmuch as the wholesale dealers had maintained a position of perfect courtesy towards the retail grocers, it would be only courteous on our part to ask them to meet us in a conference where the difficulties could be considered in an impartial manner. But in Wednesday's Empire we found the report of a reporters' visitations to various wholesale houses on Front street, and the remarks which were made were grossly impertinent and impolite to our Association.

The Chairman—I for my part disown any remarks of that kind.

Mr. Donald (proceeding)—Now, Mr. Mills has gone into the matter so fully that I will only touch some of the points upon which he touched. I represent a class of grocers who have not as a rule taken any part in the proceedings of the Retail Association. I represent a great section of first-class buyers who don't attend the meetings of the Association but who are members of it. They thoroughly sympathize with every effort made for the promotion of trade, and they object to combines in toto. If men did what we want they would have the combine abolished altogether. If that is impossible, then we want the terms of the arrangement modified in a fair business-like way. We consider that the terms are unbusiness-like. Take granulated sugar; I buy 15 barrels, that allows me ⅛c. Is that fair?

The Chairman—The discount won't pay us to carry the trade.

Mr. Donald—I assure you that you make more off sugar than we who have to retail it. Now I will take tobacco; you make 4c. per lb., we make 3½c. How does that strike you as an equitable transaction?

The Chairman—That looks very bad.

Mr. Davidson—We have to pay duty; then we have to sell at four months giving three per cent. off. We have to pay freight and exchange, and we have to pay the expenses of modern warehouses.

Mr. Donald—How much on the whole would that amount to; one per cent?

Mr. Davidson—I think so.

Mr. Donald—Well, consider this side of the question. You sell me $1,000 worth of tobacco. Some members of the Guild sell 5 lbs. at the same price. That remark applies to a whole lot of things. If you have this combine, I think you should have it with due regard to the profit of the man who handles the goods. There is no use in talking, gentlemen; there is no trade making as much money in the Dominion of Canada to-day as the wholesale grocery trade.

Mr. Davidson—Ha! ha!

Mr. Donald—There is no house in the Dominion to-day making more money than Davidson & Hay, of Toronto (laughter). I object to the combine for various reasons. In the first place, it is not carried on honestly. There is no grocer in Toronto to-day who buys his goods with any regard to the interests of the trade, who does not know that goods are sold in quite a different fashion. Who is the man who buys a straight lot of granulated sugar?

The Chairman—That certainly is news to me. I would like to know who does it. If a man sells fifteen barrels of yellow sugar, along with fifteen barrels of granulated sugar, I think it is only right that the man should be known (here, here). Why, the man would be losing money by it.

Mr. Donald—I don't say it of my own knowledge.

The Chairman—I would like to see the man here who would make the assertion. I have sold sugar very close, but I never allowed a man to get sugar in that way from my store.

Mr. Donald—I will leave it to any man here if the statement I have made is wide of the mark.

Mr. W. Mara—I bought it in that way.

Several gentlemen rose at once and said they had done the same.

Mr. Blain—Not from us.

Mr. Davidson—Not from me.

The Chairman—The name of the house should be given. I certainly shall ask to have the house named.

Mr. Donald—I don't propose to mention any names. I make the charge and I think it should be explained.

The Chairman—I ask for the name of the man who did it.

Mr. Mills—It is done all over the country. Why the travelling representative of a Montreal house up west said if a party would buy tobacco in butts or other large quantities he would get a concession in dollars. We are fighting against this every day.

The Chairman—Travellers very often state what is not fact. I say again that we are entitled to have the name of the house which is doing this business.

Mr. Donald—No bluffing will make me give the name of any house Here are two items in reference to tobacco and sugar. They are large purchases, but if I should wish to vary the thing I might come down to pickles and some other articles on the list. I ask you is that a British way of doing business? I don't think that the best men in the Guild know that these things are done. I am sure if they did, that they would have nothing to do with the system which is injuring trade and making business in some way like a lottery. We want to do business on the dollar basis. Another thing we object to strongly, is the way you are extending this combine. Why, at every meeting of the Guild something else is added to the list. You are putting up your profits to such an extent that it is a question if every member of the Guild will not always be finding something else that can be put on the list with equally satisfactory result. You said to Mr. Mills, that the Kingsford Co. raised the price of starch, but you did not say anything about Benson's or the British American goods. You get the increased profit, and retailers have to charge the same price as they heretofore did. Your profits come out of us. You can sell more goods if you sell at a less price. You can sell more tobacco.

Mr. Blain—We sold tobacco at less than cost before the advance.

Mr. Donald—You sell other things less than cost.

To Grocers!

There are three articles which the consuming public have decided are the best of their kind in the market, and it will pay every grocer to keep them in stock. They are

BLAIKLOCK BROS, Agents,
17 Common St., MONTREAL.

Mr. Blain—I deny that.

Mr. Donald—I would like to say a word about discounts. There is no first-class grocer in Toronto who would not like you to make an advance to shorten credits, but you want to shorten credits, and profits, and discounts. If a man is going to get more profit he is of course going to do it, but I maintain from my standpoint that I am entitled to as much discount as I had before. We want sixty day goods to be forty-five days, with 1½ off in fifteen days. We want four months credit to be shortened to ninety days, giving three per cent. off within fifteen days. This should be a question of give and take ; it is worth as much to you as it is to us. We should try to accommodate one another.

The Chairman—Mr. Donald has given us a very fair statement. He has told us what is wanted. Now has any other gentleman anything else to say?

Mr. Barron—I consider that I have been working at a disadvantage all summer.

The Chairman—Poor fellow. (Laughter).

Mr. Hugh Blain—I don't know that I am any more guilty than any other member of the trade. I would like to see the grocers put on a proper basis, and I would like to see a spirit of harmony and good feeling between the wholesale and retail trade. We certainly are anxious that it should be so, as our interests are completely identical. The prosperity of the wholesale grocers depends upon the prosperity of the retail grocers, and when we look at the retail grocers' interests we look at our own. I think we do that. Allowing that the gentlemen present to-night are chiefly cash buyers, as the chairman has said, we must remember that we have two classes of customers to look after. We have to look after the cash and the credit buyers. I am free to admit that the proportion of our own trade is largely in favor of the time purchaser. I don't suppose that over 40 per cent. of our trade is paid for in cash, and I think I would be fairly safe in saying that what is our experience is the experience of the trade generally. In that view of the case it would be manifestly improper if we should neglect the 60 per cent. of the trade and give undue advantage to the 40 per cent. Mr. Mills and Mr. Donald frankly admit that it would be a good thing to shorten credit. We formerly gave you 3 per cent. off in 15 days and 1½ in 15 days; that means giving 3 per cent. off in 3½ months and 1½ per cent. in 1½ months to run. We give you exactly the same rate of discount on sugar that we gave you before we gave you 1 per cent. off for 1 month to run and ½ off for ½ a month to run. It is the same rate. We give you a larger cash discount than you got before. Now is it fair that we should shorten up the time buyers? It would be making terms more unfavorable to them than before, while it would not disturb you, the cash buyers.

Mr. Donald—Would it not be an inducement to the 60 per cent. you speak of to change places with the 40 per cent?

Mr. Blain—It would. If you make the difference more you can increase the inducement, but I say that the result would be that only the 40 per cent. of the trade would still pay cash, while the 60 per cent. would gradually get worse, and that would create a bountiful crop of bad debts all over the country. You have to consider this change very carefully, gentlemen.

Mr. Donald—Discount does not necessarily hang on the time. If the discount is what it was before,we are paying more for it.

Mr. Blain—Discount is what you get off for unexpired time.

Mr. Donald—That is from your standpoint.

Mr. Blain—We are giving you now for the time the goods have to run as large, and in one case a larger rate of discount than you got before. We shorten up time for the whole trade. We want to put the grocers' business on a better basis than it is to-day, and I think we have been gradually doing it.

Mr. Donald—The grocery business is in a worse state to-day than it was before the Guild started. There are 800 grocery stores to-day where there were then but 500. That is to say the 300 have been created by this Guild.

Mr. Blain—The general increase of the city would warant that. Within the last six years the city has doubled its population. A man to-day wants more experience and capital to go into the grocery trade. A man came into my store the other day. He had some small capital and wanted to go into business. I told him he could not carry on business on that capital, and he went away and has not come back since. I don't know whether he has gone to any other wholesale house or not (laughter). If a man conscientiously looks into the condition of the grocery trade to-day he will find that business cannot be commenced without capital. Mr. Mills talked about degrading business. The very reverse of what he has said has been my experience. Before we went into the combination the first things our customers asked about were granulated sugar and Prince of Wales tobacco. Lots were sold at 37¾c., 37½c., and even at 37c., while the retailers sold at 40c. The demoralization of trade was far worse then than it is to-day. With reference to the question of renewals of notes, I don't say that it is good to renew for less than was done in the past, but we don't think cash men have anything to complain of.

Mr. Barron—You keep the man in business where he should not be. Why don't you charge 12 per cent. for unexpired time?

Mr. Blain—Would you charge a man 12 per cent. all his life? We don't do business like that. It is a matter entirely of accommodation between the wholesale man and his customer.

Mr. Barron—But it is at my expense.

Mr. Blain—With reference to the question of getting exceptional terms of trade that is a very serious accusation, and I for one most emphatically repudiate being guilty of any such conduct on behalf of my firm.

Mr. Mills—A good many gentlemen are represented by travellers, and they don't know what their travellers do.

The Chairman—But we do.

Mr. Blain—We profess to know what our travellers do. If a traveller were to do a thing like that he would not do it twice.

Mr. Mills—I don't suppose it was done in Toronto, but it was done outside, in London, Hamilton, and Montreal.

The Chairman—We cannot settle this question till we have the name of the house.

Mr. Wills—(Secretary of the Wholesale Guild). Within the past few weeks a Montreal house, found guilty of such conduct, was struck off the list.

Mr. Mara—I would like Mr. Blain to speak in regard to large and small quantities.

Mr. Blain—You get ⅛c. better on granulated sugar over fifteen barrels. That and tobacco are the only two items which the wholesale grocers are strictly responsible for. At the same time, it would be folly for me to say that we are not in harmony with the manufacturers in the prices they have fixed on their goods.

Mr. Mara—What about starch?

Mr. Blain—The conditions are imposed by the manufacturer. We are required by the manufacturer to sign an agreement before he will give us his goods.

Mr. Mara—I would like to know if manufacturers could not make a suggestion in regard to granulated sugar.

Mr. Blain—As a matter of fact, the profit we make out of granulated sugar in the city of Toronto is exactly 2¾ per cent. on our investment.

Mr. Barron—What about discount?

Mr. Blain—That is allowing the discount and 2¾ per cent will not pay our expenses. Thee xpenses of our institution could not be paid by less than between four and 5 per cent. We consider that we are fortunate in having the 2¾ as a share in the charges of our business, rather than that it should not pay anything towards it. Now with regard to tobacco no matter what quantity we buy from Macdonald we do not get the shadow of one per cent. less on the largest than on the smallest quantity. Possibly we make the merest percentage on Prince of Wales. We would like you to establish better prices for foods.

Mr. Barron—We cannot do it.

Mr. Blain—I admit the difficulty. At all events we are now in a better position to deal honestly with the customer and give better value.

Mr. John I. Davidson—If any other gentleman has nothing further to suggest I think it would be better then it we should come to terms. I will suggest then giving three per cent. and one per cent off in ten days, reducing the other terms to thirty and ninety days. That would be a big inducement to cash buyers.

Mr. Donald—Would you make it 1 1-2 per cent. off in ten days and 3 per cent. off in ten days ?

Mr. Davidson—Our desire is to harmonize both parties. You cannot all get the whole loaf. We have felt a little sore on this thing, as you did not offer to talk it over with us before putting things in the newspapers. Shaking a red flag at a bull does not always bring out his best feelings, (laughter). Now how about the 3 per cent. and 1 per cent. in ten days.

Mr. Thos. Kinnear—I don't think that we make 5 per cent. on all the combination put together. It takes between 4 1-2 and 5 per cent. to run our business.

Mr. Davidson—What are the articles on the list at present.

Mr. Wills—Blue, blacklead, pickles, starch, sugar and tobacco. There is no combination on blue, except Rickett's and Dingman's Blacklead, pickles and starch are the manufacturers' prices.

The retail men were allowed an interval to consider Mr. Davidson's offer, the wholesale men retiring.

On resuming, Mr. Mills, on behalf of the retail men, submitted ths following terms of agreement :

One-and-a-half per cent. off in ten days on 30 day goods. Three per cent off in ten days on 3 months' goods. In regard to sugar, that an addition of 1-16 be made to purchasers of 25 barrel lots and over, in addition to the discount on the 15 barrels. In regard to tobacco, that purchasers of ten caddies or five butts be allowed a rebate of one cent per lb. That an assurance be given that no other goods be put upon the combination list.

The wholesale men could not accept this, and the whole position was discussed again.

Mr. Kinnear urged the retail men to accept Mr. Davidson's concession. The wholesale trade were desirous of doing everything that is fair.

Mr. Blain pressed the same view.

Mr. Blain—Whatever friction may exist between the Associations, we are willing to do all in our power to rub off the rough edges.

Mr. Mills—Could you not make it 1½ per cent. for spot cash and 1 per cent. in ten days?

Mr. Davidson—That would be putting a load on us that it would be impossible to carry. You must remember that what we do to-night will have to be submitted by our local Guild to the Dominion Guild.

Mr. Mara—I move that Mr. Davidson's proposition be agreed to. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Donald—Provided it be carried out immediately.

The Chairman—We cannot do that.

Mr. Davidson—We might go as far as to say that a rebate will be given if the terms are agreed to by the Dominion Guild.

Mr. Hodgins—Then I second Mr. Mara's motion.

The Chairman then put the motion in the following words :

One per cent. in ten days on thirty days' goods, 3 per cent. in ten days on three months' goods, and after that 12 per cent. be allowed on unexpired time.

Mr. Donald—Suggest that beyond a certain quantity the price be left open.

The Chairman—We cannot do that of ourselves.

Mr. Davidson—This clause should be added : That we pledge ourselves to carry the proposition through and if it be carried through that a rebate be given.

This was agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. Donald, another clause was added, That if any further goods be put on the combination list, the Guild shall endeavor to have them placed on a sliding scale as to quantity.

This was also agreed to.

The motion was then put in its entirety and declared carried by a standing vote.

Mr. Barron moved a vote of thanks to the chairman and the members of the Guild for the courtesy which they had displayed. Carried.

The chairman, in replying, advised the members of the Retail Association, that if they have any further grievances to come and discuss them with the members of the Guild before going to the press.

The conference then broke up.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Since the question of combines became an issue, a little over a month ago, between the Wholesale Grocers' Guild and the Retail Grocers' Association of this city, there has been a very marked and steady improvement in the attendance at the meetings of the latter body. Concern for the interests of the retail trade was never before manifested as it has been at the last three meetings. The cause of the recent disturbance in the relations between the local wholesalers and retailers, has done more to enkindle an interest in the doings of the Retail Grocers' Association among its more lukewarm members than has any other influence. It is to be hoped this effect may survive the early settlement of the present difference, and may be an abiding benefit of it.

On Monday night, at the November meeting, there was the largest muster of the year. The following took part in the proceedings : Messrs. Mills, Thackray, Barron, Johnston, Butcher, Parkhill, Clarke, Verner, Sykes, Williamson, Gibson, Booth, Lindsey, Hodgins, F. Britton, Clarkson, Gross, Smedley, Donald, Westren, Binnie, McCulloch, Shields, W. F. Britton, Black, Radcliffe, Jones. Mr. Mills, the president, was in the chair.

The minutes of the last monthly meeting, of the meeting of a committee then appointed to act upon the combine question, and of a special meeting reported in our last issue, were read by the Secretary, and upon the motion of Mr. Johnston, seconded by Mr. Booth, all these minutes were confirmed.

NEW OUTSIDE ASSOCIATIONS.

A communication from Portland, N.B., asking for by-laws, etc., as the model of an association the grocers of that city are about to form ; another communication from Acton, Ont., asking for similar information for a similar purpose, were read and reported to have been answered by the Secretary.

ANTI-COMBINE SYMPATHY.

The following replies to the copies of the resolution received, in which the Association at the October meeting had expressed its disapproval of recent developments of the combine principle in the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, were read :

LONDON, Oct. 28th, 1890.

JOHN F. THACKRAY, Esq.,
Sec. T. R. G. Ass'n.

DEAR SIR,—At a special meeting of the London Association of Retail Grocers, your communication was read, when it was moved and seconded that the London Association act in conjunction with the T. R. G. A., and endorse their action relative to the combine of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild. Carried unanimously.

DEAR SIR,—In reply to yours of Oct. 15th, in which was enclosed a recent resolution adopted by your Association in regard to the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, and which was submitted at the last meeting of our Association, I am directed to say that this Association is in full accord and sympathy with any movement that will result in benefit to the retailers, and will be glad to assist in any measures to further that end. We should be pleased if you would give us any further information on the matter, particularly the description of articles controlled by the combine, as well as the names of manufacturers who are in it.

DEAR FRIEND,—Yours of the 13th of Oct., lies before me, and in answer would say that we had a rousing meeting last night, and the following resolutions were unanimously passed :—

Moved by Ald. Redden, seconded by Mr. J. Hiscock, that the Kingston retail grocers adopt the same resolution as that passed by the Toronto Association, and further that they have their hearty co-operation and await the action of the T. R. G. A. with deepest interest.

Moved by Mr. Gibson, and seconded by Mr. J. Henderson, that the meeting adjourn until the result of the Toronto meeting is known.

This meeting was one of the best since the Association was organized. Every member felt that the wholesale men were getting the pie while the retailers licked the plates, that immediate action was necessary, delay dangerous, in fact that the wholesalers and manufacturers had gained so much ground it would take time and patience to fight the battle. The wholesalers blame the manufacturers, and say they are helpless. We think they are careless and inwardly satisfied with the way their pockets are lined as at present. The retailers have the hardest part of the work, and manufacturers would, if possible, make slaves of them.

Yours with best wishes,
J. GILBERT,
Secretary.

In moving the reception of these communications, Mr. Barron stated that he had a conversation with Mr. Guillet, M. P., who is in the grocery trade in Cobourg. Mr. Guillet manifested a warm interest in the attitude of the Toronto Association upon the combine question, and had requested that a copy of the Association's proceedings upon that question be forwarded to him. The motion that the foregoing letters be received was passed.

A MANUFACTURER'S OFFER.

The following was the next communication read :

Nov. 1st, 1890.

MR. THACKRAY,
Sec. of Toronto Retail Grocers' Ass'n.

DEAR SIR,—The report of Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, published in the CANADIAN GROCER has been read by me and a copy forwarded to my house. I take great pleasure in informing you that Mr. Babbitt has concluded to offer a much larger package of his 1776 powder, to be sold retail for the same as the package sold at present for 5c. in Toronto, and he will sell the new package direct only to the T. R. G. A. at $2.30 per box (100 packages); the T. R. G. A. to pay duty ($1.05 per box) and we will pay freight. You will see by this, the new package will cost the retailers laid down $3.35 per 100 packages, and they can sell it at 5c. a package with a profit of $1.65 per box, which is much more profit than they make on any other powder. In order to advertise the new package we will forward to every retail grocer in Toronto a picture we will give free to every consumer that buys 50c. worth of 1776. I forward you a sample package by mail. Hoping to hear from you at your earliest convenience,

I remain yours respectfully,
C. E. SONTUM,
Agt. B. F. Babbitt.

Mr. Thackray stated that he had written in reply to this letter, asking a more explicit statement of what Mr. Sontum's firm was prepared to do. He got a reply advising him that the firm had to be consulted. This reply was followed by a third letter, from the house (B. F. Babbitt's) represented by Mr. Sontum, consigning 25 boxes of 1776 to Mr. Thackray. Mr. Thackray asked instructions with reference to the communication and the consignment.

Mr. Barron moved, seconded by Mr. Williamson, that the matter be referred to the Executive Committee.—Carried.

THE BUSINESS TAX.

The following letter from the Single Tax Association was read and referred to the Executive Committee :

269 Wellesley st.,
TORONTO, Oct. 25, 1890.

J. F. THACKRAY, Esq., Parliament st.

DEAR SIR,—As you are doubtless aware, a strong effort is being made to induce the City Council to take advantage of an Act passed at the last session of the Provincial Legislature, empowering municipalities to abolish the tax now levied on stocks of merchandise, but requiring them to substitute therefore what is called a business tax, that is, a tax on the rental value of the premises occupied.

It is greatly to the interest of the grocers of Toronto, and indeed of all classes of tradesmen, that the proposed change be made, and we earnestly invite the co-operation of your Union in pressing this matter upon the attention of the City Council.

It is an indisputable fact that the present system of taxing personal property, such as stocks of merchandise, etc., has utterly failed. Unscrupulous tradesmen do not hesitate to grossly undervalue their stocks to the assessors, and thus gain a decided advantage over their honest competitors. On the other hand, many business men, fearing to injure their credit, allow their stocks to be assessed at far above the real value of their interest in them, and thus saddle themselves with more than their just share of taxation at a time when they can least afford it.

Again, merchants like the rest of the community pay taxes on the land and buildings they occupy, and it is unjust to tax the entire capital invested in their business, when other citizens are taxed only on their incomes.

It is directly to the interest of the city that its merchants keep the largest and best stocks possible, and it is foolish to discourage this by taxation.

For these and many other reasons we advocate the total abolition of all taxes on personal property of every kind. It is evident that this end can only be attained by degrees, but the exemption of stocks is a step in the right direction.

The business tax must be a nominal one, otherwise the smaller tradesmen will experience no relief.

At a committee meeting of the dry goods, and grocery sections of the Board of Trade, it was decided to ask that the business tax be not made heavier than the general rate of city taxation or about 14 or 15 mills on the dollar of rental.

Will you kindly bring this matter before the Grocers' Union and have a resolution passed and sent to the mayor favoring this proposal and oblige,

Yours truly,

J. L. DAWKINS,

Sec. S. Tax Association.

A BRIDEGROOM'S CLAIM.

A letter from Mr. Ernest E. Saunders, salesman with Sinclair & Co., was next read, applying for a prize of fifteen dollars worth of woodenware, offered at the Association pic-nic by Chas. Boeckh & Sons, to the grocer's clerk who should be married first after the date of the pic-nic. This communication was referred to the Pic-Nic committee.

COMMON CAUSE.

The following letter was read and received :

PICKERING, P. O.

MR. ROBERT MILLS, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—Kindly let me know the names of the two houses which the retail grocers of Toronto have determined to deal with, and I am free to say that I believe every grocer in this village will join you. I am, etc.,

Perkins, Ince & Co. wrote to deny that certain statements belittling the importance of the last special meeting had been made by them, though attributed to them in a newspaper report of an alleged interview with them. The letter stated that the request for an interview had been declined. The letter was received.

ACCOUNTS.

The Secretary submitted a statement of expenses for calling meetings from August to November, amounting to $5.62.—Passed.

An item of 50c. for cab-hire for Mr. Clarke Wallace, M.P., was also passed. The reference to this elicited the fact that Mr. Wallace had declined to allow the Association to be at any charge for his expenses in connection with his visit to the city to attend its special meeting.

The pic-nic accounts were reported to be unprepared for submittal, as they were not audited.

NOMINATION OF OFFICERS.

President — Mr. Barron was nominated to the office, upon the motion of Mr. Gibson, seconded by Mr. Johnston.

Vice-President—Mr. Gibson was nominated to the office, on the motion of Mr. Hodgins, seconded by Mr. F. Britton.

Secretary—Mr. Thackray was nominated to the office, on the motion of Mr. Clarke, seconded by Mr. Butcher.

Treasurer—Mr. Hodgins was nominated to the office, on motion of Mr. Williamson, seconded by Mr. Gibson.

Inner Guard—Mr. H. W. McCulloch was nominated by Mr. Thackray.

Directors—Messrs. Donald, Butcher, Mills, Binnie, Westren, Clarke, Williamson were nominated From these four members will be chosen by election at next meeting.

Auditors — Messrs. Jones and Westren were elected auditors for the current year on motion of Mr. Gibson, seconded by Mr. Johnston.

The chairman made an explanatory reference to Mr. Berwick's absence. Mr. Berwick had suddenly accepted a long-standing offer from a New York establishment and would therefore shortly leave the city, remaining long enough only to dispose of his stock.

THE ANTI-COMBINE MOVEMENT.

Mr. Gibson introduced a motion to the effect that the committee appointed to confer with the Guild be asked also to bring in a report of what goods are under the combine, the prices, and regulations to which their sale is subject, and the source of the combine—the Guild or the manufacturers—under which they are put.—Carried.

Mr. Donald submitted the following report of the conference between the representatives of the Association and the Guild:

Your committee beg leave to report that pursuant to an agreement, a joint meeting was held on Friday evening last, in the Council Chamber of the Board of Trade, Mr. A. M. Smith, Vice-president of the Guild in the chair. Every wholesale house was represented, and every member of your committee was present. After some hours' discussion, an agreement was reached on the following basis :—The new terms to be altered from spot cash to secure full discounts, to full discounts allowed if paid in ten days' making the cash discounts and terms to now read—General groceries 3 months or 3 per cent. if paid in 10 days ; sugars, etc., 1 month, or 1 per cent. if paid in 10 days. An assurance to be given that no other goods will be listed, and that if any manufacturer insists on so treating his goods that a sliding scale of prices according to purchases will be established. Your committee would further say, that while these concessions may seem small, and that other grievances undoubtedly exist, they believe that the best possible redress under the circumstances has been obtained. It is confidently expected that the wholesale trade will in future consult more than they have done, heretofore, the interests of the retail branch of the trade, and that no more leading lines will be removed from the arena of honest competition. We also wish to place on record the fact that this settlement is not to be taken as a quit claim of the grocers' complaint against the existence of this combine. It does not preclude honest effort to secure its entire extinction.

On behalf of the Committee,

RICHARD DONALD,

Chairman.

The report when first submitted ended the word "competition," or two sentences from the termination shown above, but on account of the animated discussion which followed these two sentences were appended. The feeling of the meeting was strongly against the adoption of the report in the shorter form of its presentation, as such adoption would seem to commit the Association to a policy of inaction henceforth. On the other hand, some members considered the adoption of the report in no way bound the Association to not go as much farther as it pleased in its crusade against combines. The concession gained was only on the matter of discount and was good only so far as it went. The liberty of the Association to advance further in its movement against the combine would be in no way restricted by the adoption of the report. Those of that view held that the report should be adopted, no matter what the Guild might do. The Association would be absolved from its obligation to keep the treaty if it should turn out that the Guild as a whole would not ratify what its Toronto branch approved. The length of time the Guild required to advise the Association whether the concession as to discounts would be approved by it was again unsatisfactory. The reluctance to adopt the report in its first form was due to a sense that probably the concession made by the wholesalers would not have been made if they felt that further steps would be taken against their combine. This eventually led to the two final sentences being affixed, and in this shape, upon the motion of Mr. Donald, seconded by Mr. Barron, the report was adopted.

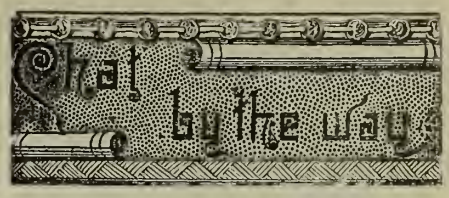
MANUFACTURERS' LIMITED PRICES.

Mr. Donald moved, and Mr. Hodgins seconded the following motion: That the Toronto grocers here assembled wish to protest against those manufacturers who have fixed their prices so as to destroy honest competition, and hereby resolve to persuade our customers to buy only those lines which are sold freely and honestly, without any "limited" price being attached.—Carried.

NOTICE OF MOTION.

Mr. Jones gave notice that he would introduce the following motion at next meeting:

"That while we express our appreciation of the difficulties of the committee in dealing with the Wholesale Guild, we deem the concession too small to rest content with, and that we proceed upon the line of action decided upon at a previous meeting, and that we hold ourselves free to take action on whatever line we choose, to remove all hindrances in the way of free and honest competition."



KEEP TOUCH.

Mr. Verner moved, and Mr. Radcliffe seconded, that the Secretary be requested to keep other associations informed as to the progress made by this body in its efforts to overturn the combine, and to get as closely as possible at the plans of these outside associations to ameliorate the evil, to the end that all might act in accord, with no waste of strength.—Carried.

The Association then adjourned until the annual meeting, to be held on the second Monday in December.

A GOOD RECOMMENDATION.

Messrs. W. N. Moote & Son, dealers in groceries, crockery, hardware, paints, oils, etc., Dunnville, in renewing their subscription say: THE CANADIAN GROCER is a paper we think every merchant should read. One number is often worth more than the cost of a year's subscription.

John S Simpson, is talking of starting a retail general store at Living Springs, six miles from Fergus.

Mr. John Berwick, is offering his business in the Rossin House for sale. He has taken a good position with an American firm.

The Boiler Inspection and Insurance Co., of Canada, have removed to their fine new office in the Canada Life Building, 46 King St., W.

"Delicatesse," as advertised by Messrs. Turner, Rose & Co., Montreal, in another column, is a special branch of hams and bacon packed by the Delicatesse Packing Co., Columbus, O. The fact of these goods being carefully wrapped in gelatine paper, which prevents shrinkage, is sufficient recommendation, but when it is known that the C.P.R. use it entirely on their dining cars, grocers should have no hesitation in giving it a trial.

Mr. W. F. Foster, Richards Landing, who paid a visit to THE GROCER this week drew attention to the position in which he, and many other merchants, situated as he is, stand in regard to the shortening of credits. He has to buy a six months' supply now for he can get no goods through from the wholesale centres from the middle of November until early in May, yet he is compelled to pay for them at once.

Mr. W. L. Temple, of Halifax, has sold out his retail business in teas and coffees to Mr. F. M. Murray, and now devotes his entire attention to the wholesale business. Temple's teas and coffees are well and favorably known throughout the Maratime Provinces. Mr. Temple's sales of teas alone amounted to over 250,000 pounds the past year. He has special blends put up in 3 pound tins, which are made on the premises. He has also a large sale of special blends in lead packets. His customers are the first-class men of the trade.

The Markets

TORONTO, Nov. 13, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The tranquility which has ruled during the past few weeks and which is incidental to the time of year, has been deepened by the condition of the roads. In the country there is great impediment to local traffic in the bad roads. The decline in the current retail demand is felt here in a falling off of orders. The roads also hinder travellers as well as dispirit trade. The market has not been disturbed by any movement that was not perceptible a week ago. The stiffer values of dried fruit are the outcome of circumstances noted in former reports. The greater strength of the canned goods market is similarly a higher degree of a tension that scarcity had begun to cause a month ago. Trade is in about the same state of activity as it was during the second week of last November. Money is scarce.

CANNED GOODS.

Prices are firm, and most lines appear to be in the attitude of balancing for another step forward. This firmness is not correlative to the business doing this week or even this fortnight, but is a direct consequence of a comparatively understocked market. Trade has been but fairly good since last report, canned goods partaking of the general depression. The strength of the market is being constantly tested and proved, by the overtures of jobbers who had not bought during the era of uncertainty. These now try to obtain stock from jobbers who loaded up at that period of comparative cheapness, but they can get nothing for the highest of the prices then paid by retailers. No round lot of tomatoes can be got now under $1.30. An odd case may be bought for $1.20 or $1.25, but there is little stock corresponding to these prices. Peas and corn are unchanged in quotation, but are firmer. All fruits are very strong at last week's quotations. Gallon apples are sought for the British market at an offer of $2.75 here. In salmon the market is unchanged, all stock being in firm hands. One of the largest of the Victoria (B. C.) packers has sold 10,000 cases in London at 22s., an advance of 4s. upon the prices current a month ago. An influence which retards the progress of salmon towards its present firmness was the estimate of the Alaska pack, which is now held to be far below the quantity it was represented to be. The prices ruling now may be looked upon as reasonable, from a contemplation of the extent of the supply.

COFFEE.

The sales made during the week were up to the average, which has not been high this year. Prices here have not shifted, but appear to be less firm in New York. In that market there is a more liberal offering of the better grades of Brazil. The deliveries of Brazil last month were the third largest of any month in the year.

DRIED FRUIT.

Fruits are advancing, and are in good steady demand. The firmness of Valencia raisins is undoubted, the report of scarcity, sent some time ago from the point of production, seeming to be correct. In the opinion of some dealers Valencias will be a cent dearer before very long. At the very lowest now they are 6⅛ to 6½c., and are available at that price because they were bought before the present stiffness set in. To buy now, wholesalers would have to pay 6½c. for stock that could have been got a month ago for 5⅝c. laid down here. The Toronto portion of the shipment unloaded last week at Montreal from the steamer Florence, is now here, so that the market is fairly well stocked. Sultanas have not retreated from the high mark they made so early in their trade-year. There is a good supply of, and a very good demand for, Malaga raisins. Our prices current show the values of each style of package. Currents have advanced ¼c. in the primary market, and are firm here. The trade in them is moderatively active. Provincials are 6 to 6⅛c. in barrels. New cask prunes are looked for at the beginning of next week. They have been delayed, the steamer on which the first shipment was sent having laid a fortnight at Trieste. Prices are expected to be 10 to 10½c. for B, 9½ to 10c. for D, and 9 to 9½c. for U.

Barff's currant report, October 20, says: France is buying very spairingly, trusting to lower prices being practicable later on, but 80,000 tons are already shipped, shipping and preparing for shipment out of a total crop which is not likely to exceed 145,000 tons, and of the 65,000 tons remaining, at least 30,000 tons will be required by markets other than the French, leaving but 35,000 tons available for France, which, with the 12,000 to 13,000 tons actually shipped, shipping and held for immediate shipment to that country, makes barley 50,000 tons for its total supply, against nearly 75,000 tons imported last year. This does not look like French buyers being able to come in at cheap rates. The United states have been buying freely of late, and no doubt consumption in that country will be very large owing to abolition of duty on currants. Generally speaking, the future of the article seems to be well assured. Shipments to Canada to date are 1,075 tons against 1,184 last year, and to the United States 8,107 tons against 6,414.

NUTS.

Almonds are firmer as are also walnuts. Shelled almonds have advanced 3c., being worth now 33 to 35c. There is a slender stock of all descriptions here yet. Until the laying in of supplies for the holiday trade, this market is likely to remain poorly stocked.

RICE AND SPICES.

A steady continuance of very normal conditions makes the market in both rather quiet. There is little demand for rice, there is but a small stock held and prices are high. Spices are going out at much the same rate as any other season when there is no exceptional call for them.

SUGAR.

No revival in the market has been experienced, dullness being even a more marked feature this week than it was last week. Yellows are 5¼ to 6½c. for dark to bright, raw 5 to 5¼c. and granulated is unchanged at 7c. for 15 barrels and over, 7⅛c. for quantities under 15 barrels. A despatch from New York on Monday reported another decline of ⅛c. on granulated, which brings the price in that market down to 6¼c.

Willett & Gray, New York, in their weekly statistical report, say: Raws declined 1-16c. Refined declined ⅛c. Receipts 17,468 tons. Meltings, 12,827 tons. Total stock increased 4,641 tons. Quotations are entirely nominal in the absence of business. The only buyers in New York are the trust refineries, and they are reducing their holdings to a minimum, perhaps to facilitate reorganization. The month of November will come short of last year in consumption of foreign sugars, and our requirements will be much less than was anticipated. Louisiana will supply the demand more largely. The total stock in all the principal countries, at latest uneven dates, is 281,780 tons, against 403,617 tons at same time last year.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is little movement, trade in this class of stock being at as low an ebb as in any grocery line for which there is a present demand. The firm position of the molasses market is unchanged.

TEAS.

The impossibility of getting low lines of Young Hysons and Japans at prices ruling a year ago, operates along with the dulness which is now seasonable, to lower the demand. The present consequently is a very quiet spell in the tea trade. The abundance of low-grade blacks that made something of a substitute for cheap Japans and Hysons is now pretty well out of the hands of wholesalers. There are a very few blacks to be had as low as 16c., and of these and some slightly better grades the market will soon be bare. The inquiry for mediums is still active, but is not met by the prices that are necessary to make trade. Business in Indian Teas continues steady. The demand by the trade is slowly but surely increasing: Advices from London state that the demand has improved for all kinds, and the Teas offered were mostly of a good and useful character. Low and fine Teas continue to be the chief requirements, but medium Pekoes have also shared in the better market. Ceylon Teas show no change since last week.

PETROLEUM.

A steady movement of trade is the only fact to chronicle, prices being unchanged, their firmness, however, being a ruling condition.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Trade is quiet in a retail way. There has been no movement of prices.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The prices of butter show no change in the conditions of supply. There is an abundance of dairy make in tubs, crocks, pails and rolls. There is as usual an execss of inferior stuff, but the gain in quality noted last week is maintained, more good butter coming forward than is usual. Tubs are 14 to 15c. for good, but 17c. is paid for finest. Large rolls are 14 to 15c., as also are pails and crocks. For pound rolls, dealers are giving 19 to 20c., and the demand could take off more of these than are at present supplied. Creamery butter is getting scarce. Rolls are ceasing to be made, and go for 24 to 25c. Tubs are now hard to get, the market having been lighted by the shipments to Montreal of last week. Prices are 21 to 23 for tubs. There is not a particularly strong inquiry for creamery, otherwise the lightness of the stock on this market would have a more uplifting effect on prices.

A car of dairy tub was picked up on the street the other day and sold for export at 11½c. The seller secured a pretty fair lot of butter, most of it being selected.

Cheese is in fair demand at 10½ to 10¾c. for September, 8¾ to 9c. for summer, and 7¾c. for half-skims.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Good solid fruit brings from $3 to $4. Culls or fall apples are $2 to $2.50. Supplies are fairly plentiful here, but is held for good prices, the stock being large now, because of the movement of it before the opening of frosty weather.

BEANS—Are $1.75 per bushel. This price has failed to bring any very large stock upon the market, so that its firmness seems evident. The demand is not yet keen for consumption.

DRIED APPLES—A very meagre supply is available, and what little business is done is at 8c. per lb.

EVAPORATED APPLES—These are slightly more plentiful, but are still very scarce and firm at 13 to 14c.

EGGS—The decline in the supply of fresh has been made up in some degree by the incoming of pickled stock, which is not yet plentiful. Fresh are 21 to 22c., and pickled are 18 to 19c.

GAME—Venison is plentiful and hard to sell, as the weather is not cold enough to favor holding. It is selling in the carcass at 6c. for bucks and 4c. for does. Saddles go freely at 9c. Rabbits are dull at 25c. Partridges are 50c. a brace, and in fairly good supply. Ducks are plentiful at prices all the way from 25 to 75c. per brace.

HAY—There is no change, the supply begood on the street as well as on track. Bales are firm at $9 to $9.50.

HIDES—The market has lost its tone, prices have gone down, and business is exceedingly dull. Cured is down to 6½. Butchers' No. 1 cows are now 6c., but are expected to be ½c. lower before next week.

HONEY—In this commodity trade seems to be almost at a standstill. Good clear is 12 1-2c., medium clear 11c., and low grade clear 7 to 8c. Sections are 14 to 20c. There is a more observable lack of firmness than there has been for sometime.

HOPS—There has been no addition to supplies last week on the market to weaken the position of holders, whose prices for new crop stock are yet 30 to 40c. There is not a strong trade yet at these prices.

OATS—Are firm at 40 to 41c.

ONIONS—Are unchanged and wanted at $2 to $2.25.

POTATOES—The excess of stock upon the market a week has found an outlet in consumption and outside demand. The market is improving as a consequence of this relief, and car loads are 55c. for good, but 50c. for ordinary. Out of store lots are 65c.

POULTRY—Chickens, dressed, are 35 to 40c.; live, are 25 to 30c. per pair, and are very plentiful. Ducks are easy at 50c. per pair. Geese are weak at 6c., and turkeys firm at 11c. per lb.

SKINS—Sheep are firm at 90c.

STRAW—Oat is is fair demand at $6 to $6.50.

TALLOW—Is selling at 2c. for rough and 5½c. for refined.

WOOL—Is dull at 20c.

FISH.

There are no fresh to be had now. All that are on hand are frozen. Although there are very few white fish to be had at present, it will not be long before there will be plenty on the market. A local dealer expects a shipment of about twenty tons in about a month. Finnan Haddie is very scarce at present.

GREEN FRUIT.

The volume of business now done is below what is desirable, but quite up to what it is in the same season of other years. The dulness of trade has its effect upon the quantity of stock carried, which being small involves more frequent ordering and thus keeps prices up. Jamaica oranges are $6.50 to $8.50, and Floridas are $5 to $5.50. Malaga lemons are $5 to $5.50. Messina lemons, now in for the first time, are $6 to $7. Malaga grapes are $5.50 to $7. Sweet potatoes are $4.

CRANBERRIES.

Cape Cod berries are $10 per barrel, Ontario fruit is $7 per barrel, and $1 per basket.

PROVISIONS.

The stock of smoked meat now to be had is of the new curing, which goes out as fast as it can be got ready for trade. There is a good demand also for long clear and the inquiry for barrel pork has already set in for the winter consumption. Hogs are unusually plentiful for the season. There is a premium upon heavy weight hogs for the moment, as the preparation of clear stock for early shipment requires.

BACON—Long clear is firm at 8 to 8½c. backs are 10 to 11., and bellies are 11c. rolls 10c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are firm at $5 to $5.75.

HAMS—Are firm at 12½ to 13c. for smoked.

LARD—Is 9 to 9½c.

MESS PORK—Is $15 to $17.

DRY GOODS.

Trade has felt the dullness that overspread all trade during the past fortnight, and which has been intensified by the nearly impassable condition of the roads during the last week. There has been no abatement of the general firmness, the bulk of the trade running in lines that had no tendency toward weakness.

SALT.

A general active demand in all classes of salt has prevailed throughout the week, showing a very strong demand for Canadian salt. Liverpool is still scarce. The sales transacted by the Toronto Salt Works for the

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

NOV. 13, 1890.

GROCERIES.

Business in groceries has been quiet as far as a general movement is concerned. In most lines, such as sugars, teas, etc., buyers stocked up pretty well of late, and now the excited and feaverish financial position induces caution, and it is indulged in largely. Consequently business this week has been rather light, but the position as far as the run of values goes is unchanged. In dried fruit, for instance, stocks in first hands are practically limited to those held by two firms, and they are holding stiff at 6½c. for prime Valencia raisins. Jobbers also have small stocks of sugar, so that although consumers are supplied ahead the refiners naturally expect some movement to ensue in a wholesale way when the season is more advanced and stocks have had a chance to be broken into.

FRUIT.

There has been little new business doing in dried foreign fruit during the past week. Buyers are cautious, while holders are very independent. Reference was made in our last to the firm position, and this has been fully maintained. In fact, whereas last week there were sellers at 6¼c and under, there are none now. The cargo of the Florence, the last steamer, has been all distributed, and out of the 80,000 boxes that she had, the great bulk of it is in two hands. There were about 20,000 boxes which were distributed, but the remainder is held by two firms, and they entertain a confident view of the situation, which is apparently in their favor, as they control the bulk of the stock in first hands, while the general supply is admitted to be small. Consequently 6½c. is freely asked for prime fruit, and although 6¼c. might be accepted where an old customer was negotiating, the range runs to the outside figure. In other lines there is nothing special. A few Sultanas are on the market in second hands at 16c. while currants are firm at the basis given last week and we hear of business at 5⅞c. for a round lot and quote values firm at 5⅞c. to 6¼c.

In green fruit business has been of a quiet jobbing character. We noted last week, that the quality of the Malaga lemons ex. Escalona, was not too good. Prices on them are easier in consequence at $7 to $9 per case. Jamaica oranges are selling at $5 to $6 and and Floridas $5 to $5,50. There are but few Canadian grapes offering, but Almeria stock is offering to a quiet trade at $4,50 to $6 per keg. California pears are about the same at $4 to $4,50 per box and $3 per case. Cranberries bring from $9 to $10 per brl. and the supply is ample at the moment for the demand. Other lines of fruit are unchanged.

SUGAR, ETC.

There is no general change in the position of this market. Distribution out of jobbers hands is somewhat diminished, so that they are not in the market to any great extent at present, and business rules quiet in consequence as a wholesale movement. It appears though that stocks are not heavy, so that some movement should result shortly. Yellows are selling from 5⅛ to 6c., and granulated 6⅝c.

Syrups rule firm, and remarks re sugar apply to them as far as business is concerned. We quote 3½ to 4¼c.

The molasses market is still unsettled. No more of the American purchases have gone forward, but they are likely to move across the line shortly. Locally there is nothing doing, the feeling being very firm at 37½ to 40c. per gallon.

TEAS.

Since the recent sales the market has been very quiet, as the trade appears to have supplied themselves pretty well. In consequence of an advance of low grade blacks in the English market, agents here have advanced their figures ½d. on such stock. Trading in Japans has been inconsiderable, and the only business we hear of is the sale of a round lot of 400 packages at 16 to 18c.

CANNED GOODS.

This market rules quiet, as buyers stocked up pretty well of late, and are now holding off. Stocks in jobbers hands, however are lighter, and the general feeling is steady. The notable feature is the firmness of tomatoes ; in the first place owing to the small pack, and to the fact that the supplies in jobbers hands are limited, and packers have nothing more to offer. The demand, however, on consumptive account is small owing to the reason above given. Prices are firm at $1.20 to $1.25.

BUTTER.

There is no new feature to the market which rules the same and business is principally confined to a jobbing movement in best discriptions which command full figures. Under grades are neglected and we hear of little doing in them. There is some export enquiry for creamery on the basis of 21c. but fall ends are expressely stipulated for, and holders will not part with them at this. Choice late made creamery 21 to 22c.; choice Townships dairy 19 to 20c.; held, Townships dairy 15 to 16c.; choice Western 14 to 14½.; Medium grades 11 to 12c.

FISH.

The fish market rules quiet, and outside of the ordinary jobbing movement there is little to note. Labrador herring in half-barrels sell at $3 to $3.12½, and No. 1 green cod $5 to $5.50 ; No. 2, $4.25 to $4.75, and Labrador salmon are stiff at $15, $14 and $13 respectively for No. 1, 2 and 3. Supplies generally are light, especially of cod, owing to the light catch.

POTATOES AND ONIONS.

Potatoes continue to arrive in small quantities, while the quality is very disappointing.

RAPIDE PLAT DIVISION.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for the St. Lawrence Canals," will be received at this office, until the arrival of the eastern and western mails on Wednesday, the 3rd day of December next, for the construction of a lift lock, weirs, etc., at Morrisburg, and the deepening and enlargement of the Rapide Plat Canal. The work will be divided into three sections, each about a mile in length.

A map of the locality, together with plans and specifications of the respective works, can be seen on and after Wednesday, the 19th day of November next, at this office, and at the Resident Engineer's Office, Morrisburg, where printed forms of tender can be obtained.

In the case of firms there must be attached to the tender, the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further, an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in Canada for the sum of $6,000, must accompany the tender for Section No. 1, and an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, for the sum of $2,000 for each of the other sections.

The respective accepted cheques must be endorsed over to the Minister of Railways and Canals, and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted. The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

MONTREAL Markets Continued.

Choice picked bags bring from 60 to 70c. at the cars, while inferior lots run down to 50c. The stock arriving from the Maritime provinces is no better, and we know of a case where a car load lot of Prince Edward Island did not turn out half good. Transactions in this stock have occurred from 50 to 60c. In the way of sweet potatoes, they are offering at $3.50 to $4 per brl. We can cite no particular business in onions. Good red stock readily brings $2.25 to $2.50 per barrel, while there is a small stock of Spanish on the market at $3 to $4 per case, and $1 to $1.10 per crate.

APPLES.

Locally business is unimportant, but the export movement continues undiminished, that is except by the lack of space. As far as we can learn most of the stock is going forward on consignment, and reports from Liverpool continue favorable on the whole. Cables on Monday gave a range of 20 to 30s., as follows : Baldwins, 21s. to 24s. 6d.; Kings, 30s.; Greenings, 22s.; Spys, 19s. 6d. to 22s. 6d.; and Russets, 21s. On spot good winter stock is selling at $3.75 to $4.00. Dried and evaporated stock is quiet and unchanged. The former is quoted at 7 to 8½c., and the latter 14 to 15c.

DRESSED HOGS.

The arrivals of dressed hogs have been large of late, and this coupled with unfavorable weather has given the market a decidedly weak tendency. Light averages are quoted at 6¼c. to 6½c., but heavy weights are neglected and can only be moved at reduced prices, 5¾c. to 6c. being the quotation.

EGGS.

The market continues to rule strong, with and upward tendency. Receipts of strictly fresh new laid stock have been light and insufficient for the demand. We quote choice fresh new laid 21 to 22c., held stock, 18 to 20c., and limed eggs, 16½ to 18c.

POULTRY AND GAME.

Poultry is coming in rather freely, but dealers complain of the manner in which it is being packed. Commission men say they could get 10c. per pound easily for good dry picked turkeys, while they can do no better than 7 to 8c. with what is now on the market. This is equally true in regard to geese, ducks and chickens. Perhaps a word to the GROCER'S readers would do no harm in this connection and we append the following:— "Poultry must be shut up where they can't get nothing to eat for twenty four hours before killing until the crop is entirely empty, bleed through the neck close to the head; pick turkeys clean without scalding as soon as dead, with the rump feathers untouched; draw intestines by cutting round the vent a hole not much larger than they are; take nothing else out; hang them up to cool;" and if the poultry are fat they will arrive on the market in a condition that will bring the best prices. Arrivals of game are light, No. 1 partridge selling at 50c., and No. 2 25 to 30c. per brace.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 10.

The markets during the past week show no change of any consequence. In fruit, New London layer raisins are from 10 to 15c. lower. Flour is reported a little easier, but prices are unchanged.

The fish market follows in the same line as flour. The receipts for the week were 15,000 boxes smoked herring ; 230 barrels pickled herring ; 60 quintals pollack, and 75 quintals codfish. There is a feeling here among several fish merchants that a compulsory inspection law for pickled fish should be inaugurated for the whole Dominion. In St. John, Halifax, and other places there are government inspectors, but in several other places, such as St. Stephen, there are no inspectors, hence it is held by some of our dealers that the pickled fish trade is slipping from our hands, as sellers prefer to go where there is no inspection. Another contention made by those who favor sach a law is that it necessitates better package, and thus give the consumer purer and better preserved fish. The matter was brought before the Board of Trade a few days ago, and Mr. John Sealy offered a resolution to the effect that in the opinion of the Board an act of compulsory inspection of pickled fish under competent responsible inspectors is much needed, and that the inspection of packages should be an essential part of any inspection act. The resolution was opposed by W. W. Turnbull, of Messrs. Turnbull & Co., who said inspection should be optional. The resolution was adopted by the Board of Trade. Among the steamer State of Maine's cargo, for Boston, to-day, were 8,000 bushels of potatoes, and 800 barrels of fresh mackerel.

HALIFAX RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Halifax Retail Grocers' Association now numbers a membership of over sixty out of a possible eighty-five or ninety, and the prospects are that the rest will joint within the next few meetings. They have a secretary, Mr. W. C. Bishop, who is a thorough organizer, and who has set out to make a success of the Association. The system inaugurated by him is meeting with the unanimous approval of the members. Jas. A. Gass, President; R. N. McDonald, Vice-President, and John H. Nesbet, Treasurer, are all taking an active part in bringing the Association into a state of harmony and usefulness. Andrew Hubley, W. J. Hopgood and H. V. Nier are the directors in the Association, and it goes without saying that when such men as constitute the officers of this Association can see a possible benefit from an organization enough to warrant them in giving their time and attention to the objects in view, it will not be long before every grocer in the city will become an active member, and Halifax will have one of the best working orders in the Dominion. The circulars issued to the members, and the letters for delinquent debtors are both to the point and meet the approbation of every member. The present members seem satisfied that the organization will be a success, now, even if a few do not choose to become members. THE CANADIAN GROCER will be pleased at any time to receive for publication any communication from the Halifax Association or from individual members that may be of benefit to them or other associations or prospective grocer organizations throughout the Dominion.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce has been received this week in a new form. This well-known weekly has increased its pages from twenty-four to sixty, thus affording better opportunities for advertisers than formerly. It has earned a good reputation as a reliable trade journal, and we are sure under its present good management it will meet with still better success.

DRUM TAPS.

Leaves from the Diary of a Commercial Traveller.

BY WM. H. MAHER.

CHAPTER. X.

Mr. Talcott was evidently very much hurt by the house having dunned him for a bill before it was due, and I did not blame him; all the same, I wanted an order. How was I to get it? I mapped a course in my own mind and "went, in."

"I am very sorry there should be any trouble," said I, "and don't blame you for feeling as you do ; it's bad enough to be dunned after an account is due."

"It was mean," said he.

"The trouble was with the man who sold you the goods," said I; "he did not mention a word about giving you any extra time. I have been keeping the books for the firm, and you are not the first one who has complained in this way. So far as the time was concerned it was all right, and if you will come over and look at my samples you shall have the best pocket-knife there, to make the interest right."

A man can't fight you when you agree with him, and my falling in with his complaints pleased Talcott.

"I don't want any interest," said he, "but I was mad."

"I don't blame you. I would be if I were in your place; but I don't want you to punish a poor devil like me because one of the firm made an error. I shall do the travelling over this road hereafter, and when anything is wrong I will make it right. But you are pretty low in cutlery, aren't you?"

"Oh, I can get along for some time yet."

"I see you handle sad irons. How is your stock of them?"

"Oh, I could handle a few things, but I hate to buy of that house. I like you well enough, but I've sworn that I wouldn't buy another cent's worth from Heman & Co."

"Come," said I, "you are too hard on a house because of a mistake; and it was a mistake, I know. If you should make a blunder, you would think your customer was a little unreasonable to stop trading with you when you were willing to correct the mistake. I am not going to leave till you give me an order, if it's only for one sad iron. I want you to try me; I'm not a bad fellow, and if you help me with an order, I'll help you by giving you some low figures."

He was all over with his sulks, and I saw I was going to win. "Can't you come up to the hotel?" I asked.

"I suppose I can, if I've got to give you an order," said he.

"That's the talk come right along."

On our way up I led him to talk about himself and his business, a subject every merchant delights in, and when we reached the hotel we were on the most friendly terms. I spread out my samples of table and pocket cutlery and spoons, and it was not long until he began to order. As I was closing the cards I gave him a handsome pocket-knife, evidently to his gratification.

"Now how about sad irons?" I asked, when we were through with cutlery.

"What can you sell for?"

"Four cents."

"Great Cæsar! You're high."

"Am I? How much?"

"I bought them for 3 last fall."

Ours were marked to cost 3½. Three cents was pretty low, and I didn't know but that our sads were a better article than he had bought. "I ought to have 4 cents," said I, "but I will split the difference and call it 3½."

"No you won't," said he; three cents is all I paid, and I can buy them for that to-day."

"Where?"

"In Seneca Falls."

"Bless me," said I, relieved, "so you ought. Look at the difference in freight. Mine are thirty-five miles away, and the others are three hundred. My sads at 3½ are the cheapest."

"Well, send me two dozen, assorted sizes."

I walked back to the store with him, and there we picked up several items, such as basting spoons, pressed basins, etc., his order amounting to about $75 in all. I felt well pleased, and when I went away we seemed like old friends.

From their I went to Lewart & Brothers. The eldest was the buyer and manager, and I found him at leisure. He appeared to be very glad to see me, and invited me to a seat. We talked on outside topics awhile, then came to business. I continuing to feel around to find about how cheap he bought. For his opportunities he was a very close buyer, and well posted. I had not been in a store since I left home but that I had picked up some valuable information there, and I think I learned more from Lewart than from all the others. I began to name some low prices on several things, and at last came out plainly.

"Mr. Lewart, I want a little order from you to day, and I want to show you my samples. Can you get away for half an hour?"

"I'll look at your samples," said he, "but I don't believe I will buy anything to-day."

That was not promising, but I was not disheartened.

I showed him everything I had, expatiated on its merits, quoted prices, and showed him how much profit he could make on it. He examined everything closely; looked in the knives to see how the back was finished: felt of the edge, and tried the spring. With table cutlery he examined the handles, bent the blades, and twisted the tines of the forks. But everything was handed back and no order given.

"You make a large profit on cutlery, don't you?" he asked.

"Cutlery pays a little better than nails."

"Yes; I guess it does; there's a knife I like; what do you ask for it?"

It cost us $9.05; ordinarily I would have asked $11.50 for it; but I wanted to start him and I said $11.

"You make a good profit on that," said he; "there's only three figures in your cost mark so the knife can't have cost $10, and you want $11 for it. I suppose Jobbers were satisfied with a profit of 10 per cent."

I dared not stop or appear to hesitate, but, quick as a flash, I turned to a knife that cost $10.62, and of course had four letters in the mark.

"You would get yourself in trouble if you were to figure out our cost in that way," said I. "Here is a knife I would sell for $9."

He was puzzeled and didn't carry the matter any further. But he didn't order; something must be done; I would try flattery.

"I'll say one thing for you, Mr. Lewart," said I, "you have the best taste in cutlery of any man I've met so far. I was looking at your show-case, and I thought to myself you did not often buy a knife that wouldn't sell."

COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER

The Best Grocers Make a Point of Keeping it always in Stock.

"I have pretty good luck in that respect," said he not ill-pleased,

"If we were buying for ourselves we would not carry one third the samples we do, but you would be surprised to see the styles some people buy; there's a knife a dealer just bought, but I am afraid he made a mistake." I had heard Lewart say it was an ugly knife.

"Did Talcott give you an order?"

"Yes, a very nice order; but I'm afraid his line of knives wouldn't suit you."

I ran this kind of talk as long it was wise and then I came out for an order. I took out my book and pencil.

"Well, Mr. Lewart, you are not going back on me, are you? You need some notions, and I can sell them right, and you will do me a great favor to give me a little order."

He said nothing for some minutes, and then he pointed to a knife. "Send me a dozen of that," said he.

Like all other men, the trouble was to start him; now he went on well enough. He bought a line of cutlery, sorted up on shelf hardware and notions, giving me an order amounting to about $100, and at fair profits right through.

After getting through with him I went to see the Kingston boys, for there were two of them. I spent an hour there, and I never exerted myself to please more than I did in that hour. I considered it time well expended in getting into the good graces of the boys, and after-experience told me I was right. I told them stories, showed them tricks, gave them small pen-knives, and bought candy for them. When I was going I left a message for their father, but I was confident the praises of the boys would be the best message.

The boys told me of a jeweler who kept cutlery, so I called on him. He was a garrulous, gossiping fellow, and I fell in with his ways and sold him a small bill of fine knives; the bill was a long one, but the items were small, one-sixth of a dozen being the amount of each kind ordered. But I made him pay well; his bill amounted to $26, and $8 was clear profit.

After my experience with the Bremont druggist I was in doubts about trying any others; but I still had time to spare, and I saw one here with white lead exposed for sale at his door. I concluded to try him.

He was a brisk fellow to whom I handed my card, but before he could say, "I don't sell hardware," as he was going to, I said: "You keep white lead I see, sir. I have a sample of white lead with me that you will oblige me if you will examine."

He said nothing to the contrary, and I showed him my lead.

"Where is it made?"

"In New York."

"What do you ask for it?"

"Twelve cents."

"I don't believe I want any."

"Isn't it all right?"

"I guess so; but I have all I want."

"Do you buy much at a time?"

"No; I don't carry a large stock."

"Well, I'll tell you what I would like to do, sir; I will send you a case of my lead on ninety days; guarantee it to you in every way, and back you up in anything you say about it. I want to introduce it here, and from what I see of you would rather you would take hold of it than any one else, though, if I must, I can put it in the hardware stores. I like the way you talk lead, and I am sure I can give you something that will do your trade good."

There was flattery and a threat in this. The flattery was swallowed, of course, and, as he had the paint trade already, he didn't want to see the hardware men taking hold of it. Whether I could have sold them or not was another question, but I threw out the hint for what it was worth.

"Well," said he, "I don't know but your terms are fair, and if your lead is good I had as soon handle it as any one's. You may send me a 200-pound case."

I booked the order, and took renewed courage about white lead.

The remainder of my stay in town was spent with Mr. Talcott, whom I found to be a very entertaining man. Laid away in his desk was a little sketch which I imagine he read to every drummer, as he read it to me, and I have no doubt they all pronounced his reading excellent, and the sketch uncommonly good, just as I did.

It was called

A LESSON IN BOOK-KEEPING.

"You was de book-writer, eh?" said a thin-faced man as he reached the desk where I was writing.

"The what?"

"Vas you de gashier in?"

"Yes sir, I'm the cashier."

"How mooch I owes you on de books?"

"What is your name, sir?"

"Phwat! I bought goods here all dis long dime and you ask dat?"

"I don't remember ever seeing you before, sir."

"Well, well, dat's to pay all de dime, delling beoples what my name was. Sprechen sie Deutsch?"

"No, sir, I can't speak German."

"No? Dat's how it goes! I shall buy my hartsvare from some Yarman house biemby, but I gan dalk Inklish if you gan't speak Yarman. But how mooch I owe you?"

"But you forgot to tell me your name."

"Dat's a lie Mr. Gashier; I forgot noddings. I told you my name was Phillip."

"Phillip? Phillip what?"

"Phillip Vat! Not by a sight! Put maybe you dinks you know my name petther as I do?"

"Oh, no; I only asked you what was your other name beside Phillip?"

"Dat ish all right; my oder name was Wee."

I looked through the index for "Wee" among the W's, but it wasn't there.

"When did you get the goods from us, Mr. Wee?" I asked.

"Mishter what? Mishter Wee! Oh, ho, dat was goot. Mishter Wee! I shall laugh myself busting. Go to school, young man, und find somedings oud. I nefer yet seen a Yankee what knowed nodings.

"Didn't you say your name was Phillip Wee?" I asked.

"I said Phillip Wee Disher, you fool. 'Phillip Wee,' oh, ho; dot was too goot."

I looked for Phiilip V. Disher and found the account. After a minute's footing, I said:

"There is a balance due us of $58.16."

"How de tuyful you makes out dot?"

I explained the state of the account, as it appeared on the books, but instead of appeasing him he seemed to be growing more excited under the explanation. Finally he broke out:

"Dis ish one big sheat. Fifty-eight tollars! Great Shiminy! Dose pooks are a shwindle. Put you gan't fool me like dose. Now vwhere did I pay?"

I showed him the account, and he went through it in a most laborious manner. When he had finished reading it he said:

"Vere ish dat fifty-eight tollars and sixteen cents?"

I showed it to him on the paper when I had made the substraction.

"I ton't vant no baper; I vant de books. Vere ish dot money on de books?"

"It is not on the books; it is the difference between the debit and credit sides of the account."

"I vants de books; I don't vant nodings else."

I was at a loss what to say, when a thought struck me.

"Haven't you the amount on your book?" I asked.

"Maype so."

He drew out a greasy little memorandum book and proceeded to read.

"Januar elevens; bill hartsvare dirty dollars and seventy-five cents; ti'd you got dat to my grebit?"

"I've got you charged with it."

"Shargel You ton't know how to make up books. Write him down on a piece of baper."

"All right; go on."

"Marsh second; bill hartsvare, fifty-two tollars forty-one cents; got him."

"Yes, sir."

"Und fifseen April I send down swenty-five tollar; got him?"

"Yes, sir."

"Den I gives you fifty tollars now und shquare de' gount."

"It leaves $58,16 due us, Mr. Disher."

"Und you won't shquare him up for fifty dollars?"

"I couldn't. The balance due is $58.16."

"Den de hartsvare can go to de tuyful; I shall puy from a Yarman de next dime. I don't like dis Yankee keeping books; it is too much cut-your-throat for me. Dere is fifty-eight tollars; you can have de sixteen cents if you are so ploody mean ash to say so."

I let the sixteen cents go; gave him a receipt in full, and when he was sober the next day, sold him some "hartsvare."

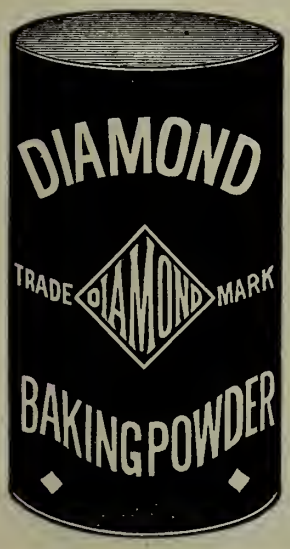
AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

A case of considerable importance to the Liquor trade and general public, was decided on Monday by Judge Desnoyers.

Some time ago one Z. Poupart was charged with infringements of the trade mark of Messrs. James Hennessy & Co, by sellling liquor bearing the names of J. Henri Saie & Co., and J Hurtubise & Cie., on labels strongly resembling those of Hennessy & Co.

Judgment was reserved and has just been delivered, Poupart being convicted and sentenced to a fine of $150 and costs, the judge intimating that it was only on account of a possibility of the law not being clear to the defendant that the full penalty (which we understand to be two years imprisonment) was not enforced.



During the trial it came out that every compounder of liquor in Canada is bound to put his name and address, and that he is the manufacturer, on the bottle

The importance of this to the unskilled purchaser is manifest, as should the law be enforced, he would be able to distinguish between genuine imported spirit and stuff often far from wholesome, put up here.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

HOW TO SHIP EGGS TO GREAT BRITAIN.

In view of attempts being made on the part of Canadian exporters of eggs, to open up trade with Great Britain, the following brief summary prepared by the London, England, correspondent of THE CANADIAN GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER, Toronto and Montreal, will be of great value:—

LONDON, Nov. 8, 1890.

SOURCES OF SUPPLY.

The trade here is eagerly competed for by the neighboring continental countries, such as France, Holland, and Denmark, every facility in point of quick despatch and cheap freightage being given by the respective railways and steamship companies.

In many cases the eggs get into consumption within a week after leaving sources of supply, thus ensuring the produce arriving in such a condition as to secure the full advantages of the market.

In order to reduce lay-down cost, every attention has been paid to economy in collection and cheapness of packing. Experience has shewn suppliers the most profitable modes of working the business, combined with the reduction to the lowest cost of outlay in placing on this market, in a good merchantable condition.

MARKET.

As may be imagined, in a country like our own, which gives but little attention to dairy culture, there is an extensive scope for foreign supplies. Supplies all find a ready demand, prices varying according to the condition of the trade. Competition serves to keep prices at a moderate level; the fact, also, that goods have all to be sold directly on arrival, also tends to lower rates.

Supplies so far have not overtaken demand, but circumstances point to the fact that any large influx of eggs would have to be introduced with the greatest caution, and by those firms possessing a knowledge of the handling of the trade.

PRICES.

These vary according to the season of the year, but may roughly be said to vary on best selected qualities from 9s. to 10s.; medium 7s. 6d. to 8s. 6d. Small parcels of Canadian, as a novelty, have found buyers as high as 10s. to 10s. 6d., but with regula. supplies prices would soon find their own level.

OBSTACLES TO BUSINESS.

These are chiefly due to the necessarily longer transit, as compared with Continental supplies. Whatever facilities of cheap and rapid freight transit are provided by those steamship lines anxious to pioneer the trade, the undoubted extra cost, which must of necessity be incurred before regular channels of out-let are found and the trade shapes itself into a groove, would necessitate that the eggs should be laid down here in an equally fresh condition as the best French qualities, to insure them obtaining that average level of price which we estimate would pay Canadian exporters. The question, after all, turns on the blunt point, whether quality for quality, and price for price, Canadian eggs can shew equal or better value as compared with those supplies which have so far served this market so well.

A further difficulty would be found in the inexperience the Canadian shippers possess as to the various details of selection and packing demanded by the trade here.

These can only be acquired by experience which will have to be bought, and it will not be until shippers have been able to grasp full details of the various requirements of our trade, that full market value can be obtained for their shipments.

PACKING.

That the requirements of this market are not understood is shewn by the one or two sample shipments, either arriving in ingeniously constructed boxes, compartmented, or in ordinary sized barrels, both packing being of far too expensive a character to compete with the more economical and at the same time more effective method adopted for bringing eggs to this market from the Continent—which is as follows:—Each case contains twelve long hundred (120)—1440 eggs, backed between thin layers of straw. These cases are farther divided into halves by a double cross-wise partition which allows of the cases being cut into halve on arrival—this method being found to ensure safer transit. Each half of the case contains 720 eggs, packed in layers of about 180.

GENERAL PROSPECTS.

Provided shipments of supplies are controlled, and shippers generally avoid shewing too great an anxiety to cultivate business, we have every reason to believe a trade can be effectually worked up on a sound basis. It is certain, however, that before establishing their business here, Canadian shippers will have to pay their footing and proceed very cautiously in their competition against those other suppliers who possess a highly organized system for fighting fresh comers.

THE LATIN AMERICAN MARKETS.

Although the retail dealers of our country are rarely exporters, yet there is not one of them who can isolate himself from the effects of any cause that checks exportation. He feels it, not as directly but as certainly, as does the producer whose capital or labor is engaged in contributing to a surplus for outside consumption. It is important to him that the great vascular system of distribution should be clogged at no point, that all the overflow of the national production should have the freest access to the seat of corresponding consumption. The more it is hindered the less of it will be displaced by products that supplement our own. That is to say, the more will importation be checked. With an over-supply of native products, with a shrunken demand for outside products, and with a feeble impulse to money circulation, the smallest rivulets or reservoirs in the great basin of trade, must equally with the main stream begin to dwindle. So closely is the material well being of every subject bound up in the sufficiency of outside and inside motives to exportation, that genuine enlightened interest in national trade is almost identical with the sentiment of patriotism. It concerns as many people, and comprehends nearly the same practical considerations. Everybody is interested in wishing the raw material and manufactured wares of the country to have the freest vent to the markets of the world.

The present is a time of considerable trade re-adjustment on the part of this country. Many of the cords which bound departments of our production to a correlative outside consumption are now hanging loose, and we want to attach them as soon as possible. We are now after markets, and it is a reproach to our commercial spirit that we had to feel the spur of necessity before we showed the enterprise to go forth for those markets. The search for those markets will be stimulated and directed by the Reports on Trade that are being issued from the statistical branch of the Canadian Department of Agriculture. No. 2 of that commercial series, prepared by Mr. Geo. Johnson, statistician, contains a body of very useful information. In it are collected the data from which may be proven the feasibility or otherwise of this or that particular American market for this or that particular Canadian product. By "American" we mean within the mainland or on the islands of North, Central and South America. To give an idea of the consuming capacity of the Latin American states and dependencies, which are twenty-two in number, (counting the Central American group as one.) Mr. Johnston exhibits in a table the value of each of 113 classes of exports from the United States to each of those countries for the year 1889. The total value of the United States products bought by these nations was $78,981,271. Agricultural products alone make up $38,153,225 of that amount. This shows a tremendous absorptive power in the southern and central parts of the western hemispheres for commodities this country raises. We should put in all our spare products, for which there is no better demand elsewhere, to help to slake that consumption. Other valuable matter in the pamphlet, is an account of the tariffs of South America, a table of weights and measures and of currency, a parallel presentation of the old and revised United States tariff, and a page of practical hints. There is no better means of diffusing education on a matter that now needs all the thought the public can give it than through the medium of such pamphlets. Every member of the trade should obtain a copy from the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

THE SALMON SITUATION.

Symptoms of an approaching scarcity in the stock of canned salmon have for some time been accumulating, and are now succeeded by the unmistakable evidence of the fact they foreshadowed. The dearth stands forth, clearly outlined, divested of every cobweb of doubt or speculation. The market at the coast is swept of the finest brands. Another link in the chain of advances which has been lengthening since early in October, was added a few days ago, when the minimum price was brought to $1.40. There is nothing on this market to be had under that figure. Horseshoe is $1.50 to $1.55. The situation warrants the belief that these quotations will soon be repealed by another advance. The firmness of the market is not endangered by the possibility of any addition to the stock, and the demand may be depended on, as salmon can yet be retailed at 15c. a can. At that price there is no acceptable substitute or competitor to weaken the demand.

The present state of the market is the outgrowth of conditions that had a determining influence from the outset, but whose presence was wrapped in the mists that often overhang the yearly entrance into commerce of staple articles. Trade opened as if the ruling condition were abundance, and prices consequently at the beginning of the trade year were easy; whereas, if the facts could have then been got at, a more conservative course would have been justified. But the amount of the British Columbia pack was overestimated in the calculations that prevailed. Also, the extent of the Alaska pack was exaggerated, as it now turns out to be nearly one-half below what it was represented to be. The error as to the Alaska pack had an indirect, but all the same a depreciative, bearing upon domestic prices, as it inflated the estimate of the total export from this continent to the English market. This eased the prices all round and brought the English buyers upon the scene. Their operations took off a large portion of the stock at low figures, and eventually corrected the misleading ideas as to the extent of the pack. As the demand on export account began to stiffen prices, packers gave attention to it, in some cases to the neglect of jobbers' orders booked for future delivery, perhaps believing, in the general mistrust of the domestic market, that the latter would not much care. On the part of jobbers, again, who had not so ordered, there was a good deal of indifference, and the opportunity to get cheap stock was allowed to slip away. The effect of all this is now here in the present scarcity.

The discovery of the true state of the market was postponed, and the era of low prices prolonged, by the bearish position of packers who were trying to get a foothold on this market with some new brands. The low prices at which they offered their stock took the buoyancy out of standard brands even after the limitations of the supply had begun to be apparent. The depressing influence of the low offers of new brands has now been shaken off, and has given place to a stimulus that is likewise traceable to the new brands. Several jobbers, yielding to the persuasion of low prices, contracted for pretty large orders of these untried goods. The orders were filled, and were received after the recovery of the market, when the standard brands had advanced and evinced assured firmness. But some of the new brands turned out unsatisfactory. The stock was inferior, and the packing bad. The consequence was, that in many instances the stock was rejected as soon as it was seen. The effect of this strengthened the tone of prices, as the new goods, pushed out of the current of trade, vacated a position they had essayed to take, and from which by so essaying they had displaced an equal quantity of standard stock. This, of course, strengthened the situation of those who held old brands, and added another to the collection of circumstances that have been firming the market. The hole left by the rejection of the new brands could not be filled now with stock of reputed brands, under $1 per case above the price ruling when the orders were given.

WORMS IN YEAST CAKES.

One of our travelling agents writes from Halifax: "I was to-day shown by a retailer a box of yeast cakes just bought and opened which was fairly alive with worms. He tried to locate the responsibility for this condition of the cakes but could not. It is a serious matter for a retail grocer to put out stock of this kind and have it returned." THE GROCER made inquiries from the manufacturer in question and learned that the insect or worm is a small insect that breeds in the corn meal which is used in the manufacture of yeast, and it is not uncommon in some years to have difficulty of this kind with a dry hop yeast. All such goods are replaced by manufacturers so that the retail dealers do not meet with any loss.

Master the whole business and the way to fortune has been mapped out.

THE DOMINION COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Dominion Commercial Travellers' rooms on St. James' street, Montreal, were to the uncommercial visitor very like the smoking end of a Pullman car extended and magnified. It was Saturday night, the nominations for elective officers were on the tapis, and expectation was on tiptoe, steeped in tobacco smoke. Ald. J. D. Rolland in the large room talked with Mr. Sumner, Captain Forbes was in confab with Mr. W. Galbraith, Mr. T. Gormley whispered with a few friends, and everywhere in the groups that loitered or sat about the room was manifest unusual interest. Mr. Fred. Hughes, the coming President, was keenly observant of everything. There were all shades of opinion, all kinds of travellers, all varieties of temperament in that room ; and also men who have roved from Vancouver to Gaspe, and have talked to the most remote country merchants with eloquence irresistible. What their customers think of them and their goods—what they think of their customers and their credit matters much ; what others think they care little, and they discussed their business with great independence of thought, one or two going so far as to doubt whether they were at all under obligation to be more than polite to railway magnates because of favors received. The Windsor Hotel came in for some rough handling, and the great annual dinner of the travellers was denounced as a chestnut by one adventurous spirit, who moved that they have a ball instead. The temperance element in the Association was alluded to with a majestically patronizing air by one young man, as a mere handful, while another traveller, in a very aggressive red necktie and crispy curls, remarked that only $138 had been paid for guests' wine at one of the travellers' dinners; and there were three or four in the room who could dispose of that much themselves. The smoke rolled on, and was uncomfortably thick, when Mr. G. Piche took the chair and surveyed the scene. His dark eyes twinkled merrily, but occasionally looked puzzled, espeeially when Capt. Forbes once rose to a point of order. The President seemed to be at sea about this point of order. In fact as legislators the commercial travellers appear to have fallen off since, keen-eyed and quick-witted, the late Andrew Robertson sat as their president at the birth of the association. Instead of deciding the point at once the President silenced the temperance advocate until the attacking speaker had his say. Previous to all this, however, the election of officers went on. Mr. Fred. Hughes of Caverhill, Hughes & Co. was declared elected president by acclamation, and made a neat speech. Col. O. P. Paton was nominated vice-president, and this, it was considered, would have been by acclamation. The name of Mr. C. E. A. Patterson was, however, put in opposition. Messrs. Fred. Berks and John Shearer were nominated for the treasurer's position. Five directors are required, and there were nominated Messrs. Alf. Elliott, Walter Grose, Max. Murdock, John Taylor, F. P. Benjamin, W. H. Olive, E. Cook, Duncan Black, J. H. Morin, Rollo C. Simpson, Geo. Forbes. The annual meeting was fixed for Dec. 13th. Messrs. S. Boxer and J. C. McDougall were appointed a committee to check the ballots, and these are to be in the hands of the secretary not later than five o'clock on Friday the 12th. It was decided to have the annual dinner on the 23rd of December. Not more than seven or eight voted for a ball and these were loudest against the abolition of wine from the table. It was when Mr. Forbes stood up and pleaded for the abolition of wines and liquors from the annual dinner table that the debate became warmer. Mr. Beauchamp seconded the motion. Mr Forbes held that if the wines were abolished there would be a larger gathering of respectable temperance people at the dinner than there had ever been. A member twisted this into meaning that there would be greater respectability at the dinner than ever before; and here it was that the president did not allow Mr. Forbes to explain his point of order and show the difference between his words and those of his accuser.

"I shall have to make this motion a 'total abstinence dinner,' said the President.

There were four hands raised for the motion—those of the mover and seconder, and Messrs. Galbraith and Armstrong—all the others, to the number of nearly a hundred, voted against the attempt to make the dinner a really 'prohibition' dinner.

The meeting soon afterwards adjourned to Dec. 13.

ADVANCE IN KINGSFORD'S STARCH.

T. Kingsford & Son have issued a new price list advancing their figures all round on Kingsford's Oswego starch, owing to the large advance in the price of corn. The new selling prices are to be found in our Prices Current.

DRESDEN, Nov. 8, 1890.

EDITOR CANADIAN GROCER, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—We read with interest the proceedings of the meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association. We certainly feel as the majority of retail grocers do towards the wholesale trade. The wholesale grocers are gradually working a combine on all staple goods kept by retailers, and we are of the opinion that if all first-class retailers will stick to, say three first-class wholesalers, there would be a marked change amongst the others.

Let the different associations throughout the Dominion send circulars to the best retail trade and get their sentiments on the matter.

Yours truly,

WADDELL BRO'S.

DISCOMFORTS OF WEALTH.

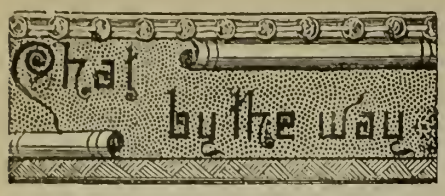
"It's not because we like it that we hustle so in our business," said a leading Boston merchant. "You have no idea of the great responsibility of such a business as this. To be sure, it brings wealth ; but what is wealth, after all ? Money in itself is of very little account. I wouldn't give five cents a bushel for it ; it don't bring happiness ; I am happy, but it is not because I have money, but in spite of it. Happiness is a matter of disposition, and money can neither bring a good disposition nor happiness. My happiest days were when I had a small family and a salary just big enough to support that family. Then I was free from this care, this heavy responsibility, and I didn't feel as though I had to hustle every day I lived in order to keep in the procession. Why not ease up now that I am in comfortable circumstances? Ah, how little you fellows know of the shoals and quicksands of trade ! If you let up in this race in the least you are surely lost. It is but a single step from a thriving successful business to the bankruptcy court. You can't let up ; if you are in it, you have got to pull for all you are worth, and even then failure will frequently overtake you."—Boston Traveller.

No enterprising business man can afford to be without the trade journal devoted to his special line of trade. He is a poor retailer who cannot make every issue of THE CANADIAN GROCER worth many times its cost. For less than 4 cents a week he will receive 24 to 32 pages weekly of valuable trade information, including reliable market reports, price lists, articles descriptive of the goods he buys or sells, hints in relation to the methods of store service, commercial facts, statistics, position and movement of leading articles of merchandise, suggestions, comments and criticism on trade topics, besides trade news, gossip, and the discussion of economical and other questions bearing a close relation to business life ; the advertisements of leading jobbers in and manufacturers of articles handled by the grocery trade.

Make friends with the trade journals and then make time to read them. It pays to keep posted.

To Grocers !

There are three articles which the consuming public have decided are the best of their kind in the market, and it will pay every grocer to keep them in stock. They are



The "Horseshoe" brand of canned fruits and vegetables.
Packed by Bowlby Bros. & Co., of Waterford, Ont.

"Cairns" Home-made marmalade, jams and jellies.
Packed by Alexander Cairns, Paisley, Scotland.

The "Trident" brand of canned salmon.
Packed by Ed. Wadhams, Ladner's Landing, B.C.

Every package of the above brands guaranteed as to quality and weight.

BLAIKLOCK BROS, Agents,
17 Common St., MONTREAL.

Mr. T. O. Leonard, of Kingsford & Son's., Oswego, went as far east as Ottawa during the present monthly visit to Canada.

The Retail Grocers' Association of Simcoe at a meeting held on the evening of the 12th inst. unanimously passed resolutions protesting against the recent action of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, expressing their intention of using their influence in working against all objectionable combinations, and asking the grocers of every town and city in the province to co-operate with them in the matter.

The assignment of Richard Tew & Co. the week before last was a very temporary embarrassment, as the firm had recovered its balance and was ready for business again by the time our last issue was out. The dead lock was caused by the intertwining of some outside affairs, affairs that time would have settled prosperously, but the shock of which just now falling against the firm's internal commercial concerns brought about the brief standstill noted two weeks ago. The standstill has now given place to the old healthy activity.

Emil Poliwka & Co., whose distributing centre for the past twenty-four years has been Montreal, have transferred their head office to this city, the heavy end of their trade being further west than the former seat of their business. Stock is still kept in Montreal, and the firm's eastern patrons are assured that all goods will be furnished to them as promptly as ever, and with no increase for freight. Sapolio, Magic Liquid, and the other specialties they supply to the trade are in full stock here, and all orders will receive careful attention.

A condition which is requisite to the development of an English market for our eggs is the adoption by our shippers of a cheap and secure method of packing. One is described by our London correspondent in this issue, namely, the Continental method. The sort of case required by that particular mode of handling eggs is now being provided by a company of Toronto manufacturers. The Esplanade Box Co., a new firm which has gone into the manufacture of packing cases of all descriptions, is making a specialty of the class of egg-cases used by European shippers, and described by our London man. The economy and portability of these cases, as well as their conformity to the style established in England, make them indispensable, in the face at all events of any other sort of package now used, to a profitable attempt to win a share of the English demand. Orders or inquiries will receive the attention of the manufacturers, if addressed to The Esplanade Box Co., 141 to 152 Esplanade St. W., Toronto.

DISCOUNTS CHANGED.

The various Guilds, of which the Dominion Wholesale Guild is composed, have accepted the compromised discounts agreed upon at the conference between the Toronto Guild and Retail Grocers' Association.

HAMILTON RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

On the evening of the 11th inst. the Hamilton Retail Grocers' Association held its monthly meeting. Mr. C. H. Peebles, President, was in the chair. The executive committee reported that forty-nine paid-up members were on the roll, that the agreement to desist from giving Christmas presents had been signed by nearly every member of the trade, that the Secretary had been commissioned to go to Toronto to look into the system—for the purpose of adopting it—used by the Secretary of the Toronto Association. The report was adopted. Secretary Fitzpatrick reported the result of his visit to Toronto, and described the system followed for the listing of delinquent debtors. A communication from the Secretary of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, and an enclosed copy of the anti-combine resolutions passed by the latter body on Oct. 13th were read. It was resolved to hold a special meeting on the 25th inst. to consider the subject which this communication introduced, and a committee was appointed to draft a circular setting forth the specific object of the meeting, to the end that the coming meeting should include the greatest number of the local trade. A committee was appointed to canvass for new members. The Coal Dealers' Association offered its delinquent list to the Grocers' Association.

PACKAGES CONTAINING STARCH.

There has been some difference of opinion among collectors of customs as to the interpretation of the tariff on starch. The following memo has been sent out by the Commissioner: Referring to item No. 71, of the tariff of 1890, I have to instruct you that the packages "to be included in the weight for duty" are those only that are the first receptacle in which the starch is packed for sale, whatever the material may be of which they are composed, and does not include the outside box or other package unless the starch is in bulk. As for example:—Starch in 1 lb. paper packages. The contents and packages will weigh, generally, a fraction over one pound each, and the weight must be included in weight for duty.

The same packages are frequently put in boxes, containing ten, twenty or more, of the said paper packages, and such boxes are held for home consumption. In this case the said box, not being "for exportation only," must be charged duty under the package clause at 20 p. c. ad valorem.

Again starch is frequently packed in boxes and barrels, in bulk, and so held for sale for home consumption or for export, but not being "packages for exportation only," such box or barrel must be included in the weight for duty and no ad valorem duty collected thereon.

In other cases starch is put up in small paper or wooden cartons or boxes and, after being sold or ordered for export, are repacked in large boxes, barrels or other outside packages for exportation only, and such outside packages are free of duty.

The Brantford retail grocers have formed themselves into an association for the purpose of devising means of resisting the new terms of the Wholesale Guild.

TORONTO, Nov. 20, 1890.

GROCERIES.

Trade is unquestionably quiet. Very bad roads and soft weather have a considerable share in the cause of this. Part of the effect is also traceable to the change in the terms of credit that went into effect at the beginning of this month. Previous notice of this alteration having been sent out last month, there was an increased volume of buying done then, to escape the new restrictions that would be in force after the close of October. That buying was anticipatory, and a bull has naturally followed it, as the stocking-up done then now suffices for the trade that would have been currently supplied if there had been no disturbance. The disturbance was the cause of a great part of the retail trade being supplied in advance. The leading line just now is dried fruit, of which there was not a full supply at the end of October, and of which the price at that time had not settled down to the lowest point looked for, otherwise there would have been an amount of buying done before the close of October that would have left little business for these days. Money is not flowing in more liberally than it was last week.

CANNED GOODS.

The demand has declined by degrees, the past few weeks, and is now rather listless. There are numerous inquiries for large lots, to lay in stock against the season of revived demand, but the firmness of holders on the one hand, and on the other the persistence of the proposing buyers to bring prices a little nearer to the point they were at some time ago, has so far prevented much business being done. Those in whose hands the stock is feel very well satisfied to hold on to it, so that the present dulness makes nobody uneasy. In some lines still higher prices are looked for. All fruits are very firm, but unmoved from last week's position. Corn and peas are both strong and uuchanged. Tomatoes have made another advance, having moved 10c. from the lowest point of last week's quotation. They sell now at $1.30 to $1.35, and are very firm. Salmon is equally firm, and has made an advance of 5c. from the lowest quotation given last week, the lowest price now being $1.40. The Horseshoe brand is $1.50 to $1.55, itself having gone up 10c. from the lowest of last week. The firmness of all salmon is liable to develop still higher quotations before the full strength of the demand begins to be felt, for the stock is quite limited.

COFFEE.

Prices are as firm as ever in the face of a reduced trade. The stiffness of this year is expected to be mitigated in the trade of next, if present crop prospects are realized. The Hayti yield is expected to be very large, and the Rio News reports favorably for nearly all coffee-producing countries.

DRIED FRUIT.

In this department there was almost a monopoly of the activity observable this week in the wholesale grocery market. The amount of the buying was not absolutely large, but it was so comparatively. Currants have gone up in the primary market to 21s.

MARKETS—Continued.

for barrels, f.o.b., which is equal to 6¾c. laid down here. They are quoted now at 6¼ to 6⅜c. by wholesalers here, whose stock was bought when prices were low. Currants may be looked for to get dearer in a very short time, as the wholesale trade will be unlikely to continue selling so much below what is now the first cost. Valencia raisins have also stiffened. There are very few now available to any one at 6¼c., though a round lot went at that figure on Monday. Valencias now cost 6½c. to the importer here. The demand for all Malaga raisins is running very evenly, and at its present rate of movement may be expected to take off all the stock before Christmas. The prices of Malagas are unchanged from the quotations of a week ago. In this stock there has been some culling. There are new case prunes now on the market. Sphink U are 9 to 9½c., and B are 10c., and D 9½c. Round lots have changed hands at 8½c. Figs are selling fairly well at 5½ to 6c. for natural in bags, $1.25 to $1.35 for Malaga mats, and Elemes at 13½ to 14½c. in 10 and 20 lb. boxes, and 17 to 20c. for 20 to 60 lb. boxes.

NUTS.

Dulness is yet in the ascendant, the demand for Christmas trade not having kept up with that in dried fruits for the same trade. There are only a few new in yet. Valencia shelled are up a cent, going at 34 to 36c. Jordan shelled are down in the lowest quotation to 45c.

RICE AND SPICES.

The quiet that has been a feature for some time in the rice trade remains unbroken. Prices are likewise unchanged. The expectation of a shrunken yield in Japan on account of the great floods early in the growing season turns out to have been an error in prescience if statements attributed to Japanese papers correctly represent the fact. A full yield, according to these, is now promised, and will be realized if fair weather continues. Spices are in the old routine condition.

SUGAR.

Until Saturday last, it was not known to the wholesale grocers of this city that they were selling granulated sugar on a scale of prices that had been recalled the Saturday before. Prices had been reduced ⅛c., but the local wholesalers had continued to sell from the 8th to 15th at the old and dearer figure. Their travellers found that Montreal, London and Hamilton houses were underselling them, and writing home for explanations were assured that no reduction had taken place, that answer having been formally reported and repeated to individual inquiries by the Secretary of the Toronto Guild. He had made the mistake of reporting no change, instead of the fact of the decline, of which the secretary of the Guild in Montreal had notified the secretaries of all the local Guilds on the 8th inst. Trade has been dull, little granulated being in demand. In yellow sugars there was more selling in response to the demand for cooking purposes. The business in granulated here was no doubt made lighter than it would otherwise have been, by the error above mentioned. The lowest quotation for yellow is 5¼c. The weakening of the New York market has continued until a point that makes exportation profitable has been reached. About 5,000 barrels have been shipped from the country at 6c. net.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Both are steady at the quotations entered a week ago, and are in moderate demand. The stiffness of molasses is unabated.

TEAS.

The tea trade is gathering strength again, and a fairly good week's business is to be reported. In the lower grades of black there is a very good demand operating, and the stock is getting small. Also, in medium Young Hysons and Japans there is more doing. But the trade in fine teas has not improved, the call for these being insufficient to make trade even fairly good. Indian teas show a steady business, and there has been quite a run upon the cheaper grades which are scarce. In London although the market continues to be well supplied with Indian tea prices generally remain very firm, and in some instances a further advance has been established, but a large business has been transacted, especially in the better class Pekoe Souchongs and Pekoes from 10d. upwards, these grades show exceptionally good value. The selection has been sufficiently varied to meet the tastes of buyers, and their confidence in present prices was shown by the active competition, and the prompt sales of most of the supplies offered. The lower qualities, notwithstanding the comparatively high rates, sold readily at advanced prices, especially those with a clean infusion, and of fair quality. For the medium and finer descriptions the market is steady at quite former rates, with an enquiry for those between 1s. 2d. and 1s. 6d. Moderate supplies of Ceylon continue to be offered at auction. There was a fair demand throughout the sales, especially for the finer breaks of broken leaf, many of which were of good quality, and realized full prices. For whole leaf teas prices were steady, and all desirable parcels at from 9d. to 10d. were readily taken. A few unattractive lots, however, realized from 7½ to 8½d. but there was not much competition for these, as they are relatively dear compared with Indian and China teas. The quantity coming forward during the next few weeks appears likely to be small, and while this is the case there is no probability of lower prices, especially as the demand is still considerable.

PETROLEUM.

Trade is very good, the long nights having made a decided improvement in the consumption of refined. The stiffness of crude continues to maintain prices, but has not made any addition to them.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Trade is fairly good and would have been better but for the influence of bad weather. Prices are unchanged in everything but sal soda, which has advanced to $1 and $1.25 on account of winter freights.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The market is unaltered in essential features, in fact in nearly all respects. The supply continues to be good as to quantity, and about the same as ever as to quality. The low grade stock does not interest buyers any more than it has done since it became abundant, and prices for it are consequently low and uncertain, as the limit of the range, from 9 to 13c. plainly shows medium tub is plentiful at 13 to 15c., as are crocks, pails, and large rolls, though for the three latter 16c. is paid when the quality warrants. Good dairy tub brings 16c., at which it is firm, and upon which an advance of 1c. is sometimes made. Creamery tub is yet scarce, and brings 22c., at which it is firm. Creamery roll is also firm at 24 to 25c. It is now very scarce, owing to the closing of many creameries.

Cheese is firm. September stock is 10½c.,

MARKETS—Continued.

Summer stock is 9½c., and half-skims are 7 1-2c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Winter stock is very firm. Good Spies and Bourbons are worth $4 to $4.50. Soft stock quotes at $3 to $3.50.

BEANS—There is a fair trade in beans towards the close of navigation on the upper lakes. They are $1.65 to $1.80.

DRIED APPLES—A few carloads were bought last week for the North-West, but at good prices, so that the lightening of the market by these purchases and the stiffness of the price paid make the market here now firmer than ever at 7½ to 8½c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Are still in demand and still very scarce. The market is as firm as ever at 13 to 14c.

EGGS—There is a scarcity that is almost unprecedented at this time of year. Limed are in very low stock as well as are fresh. Fresh eggs are 22 to 23c. and firm. Pickled are 18 to 19c.

GAME—Venison is almost unsaleable, stock being abundant, the weather soft and consumers tiring of venison. Carcases of bucks sell at 4c. when they sell at all, and of does at 3c., with equally few chances offering. Saddles are nominal at 7 to 8c., and haunches at 8c. Rabbits are weak at 25c. Partridges are in better demand at 45 to 60c., and ducks also at 40 to 70c.

HAY—Baled is quiet at $9 to $9.50.

HIDES—The weakening referred to last week was followed by a very sharp decline, which leaves No. 1 green cows' at 5c., No. 2 at 4c., and No. 3 at 3c. Cured are in no demand, but may be quoted nominally at 6c.

HONEY—There is no change. Good clear is 12½c., medium clear 11c., and low grade clear 7 to 8c. Sections are 14 to 20c.

HOPS—Are very firm, and the demand is now beginning to strengthen the situation still more. New are 30 to 40c., and yearlings are 20 to 25c.

OATS—Are 42 to 43c., firm and scarce.

ONIONS—Are still in request at $2 to $2.25, and are tending to the latter price almost exclusively.

POTATOES—The amendment in the condition of the market which we pointed to last week has been steady since then. Carloads are 50 to 55c., with few sales at the lower quotation. Out of store lots are 65 to 70c.

POULTRY—Dressed chickens per pair, are 35 to 40c., and ducks are 50 to 60c.; geese are 6c. per pound, and turkeys 9 to 11c. The market is over-stocked with chickens and geese, but turkeys are in only fair supply.

SKINS—Sheep are firm and wanted at 95c.

STRAW—Oat is in liberal supply at $6 to $6.50.

TALLOW—Is unchanged at 2c. for rough, and 5½c. for refined.

WOOL—Is dull at 20c.

FISH.

There is nothing of any importance to note in fish at present. It is too warm for a good trade being transacted in frozen fish, and the only call is for dried smoked stock. The stock of Finnan-haddie is now recruited. Consequently the prices have eased. We quote the prices for the week as follows:—Frozen fish, trout 7c., white fish 7 1-2c., British Columbia salmon 15c., lake herring $2.50, pickrel 5 to 6c., pike 4 1-2c. Dried fish—Labrador herring $6 to $6.50, shore herring $5 to $6. cod per quintal $5 to $6, cod, cases, $5 to $5.50, boneless fish 4 1-2 to 5 1-2c, boneless cod 6 1-2 to 8c. Smoked fish: Finnan-haddie 7 1-2c., bloaters $1 to $1.50 per box, smoked herring 16c. Sea fish: Haddock 8c, cod 9c, spring salmon 20 to 30c, flounders 8c, halibut 15 to 20c. Pickled and salt fish: salmon trout per half-bbls. $4.50, white fish $3.25, lake herring split $3.

GREEN FRUIT.

The features of the market that have been noteworthy since early last month are persistent. There is still a low demand, under the influence of which stock is kept low and prices higher than they would otherwise be. Jamaica oranges have gone up in New York, the cost of them in that city is $7.50 per barrel. They sell here at $9, and are very firm. Floridas, of which the supply to this market is yet slender, are $5 per case. Malaga lemons, now plentiful, are $4.50 to $5. Messina lemons of ordinary quality, are $6 to $6.50, while the finest Messinas are $8 per case. Malaga grapes are in fairly good demand at $5.50 to $7, according to the weight of package. Sweet potatoes are dull at $4.

CRANBERRIES.

There is an active demand for cranberries, and prices are steady. Good Cape Cod fruit is $7 to $9 per barrel. Ontario cases are $3, and baskets $1.

PROVISIONS.

A slight decline from the activity which has been the paramount condition of the market during the past several weeks is now observable. The closing of the upper lake navigation has shut off the demand for the winter supply of the lumber regions of Parry Sound district and timber regions on the north shore of Lake Huron. Smoked stock is fairly plentiful, owing to the operations of the packers. Arrivals of hogs have been unusually numerous for so early in the season, but the wet weather and bad roads gave a check to the supply, which has had a firm effect upon prices.

BACON—Long clear is 8 to 8½c., backs are 10 to 11c., and bellies are 11c., rolls 10c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are $5 to $5.50 for heavy hogs, and $5.50 to $5.75 for selected weights.

HAMS—Are firm at 12½ to 13c. for smoked.

LARD—Is 9 to 9½c.

MESS PORK—Is $15 to $17.

SALT.

The bad roads and rough weather of late have affected the sale of salt for the week. Since the close of lake navigation there has been a decline in the demand for barrel pork, the northern lumber shanties being now supplied. This has reduced the consumption of salt. The following are the sales transacted by the Toronto salt works for the week: 2 cars bbls. at $1.40; 1 car dairy at $1.25; 1 car sacks at 70c; smaller quantities are selling at $1.55 to $1.60 for bbls., 85 to 90c for sacks, and 55 to 60c. for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

The movement of orders is yet slow, the want of money and the wretched state of the

GROCERIES.

Trade in this branch of business has not been characterized by any special feature during the week just past. The generally steady feeling has been maintained while there has been a quiet jobbing movement in some lines. In dried fruit and sugar supplies in first hands are firmly held, in fact so much so that buyers are holding off a bit, but it is unlikely that this will secure them any concession. At any rate we cannot find that any holders have been urging sales. In domestic product there are no special features, and the general feeling is quiet. The recent monetary disturbances elsewhere have had some effect, but it cannot be said that they have actually interfered with the course of our trade.

FRUIT.

There is little to note regarding the general position of this market, the movement being unimportant and mainly confined to a jobbing movement in some lines of green fruit. In dried fruit as we noted last week, holders are not urging sales to any extent while buyers cannot be called anxious as yet. That the position is a firm one though none can deny, especially on raisins, and now advices regarding currants, quote subtantial advances at Patras. With regard to the former, however, 6½c. is now the general idea of holders, and as stocks in first hands are restricted to two firms, and cannot be much over 50,000 boxes so that expectations of 6½c. raisins during the holidays are quite possible. Business therefore is unimportant; in fact we cannot cite any business of a purely wholesale nature as having occured during the week. Currants also as we have said are equally strong and with stocks light holders are firm. Present prices run from 5⅞ to 6¼c., but an advance on these is quite probable. Late advices from Patras state that sales are now being made at 21s. f.o.b., on which basis 6 1-2 would have to be made here to allow any margin on the turnover.

In green fruit there has been the usual jobbing movement with no specially important business. In oranges the bulk of the supply consists of Floridas, which sell at $4 to $4.50, while all the old stock of Jamaicas has been worked off at $6 per barrel. A carload or so is expected this week and it is held for the above mentioned figure. Malaga stocks are becoming well reduced, but have an easy tendency at $5 to $5.50 per box. Lemons are easy and business is done at a considerable decline at $3.25 to $3.50 per box and $6.50 to $8 per case. Other lines are unchanged on the whole. Cranberries are in good supply and unchanged at $9 to $10 per barrel, and Almeria grapes $4.50 to $6 per keg.

SUGAR, SYRUPS, AND MOLASSES.

Monetary stringency has been having its effect on the New York sugar market, but ocal refiners stoutly affirm that the position here is not affected by it, and prices show no change. For the last few days of the week some enquiry was experienced from Ontario. some orders being quite urgent, which would go to show that our previous remarks re stocks were not unfounded. Granulated is quoted at 6 1-2c., and yellows from 5⅛ to 6c.

Syrups rule unchanged with nothing of importance to note. But dealers anticipate some accession to the demand before the expiration of the present month. Prices rule firm at 3 1-2 to 4¼c.

In molasses the uncertainty about those Boston purchases is still agitating the trade. There is little or no demand at the moment, but the market continues firm at 37 1-2 to 38c.

TEAS.

Teas rule very quiet, but the position both in Japans and blacks is essentially steady. Agents representing Japan firms here, have been ordered not to favor sales as the season is over in Japan, and there is nothing of consequence offered for shipment. Stocks generally are admitted to be small, as several consignments intended for this market were placed across the line instead. Blacks continue quiet and strong at the advance we noted last week.

RICE.

The rice market is dull with a small movement for this season of the year. Prices rule unchanged : Common $2.70; Japan $4.10 to $4.25 and Patna $5.50.

APPLES.

There has been no business to note in apples since the transactions noted last week, comprising some round lots of 1000 odd barrels. The export movement however continues, but dealers complain that they have great difficulty in securing cars to have their stock brought forward in the rush of all kinds of produce now going on. Prices here rule firm at $3.75 to $4.00 for car lots, and nothing could be moved under this price. Late cables cite a somewhat easier feeling at Liverpool on Russets, Baldwins, Greenings and Spys, one on Monday giving quotations as follows : Russets, Baldwins, Greenings, 21s.; Spys 18s. 6d to 20s. and Kings 30s.

HOPS.

There has been little doing in this market since our last report, in fact we have no business at all to note beyond the purchase of some lots in the country by brewers on the basis of 32c. Here prices are held at 35 to 40c., but the best figure that has been made so far for a good lot of stock has been 37½c.

ASHES.

There is no alteration to the firm position of this market and with receipts light, as there are no likelihood of any. No. 1 pots are quoted firm at $5, and No. 2 $4.35 to $4.40.

POULTRY.

The feature of the poultry market this week will be the trial shipment to the other side of a lot of 250 live turkeys. This is a new idea, and the promoters claim that prospects are good for a profitable trade. There is an over supply of geese on this market, and sales were made to-day of choice stock at 6 to 6½c. per lb. Turkeys are not so plentiful, and all choice offerings are quickly taken at 9c. per lb. A lot of poor chickens sold recently at 5c., but anything good is worth 6 1-2c. Ducks are a light supply and bring 8 to 8 1-2c.

GAME.

The market is fairly active, especially for partridge, all offerings being readily taken on arrival at 50 to 60c. for No. 1, with No. 2 25 to 30c. Some venison is offering, and we note sales at 8 to 9c. for saddles and 5 to 6c. for the carcass.

DRESSED HOGS.

There is no change to note in this product since our last. The weather has continued unfavorable while the supply is liberal, in excess of the demand in fact. The tone, therefore, is easy, and what movement there is is on the basis of $5.75 to $6 per cwt.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market rules quiet and there has been no important change during the week. Business was generally unimportant and prices unchanged as follows. Canadian short cut, per brl $17.50 to $18; mess pork, western, per brl $16.50 to $17; short cut, western, per brl $17.00 to $17.50; hams, city cured, per lb 10 to 11c.; hams, canvassed, per lb 10 1-2 to 11½c.; lard, western pails, per lb 9 to 9¼c.; lard, Canadian, in pails 8¼ to 8 1-2c.; lard, C. O. P., 10 1-2c.; bacon, per pound, 9 to 10c.; lard, com., refined, per lb, 8 to 8½c.

EGGS.

The egg market remains quite strong and the brisk demand for strictly fresh stock continues. It is very hard to get and any offering readily command 24c. and are taken freely at such figures. Fresh caudled are quoted at 22 to 23c. held, 18 to 20c. and limed 17¼ to 19c.

BUTTER.

But little has transpired in the market since our last. The movement is principally towards supplying local wants, and buyers want only the later and better description of stock for which it is true they are willing to pay long figures. For instance we know of a sale of a good lot of townships dairy to a local grocer at 20c., which is an outside figure. In a wholesale way there is nothing to note, the only business noted being the purchase of some creameries for Liverpool account for 21c. They were shipped as the finest, but it seems doubtful, as we know that No. 1 creamery is pretty firmly held for 22c. In Western dairy business generally has been unimportant, but on Saturday we noted a fairly good sale on the basis of 14 to 14½c. On the whole the market is steady and it seems as if creamery was in a pretty strong position for some time. Prime is perhaps worth 22c., while for anything that is really good 21c. is a safe figure as there is a chance of an outlet at that figure. Advices from England quote the market steady. Choice late made creamery, 21 to 22c.; choice Townships dairy, 19 to 20c.; held, Townships dairy, 15 to 16c.; western rolls, 15 to 17c.; choice western, 14 to 14½c.; medium grades, 11 to 12.

CHEESE.

The position of this market is unchanged and the week opens on what may be called a quiet and steady market and it may be expected to rule quiet now for some time to come. At present there is some movement but it is not due to new orders received in the regular way, but rather to an anxiety to get forward stock on the last boats on orders in bond for some time. There has been also considerable filling of short sales recently and it is the common report that the operator in question turned over a nice penny on them, which is quite likely, present prices considered. Values rule about the same on the whole and 9¾ appears to be the prevailing idea for finest, but we know of stock here that is held for a fraction more. Some 1000 boxes were sold at the wharf on Monday at 9⅛ to 9¼c. very fair prices considering the fact that they were late October's. Nothing new comes over the cable privately, but we understand from mail advices that sales of September have been made at Liverpool for February delivery at 51s. on which basis stock would have to be bought at 9½c. here.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

Flour continues unchanged ruling steady under a fair demand. The stock in store shows a decrease of 1,584 bbls. compared with a week ago, and 24,230 bbls. compared with a year ago. Patent winter, $5.25 to $5.50; Patent spring, 5.80 to $5.90; Straight roller, $4.75 to $4.85 ; Extra, $4.50 to $4.60 ; Superfine, $4 to $4.20 ; Fine, $3.25 to $3.50; City strong bakers' $5.50 to $5.60. ; Strong bakers' $5.50 to $5.60.

There is no change in flour or grain on spot, and prices are unchanged as a general thing. In wheat nothing has been doing, but No. 2 hard Manitoba has been offered at $1.08, with no business resulting. Peas have an easy feeling, while oats move at 42 to 43c. for Upper and Lower Canada. The stocks in store compared with those of a week ago show an increase of 8,649 bushels of wheat, and a decrease of 1,461 bushels of corn, 2,762 bushels of peas, 36,065 bushels of oats, 39,024 bushels of barley, and 1,910 bushels of rye. Compared with the same date last year there is a decrease of 139,271 bushels of wheat, 40,840 bushels of corn, 16,601 bushels of barley, and an increase of 7,253 bushels of peas, 30,608 bushels of oats. We quote : No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.08 to $1.10.; peas, 73 to 74c. per 66 lbs., in store; 74 to 75c. afloat; L. C. oats, 40 to 41c.; U. C. oats, 42 to 44c.; corn, 70 to 72c., duty paid; 62½c. in bond; feed barley, 50 to 52c.; good malting do., 65 to 70c.; rye, 65c.

ST. JOHN, N.B., MARKETS.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 19, 1890.

As the season draws near for the close of navigation for the up-river towns, there is a good deal of activity among the merchants in getting off their goods by boat.

FLOUR AND MEAL.

Flour is easier, with medium patents from 5 to 10c. off. Canadian high grade family and Manitoba spring patents show a decline of 10c., on the other hand, oatmeal and corn are firmer. Rolled oatmeal 5 to 10c. higher, and cornmeal (kiln dried) 5c. higher. Pot barley is marked down 10c. We quote :— Medium patent $5.20 to $5.25 ; Canadian High Grade Family, $5.40 to $5.50 ; Manitoba Spring Patents, $6.40 to $6.50 ; Oatmeal, standard, $5 to $5.10 ; Roller Oatmeal, $5.10 to $5.15 ; Pot Barley $4 to $4.25 ; Cornmeal (kiln-dried) $3.20 to $3.30 ; do granulated, $3.60 to $3.75.

FISH—The receipts for the week were 22,800 boxes smoked herring, 154 bbls. pickled herring, 200 qtls. codfish, 150 qtls pollack, besides a lot of fresh cod, lake and haddock. Pollock is stiffer, owing to a better demand in the Portland and Boston markets. Yarmoth from which we draw large supplies, is now holding off. Prices, however, have not materially advanced, and this is accounted for by the fact that some of the merchants who laid in a stock when prices were down are now working the fish off. The demand is reported good, when stocks get a little lighter a sharp advance moy be looked for. The quotations are : Codfish, per quintal, large, dry, $4.75 to $4.90; do. Tolquol, $4.40 to $4.50; do. medium, $4.15 to $4.25; Pollock, $1.75 to $1.85; Haddock, $1.75 $2.00; Herring, Bay, per bbl. split, $3 to $3.25; do. per half-bbl. $1.50 to $1.60; do. Shelburne No. 1 $4.75 to $5; do. No. 2 $3.25 to $3.50; Canso, $6 to $6.50; Labrador, $4.50 to $5. Smoked Herring—Grand Manan, sc'd, per box, 11 to 13c. Tucktails, lengthwise, 10 to 11c.; Shad, per hf.-bbl. $6.50 to $7.

FRUITS—Apples still continue high and for some choice winter lots as high as $4 to $4.25 were asked ex schooner. OATS, ETC.

Oats, P. E. Island, 48 to 50c.; oats, Canadian, 49 to 50c.; beans, prime, $1.75 to $1.85; hops, 20 to 22c.

The wholesale grocers of Montreal are doing an enormous trade in dried fruits, and business in other lines is also brisk.

A meeting of the Montreal retail grocers was held on the 13th to consider the combine question, and it was decided to write to the Toronto and other associations throughout the country requesting their advice and co-operation.

The St. John, N.B., grocery men held another meeting during the week, but the attendance was so small that it was not thought advisable to organize permanently. However, those who have the matter in hand will probably not let the matter drop.

DRUM TAPS.

Leaves from the Diary of a Commercial Traveller.

BY WM. H. MAHER.

CHAPTER XI.

The next town was Lindley, and reached by 5 o'clock that evening.

The hardware stores were not difficult to find ; on one side of the street was a collection of agricultural machines, plows, harrows, seed-sowers, etc., and almost directly opposite was a similar array on the other side of the square. I hesitated when I reached the door ; it was a large house, there was no doubt about that, and I had begun to learn that we had our limits. But I concluded they could only say "no" and I plunged in.

Much to my gratification they were busy ; I had an opportunity to look around, to study faces, and to approach them more leisurely. There was nothing about me to show my business and they gave me the "good day" they would have given any customer ; not the frigid nod held in reserve for poor drummers. At last one was through with his sale, and we moved toward each other.

"Anything I can do for you, sir?" said he to me.

"Yes, sir ; you can give me a little order for hardware, and make me happy." I gave him my card, and smiled my sweetest smile.

His manner changed at once.

"Heman & Co.," said he, reading the card ; "we have never done anything in your place."

He said this as if our "place" was altogether too small to hold a man like him. He evidently was no small potatoes, and it was clearly my duty to flatter him if I was to get an order, so I answered :

"I supposed from what I heard of your house that you bought mostly in New York, but thought there might be some odds and ends you were needing, and if there were, I would make prices satisfactory—"

"Nothing that we need just now," said he, interrupting me.

"If there was," said I, going right on with my speech, "I will duplicate any New York bill you may have ; of course, I could not do this on staples, but I can and will on shelf goods."

"We are all full now."

"How has trade been this spring?"

"Very fair."

"Have you been East?"

"Not this spring."

"Do you buy mostly in New York?"

"Altogether."

"Has any one from our house ever called on you before?"

"I believe not."

"Well, sir, I don't want to take up your time, or bore you now, because I expect to go through this country about once in sixty days, and I am in hopes we will do something together. I know that you buy goods at rock bottom, and a house with your standing ought to ; but there will be many items that I can offer you bargains in, and make it an object of you to buy of me."

"All right," said he, as if dismissing me ; "come in whenever you come around."

Now all this was time wasted. If I went away my call would have been no good to me, and I did not care to have it so. I saw I must do something to get him interested, and I made up my mind I would quote him some prices that would rouse him. We were standing near some nail-rod. The day before I left home I heard Heman order some of a Boston house for 5⅛ cents per pound; we had to pay half a cent freight, so that it cost us 5⅝ laid down in the store. New York jobbers quoted at 6, Pittsburgh at 6¼; we ordinarily asked 7.

A break had been made, and I prepared to widen it. "Isn't there anything else?" I asked.

"Yes. You may send me 100 lbs. nail-rod."

I entered that.

"Whose pressed-ware do you sell?"

"The L. & G. goods," I answered.

"Can you do better than 60 off?"

"I will make you an extra of 2½."

All right; send me one dozen dish-pans No. 2."

He gave me quite an order for pressed-ware, then for some cheap files, currycombs, and knives, making a bill of about $75, and I made a profit of 10 per cent. on it, which was very good for the occasion. I parted from him with thanks on my lips, and satisfied that he and I would do more business in the future. Then I went across the street, but found everybody gone to supper except an old man, who refused to be pumped about prices. I concluded I would go to my supper.

Everything about the hotel was suspicious, from the landlord down to the lowest servant, and the dining-room was not a very inviting-looking place. I ate a very light supper and then hurried up to the hardware store. The gentleman who met me was a very pleasant-looking fellow, and I was sure I was going to take an order at once, but I was mistaken; he was ready to do everything but buy goods. Every price I mentioned was all right, he said, but he didn't want anything; I began to find his good humor very exasperating. I saw there was no use in trying any longer, so I turned to the grocery stores. "We don't do anything in hardware," was the remark that met me right along, until I struck the German quarter; the grocers here kept a few groceries, a little cutlery, and a plate or two of cakes.

Mr. Meilink's was the first place where I struck cutlery. I gave him my card; he read it in a very leisurely way, and then said:

"I don't sold no hartvare."

"You keep a few knives, I see."

"O, yes, I sold a few guttlery now and den."

"Don't you need a few styles to sort up with? You seem to have mostly high-priced goods; don't you want some 25-cent knives?"

"I don't know; maype so."

"My samples are down here at the hotel; can't you get away for fifteen minutes?"

"No; I gan't lock up de store."

"Then I will bring the samples here."

I saw about what kinds he would naturally want to buy, and went to the hotel for my roll of table knives and three or four cards of pocket knives. Although we had got along very well so far, the selling was not so speedily done. He would listen patiently to everything I had to say, look at the knife when I asked him to look at it, but that was all; he made no sign toward ordering. After I had been through the samples, I waited to see what he would say, but he didn't seem to think it was incumbent on him to say anything; it was clearly my duty to put on a little pressure.

"Well, Mr. Meilink," said I, "we have been through the samples; now let us see what stock you have." I went behind the counter and we cast our eyes on his stock.

"You need knives that will retail at from 60 to 75 cents," said I, "and table knives to sell from 75 cents to $1.50 a set, don't you?"

"Maype so."

"All right; now here are the cheap pocket knives; suppose I send you a box each of these," touching about a dozen samples.

"How mooch in de box?"

"Half a dozen."

"So! Yes, you might send dem along."

I entered the order, then picked out a line of table knives, which he told me to send. Then I sold him a few spoons, jewsharps, tobacco boxes; making a bill of about $40 and big profits.

The next place I went was half grocery store and half an egg-packing establishment. The head of the concern was a very peculiar old fellow, but we were on the best of terms in five minutes. He was trying to read a letter just received from his New York agents, and the writing seemed to bother him.

"Look here," said he to me, "can you read this d—n thing?"

I modestly remarked that I could read most anything.

"Then see what the devil you can make of this."

The letter was written in a very careless business hand, but was plain enough to the average book-keeper. I read it for him. One word in the letter he did not understand.

"'Sanguine,' what in h—l is sanguine?"

ST. LAWRENCE CANALS.

RAPIDE PLAT DIVISION.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for the St. Lawrence Canals," will be received at this office, until the arrival of the eastern and western mails on Wednesday, the 3rd day of December next, for the construction of a lift lock, weirs, etc., at Morrisburg, and the deepening and enlargement of the Rapide Plat Canal. The work will be divided into three sections, each about a mile in length.

A map of the locality, together with plans and specifications of the respective works, can be seen on and after Wednesday, the 19th day of November next, at this office, and at the Resident Engineer's Office, Morrisburg, where printed forms of tender can be obtained.

In the case of firms there must be attached to the tender, the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further, an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in Canada for the sum of $6,000, must accompany the tender for Section No. 1, and an accepted cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, for the sum of $2,000 for each of the other sections.

The respective accepted cheques must be endorsed over to the Minister of Railways and Canals, and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted. The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
A. P. BRADLEY,
Secretary.

McLAREN'S

Is Honest Goods and just the Thing on Which to Make or Extend a Business.

COOK'S FRIEND
BAKING POWDER.

The Best Grocers Make a Point of Keeping it always in Stock.

I had to laugh.

"D—n him, I'll quit him," said he; "he writes so no white man can read it, and then he has to fill his cursed old letter with Latin or French, so no one can understand it without a schoolmaster is handy."

I explained to him what the word sanguine meant.

"Well, you're a good fellow," said he, dropping the New York man and taking my case up; "where did you learn so much?"

"In the only honest place there is in the world, a hardware store."

"Ha, ha! Frank come here and see this cuss who claims to be an honest hardware man."

Frank, his son, came out of the back room, and we shook hands. I liked the father and son, and it was not long before we were chatting like old friends. The old man wanted to have me write a letter to the agent for them, and of course I sat down and did it. Then I showed Frank some points in book-keeping, and by that time the old gentlemen said I was "not such a d—n bad fellow, after all."

But it was time that I should be selling them something. The father was as uneasy as a boy on a hornet's nest. He was sure they did not want anything, did they, Frank? And when Frank said he didn't know, then the father began questioning me, and all the time running from the show-case back to the desk where we were, and then back to the shelves again.

"If I buy anything you must sell me cheap," said he.

"I'll do it," said I.

"Have you got a knife like this?" holding up one from the show case.

"Yes, sir, the very same knife."

"What do you ask for it? Now sell it low, mind, I pay for what I buy, and I won't buy of you if you aren't way down."

I named the regular price. "How is that, Frank? Is that low enough? You can sell lower, can't you? What do you say, Frank?"

Come to find out, none of his goods were marked, and he didn't know what they cost; though he asked enough to leave no doubt as to the profit he was making.

After a deal of talk of this sort we came to business, and he gave me a nice order for table and pocket cutlery; an order of about $60, with about $12 of it clear profit. Then I gave him a knife, much to his delight and he was determined to stand treat on it. When I went away from him, he said. "Now send those goods along right, just as we ordered; no shenanigan mind; or if you do play any tricks on us, I'll break your back the next time I see you."

I assured him there would be no tricks and we bade each other good night.

At the hotel office I left orders to be called for the early train to Casey the next morning, and then I went to my room. The boy that showed the way was a villainous-looking fellow, and my fears were not lessened to find that my door would not even latch, much less lock.

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE.

A Delicious and Nourishing Beverage.

For purifying the blood and invigorating the system. In the herbs of the field and forest are found properties that antidote nearly all the diseases to which humanity is liable. It has been ascertained that German Dandelion Root, when taken in proper quantities, acts directly upon the liver, producing healthy action, and through it making the whole system strong and vigorous. We have taken advantage of this property in the Dandelion, and have prepared a Breakfast Beverage of great excellence, incorporating in it a very high grade of fine Coffee and a proportion of this valuable herb.

The price is low enough to be within the means of all to take advantage of its rare qualities.

We offer it to the public confidently believing that it will be found satisfactory to all who give it a fair trial. Prepared only by

THE CANADIAN GROCER PRICES CURRENT.

TORONTO, Nov. 20, 1890.

This list is corrected every Thursday. The prices are solicited for publication, and are for such qualities and quantities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit.

Goods in large lots and for prompt pay are generally obtainable at lower prices.

All quotations in this department are under the direct control of the Editor, and are not paid for or doctored by any manufacturing or jobbing house unless given under their name; the right being reserved to exclude such firms as do not furnish reliable information.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

SUBSCRIPTION BAIT.

A trader who has been in business but a few weeks, and who is therefore unacquainted with the policy to which this paper holds for maintaining and enlarging its circulation, writes by way of preface to subscribing, to ask what premium we give with THE GROCER. Our answer is, to him and to all whom it may concern, that we give no extraneous inducement to any one to become a reader of this paper. THE GROCER embodies, in every issue, ideas that we consider essential to its usefulness, and it is on its intrinsic usefulness we have relied—so far without disappointment—for it to float. A paper which has to hitch itself to some other paper in order to get a circulation, becomes merely the tail to a kite. The buoyancy, all that makes it possible for the kite, aided by the breeze, to withstand gravitation, is in the body of the vessel, the tail being a mere rudder. So it is in the case of a paper, which for subscription purposes becomes the appendage of another paper, it merely guides the course of a buoyant body which presents a wide surface to the winds of circulation ; it presents no surface to the winds of circulation itself. When a trade paper is reduced to the necessity of so allying itself it does so. So long as it can choose, it usually keeps out of such connection. The fact of its tethering itself to another paper of assured popularity, is an admission that in itself there is not the energy necessary for an independent circulation. To suppose that subscribers take the combination because of the paper which is under the wing of the other, is to suppose that it is the tail which wags the dog.

We practise what we preach. We do not believe in Christmas presents as a trade making device. The Christmas presents must be ultimately at the expense of the recipients, and so must the premiums given along with weak papers. Further, the giving of a premium weakens the motives to good work in the paper itself. A management which pins its faith to premiums, is apt to be lacking in the provision of inducements that are inherent in the nature of the publication so lowered. It is not an artifice of any trader to blend two excellent grades of any commodity for the purpose of getting either sold. An inferior tea is mixed with a superior one, either because the price of the latter is too high or the quality of the former too low to sell it by itself. The average of prices as regulated by the proportion of each quality in the mixture is made reasonable, and thus a demand is created which takes off the stock that of itself would not move. In the case of a pooling of papers, the weak one in the lot is always that paper whose management announces the pooling. To the other paper or papers adheres the mantle to which the organizer of the combination clings.

A journal that has the constitutional tone and robustness requisite to maintain a strong independent circulation, has therein, like the physical embodiment of such valuable property, the very best testimonial to its fitness for service. Advertisers look at this, and trust the paper whose record shows it is read for its own sake. A paper which is wanting in organic vigor, and which, to make up for the lack, seeks to establish an umbilical connection that shall make it the sickly partner to a healthy fellow in Siamese twinship—such a paper by such a course only becomes further shrivelled up, and its last state is worse than its first. Its companion receives all the attention, the small partner gets none and can therefore not show cause why it should profess to be a medium of advertising.

A STERLING TRADE PAPER,

Among the numerous trade journals that reach our sanctum none is more welcome than our enterprising northern contemporary, THE CANADIAN GROCER. In the discussion of the commercial topics germane to its line of effort it reveals a strong grasp upon mercantile and monetary problems both in their domestic and international bearings, while bringing to their treatment a broad general intelligence and an exceptional literary skill. Its devotion to its immediate constituency, the great Canadian food producing and distributing interests, is sturdy and commendable, while timely advice and sound practical suggestions make it an invaluable helper toward the best results. The special Fall number, recently issued, may be said to accentuate all the good points of which we have spoken.—Grocer and Canners' Gazette.

The fall number of the CANADIAN GROCER (J. B. McLean & Co., publishers), comes to us with 52 pages inside of a pale green cover and well filled with reading matter, including a letter by W. H. Maher, whose productions always command attention. A number of colored inserts add to the interest of the advertising pages. We congratulate our friend McLean upon the handsome appearance of the issue, and the evidences it affords of prosperity and a well satisfied constituency.—American Grocer.

HAMILTON RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

A special meeting of the Hamilton Retail Grocers' Association was held in the Board of Trade council room Tuesday evening last.

President Peebles in the chair.

Among those present were Messrs. Balantine, Breminer, Main, Duff, Morris, Sacks, Nelles (Galt), Boyle, Boligan, King, Carpenter, Cooper, Setzkoin, Thompson, Hay, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Renwick, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Powell, Taylor, Sellar, Mitchell, Henderson, Wilson, Stevenson, Pierce, Kerr, Crowther (of Attercliffe), Vollick, Kavanagh, Volten, Whiteside, Rowe, Hall, Hardman, McLaren, and Secretary Fitzpatrick.

The President stated the objects for which the meeting was called, viz., the action of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, abolishing of Christmas presents, preventing wholesalers selling to consumers, and the question of a deadbeat list. He also advised those present not already members of the Association to join now. Several followed his advice and subscribed their names.

Mr. Adam Balantine started the ball rolling by presenting the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. Main:

That the retail grocers of this city are strongly opposed to the present Wholesale Grocers' Guild or Combine for the following reasons:

That were it not for this Guild or Combine the consumer would get goods at fair competitive prices, regulated by demand and supply.

That this Guild is one of the many organizations that is reducing our agricultural industry to poverty.

That this Guild should not coerce refiners and manufacturers to supply the Guild at a lower price than those not in said Guild.

That retail merchants should be allowed to purchase goods from refiners and manufacturers without any resistance.

That it is most disheartening to men of capital and long experience in the trade to do business under the present system.

That if the present state of affairs continue it will have the effect of driving many good retail merchants out of the business.

Therefore be it resolved, that the retail grocers of this city work unitedly with heart and hand until this evil is remedied.

In presenting this, the mover said that union is strength. Hence wholesale men now have strength, as compared with years ago when they used to take opposite sides of the street, for now they walk arm in arm. The resolution covered but part of the ground that they as retailers should take. He objected to the Guild coming between them and the refiners. He further stated that there was a feeling among the farmers that the retailers were in league with the Guild, and he would like to have it put on record that such was not the case.

Mr. King could not agree with the above motion, thinking it was altogether too strong, and moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Cooper, the following:

That it be resolved that the retail grocers of Hamilton, view with disfavor the recent action of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild in shortening the terms and discounts, as being entirely too stringent considering the business outlook, and for that reason the present is an inopportune time for making such radical changes; and while we are well aware that the keen competition in the wholesale trade must materially lessen the profits, we, as retailers, have similar grievances to contend with, and find with the additional expense to which we are put in running our business to keep pace with the times, that any increase in prices coming from the combine of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild would materially lessen our profits and be unfair.

We would also protest against any further addition by the Combine to the present list.

We, as retail grocers, make this resolution in a friendly spirit, and would suggest the formation of a committee to meet the local Wholesale Grocers' Guild for the purpose of obtaining an assurance from them that no more goods will be added to the combine list, and to ask for a return to the former terms and discounts, and to report as soon as possible after meeting the representatives of the Guild.

Mr. Duff thought there were several weak points in Mr. Balantine's motion, and also that it was inconsistent. He believed in meeting the Guild mildly at first. For the life of him he couldn't just see where the shoe pinched. If the terms of credit were unfair they could be remedied. If shortening time were an evil he failed to see it.

Mr. Kavanagh was in favor of the second motion, as Mr. Balantine failed to name a scheme. If they met the Guild in a fair way something might be done.

Mr. Mitchell said Mr. Balantine was not right, as it was carrying it too far. He considered Mr. King's motion proper.

Messrs. Cooper and Stevenson spoke favorably of Mr. King's motion.

The second resolution was put to the meeting as an amendment, and carried unanimously.

The following were then appointed a committee to interview the Wholesale Grocers' Guild: Messrs. King, Carpenter, Cooper, Kavanagh, Breminer, Taylor, and Main.

It was then moved and seconded, that the special meeting adjourn and open a general meeting. Carried.

At the general meeting Mr. Cooper brought up the question of calendars, and said he was one of the unfortunates that ordered them, intending to give them to his customers at Christmas, and wanted to have the feeling of the meeting on that question. As for himself he did not consider it in the light of a present, simply as advertising.

Mr. King did not consider it the same as giving presents, it was simply advertising.

Mr. Kavanagh said the same question came up before the Toronto Association and was decided in the negative.

Mr. Mackay asked if there were any booksellers in the meeting, as they were the only ones likely to object.

Mr. Rowe spoke strongly against the giving of anything. He did not consider it an advertisement, and moved that they be done away with.

Mr. Balantine thought they might as well give a present at once.

Mr. McLaren said the proper way to advertise was in a legitimate paper.

Mr. Duff felt that the giving of these calendars appeared in the same light as a present, thereby breaking faith with others. He then offered the following resolution, which was carried:

Resolved, that it is the feeling of this meeting that the giving away of calendars, or any other similar form of so-called advertising matter, is not breaking faith with the agreement.

The meeting then adjourned.

SHORT MEASURES.

J. R. Minhinnick, of the Empire Oil Company, Toronto, was brought before the Police Magistrate, on Tuesday, on a charge of having committed a breach of the Weights and Measures Act, the charge being laid by Inspector Piper, who alleged that the defendant sold his oil by wine measure instead of imperial measure. Mr. Dixon, of Messrs. Dixon & Dixon, stated that he purchased a barrel of lard oil from the defendant and was informed that the barrel held 51½ gallons, for which he paid 50c. a gallon, whereas, upon measuring it he found that by imperial measure the barrel held but 42 gallons. The law says that the capacity of a barrel shall be decided by measuring it with rainwater, and as this method was not followed the Magistrate granted a further adjournment in order to give the complainant an opportunity to measure the barrel in accordance with the law. L. Ray, 705 Queen st. west, and Sylvester Dufrese, a pedlar, were also brought up for using illegal measures. Mr. Piper produced two articles that appeared to be peck measures. They bore the Revenue office stamp, but Mr. Piper stated that after they had been marked correct, the bottoms had been cut off and pieces had been taken out so that they were each about half a gallon short. Dufrese admitted having the false measure in his possession, but asked for an adjournment to show that he did not use it. The Empire Oil Company was fined $20 and costs. Dufrese got $10 and costs or thirty days. Inspector Piper received a letter threatening him with the writer's vengeance if he did not drop the crusade. He purposes, however, to go right ahead, and Tuesday afternoon his men were sent out on a tour of inspection which embraced business houses of all grades and classes.

Mr. T. W. Clark, commission merchant and wholesale dealer in butter, eggs, poultry, green fruits, etc., Vancouver, B. C., has sold out to Messrs. A. & J. Struthers, who will continue the business at the same warehouse, that, namely, at 27 Water St. The new firm will give the same attention to consignments that their predecessor did.

MONTREAL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The monthly meeting of the Montreal Grocers' Association was held in Mechanics' Hall on Thursday, the 13th inst., Mr. Ed. Elliott, President, in the chair. The following, along with many others, were present: Messrs. S. Demers, S. D. Vallieres, B. Connaughton, J. E. Manning, A. Desjardins, John Robertson, H. Viger, J. O'Shaughnessy, A. Daoust, A. S. Daoust, A. Jolicœur, F. Bigaouette, S. L'archeqvue, P. Legault, P. Majean, S. Cardinal, A. Laporte, E. Menard, Walter Paul, A. D. Fraser, O. Ricard, P. Desormiers, M. Boudreau, J. A. Levesque, D. Ruel, Alph. Beauchamp, L. A. Houde, jr. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Demers gave notice that at next meeting he would move, seconded by Mr. J. E. Manning, that Messrs. J. A. Levesque, D. Ruel, Alph. Lefaire, S. Cardinal, Alph. Beauchamp, L. A. Houde, jr., and P. E. Fontaine, be elected members of this Association.

The President then referred to the circular which had been sent to all grocers by order of this Association, with the result of gathering such a large number of grocers. He called upon the gentlemen present to give their views on the two burning topics, viz.: The proposed raising of licenses and the ever growing encroachments of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild.

Mr. S. D. Vallieres explained in French the special object of the meeting, enumerating the last steps taken against retailers by the wholesale combine, and recalling the fact that, two years ago, the Quebec Government was about, not to raise the licenses, but to take them away from the grocers, and that this was averted only through the efforts of a deputation sent to Quebec by the Association. What was needed most at present, was for the grocers to unite and stand together to fight the wholesale combine. He called upon grocers present to give their views on the subject.

Mr. John Robertson followed. He did not see why the Grocers' Guild should have all their own way. Even the British Government met with very stiff opposition at times, and why not the Grocers' Guild? Some grocers were in a better position to buy than others, and why should the man who could buy fourteen barrels of sugar be placed on the same footing as the man who only bought one? He did not blame very much wholesale grocers for taking care of their own interest so well that they could dispense with the necessity of carrying any stock, for all they had to do, when they sold fifteen barrels of sugar, was to sit down and write an order on the refining company to send the sugar to their customer, and on that order, without moving from their desk, without disbursing one cent, they made a clear profit of $12. This was really too much. But they were set a bad example by the Government which protects them from American competition The retailers did not make such a big profit. It was the last straw which broke the camel's back, and this last action might break the combine. Sugar was a staple article, and they had to get it. Some grocers in the city purchased it at less than combine prices. This, he said, was demoralizing to the trade and led men to tell lies; and what was more, the combine was broken every day, and was not carried out in its integrity. He believed in free trade for the retail dealers. They would not be doing their duty if they did not enter their protest against the combines. He moved a resolution expressing these sentiments.

Mr. S. D. Vallieres expressed in French the same views. The combine, he said, was carried to such a point that retailers could no more get a living; the wholesale grocers made large profits without taking the least trouble, while the retailer had to work hard and long to get a smaller return with much larger risks. He approved and endorsed all Mr. Robertson had said.

The Secretary then read over a letter he had received from Mr. Thackray, Secretary Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, as follows:—

"TORONTO, Oct. 15th, 1890.

"Secretary Montreal Retail Grocers' Asso-
"tion.

"DEAR SIR,—At the last regular meeting of this Association, held in Richmond hall on the evening of Oct. 13, I was instructed to forward you the enclosed copy of a resolution which was unanimously adopted, and to ask your Association to communicate with us expressing your views in the matter.

"I remain,

"Yours respectfully,

"J. F. THACKRAY,
"Sec'y."

"Whereas, owing to the excess to which the combine system is at present being carried by the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild; and whereas, owing to information of further movements in that line, which are in reality an extortion felt severely by the retail trade; the result being a partial, if not total wiping out of the retailer's margin of profit and a hampering of our freedom as business men.

"We hereby pledge ourselves to substantiate, in every case possible, other goods for those at present under "combine" prices, as we feel it is in our power as caterers to the consumers to place upon the market any first-class article instead of the goods under the combine. We think combination prices are unjust to the consumer as well as the retailer; and knowing this fact, we now decide to oppose on every line possible, the action of the wholesale combine.

"It was further moved by Mr. Barron, seconded by Mr. Radcliffe, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Secretary of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, to each of the city papers, and to the different trade associations throughout the country.—Carried."

Mr. O. Ricard, having concurred in the views expressed by the other speakers, it was moved by Mr. S. D. Vallieres, seconded by Mr. Connaughton:

"That this Association tender their thanks to the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association for the communication received, and that they endorse fully and entirely the resolution just read.

"And that this resolution be communicated to the press."

In seconding this resolution, Mr. Connaughton said that the retailers were more to blame than the wholesalers, as, if they had shown less apathy, the wholesalers would not have dared to go to such a length. He believed, however, that the wholesalers had killed the hen that laid the golden eggs by their last exactions.

Mr. Boudreau remarked that the committee ought to have had a series of resolutions prepared for the meeting, instead of asking merely for an endorsation of the Toronto grocers' resolution. Answering to Mr Connaughton's charges of apathy, he said the Association should act with more energy and endeavor to have all grocers join them. He had been a grocer only six months, and never heard of the Association until that evening.

Mr. S. Demers took up the defence of the Association and its officers, he enumerated their labors and the results achieved; the committee, he said, would not undertake to dictate to the grocers and preferred to give them free scope to express their opinions, and it was with that object that all grocers, in and out of the Association, were asked to attend this meeting.

Mr. Vallieres' motion being put to the meeting, it was declared carried.

Mr. Demers moved, seconded by Mr. Manning:

"That a committee of members of the Association be appointed to meet the wholesale grocers and see if they could not come to an understanding."

Mr. Robertson objected to the humiliation of going to beg favors from the wholesalers, who never consult the retailers when they want to fix prices and terms.

Mr. Walter Paul and Mr. A. D. Fraser also strongly objected to any attempt at con-

To Grocers!

There are three articles which the consuming public have decided are the best of their kind in the market, and it will pay every grocer to keep them in stock. They are

The "Horseshoe" brand of canned fruits and vegetables.
Packed by Bowlby Bros. & Co., of Waterford, Ont.

"Cairns" Home-made marmalade, jams and jellies.
Packed by Alexander Cairns, Paisley, Scotland.

The "Trident" brand of canned salmon.
Packed by Ed. Wadhams, Ladner's Landing, B.C.

Every package of the above brands guaranteed as to quality and weight.

BLAIKLOCK BROS, Agents,
17 Common St., MONTREAL.

ciliation, and finally Mr. Demers withdrew his motion, with the consent of the meeting.

It was then moved by Mr. O'Shaughnessy, seconded by Mr. Demers, "That the Secretary be instructed, with the assistance of the committee, to prepare a list of all articles under combined prices, so that every grocer may have that list under his eyes, and when asked for one of those articles, be able to substitute another instead."

While this motion was being discussed, Mr. Desormiers, taking up Mr. Demers' proposition, moved that the committee of the Association be instructed to meet the wholesalers and try to negotiate with them; but this proposition being again strongly opposed, Mr. Desormiers agreed that his motion lie on the table.

Mr. Paul wished the public to know that there were several articles in large consumption which they as retailers intended to boycott.

Mr. Fraser denounced those who only attended meetings when anything pinched them. He did not consider it fair to those who wrought hard for their interests all the year round. If they stood united the wholesalers would not be in a position to snap their fingers at the retailers. If they boycotted them the Grocers' Guild would soon be broken. He moved, seconded by Mr. Paul:—

"That this meeting and discussion be adjourned for a fortnight, and that in the meantime the Secretary be instructed to write to the secretaries of other kindred associations throughout Canada, as well as to the leading retailers in the different towns where no such associations exist, and procure their views as to the feasibility and advisability of selecting certain leading staple articles, the product of certain manufactories, and handling them to the complete exclusion of the same class of goods produced by other factories, though both may or may not be in the present combine with the Wholesale Guild."

This was carried unanimously, and the meeting adjourned.

A GROCER'S PRACTICAL THANKSGIVING REFLECTION.

Everybody gave thanks last Thursday, at least it is to be hoped they did. Even the hard worked grocer shut up his shop (of course after filling just a few pressing orders) and in company with his wife and family sought the house of the Lord, and with a full and thankful heart and lusty lung joined in the grand, old soul, stirring, rock-moving hymn,

"Praise God from whom all blessings flow,

He left the church a better man, and the poor old organ—grinder at the corner of his street pricked up her ears at the jingle of the quarter that dropt into her battered tin cup, and her eyes glistened with a tear of thankfulness, and her lips spoke the words of her heart with a feeling that made the grocer's lips tremble in an unaccountable and to him very embarrassing way, while a lump formed in his throat that threatened to impede his breathing. Yes, he felt a better man, and if ever a quarter was given that carried with it the blessing of Him that said "It is more blessed to give than to receive," it was that quarter of the grocer's.

And when he arrived at home, and the family had all gathered around his groaning dinner table, and he saw that all the olive branches were clustered around the parental trunks, his heart was full, and the grace dropped from his trembling lips in a manner to endanger the stability of the napkin tucked under his chin. Even the delivery boy, whose home is up in the "North Countrie" was not forgotten, and never "eat such a dinner in his life," as he told the butcher's boy on Friday morning, when comparing notes as to how much more they individually could have taken without "bustin." Yes, it was a dinner. Would there were more like them, more Thanksgivings in the year.

And as he sat nibbling at his cheese and celery and sipping his own extra blend of old Government and Mocha, and his youngest branch, ætat three fifty, beg pardon, three and a half years, was taking up an entrenched position on his left knee, much to the dissatisfaction of Towser the terrier, a practical side of his Thanksgiving dinner seemed to suggest itself to him, and smiling somewhat at the oddity of the thought, he drew the attention of his circle to him by remarking:

"Say, mother, have you ever thought when eating your dinner on this day of all grateful days, of the practical side of the meal, that is, where all the good things come from, how they're grown, prepared and marketed? No? Well if you will not mind, and can exercise a reasonable restraint over Miss Restless here, I will take the articles by courses, and hope to show you all how true the saying is, that the world is but a very small body after all, and that steam and electricity have practically abolished distance, and how, like Monte Cristo, we can say, "The world is ours.'"

The Soup—Ah! the succulent bivalve, dug out of his "cosy bed in the Chesapeake or the isle-bound waters of Long Island Sound—his dark and rugged shells the caskets where Neptune and the water sprites drop their precious pearls, what would we do without him now at feast or festival? And with the soup let us not forget the celery, that Uncle Eb sent down from his farm in Bruce, the long white stems, with their feathery tufts of green, are pleasant sentinels on the outposts of a well—planned dinner."

Then the fish. Here we're quite at home, and the waters of "this great land of ours are shining with silver sprays of such beauty and variety as would throw the most polished epicure of 'La Belle Paris' into ecstacies of delight. Our Niagara white fish to-day has heard the roar of the mighty cataract and trembled with awe at the majesty of the great leviathan, whose roar has sounded through untold ages and proclaimed itself the great work of an immortal Creator. You know that if among other natural products of our land and waters we are proud of one thing more than another, it is our fish, and even our Southern friends want them, and want them badly too. Our salmon, rich and pink, inimitable by artist's brush, from the land of the crafty Chinook, stands foremost on the bills of fare of all civilized peoples. Our mackerel and our cod hug our easterns hores with a patriotism worthy of imitation by the pitiable disciples of blue ruinism."

"Yes, I know, you want to hear about the turkey. There's nothing much to say about this red-nosed king of the barnyard. His gobble-gobble is heard throughout the length and breadth of this peaceful, blessed land of ours. Still, in my mind, I think he improves with dressing, and looks more interesting on a dinner table with his drumsticks pointing heavenward at an angle of 65 degrees, and the deep red berry from the bogs of Cape Cod in tempting dishes by his side. Ah! yes, we're all agreed that the dinner would be incomplete without his presence, and though the poet sings,

"Of all the birds what flies
There's none that's half so nice
As goose, stuffed with sage and inyuns," we'll adhere to our own banner and fight the battle of our king.

"Let us not forget our vegetables. The mashed potatoes need no further mention, and the sweet wrinkled peas and cauliflower are both indigenous to our climate, and as familiar as a commercial traveller on his maiden trip.

"But I am spinning out much longer than I thought to when starting out to tell you of my practical reflections, and as I see Miss Restless here is casting longing glances at her carriage and doll, I'll briefly refer to the rest of our pleasant meal, but I warn you to fasten on the wings of fancy very securely, as I intend to annihilate space and time in taking you to scenes and lands where what we eat and drink is at home.

"Come, then, briefly. Our apple pie, with its brown overcoat and sugar-sprinkled top, first calls our attention, and as a home-bird needs no further comment. Off then to France and to the peasant homes of Rocquefort, and a nibble at the blue dotted cheese so creamy. Away again to the olive groves of sunny Italy and the vegas and dehesas of Malaga, with the sound of mandolina and castanet ringing in our ears, and visions of gauzy mantillas and blackeyed senoritas floating before our eyes, and let us pluck a few olives and bear off the long oval green grape. Once more we spread our wings and stop not till our feet touch upon the Holy Land, and we rest ourselves beneath the fig trees of Palestine and wonder how such rich and luscious fruit could grow in soil so rocky and so barren. A few figs, and then away to sandy Arabia, and grasping a handful of the golden berry of the East, we float south and eastward with the sound of the Moslem's

"Allah-il-Allah" following in our wake like the echo of a fatal nightmare; away across the Indian Ocean on the wings of a helping trade wind to seagirt Java, and here on the coffee hills of Mynheer Van Stane beneath the shadows of Mount Salak we'll rest a moment.

"Yes, mother, half way round the globe and still we have not visited all the homes of what we have been privileged to set before us. Rested? Yes! well. Let us change our course a bit and strike north and east towards the celestial kingdom, and wander through the well kept tea gardens of Tseng-Tsing, and picking a bud or two here and a leaf or two there, we'll take our aromatic blend and passing over the pagodas of the Mikado, we're off across the peaceful main to our own Vancouver, and then, crossing the Rocky spine of our Northern sphere, we'll pick up

The golden grain from out whose shell is press't
The manna that to men has aye been blest."

"And now home again, and here we are cosily sitting around our cheerful board, no one the worse for the long and rapid journey, and everybody, I hope, with a better knowledge of what seems to us, without reflection, a matter of course, and all, I hope, truly thankful on this day of grateful remembrances for past favors. Before we leave the table I might add, with the poet, that

"Serenely full, the epicure would say,
Fate cannot harm us, we have dined to-day."

WM. H. SEYLER.

JAMES TURNER & CO.,
HAMILTON.

Mr. W. Watson, merchant, of Cadmus, is on the sick list. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Lowells's fruit evaporating establishment, at Brockville, has handled 20,000 bushels of apples this season so far.

In the town of Woodstock, N. B., on the 18th, Gordon Bros'. store and McLean's grocery were gutted by fire.

The insurance adjusters have fixed the loss by the recent fire at Thomas Lawry's packing warehouse, Hamilton, at 7,150.

The proprietors of the Elarton Salt Works have made arrangements with the Patrons of Industry to supply them with salt at reduced rates.

The dry goods merchants of Guelph have agreed to close their stores on Saturdays at 9 p. m. from the beginning of the winter up to the month of April.

John Leslie, Blake, Ont., dry goods, groceries, etc., encloses $2 for his paper and says, "I would not like to miss any of the numbers as long as I am in business."

The officers of the new Brantford association of retail grocers are Mr. Jackson Forde, president, Mr. W. F. Cockshut vice-president, and Mr. G. Elliott secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Cook, for some years accountant of the Standard Bank of Brantford, has been appointed manager in succession to Mr. Wickham, who will embark in business as a wholesale grocer.

Eby Blain & Co., Toronto, have purchased a large lot of old London layer raisins at auction in New York, and at low prices. They expect to be able to fill customers orders at 80c. per box.

Mr. John Beattie, of Pond Mills, has returned home from British Columbia. Mr. Beattie intends entering into partnership with his brother Robert, in a general dry goods and grocery business in Seaforth.

Messrs. T. and J. W. Andrews, Thornbury, have shut down on credit for sixty days as an experiment. They compel every purchaser to pay for his goods in cash or trade. If the scheme is a success they will continue it permanently.

Mr. Brewster's store at Clandeboye, lately occupied by John Flanaghan, was broken into by burglars some time on the night of the 18th inst., and a considerable quantity of goods stolen therefrom. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

Mr. S. F. Weaver, Elorado, has entered into partnership with Mr. Chas. H. Caverley, Ormsby, and they have begun business in a new building erected by them at Ormsby. It is the finest store there. They will handle all kinds of merchandise.

Mr. W. H. Morgan, Smithville, who has been doing a good retail hardware business for the past ten years, has now put in a stock of fine groceries. He is an energetic business man, and with his long and successful experience as a retailer he expects to work up a prosperous trade.

Prominent residents of Strathroy are endeavoring to form a canning company for that town. Messrs. Noble, Grist, Cameron, Leitch and Barry have been appointed a committee to make all necessary preliminary arrangements, prepare stock books and report to a general meeting.

At Keswick, Ont., on the 12th inst., by Elder D. Prosser, Oshawa, Miss Jennie, eldest daughter of Elijah Prosser, J.P., treasurer for the township of North Gwillimbury, was married to T. H. Morton, postmaster and general merchant at Little Britain. Many relatives and friends gathered on the occasion. The presents were many and costly.

John Jones and Alex. Ross were arrested at Fort Gratiot on suspecion of having buglarized W. B. Collins & Co.'s store at Wyoming on Sunday morning last. When arrested they had about $100 worth of goods and had been selling the same at the Fort. They refused to return to Canada and will therefore be tried at Port Huron for bringing stolen property into the United States. There was a third party but he made good his escape.

At a meeting of the Liverpool chamber of commerce on Thursday, Sir George Baden Powell, M.P., said that the United States tariff law had given a great impetus to Canadian industries. He thought Canada wise in developiug her over-sea trade. In speaking of her valuable natural resources he said that Canada offered many opportunities for the investment of British capital, because he believed there would not be the same financial vagaries there that had characterized the American government and legislation.

The New England Grocer says: A Bay City groceryman tested the youthfulness of eggs about to be bought by shaking them. A wise old farmer stood the rule for one box, smiled benignly and carried about half of them home. The next day the same farmer appeared with another box and the shaking test failed to rattle a single egg. But the groceryman was rattled later in the day when a lady sent back, saying she wanted raw eggs and not boiled ones. The honest farmer is still at large.

The general stores of Brussels, Ont., had a bad day of it on Saturday. Three of them were destroyed by a fire which started in the American hotel in that village. A. R. Smith's store and stock were both burned. The loss on the building was $2,000 and on the stock $12,000, against which was an insurance of $4,000. A Strachan's store worth $3,500 was burned, but his stock was partially saved. The latter was insured for $5,900 of its value. J. G. Keene's store, worth $1,500, was completely consumed, but his stock was partially saved.

A smart piece of thieving occurred in Kingston, the other evening About 6 o'clock a young man named Riley entered Cook & Loyne's grocery, on Montreal street, and ordered a quart of coal oil. The clerk, who was alone, took the can into the cellar to fill the order, and while he was out another man went into the store, reached over the counter and stole the money drawer containing the day's receipts—about $75—and other papers. The thief bolted with the drawer and contents and made good his escape. He is unknown. Riley has been arrested as an accomplice.

Mr. E. M. Walker, one of the oldest grocerymen of Dartmouth, N. S., has just made a trip through the provinces of Quebec and Ontario. Returning by New York and Boston, he says he saw no place that suited him better or that promised better prospects for business men than Nova Scotia, and particularly Dartmouth. Dartmouth has many live business men in the grocery trade, and any person having anything to sell there is pretty sure to have to name a cash figure. Among those doing a good business, besides Mr. Walker, are T. Gentles, a cash purchaser, J. Lawler & Son, Colin McNab, G. A. Ormon, John Forsyth, and John Wisdom & Son.

The B. Greening Wire Co., of Hamilton, are now manufacturing cow ties. They are made of all steel, and are equal to those imported. This firm are also making a line of halter, trace, dog, post and tie out chains, and have introduced a new feature in the boxing of their coil chains which they also add to their list of goods. These are put up in wooden cases, with a sliding cover, which will make the handling of such chain very convenient. We append the price of cow ties, open and closed ring :—

THE PRESIDENT ELECT.

It is officially announced that the new President of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, Mr. Robert Barron, will give the members an oyster supper at Harry Webb's on the night of the next monthly meeting.

GOOD ADVICE.

S. A. Brubacher, Baden, in renewing his subscription writes: "I have found your GROCER a very valuable paper during the time I have been getting it. I believe if merchants would get in the way of taking points which are weekly published therein and run their business accordingly, there would be more successful business men throughout the country."

GROCERIES.

The monotony of dulness has been extended one week farther. Although there was more trading done the last few days, than in the corresponding part of the week before, yet the average of a good fall week's trade was not reached. The policy of holding off to buy on the verge of the holiday season is one that is very commonly followed. The scarcity of money is one cause of the present persistent tranquility. Fall ploughing has to be done, and the importance of it is now so generally recognized by farmers, that they will do it often before they will market their wheat, even while the best days of the wheat market are passing away. The grain that is brought to the local market is impeded in its movement into commerce by the lack of car service, so that the main conditions requisite to the free circulation are wanting. Dried fruits continue to be the line receiving the most attention. Canned goods are quiet, sugar is also quiet.

CANNED GOODS.

This time of year is usually one of more or less repose in the canned goods trade. The present week's trade illustrates that fact. There has been very little done in any line. Fruits have had perhaps the best call from consumers. Gallon apples have advanced 10c. and are quoted in our Prices Current at $2.90 to $3, at which prices they are very firm. In fact all kinds of canned goods are firm, and setling in some cases into harder prices. A number of inquiries continue to be made for round lots of vegetables, but the patience of those looking out for concessions fails to weaken the market. In peas and corn the same stability in prices is manifested. Salmon is as stiff as ever. There is a good inquiry for round lots, and a brand was sold last week at $1.30 to a jobber. Last week's prices to retailers are yet quotable, but are very firm, $1.40 being the lowest price open.

A San Francisco letter to the N. Y. Bulletin states that considerable standard red Alaska salmon has recently been purchased for the English and Australian markets at $1 f.o.b., less drawback Sales were also noted at $1 f.o.b. for the Boston market. Off color goods can be obtained at 90c. there.

COFFEES.

Local trade is light, but prices are steady. In New York the market has also been quieter than usual owing to financial disturbance. The visible supply on the first of this month was said to be 650,000 bags less than at the same date a year ago. The result of the Dutch sale of government Java is reported to have gone off at valuations for good ordinary, but pale and yellowish 1¾ florins below. At the Batavia sale of 25,000 peculs the results were 66½ florins on Preanger, 64.69 do. on Probolingo and 64.36 do. on Passorean.

DRIED FRUIT.

This line of goods continues to attract to itself the bulk of the buying that is done in groceries. The firmness of Valencias is unabated, and the local demand quite active. Advices from Liverpool show that the price of good off stalk Valencias now bought on that market is equivalent to 7½c. laid down here. There is some stock yet to be had on this market at 6¼c., but there is very little under 6⅜c. The demand for Malaga is also good, the stock of London layers and black baskets being completely sold out, in some warehouses the lowest Sultanas are now 15c. From that the range is up to 18c. The trade in Sultanas is good. New Bosnia prunes in cases are 8½c. to 11½c. per lb., according to size and quality. This market is not yet fully stocked. Figs are selling freely. Currants are very firm and in strong demand. A round lot of Filiatra sold a few days ago at 5⅞c. f.o.b. for shipment west.

Barff's Patras circular of November 3, says that no stocks of Gulf, Vostizzas and Patras remain. Shipments to date are 83,000 tons or several thousand tons more than they ever have been at this season of the year. He writes: "Encouraged by a steady demand from all consuming markets, French excepted, dealers on this side have all along been operating freely in all descriptions of currants, and this has had a stiffening effect upon prices, which have been gradually creeping up without in any way interfering with business."

Natural figs in bags this season are not equal to last year's product. Buyers must therefore be prepared for a poorer article when they send an order forward. On the other hand most of the samples of Elemes we have seen are fully equal to those of a year ago.

NUTS AND PEELS.

Advices from Marseilles report an advance of about 20 per cent. in Tarragona almonds within the present month. On this market there are no Ivica almonds nor any Formigettas. New Tarragonas are in, and will be higher than they were a year ago. There are very few cocoanuts in stock.

There is an active demand for peels, which are jobbing at 13 to 17c. for lemon, 15 to 18c for orange and 22 to 23c. and up for citron, inside prices being for last season's stock.

New Chili walnuts are offering here at 11c.

There are few or no filberts on spot worth shipping.

RICE AND SPICES.

A round lot of Japan was sold a few days ago at 4⅜c. Small lots go at 4¾c., which shows a weakening of ¼c. in the price of this variety. There is a very quiet demand. In spices there is to be noted a weakness in pepper and cloves. The lower prices now ruling had the effect of inducing local houses to place large import orders, in the belief that by so doing they will anticipate higher figures in the near future.

Pot barley is firmer at $4 25 to $4.50.

SUGAR.

Since the decline in prices of granulated there has been but little activity in the sugar trade between wholesalers and retailers. Refiners, however, have made more sales this week and there is a better feeling. This market has also put off more stock than it did a week ago. The demand, nevertheless, is very quiet. Yellows are offering at 5¼ to 6¼c. Granulated is 6⅞c. in quantities not less than 15 barrels, and 7c. in lower quantities. Raw is 5⅛ to 5¼c. Demerera is 7c.

The Canada Sugar Refining Company. Montreal, are putting Paris lumps on the market in five pound boxes to retail at 50c. These boxes are packed in cases of 20 boxes each. Wholesale prices are 43½c. for single cases and 43 in ten case lots.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The demand for syrups has lapsed somewhat from the degree of activity that was chronicled a few weeks ago, and is even less than it was last week. Dark and medium grades are scarce, and are the leading kinds in request. The business in molasses s steady, but far from brisk. There is no change in prices.

TEAS.

Current wants in the tea trade are about all that receive attention from retailers just now. The season is not one favored by circumctances that are on the buyer's side, or that are urgent upon him to load up. There is a fair stock of young Hyson tea now to be had at 18c., and there is a reasonably active business in it. Japans from 16c. up are also receiving fair attention, as are some low grade Congous. Though there is but little change in the volume of the trade that was done a week ago, what change has been is in the way of improvement. Indian teas show no special features worth recording, the demand is steady but not of great volume yet. From London we learn that there is no diminution in the demand and prices are well sustained. Assams have rather fallen off in quality as compared with previous invoices, but Cachais and Sylhets have in many instances shown a desirable cup and met with keen competition. Ceylons are quiet and prices slightly easier.

PETROLEUM.

Refiners are now doing a good business. There has been no change in crude, but the demand for refined is increased, so that prices are firm. The movement of stock off this market on local retail account has been very large since a week ago.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

A satisfactory business continues to be done, and the approach of Christmas is felt improvingly, as that season rouses a demand for fancy lines as perfumes, cases, etc., which brings dealers on the market, and while there they replenish their drug and chemical stocks. There is no change in prices.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Commission merchants and buyers still criticise the supply, in terms derogatory to its quality. This market has a growing capacity for good butter, and it is never filled. The amount of under grade stock is accumulating and depreciating in quality and value, while the amount of prime stock, since the removal of so much creamery butter, has declined and has sharpened the demand for more. The prices for really fine dairy tub are very reluctantly quoted and almost suppressed by large dealers, on account of the rarity of the grade of butter corresponding to them, and on account of the misleading effect of such quotations upon the holders of first-class butter. Choice dairy tub easily brings 17c. Good dairy, under the grade of finest, is 15 to 16c. Large rolls, crocks and pails, whose contents are of the same class as the last quoted bring the same price. Medium dairy tub is 10 to 13c. and for store packed that is off flavor the price dips as low as 8c Pound rolls are 18 to 19c and are scarce. Creamery tub, the greater part of which has gone out of the city now, brings 21 to 22c. Creamery rolls are as good as done, but are quoted yet at 25.

Cheese is unchanged but firm. Half-skims are 7½c. summer make is 9 to 9½c. and September cheese is 10½c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—There is a decline in the supply of soft stock, prices having eased down to $2.50 and $3 in face of a freer supply of hard fruit. The latter is firm at $3.50 to $4.25.

BEANS—Are unchanged and firm at $1.65 to $1.80. The call for supplies in the north and north-west has fallen since, the close of navigation, but the smallness of the stock left leaves prices in a good position.

DRIED APPLES—The present position of holders would keep the market in an undetermined state, were it not that the North-West demand has made its great draft for the winter consumption of that region, and by that withdrawal has slackened the tension that was supposed to be exerted from the consumers' end of the market. Prices are therefore easing. What tends to accelerate a downward movement in them, is the result that the collecting of stock from different parts of the country is improving. That appears to open the eyes of buyers to the fact that stock is not by any means so scarce as it was supposed to be. There were fewer and poorer apples grown this year than formerly, but the consequence of that was not shown so much in a greatly smaller stock of dried as in a greater amount of low-grade stock. Dealers pay 7½c. laid down here. Small lots are jobbing at 7¾ to 8c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Are also coming forward more freely than they were expected. They are firm at 13 to 13½c.

EGGS—There is a considerable amount of stock now being taken up by buyers for the English market, so that stock is scarce and dear here. Candled are 23c., and limed 19 to 20c.

GAME—Partridges are in low supply, and are firm at 50 to 60c. per brace. Ducks run from 30 to 60c., and are wanted. Rabbits will be scarce until the snow falls, and are therefore firm at 25c. Venison is in very free supply, while that fact and the soft weather work together to depress prices. Carcases are 4 to 6c. for bucks, and 3 to 4c. for does; haunches are 7 to 9c., and saddles are 9 to 12c.

HAY—There is no change. The market is liberally supplied at $9 to $9.50 on the track.

HIDES—Another decline has brought No. 1 green cows' down to 4¾c. The other two grades vary a cent for each below this.

HONEY—The demand is listless. Clear is 12½c. for good, 11c. for medium, and 7 to 8c. for low-grade. Combs are 14 to 20c.

HOPS—Are yet firm at 30 to 40c. for new, and 20 to 25c. for yearlings.

OATS—Are unchanged at 42 to 43c.

ONIONS—Are firm at $2.25, and are moved by a very good demand.

POTATOES—Continue to improve, arrivals are becoming fewer, quality is uniformly better, and the demand is getting more earnest. On the track, good potatoes are firm at 60c., but there are grades received at 52c. Out of store lots are 65 to 70c.

POULTRY—The market is mending in correspondence with a decline in the supply. Geese are scarce and firm at 6 to 6½c. Turkeys are firm at 10c. Chickens are not in so free receipt and therefore bring 35 to 40c, easily. Ducks are 50 to 65c, according to condition.

SKINS—Are unchanged at 95c.

STRAW—Is dull at $6 or $6.50 for oat.

TALLOW—5½c. for refined, 2c. for rough.

WOOL—Is almost at a stand-still at 20c.

FISH.

The same demand for fish will continue until Lent, when the demand will be much greater, as is always the case. The only change in the prices, this week, is cod fish in quintals, which, owing to scarcity, has advanced 25c. per quintel. As the close season will be soon over, by the end of this week, the local dealers expect some fresh fish to reach them about Dec. 1st. Frozen fish, trout 6½ to 7c., white fish 7 1-2c., British Columbia salmon 15c., lake herring $3.00, pickrel 5 to 6c., pike 4 1-2c. Dried fish—Labrador herring $6 to $6.50, shore herring $5 to $6. cod per quintal $525 to $2.75. cod, cases, $5 to $5.50, boneless fish 4 1-2 to 5 1-2c, boneless cod 6 1-2 to 8c. Smoked fish: Finnan-haddie 7 1-2c., bloaters $1 to $1.50 per box, smoked herring 16c. Sea fish : Haddock 8c, cod 9c, spring salmon 20 to 30c, flounders 8c, halibut 15 to 20c. Pickled and salt fish : salmon trout per half-bbls. $4.50, white fish $3.25, lake herring split $3.

GREEN FRUIT.

Stocks continue to be light in oranges. The demand, however, is more encouraging to dealers to lay in large supplies, as a trade is creeping up that can be provided only by a fuller market. Jamaica oranges are $8 to $10 per barrel. At the lower price the market is nearly bare of stocks, but the finest lines are, for the moment, in fairly liberal supply. Floridas are coming forward but slowly, though an increased activity in the supply may be expected from the stage which the crop has been brought to in commerce. Prices are $5. One hundred boxes arrived on Tuesday, and a big arrival is looked for on Saturday. Valencias will soon be on hand for the Christmas trade. There are some Malagas at present in stock, but they are not choice fruit. They quote at $5 to $6 per csse. Malaga lemons are $4.50 to $5, Messinas are $5 to $6.50, and Palermos are $5.50 to $6. The lemon trade is very slow. Malaga grapes are $6.50 to $7, and light weights run down to $5.50. Sweet potatoes are $4.

CRANBERRIES.

The prices of a week ago yet hold, viz., $7 to $9 per barrel for Cape Cod, $3 for Ontario cases, and $1 for baskets.

PROVISIONS.

The market is easier since the close of navigation, which always winds up with stiffened prices for products, to be succeeded by slacker ones. The supply for the North West and intermediate regions on the upper route of navigation is always laid in before the boats stop running, to save the addition to the freight charges that railways levy. Stocks of all products are now plentiful, and though prices are not so stiff as they were a while ago, they are yet firm. Hogs are coming in very freely.

BACON—Long clear is fairly firm at 8 to 8¼c., backs at 10 to 11c., bellies at 11c., and rolls at 10c.

DRESSED HOGS—A good many rail lots are being daily received, and street arrivals have increased with improved roads. Two cars were bought on Monday at $5.50 for the general run, and $5 for any below 120 lbs.

HAMS—Are firm at 12 to 12½c. for smoked.

LARD—Is steady at 9 to 9½c.

MESS PORK—Is $15 to $16.50, and firm at these quotations.

SALT.

A large pork packing firm has just ordered ten cars of sack salt at 68c., being 2c. lower than the usual price. The Toronto Salt Works has been receiving a car of salt every day from about the first of the month. Liverpool salt is only being used in domestic consumption. The Toronto Salt Works reports the following sales : 10 cars sack salt at 68c; 2 cars bbls. at $1.40 ; 1 car dairy at $1.25. Smaller quantities are reported to have not changed in price, $1.55 to $1.60 being paid for bbls ; 85 to 90c. for sacks, and 55 to 60c. for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

There is a very good run of orders for present delivery, as well as a fair movement for the spring trade, which the travellers are now placing orders for. The big advance in manufactured cotton which the Canadian controllers of the industry inaugurated last week has sharpened the demand for spring trade somewhat, as retailers want the benefit of stocks at present held by wholesalers, as these stocks were laid in before the recent advance.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

NOV. 27, 1890.

GROCERIES.

There have been no important changes in this line since our last report. Firmness in dried fruit continues to be one of the most prominent features, and business in a strictly wholesale sense is quiet although a fair movement is going on out of jobbers hands. Values as a rule remain unchanged, and we have nothing notable to mention in this particular.

FRUIT.

In a strictly wholesale sense there has been but little animation to this market since our last reports. The general feeling remains steady, especially for dried fruit, the continued firmness of which is the most prominent feature of the market. As regard business however, there has been little doing by wholesalers, and they are not urging sales at all. In fact they are perfectly willing to wait until jobbers have worked off their present supplies, and commence to think of the holiday trade. The latter supplied themselves pretty well ahead but their stocks are encountering a pretty fair enquiry at present, and cannot last much longer. Importers therefore are not at all anxious, advices from other markets confirm them in their belief. A private letter from a thoroughly posted correspondent in New York, states that Valencias are the cheapest raisins on that market at present, and that had it not been for tight money this would have induced speculators to operate for a rise long ere this. Stock of off stalk in New York is set down at the very low figure of 30,000 boxes, which is about equal to one days transactions on that market, while advices from Denia state that 19s. cost and freight have been paid for the same grade there. In view of all this, stocks of Valencias in first hands are very firmly held here, while as we have said before, they are comparatively small. We hear of no business, but it would certainly cost 6½c. to move any really prime stock, while seconds are scarce, in fact we know of little that is offering. In other grades there is no stock of any account. A few small lots of Sultanas and layers are known to be in second hands and are held pretty firm, the former at 16c., and the latter at 7 1-2 to 8c. With regard to currants, remarks re firmness apply fully to them also. A fair quantity passed out of first hands on Saturday, pretty well reducing the stock in the hands of the dealer in question, the basis being 6¼c., and no stock could certainly be moved under that figure here, while it is quite probable 6 1-2c. would have to be paid in some instances where a smaller lot was desired.

In lines of green fruit, business has been of a purely jobbing character, the movement, however, during the past week being considerable, although there is no especially prominent feature to mention. The small stock of Malaga lemons to which we have referred is well cleared up, and now only a few odd lots are offering at $3.25 to $3.50. There place, however, has been taken by some fresh arrivals of Messina stock, which are selling pretty freely at $3.75 to $4 the quality being fine. A few odd lots of Jamaica oranges in barrels were knocking around last week, but they have been all cleared up at $6, and now the only fruit of this description on the market consists of Floridas, which move along at $4 to $4.50.

NUTS.

Nuts rule about the same, business being of a fair character. New Grenoble walnuts made their first appearance last week, and are selling at 16 to 17c., the first arrival, however, bringing as high as 19c. Other lines are unchanged.

SUGAR, ETC.

Generally speaking the sugar market is in about the same position as a week ago. Raw sugar in first hands is pretty well reduced, in fact we know of only one lot of grocery muscovado, which is held at 5⅛ to 5¼c. A fair, steady trade is doing by refiners in yellows at 5⅛ to 6c. and granulated 6 1-2c.

Syrup moves along quietly, figures being firm at 3⅝ to 3⅞c.

There is no change in molasses and holders are not urging sales and do not look for any movement until the snow is on the ground. Barbadoes is firm and unchanged at 37 1-2 to 38c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

This market continues quiet, and we note no business very recently except the sale of two invoices of Japans at prices ranging from 15 1-2 to 17c. to Toronto firms. Blacks continue firm, and mail advices from England state that low grades especially worth from 5 1-2 to 7c. are very firm.

The coffee market is somewhat easier, but we know of nothing doing in a strictly wholesale way. Jobbers stocks are being reduced, as consumers are buying pretty freely. Prices rule about the same.

FISH.

This market is unchanged in its main features, trade being rather quiet while the movement is naturally diminished this week with the close of navigation, Labrador herring move along quietly at $5 to $5.50 per barrel, and Cape Breton are unchanged. Dry cod continues firm at $4.75 to $5, while large green cod is unchanged at $5.50, with an addition of 25c for large drafts. Labrador salmon are quiet and steady, with an ordinary business doing at $15 for No. 1. Nos. 2 and 3 at proportionate rates. Mackerel move along slowly at $11 to $11.50 per half barrel, and $2.50 to $2.75 per kit. Canadian finnan haddies are worth 7 to 7½c. per lb., while oysters move along freely at $2 to $4 per barrel, the inside for round lots.

APPLES.

Nothing very important has occurred in this market recently. Dealers have been engaged in rushing forward shipments. Consequently there was little in the way of business on spot, aside from the ordinary local movement. We understand, however, that a transaction involving a round lot of stock in the west has transpired, equal to $4.00 per barrel, and color is given the report by the fact that a well known dealer here has engaged space for 6,000 barrels via. Circassian from Portland. The total shipments for the past week from the three Atlantic ports, Montreal, Boston, and New York, are 40,251 barrels, against 45,271 for the same week in 1889. This makes the total shipments to date 232,823 barrels, against 349,850 for last year. A shortage of 117,027 barrels.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES.

Stock of this description is held pretty steady, as the supply in the west is limited. Dried stock is held at 8c., but buyers here are offering a fraction or so under that. Evaporated are held for 13c., but there are buyers at 12c.

HOPS.

This market has shown but little change during the week, and business has been inconsiderable. The tone on the whole is steady, and although brewers seem to be indifferent holders are not at all anxious. Stocks in the country from all accounts seem to be pretty well bought up aside of what is held by a few stubborn holders, who stick out for extreme figures. So far, however, 30 to 32c. appears to have been the range for country purchases, while for spot transactions 35 to 40c. covered the range of ideas, and we cannot cite any actual sale at the outside figures. Some supply of foreign hops are shaping the way. Previous to the new tariff quite a supply of German hops were imported to New York in bond. A large portion still remains unsold, and as it is subject to a 15 per cent duty across the line, while 6 per cent is the Canadian duty, efforts are being made to place them in Canada, and offers have been made here at 45c., but nothing has resulted so far.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market rules very quiet at the moment and no improvement is expected before the snow falls and the sleighing is good. Pork has been somewhat easy in feeling, but is now recovering in sympathy with the Western market. We quote : Canadian short cut $16.50 to $17; mess pork western, $16 to $16.50; and short cut western $16.75 to $17. Lard is selling slowly at from 8¼ to 9c.

DRESSED HOGS.

The market for dressed hogs improved during the latter portion of last week owing to dry sharp weather, but the free receipts prevented any stiffening of price. The demand however has been good especially for light weights and about $6 per cwt seems to be the prevailing idea.

POULTRY.

With the colder weather, this market was a shade or so better, but prices have not advanced to any great extent as the receipts have been ample. We quote choice turkeys 8½ to 9c. and poor stock 7 to 8c. Choice chickens and geese are selling at 6 1-2 to 7c. per lb. and ordinary stock 5 to 6c.

EGGS.

The egg market continues very strong. Strictly fresh stock is almost unprocurable, and the few which farmers are bringing in sell freely at prices ranging from 30 to 40c. per dozen. Of course these figures are for basket stock. Fresh case eggs are selling from 23 to 25c., and held stock at from 20 to 22c ; but limed eggs are coming in for the most attention, owing to the above high prices. Fancy limed are selling at 19 to 20c., and ordinary and off colour stock at 16 to 17c.

CHEESE.

Now that the rush of shipments is over the last steamer having sailed yesterday the market is quiet and their does not seem any liklihood of any change for some time. Business in spot is practically net but most of the trade seem to be actuated by a fairly confident feeling, and no doubt there will be some nursing of stocks from now until the commencement of the new year and shipments from Portland commence this week and engagements have already been made at 37s. 6d. to Liverpool and 42s. 6d. to Bristol. Strictly fancy makes, 9¾ to 9⅞c.; finest makes, 9½ to 9⅝.; fine stock, 9¼ to 9⅜.; medium grades, 8¾ to 9c.

BUTTER.

Butter is unchanged, and the general feeling is steady and unchanged. Since our last report considerable business in an export way has occurred in creamery on the basis of 21 to 21 1-2c., and western dairy at 14 to 14 1-2c. for selected, and held stock at 11c. With regard to the latter, however, we don't think there is much opportunity for an outlet, but for creamery the chances seem very favorable on a 21 to 21 1-2 basis. Holders, however, of the best creameries are firm at 22c. One lot that we know of, however, comprising several hundred packages of nice stock was offered at a fraction under 22c. to a shipper, and he cabled it to his correspondents on the other side without any response. Choice late made creamery, 21 to 22c.; choice Townships dairy, 19 to 20c.; held, Townships dairy, 15 to 16c.; western rolls, 15 to 17c.; choice western, 14 to 14½c.; medium grades, 11 to 12.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The grain market generally rules quiet and we have nothing to note outside of the local jobbing movement in oats on the basis of 42 to 43c. No business is doing in wheat and quotations are fairly nominal. We quote, hard Manitoba, $0.00 No. 2 do., 99c. to $1.01 ; peas, 70 to 72c. per 66 lbs., in store; 72 to 74c. afloat; oats, 42 to 43c ; corn, 72 to 73c., duty paid; 64½c. in bond; feed barley, 50 to 52c.; good malting do., 65 to 70c.; rye, 60c.

The flour market rules quite, and with the close of navigation the demand is naturally considerabfy diminished. The tone on the whole is easy, but we do not hear of any change in prices. Offers on export account have been received both for Ontario and Manitoba brands, and there is a prospect of some movement in this connection, as values as they are at present favor such, the English market being steady, while ours has been on the easy side. Patent winter, $5.10 to $5.40; Patent spring, 5.50 to $5.75; Straight roller, $4.55 to $4.70; Extra, $4.35 to $4.70 ; Superfine, $4 to $4.10 ; Fine, $3.25 to $3.50; City strong bakers' $5.50 to $0.00. ; Strong bakers' $5.50 to $0.00.

THE WATCHFUL DEALER WINS.

Every merchant needs to keep a watchful eye on his stock. How often that it happens that a customer asks for an article and is informed that "We are just out, but shall have some in a few days." Every time the merchant says this he loses trade, and it may be a customer. It does not pay to be out of staple goods. A merchant should make it a rule to inspect his stock daily, or a portion of it, and as soon as an article is running light in stock an order should be made, so that the fresh supply may be on the shelves by the time the present stock is exhausted.

A merchant should reduce his order to such a system that freight bills will not be needlessly numerous. If a watchful eye is kept at work, orders may be so bunched that it will not be necessary to have the smallest shipments made, but the package will be of respectable dimensions. There is money in keeping orders bunched as much as possible, as every unnecessary package reduces the year's profits to the amount of freight charged.

There is a feature in ordering that should always be kept in mind. The orders should not be too large. How many stores there are carrying old and dirty looking stocks of goods. The trouble is that the merchant has four times what his trade demands. The result is he injures his business every time he allows an overstock to come into his store, And the same thing is seen in all lines of goods. The merchant has no overstock, or he is "out." Either of these conditions should be strenuously guarded against by every merchant. They are evils in his business that if allowed to have hold will always hold him aloof from prosperity. —American Storekeeper.

Graham Bros.' general store and post-office at Norland were destroyed by fire on Sunday evening. The loss is about $5,000 and the insurance about $2,000.

A reputation for truthfulness is indispensable to permanent and satisfying success.

Every line of goods embodies a history and a science worth years of study to understand.

GIVE THEM A WIDE BERTH.

Bowmanville business men are advised to give perpipatetic advertising fakirs a wide berth.—The Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville.

Business men in the various towns throughout the country are constantly troubled with these fakirs. There are local fakirs also who publish calendars, time tables, etc, who sell space in hotel registers, around the clock. etc. The best paying advertisement for a retailer is the one he puts in his local paper. Set your back against all other schemes. Let the matter in your advertisement be such as will attract attention. Tell the truth in it. Do not make extravagant statements. Briefly, study advertising as carefully as you do any of the details of your business. If you do not make your advertisement in your local paper pay the fault is yours, because others have.

The above extract is from THE CANADIAN GROCER. Of course were we to say it, we would be accused of being interested, but coming from a trade paper it is free from that objection. Many of our business men are too ready to take up with every advertising scheme,no matter how ridiculous, and some too who rarely see the inside of their local paper, but the Grocer knows, and we know them too, and can name them personally, the men who are the most successful are the local paper advertisers.—Sun Truro, N. S.

HINTS FOR SALESMEN.

A conceited, pretentious and affected manner disgusts and repels, while a person whose bearing is simple and natural attracts and makes friends.

There is often less difference between two men than between two moments of the same man. Moods change.

The salesman has to deal with all sorts of people. Some are curious, benevolent, ambitious, vain, opinionated, suspicious, surly, pious, captious, cautious or timid, generous or niggardly, or selfish. Some remember better than they can reason ; some reason better than they can imagine, some decide promptly, others are slow and vacillating in reaching a conclusion, and such are apt to be much influenced by what is said to them ; others, still allow no new fact to influence them until they have digested and distributed it over the general sum of previous facts existing in their minds. The peculiarities of purchasers vary also with age and sex, with nationality, and even in different portions of the same country.

Even the best salesman cannot always sell, but if repulsed from the front, he executes a flank movement, and where another would fail he often gains the victory by superior tact, knowledge of human nature, courtesy, patience or any other honest influence he may bring to bear. Traveling salesmen have been compared to ambassadors ; each is a confidential messenger sent out to negotiate, and the same kind of qualities are required by each.

Lord Chesterfield says: "The ambassador should join moderation, dexterity and tact. He should be a man of learning and of the world ; a man of books and a man of men; a man of the drawing-room and a man of the counting-house ; a gentleman and a man of business. He should possess quick faculties, and active powers of observation. He should be pleasant and affable in manner, of humor and good sense. He should know when to yield, to retreat, to relent or to advance; when to press his suit strongly, and when gently to insinuate it indirectly. He should know how to unbend and how to uphold his dignity." All this applies with equal force to the salesman.

Some people sneer at the policy of honesty, as if it was a sordid and untrustworthy estimate of a lofty principle. But in this commercial age most things have more than one standard of value. The best poets and physicians get most money for their work, while they have another reward in what they teach and do. We might, perhaps, commute the commercial value of a copyright on Shakespeare's words, but their other and higher value—their influence on mankind—is beyond our arithmetic. And so with honesty. God and his own conscience settle liberally with an honest man, and he is also well paid in our view—the commercial view—paid in cash. For, as sure as taxes, "Honesty is the best policy."

Bear in mind the golden rule, "Do to others as you would have them do to you." You want full measure when you buy, give a full day's work when you sell your time. Don't always drop your tools when the clock strikes ; five minutes delay will sometimes save the employer a night of worry.—Ex.

The Best Grocers Make a Point of Keeping it always in Stock.

Correspondence

To the Editor GROCER.

DEAR SIR,—I read your valuable paper. Being an old retail grocer, I still take an interest in the trade. I often see articles on clerks, what they should be in such matters as neatness, courtesy, and all the qualities that go to make a good clerk, but seldom see anything as regards employers. I travel a good deal, and see a number of retail stores, and in the way stocks are kept, I think the parties most responsible are the employers. I go into a store ; the first thing I see is, say, one-half doz. half chests tea, all exposed to all the smells and dust incidental to a store where fish and vegetables are kept. Then, again, I see canned goods of all kinds exposed in every conceivable corner, and on the top edge over the shelves piled up to the ceiling. Now, I contend that goods of that kind should be kept in the cellar or the coolest place that can be got to store them in. Then sauce and pickle men go to a good deal of trouble to put on a good looking paper, some even paste or tie them on. You see them stripped off, which is never intended to be done until the goods are sold.

I often hear the remark, "If a clerk did so and so I would discharge him," but if I had anything to do in the matter I would discharge the boss. All goods want to be properly kept. Canned fruits and vegetables exposed to the heat of a store for months must deteriorate, and tea, roasted coffee and other perishable goods exposed in windows, etc., must certainly lose the flavor which is most desirable in the goods. I do not say that all stores are like the above-mentioned. I see some with the smallest quantity exposed, stock all arranged in cellar. I have said to men, "You do not seem to have many canned goods." The answer I got was, "Oh, we keep all that kind of goods in the cool." Also the same remark on teas, coffees, etc. : "Oh, we never expose them." I know men that if you told them they did not know how to keep goods, they would consider it a great insult, but the fact is that they do not. You may not publish this, but for the general good of trade a few hints might not be out of place.

Yours, etc.,

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE.

A Delicious and Nourishing Beverage.

For purifying the blood and invigorating the system. In the herbs of the field and forest are found properties that antidote nearly all the diseases to which humanity is liable. It has been ascertained that German Dandelion Root, when taken in proper quantities, acts directly upon the liver, producing healthy action, and through it making the whole system strong and vigorous. We have taken advantage of this property in the Dandelion, and have prepared a Breakfast Beverage of great excellence, incorporating in it a very high grade of fine Coffee and a proportion of this valuable herb.

The price is low enough to be within the means of all to take advantage of its rare qualities.

We offer it to the public confidently believing that it will be found satisfactory to all who give it a fair trial. Prepared only by

DRUM TAPS.

Leaves from the Diary of a Commercial Traveller.

BY WM. H. MAHER.

CHAPTER. XII.

My fears about the hotel people proved to be uncalled for ; when morning came, I and my valuables were all safe and sound, and, after a hasty breakfast, I hurried to the depot to catch the six o'clock train to Casey. Though Casey was but sixteen miles away, we were nearly three hours in making the distance. This was a small place; about a dozen stores of all kinds in it; but being on the junction of two railroads, I expected to find it pretty well drummed; I was not disappointed.

Leaving my samples at the depot I walked up the street, and soon saw "hardware" sticking over the walk. The store, when I reached it, was either a very small one or else was very full of goods; I could not determine which. I had taken pains to read the address on the goods on the sidewalk, so I picked out a man who might be the proprietor and handed him my card with: "Mr. Krothers, I believe, sir?"

"Yes," said he, putting on his spectacles to read the card, "that's my name." After he had read the card he turned to me with:

"Well, how's times?"

"Times are good," I answered; "Don't you find them so?"

"Oh, I can't complain; we do pretty well for a one-horse concern."

"You look for a good trade this spring, I suppose?"

"Trade's good enough, if we could only get any money. You don't know of anyone who wants to buy a stock of hardware, do you?"

(It is surprising how general was the desire among retailers to sell out ; this was only equalled by the number of farmers or farmers' sons who want to get into business. And this is the case in this year of grace, 1889, as it was in the '60's.)

"Not just now ; but travelling through the country as I am, I am likely to ; you want to sell out do you?"

"Yes ; I'm sick of trade : I'd like to get out and collect what's due me."

"All right," said I, as if I did such things every day, "the first good man I hear of who wants to get into this business, I will send down hear to see you. How is your stock?"

"Pretty fair ; we're not buying much."

"Anything you need to sort up?"

"I don't know of anything; fact is, I don't feel like ordering."

It became my duty to make him "feel like ordering." As a preliminary arrangement I dropped talking about business, and tried being sociable. I found the old gentleman liked a story, and so I drew on my stock; they were not very good stories, nor very well told, but seemed to please him, and that was what I was aiming at. When stories had grow cold I asked him to show me his store, and whenever I had an opportunity I put in a good word for our prices. At last I thought matters had reached a point where I might use my best efforts for an order. I had noticed his stock of shovels were low, and so I began with them. Taking out my order-book I said :

"You have no one in business with you, have you, Mr. Krothers?"

"No. What are you going to do?"

"I'm going to put your name down here, and sell you some goods."

"The devil you are ! Haven't I got anything to say?"

"Yes, you may order just as fast as you want to. Now pitch in."

Of course all this was said laughingly, and not in an offensive manner.

"You want some shovels," said I, "and I'm going to send them to you."

"But you haven't told me your prices. I have to keep an assortment, but I'll be honest with you, I don't want to order to-day."

There was no joking about this, and joking would not answer to meet it with. So I came down to earnest.

"You are out of shovels and spades, Mr. Krothers, and will be obliged to order from some one in a very few days; now I am here ready to give you low prices, and to be as liberal in terms as any one dare be. It doesn't matter to you who sends you the goods, provided you get them right, but it's a great deal of matter to me whether I or some one else get your order. You don't know anything about me, but when you do know me you will find that I do just as I agree, and if you will help me a little I'll help you."

On paper this looks rather prosy, but when you put all your soul into it and try to impress it upon a man so that he will believe it and feel it, it has its effect. Some people call it personal magnetism; I call it being thoroughly in earnest.

"Hang it?" said he after a moment, "I'd like to give you an order, but I haven't thought about what I want."

"I can help you," said I promptly. "Let us go right through my book, and it will recall to your mind things you are out of. Then we can take a look over the shelves afterward."

He made no further objections, and we began. He bought in small quantities, but when we were through, and he said, "There shut up your book; hanged if I buy another thing," I sold him $135 worth of goods, and at good profits.

I promised to come in again when I had been around, and then I started for the drug store. One of the nicest men I ever met gave me a bow in answer to mine, and when I introduced myself, said he was well acquainted with our house and had sold our white lead. This was good news, and I soon had his order for 200 pounds of lead, a line of paint brushes, and some putty. As I had been free and easy with Krothers, so I was very polite and dignified with Mr. Humlong, because he was the incarnation of dignity.

After getting his order I made a tour of the groceries and general stores. "We don't sell any hardware," and "We have all the hardware we want," met me at the two largest stores, nor would they give me a chance to say a word more; but the next grocery I came to seemed to do considerable in cutlery. I waited until the proprietor was at leisure and then handed him my card. He was an ugly-looking fellow, but I could forgive that if he gave me an order.

"I see you do something in our line," said I, pointing to the cutlery, "and we carry the best line of knives in the West. I have a full line of samples with me, and will be glad to show them to you."

"I buy in New York," said he, curtly.

"Then," said I, "I will be doubly glad to have you look at my samples. I carry some of the very knives you have in stock, and I want you to compare prices."

"You don't expect to beat New York, do you?" he asked with a sneer.

"You don't want me to, do you?" I asked. "If I can meet New York prices you ought to be satisfied; but I shall not be satisfied if I don't do that."

"I don't want anything to-day."

"But, if you are not busy, won't you please look at my samples?" They are just across the street at Mr. Krother's, and I can run over and bring them in."

"Oh, I can look at them."

"Thank you; I will go after them."

While I was at Krother's I asked about him. "Oh, he is good for all he buys," said he, "but he's meaner than the itch."

"I don't care how mean he is if he's sound," I answered.

I spread my samples out before him, and went, through my lesson, giving description and price of each knife. Then I went his show case and found a knife that was the exact counterpart of one of my samples, but his was a Wostenholm, and mine was an imitation. Without saying anything I laid his knife down beside mine.

"What do you ask for your knife?" he asked.

"Nine dollars."

He went to his show case and looked up the cost of his knife.

"How much did you say?"

"Nine dollars."

He looked at me, and I looked as innocent as a lamb.

"I'll take three dozen of them," he said.

I saw at once the way he was reasoning. He fancied I had quoted my knife away down, not expecting him to buy, and that he was getting an advantage of $2 or $3 a dozen.

I took out my book and prepared to enter the order. "You understand, Mr. Frye," said I, "that while the knives are exactly alike in appearance they are made by two different parties—"

"That's all right," he interrupted, thinking I wanted to back out, "I'll take the knives."

"And I am glad to send them, and obliged to you for the order, but I am going to come around this way again, and don't want any misunderstanding; your knife is a Wostenholm knife; mine is made by Larom, and is an imitation of yours. The Wostenholm goods cost 50 per cent. more than Larom's, but to the retailer there is more money in selling the imitation, and I know it to be a very fair khife. Now I will enter your order."

"No; hold on a little; you're telling the truth, are you?"

"I am."

"Then you're the first runner that ever did that injustice to himself. You need not send those knives, but maybe I'll see something else I want."

His whole manner changed to me then, and he looked at the samples in a different way from before. I named my regular prices, prices that left us a large profit, and he began to order. I sold him about $60 worth of table and pocket cutlery, and then $20 more of woodenware, rope and cords. When we shook hands at parting he didn't look half as ugly as he did when I first saw him, and my summing up would have been that he was a pretty good fellow.

I had still four more stores before me, and among them I found one man who said he wanted a few goods. I worked with him just one hour, and sold him a bill amounting to $5.35. Not a very big bill, but—well, the $1.35 was profit.

The landlord met me with a smile when I went back to the hotel. "Krothers was here to see you," said he, "and left this story for you. The old man enjoys a laugh, and he says he has just learned how to sell out."

He handed me a cutting from the Grocer, entitled:

HOW JOHN CHEATED HIM.

There had lately been a change made in the hardware trade at Colton, and I concluded it was a good time for me to get acquainted with the new man. I packed my grip and was very soon trying to balance myself on the one plank that lay between me and a bottomless pit of mud. Mettler, who had sold out, was considerably in our debt. I wanted to attend to that, and decide as to the responsibility of the new man. Mettler had practically been a failure. Not that he would pay less than one-hundred cents on the dollar, but that would clean him out, and and he had started, two years before, with a cash capital of $1,800.

I tried to account for his lack of success, as I ran over his qualities in my mind, but I could not arrive at a satisfactory conclusion. He was a practical tinner, economical, diligent and a good salesman. Yet, in spite of these, he had lost $1,800 in two years.

The old sign was still on the door; the same old iron kettle was in front of the store, and the same pile of old boxes in the lot besides the building that I saw there two years ago, when I was up there helping Mettler take inventory. But a new man met me, and I had no need of questioning him, for it was written all over his honest Dutch face that he was the owner.

We were soon chatting pleasantly together. He knew of our house and had been recommended to call on us, and I was not talking for an order, as he readily saw, but for purpose of laying the foundation for future business. This being the case, he was much more upen than he would have been had I had a line of samples before him and been pressing for an order. I son saw that there was a sore spot somewhere in Fred's mind, and before I left the town I had the following unique story from him of the purchase of his stock from Mettler:

"I dells you, Mr. M—dot Mettler is a tam sheat. I shall know John for ten, twelve year, and I shall say, John is goot fellow, and shquare. I drust John so much I drust mine vife, but John is a tam sheet. John's fader was a good Yarman, but John too much like der Yankee."

"Didn't you inventory the stock?" I asked.

"Oh, yes; we invendory efferydings."

"Did he cheat you in prices?"

"No, he could not; I fix him; I haf a wholesale man come here to see."

"Then how did he cheat you?"

"He sheat me mit his trade. He dell me he do piggest pishness of any man in dis gounty; he dells me he make pig profit; he sheat me efery dime. It was all a pig lie."

"Tell me all about it."

"I dells John maybe I can puy you ou-et if dere was good pishness. He say, 'Pishness is goot.' I say, 'I will see to-morrow.' I go to this shtore on to-morrow, and when we talk a man coms in and say, 'John, I will haf an ax.' When he go out John say, '$1,50 for ax what cost fife shilling was not so pad,' and I say, 'No that was goot.' Pimeby more mans come and say, 'John, I must puy a shtove.' He puy this shtove I sit on for $22, but say he ton't want him sent ou-et pefore nex' week. John say to me, 'How is dot for high? Dere is $7 profeet.' I say, 'Dot was high enuff.' Pretty soon a woman says, 'John, I must puy a glothes wringer,' and John sell dot one in dot gorner for $5, and say he will delifer her to-morrow, and he weenk at me and say, 'I make $2.75 on dot.' And I say, 'Pully for you!' In a leetle more while a man say, 'John, I will haf a blough to dig my cround.' John say, 'All right, I sell you this for $14,' and he sell him. Then he kick me in mine gorns and say, '$5 more salded toun.' But the man say, 'Lay him ofer dere; I will get him nex' week.' And John put him ofer py that toor where you see him now. Then John say, 'is it drue what I dells you about good pishness? I have made $15.60 since you was here, and this is not a good day too.' And I say, 'yes, dot was all right; I will buy you ou-et.' And I send to Detroit for wholesale man to help, and we lock the door so no more pother from the beoples. And all the time eferyone rap on the door and say, 'I want some file.' And John say, 'wait for to-morrow; I sell ou-et.' Anudder man shall say, 'I wan't some knife.' And John shall say' 'Gome to-morrow and puy from Fred; I sell ou-et.' And I say to my vife, 'John had a teufel of a pishness.' I buy him ou-et and gif him my sheck, and I open my shtore. Nopody gomes for dat sthove, somepody ton't got dot wringer, and Schmidt ton't got dot blough. It was all one shwindle! It was put up shob! It was one tam sheat!"

"I don't yet understand how," I said. "Wouldn't they take the goods!"

"Dake the goots? No, not for Sho! John had dose mans and womans gome here to sheat me. Shall I puy if I ton't see no profeet? Not much! Shall I pe such fools as gif two tousand dollar for pishness doing notings? I was not sooch fools. So John make pishness. He haf his frents puy shtoves and oder tings to make sheat mit me, and I will say, 'Here is lifely pishness and pig brofit, I will puy."

"That's how you got roped in here."

"Yes, sir; I was robed in by dot sheat of John. I say to dot man, 'Why you not gome and got dot shtove?" and he say, 'Oh, I gongluded to fix mine olt one.' I tolt him I would pe glat to fix him. I say to Schmidt, 'Gome arount for dot blough,' and he say, 'I shal. haf to egonomize on bloughs, pecause my vife is sick.' And he vink at me so I was red hot And John say to me, 'How was pishness?' And I say, 'Noding sells put bxes, and glothes-wringers, and shtoves, and sloughs.' And he say, 'Pishness will soon got no worse." And I say, 'It was worse enough already,' and now he gomes here no more. What you tink of such sheat?"

I told him it was a very good scheme to deceive a man, but I had thought John was too honorable to play it. I tried to brace his courage up by telling him he ought to make a good living out of his business if he bought carefully, and that was all the largest dealers dared hope to do in these times.

"Dot is all right," said honest Fred. "I no like sooch pishness; I shall sell ou-et.

Jake Snyder, from Haskins, say he pe here nex' Friday, and I shall haf ten, twelfe men gome in and puy sometings, so he dink trate is boom away up. I pe no fool. I gan do somedings shust so well as John."

The next I heard of him he had sold "ou-et."

THE CANADIAN GROCER PRICES CURRENT.

TORONTO, Nov. 28, 1890.

This list is corrected every Thursday. The prices are solicited for publication, and are for such qualities and quantities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit.

Goods in large lots and for prompt pay are generally obtainable at lower prices.

All quotations in this department are under the direct control of the Editor, and are not paid for or doctored by any manufacturing or jobbing house unless given under their name; the right being reserved to exclude such firms as do not furnish reliable information.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE ADVERTISING CALENDAR.

At the last meeting of the Hamilton Retail Grocers' Association, the question of bestowing calendars stamped with the business card of the donor was broached, a discussion ensued which was confined to one aspect of the matter—namely, its apparent embodiment of the gift-making evil—and the practice was upheld. The Hamilton association tried the custom by a principle woven into its constitution at the very outset, which principle is, that the making of presents by traders is reprehensible and is to be eschewed by every member of that body. If this were the only touchstone by which the policy or economy of advertising calendars could be fairly tested, there is no doubt that the trade would have little fault to find with them. Their value as gifts is too insignificant to influence trade seriously or to be felt as a tax by the consumer.

But it is not their value as gifts that commends them to those who use them, and a discussion of their effect upon trade from the stand point of opponents to the custom of making presents is beside the question. Advertising calendars should be tried by the test of how far their results have realized their purpose. Their purpose is, not to bribe customers to buy nor to reward customers for buying, but to remind them that the dealer whose name is on the calendars is still doing business and still desirous of their patronage. The calendars are advertisements. The dealer presents them because he hopes they will be mutually useful to himself and the recipients, to himself as an advertisement, to the recipients as handy references.

The question, are they of mutual service? is the one to ask for the purpose of settling whether the trader should give them or not. They are of service to the recipient if he uses them, as they very correctly stake out the year and label the days and dates unerringly. The recipient can therefore trust them. But do they serve the man whose advertisement is the feature of them he hopes to be most prominent in the eyes and minds of beholders? Undoubtedly, they do not. One reason is that they are too common. So many manufacturers and traders give calendars' that people are coming to regard them as a nuisance. They keep one, usually the handsomest. The rest are used to start fires, etc. Even the calendar one uses may bear upon it an advertisement that is never scanned. The writer has sat since the beginning of the year several hours every business day before a calendar he has consulted hundreds of times, and only now does he know whose advertisement is on that calendar. The year might have slipped away and the back of the calendar been thrown in the waste-basket without his ignorance of this feature being dissipated, but for the fact that he looked squarely at the top of the calendar for the purpose of illustrating what he has said of the ineffectiveness of calendars as advertising mediums.

The theory that what is to be in constant use for reference must be a good presenter of an advertisement is underlain by a fallacy. The fallacy is, that there is an overflow of random observation in everybody, in other words, that the perceptive faculty is extravagant of its labor and will take in much more than is suggested in its motive. Much is seen that is not observed, and it is only striking phenomena that can be stimulis to an impression that will last. The commoner the object the less does it challenge our attention, and nothing is much more common than are calendars. They have nothing about them to awaken latent observation; and unnecessary features of them escape attention.

The advertisement on a calendar is like the numerals on a dial which denote the number 4. People look at the face of the watch or clock thousands of times in the year, yet few know that the Roman figures are IIII, instead of IV. Ladies' dresses, jackets, etc., have all the buttons on the left side instead of on the right, and not one man in a hundred knows there is this difference between his own clothes and his wife's. These familiar and conspicuous deviations from the rule are not worse neglected than are the advertisements on calendars.

The retail trader wastes money who makes use of advertising calendars. It is like putting a candle beside an electric light to place an advertisement beside a calendar page. All the attraction is in the latter, as all the purpose of the page is in the time-marks upon it. Let the retailer take the money he spends on calendars and give it to the local paper, wherein his advertisement can be neatly and symmetrically displayed, where its form can be changed, its matter refreshed, and wherein the retailer can by periodical variations educate himself into the art of advertising. For it requires art to keep an advertisement from becoming an eyesore, and art can be acquired only by practice, while for the development of a man's ideas of advertising there is no better means than that afforded by the local paper. The right use of the opportunities this weekly offered will soon open a trader's eyes to the true nature of advertising and the potentialities of it.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association will be held on Monday evening. The Secretary has issued an urgent call to the members to assemble to consider the report of the Executive Committee on several important questions, among which are the following : The list of articles now under combine, with prices attached ; the single-tax communication, etc. His notice expressly refers to members who have been irregular or delinquent in attendance, whose presence at this meeting is particularly requested.

A LOBSTER PACKER IN TROUBLE.

A Halifax despatch says :—John P. Chetwynd, who is under arrest on charges of forgery, perjury and smuggling, has been carrying on a large business as a lobster packer on the west coast of Newfoundland and supplying fisherman in Halifax, importing large quantities of oil clothing from A. J. Towers, of Boston. A month ago he failed with liabilities of $60,000. He assigned all his stock and effects, including a $10,000 life policy, to William Roche, M.P.P.. to satisfy a claim of $33,000, money advanced and endorsements. The stock was worth about $5,000. Roche will be out about $25,000 and other creditors will not get a cent. Last night customs detectives swooped down on Chetwynd's establishment and seized all his books and stock which Roche now claims to hold, and Chetwynd was subsequently arrested and bail refused. It is alleged that for years the prisoner has been importing oil clothing from A. J. Towers, of Boston, and only passing through the customs a quarter of the quantity imported. He had blank bill heads of Towers' and filled in made-out invoices to suit himself, to which Towers' name was forged, and which Chetwynd swore to at the custom house as genuine. He has been remanded until Monday pending the arrival of Mr. Towers from Boston as witness. Similar frauds were perpetrated with other classes of imports. The amount out of which the customs has been swindled aggregates many thousands of dollars. Chetwynd's wife deserted him three years ago, and is now applying in Boston for a divorce on the grounds of cruelty and adultery. She alleges that he used to tear out her hair and beat her. He was a candidate for the Halifax city council six months ago, and came within a few votes of being elected.

LITTLE THINGS IN BUSINESS.

"Little things deserve our attention as well as big things," said a customer to a salesman in a store the other day. The young man behind the counter was not quite precise enough in giving the necessary information required by the customer in regard to some trifling article, concerning which the salesman cared little whether it was sold or not. Such cases as this may be seen every day. Customers go out of a place of business half waited upon, and consequently leave with an impression not favorable to an early return to purchase anything more. Such a state of things should not be. Every salesman of average intelligence certainly knows his business, and what is required from him, and the responsibility rests with him a great deal whether his employers' business is going to make a satisfactory showing at the end of the year. Pay strict attention to every inquirer for a cheap article as well as those who want something more costly. Trade cannot be procured unless attention is paid to it, and when an employer has a salesman who is polite and attentive, his services are cheap at any price. There are a variety of causes why a salesman is sometimes careless in waiting upon his trade, and probably he feels that he cannot do better under existing circumstances. Everything should be facilitated with reference to the showing of goods. Speed and correct knowledge are attributes which every customer notices, and they often accomplish a sale. No merchant can afford to employ any lazy, or don't-care for-nothing clerk, and besides there is no room in any branch of trade for such people. A business is sure to suffer when customers are not attended to promptly, and we cannot help but urge upon the trade to see to the all important fact of paying attention to the small trade as well as to purchasers of larger amounts.

PILFERING IN TRANSIT.

An important conference between representatives of the Toronto and Montreal Boards of Trade and representatives of the various railway and shipping companies of the Dominion was held at the Board of Trade rooms in Montreal on Thursday to consider the pilfering of goods in transit from Great Britain, President Cleghorn, of the Montreal Board, presided. The Toronto Board was represented by Messrs. Edgar A. Willis, Stapleton Caldecott, and J. Short McMaster; the Montreal Board by Messrs. R. Archer, Edgar Judge, Chas. Chaput, C. P. Hebert, E. B. Greenshields, and R. Hampson. There were also present Messrs. W. B. Bulling and J. Corbett, of Canadian Pacific railway; A. Burns, of the Grand Trunk railway; R. Reford, of the Canada Shipping Company; D. Campbell, of the Beaver Steamship line; J. Taylor. of the Dominion; W. C. Munderloh, of the Hamburg; and D. A. Watt, of the Allan line. After a long discussion it became evident that there was a great divergence of opinion between the representatives of the transportation companies and the merchants, and that there was no likelihood of an agreement being reached. The merchants finally passed the following resolution :—

That it is the opinion of the merchants present that the steamship lines running to Canadian ports in summer and to Canadian and United States ports in winter, together with the railway companies, should agree, when such losses cannot be located, to jointly pay any claims arising from pilfering of goods from packages in transit.

The merchants hold that, as the companies are liable for losses while the goods are under their care, and as the goods are under the care of one or other of them while in transit, the companies should be willing to make the losses sustained good out of a joint fund when the pilfering cannot be proved to have occurred while under the care of any one of them. The transportation companies, on the other hand, hold that as the packages are carried in England and elsewhere by other companies, it cannot be always taken for granted that the packages were undisturbed when delivered to them, and that moreover when they exercise all care they should not be held responsible for pilfering, which is so cunningly done as to defy ordinary care and watchfulness. The representatives therefore refused to commit themselves to the principal of the resolution passed by the merchants ; but agreed to place the matter before the proper authorities.

TRAVELLERS' CONTRACTS MUST BE RATIFIED.

The Court of Appeals sitting in Montreal, rendered on Thursday, an interesting judgment in the case of Brock and Gourley. This was an action by Brock & Co., of Toronto, to recover from Gourley, a Montreal merchant, the sum of $169, balance of an account for goods purchased. The defendant admitted the account, but pleaded compensation by having suffered damage to the extent of $196, through plaintiff's failure to send him a quantity of Halifax tweeds for which an order had been given to the Toronto firm's traveller, and which Gourley could have sold at a good advance price. To this Brock replied that there was no contract between them for the delivery of these goods, the order taken by the traveller not being binding upon the firm, especially in view of the fact that the traveller had informed defendent that he did not know whether the order could be filled, and afterwards wrote him saying it could not be filled. Several letters were afterwards exchanged between the parties, but Gourley claimed that he had not received the first communication from the traveller informing him that the order could not be filled. The court below allowed a certain compensation to Gourlay, but the Court of Appeal reversed this judgement, holding that the presumption appeared to be that the commercial traveller's letter had been received in Montreal, and holding, moreover, that the rule recognized and adopted in the modern way of carrying on business through commercial travellers is that no sale made by such traveller is binding until it has been confirmed by the firm which he represents.

Messrs. Eby, Blain & Co., are offering for the Christmas trade the celebrated Heinrich German Family Geletine. They say these are the best goods on the market.

Bendelari & Co., Toronto, have beaten the record for fast time on Grenable walnuts. One of their shipments left France Oct. 31 for Toronto via Liverpool and arrived here Nov. 24.

The round lot of old London layers bought by Eby, Blain & Co., in New York will be here in about ten days. Boxes will be opened and the qualities arranged in three grades which they will job at 80c., $1 and $1.30.

Mr. George Glass, Port Hope, has removed his general stock of groceries to his new premises on the corner of Walton and Queen streets. He has made large additions to his stock, and has a very attractive grocery store.

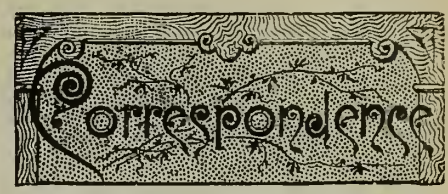
The British Chamber of Commerce has addressed a letter to the Dominion Board of Trade asking an opinion on the advisability of holding a congress of all the Chambers of Commerce in the British Empire. A favorable reply was given to the letter, which will be sent to other similar bodies in Canada.

"Adams & Sons are putting a new box of chewing gum upon the Canadian market which is having a big run in the States. The flavors are banana, blood orange, pineapple and wintergreen, assorted in each box. By referring to their price list the retailers will see that there is a good margin on these goods."

Mr. John Sherman, of Tamworth, one of the oldest settlers and storekeepers in that section died on the 26th ult. He once served in the store of John Mowat, father of Premier Mowat, and was a personal friend of the present Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. Two sons reside in Kingston, and another is a railway mail clerk near Winnipeg.

Under the firm name of Brown Bros. Messrs. Ed. Brown and W. A. Brown, formerly of Port Hope, have bought out the grocery, wine, liquor and cigar business, until recently carried on by Mr. M. J. Tierney, at Peterboro'. They have already greatly enlarged the business by adding a wholesale department, and have bright prospects of a large and prosperous trade before them.

TRADE SALES.



The bankrupt grocery stock of R. Baker & Co., of Essex Centre, was sold at London by W. Y. Brunton & Son to Mr. A. Duke, on the 26th ult., at 68 cents on the dollar.

Messrs. Suckling & Co., 64 Wellington street west, sold on Monday afternoon the stock of Crandall Bros., general merchants, Colborne, amounting to $14,528.18, to Mr. A. B. Mitchell, for 77c. on the $.

INDIVIDUALISM AND ORGANIZATION.

The general tendency of the times, to discredit individuality and to laud organization —to extol discipline at the expense of personality—has already begun to experience the reaction that sooner or later overtakes all extreme views. That "worship of machinery" which Matthew Arnold so cleverly satirizes, is, in its way quite as untrue but not nearly so sympathetic or ennobling as its opposite—hero worship. In our own country we have had ample opportunity to judge for ourselves what are the elements of success, and how it is best won, and it sounds almost like a truism to say that strength of character and tenacity of purpose have been the things most conspicuous. Every successful business concern has been the creation of one or possibly to men. Industry, application, the genius for seizing favorable opportunities, the devotion to a single end, these have been the qualities that have built up great firms from small beginnings. It is not a correct and elaborate method of doing business, not a precise and perfect system, not a thorough discipline, that has worked such wonders. These things must come afterwards if success is to continue, and are the necessary adjuncts and effects, but they are not causes. The root of the matter lies deeper, and it is found in the master mind that impresses itself upon every one in his employ, that effect all around him with the influence of his example, and inspires them with his spirit. Such a mind soon attracts to himself worthy lieutenants to execute his orders and carry on the work in his own way. In the history of every growing business there comes a time when it gets too large for any one man to keep entire track of it in its details, and this is the crucial test. If the head of the house possess the power of organization and of delegating work and ideas to others, then all will go well, but if not, dry rot and decay are only questions of time. The annals of commerce are full of the history of concerns that could go only so far and no farther, because individuality and organization could not be combined. The prevalent notion that a highly organized and well established house can "run itself" is most erroneous, for no amount of order and routine can supply the place of brains and executive ability. The history of the late A. T. Stewart is one of the best examples of this. When he died without leaving any worthy successor his house soon fell into decay and no amount of wealth, prestige and system could save them from total extinction.

Discipline and system are great and indispensible things, but they are only "machinery" after all, and unless closely watched are always liable to degenerate into red tape and officialism, and thus defeat the very ends for which they are intended. It needs a strong animating spirit and influence to give them their true value and render them effective.—Ex.

CUT DOWN THE CREDITS.

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 18, '90.

Editor GROCER.

DEAR SIR,—I was much pleased to read the account of the combat by the Retail Grocers' Association with the Guild. I hope that credits will be still more cut down, as it is the only way to put dead beats and others out of a scientific business. I hope that the Grocers' Association will try and put down prize stores and gift stores, as they are as bad as bucket shops in this section. I also find that the Empire Tobacco saves me $4, and gives good satisfaction.

ARCH. WILSON.

What is known as commercial travelling is on the increase. There are now few large business concerns in which it is not an important factor. The detail of keeping close track of the travelling salesmen of a large firm is something more difficult than many might suppose. One Philadelphia concern, with with over a hundred travelling salesmen, has an ingenious system. On a large board is painted a map of the United States with the railway and river routes prominent. The board is perforated all over with little holes, and a tiny flag bearing the salesman's name on a large steel pin shows his exact whereabouts that day. Thus the whereabouts of every salesman can be seen and told at a glance. Sometimes the district covered by each salesman is marked off by colored lines.—Ex.

GROCERIES.

Harder roads, colder weather and closer quarters with the Christmas demand have had very bracing effect upon trade. The two days that came immediately after our issue of last week were quiet, but the month of December opened with a general homing of orders from the hands of the travellers. Monday was a day of brisk trade, and though the days following were not so good, there was nevertheless a much larger business done upon them than has been transacted in the same part of any other week since the beginning of October. If the weather continues sharp there will be a big revival in trade inside of the next fortnight. Frost will stop the ploughing and farmers will begin to market their grain. Already the arrivals of other forms of farm produce, such as hogs, poultry, hay, etc., are coming in freely. A little snow would be a strong seconder to the reforming effects of cold weather. Buying is yet more in the groove of dried fruits than of any other line. The sugar trade is dull, and the tea trade is reviving, In canned goods, operations are mainly of an inter-jobbing character. The scarcity of money has still a retarding effect upon remittances.

CANNED GOODS.

The situation is modified in no respect, while in most lines it is aggravated. Prices are unchanged in quotation, but are more hard-set this week than they were last. All lines are very firm, there being no apprehension of ultimate excess in any. Trade, however, is only moderately active, and prices would be easy if they were ruled by the influence of the present demand for consumption. The consideration that sustains prices, however, is the estimated inadequateness of the stock to last out the trade year at easy prices. Jobbers who were skeptical at the outset of the season are still making offers to other jobbers who loaded up, and are gradually coming to the terms of the latter. One firm sold a car of corn and car of assorted goods this week at figures past what retailers could have bought at a few weeks ago. Corn and peas are unchanged, tomatoes are firmer, and fruits are as stiff as ever. Salmon has preserved and strengthened its position of a week ago. Lobster is unchanged.

Says the San Francisco and Country Merchant: While there is an absence of transactions of importance the few sales reported for domestic and foreign shipment indicate no weakness on the part of holders of prime fish. On the contrary the belief is expressed that with the turn of the new year the distributive trade in the east will become more pressing in there requirements and that this demand and that from abroad will absorb the bulk of holdings in this market. Even in this dull period their is reasons to believe that with moderate concessions considerable business might be done.. Advices from Great Britain report a quiet market incident to the season, and although stocks are liberal, salmon is held with confidence by the trade.

COFFEES.

Coffee is dull here, but is better outside. The total Brazilian crop is estimated at 9,000,000 bags.

DRIED FRUIT.

Orders have come in quite rapidly the past few days for Malaga raisins, and already this market is nearly bare of stock. There is a scarcely any blue fruit left, while London layers and blackbaskets are nearly cleaned out. It is the first time in years that the Malaga stock has gone off so fast. The lowest London layers are now 15c. higher than they were last week, and quote at $3 to $3.25. The ready absorption of stock has been mostly due to the operations of country merchants, many of whom bought to arrive. These traders forestalled the demand of the city retailers, and the latter are not so well stocked as usual, having waited too long. The lowest price at which any Saltanas can now be bought is 17c. an advance of 2c. upon the quotations of a week ago. The stock is very limited. Valencia raisins are exceedingly firm at old quotations. When present stocks are sold out there is no prospect that they can be recruited below 1¼c. of an advance upon the prices now available to retailers, the price laid down here now being 7½c. Additional supplies of case prunes have come in since last report, and though unchanged in quotation prices are easier. Currants share with other lines of dried fruit the smart demand, and are firm but unchanged.

NUTS.

New Sicily filberts are now in and are offering at 10 to 11c., while oblong are 14 to 15c. The old filberts yet in stock are of poor quality in most cases. Ivica almonds are in some stocks and sell at 14 to 15c. New Grenoble walnuts are also in, and can be had at 18c., Naples at 17 to 18c., and Chilis at 12 to 13c. Tarragona almonds have gone up in outside markets and are expected to be yet conslderably higher before they stop. New stock is in and selling at 15 to 16c. Brazil nuts are considered too dear to import.

RICE AND SPICES.

Rice is dull, but prices are steady, though more hopeful views of the year's yield are tending to allay the firmness of outside markets. Spices are unchanged but are in fairly good demand.

SUGAR.

The sugar trade in this market has been very slow, the demand being apparently checked by the extent of purchases made earlier in the season. Prices are yet 6⅞ to 7c. for granulated, the former for 15 barrels and larger quantities, the latter for smaller quantities. Trade has been rather more active in yellows than in whites, but the price of the lowest grade of the latter—namely, brown—has gone down to 5⅛c. The demand for Christmas and holiday cooking and baking is expected to rouse trade considerably.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is no D or M syrup in stock here, and the refineries have not been producing any for quite a long time. The lowest grade now to be had is B. The cold weather is helping the trade in molasses, but that trade as we l as the syrup trade is yet dull. A round lot of fine Barbadoes molasses offered here on Monday at 33c. in puncheons delivered. In all there would be between two and three car loads.

TEAS.

The financial disturbances which agitated the commercial world a few weeks ago, and which arose out of the scarcity of gold had an effect upon the market value of silver. As gold became scarcer its buying power increased, that is commodities became cheaper. This was the case with silver as with other commodities, and the value of that metal had declined rapidly. Consequently tea, an article of merchandise bought in the exchange with silver became easier for the moment. But the recovery of financial equilibrium throughout the world which increased faith in securities brought about, brought up the price of silver again, and now tea is becoming firmer and is dearer in the primary markets. The trade here is also improving, the demand for medium grade Young Hysons and Japans being very good. There has been a good inquiry for Indian teas. Some large consignments have come forward this week. In London the quantity of Indian tea brought forward has again been large, comprising upwards of 36,000 packages. Continued activity prevails, and nearly the whole of the above quantity sold at generally steady to firm prices. The medium pekoes and broken pekoes were well competed for, and prices have remained firm with a good general enquiry. The lower qualities still meet with a strong demand and have sold readily at quite former rates. At present there are no signs of an easier market. For the higher grade teas an active enquiry continues, especially for some of the Dooar and Sylhet growths, as most of these are of exceptionally good quality. Ceylon teas are still scarce, and full prices are maintained for all grades. More plentiful supplies should now, however, be close at hand, and a better selection may be expected, at any rate in January; meanwhile. any decided change in the market is highly improbable, as the large supplies of Indian teas have already had their full effect, and have not materially altered the prices of Ceylon growths.

PETROLEUM.

Though the price of crude shifts up and down almost daily its mean position is unchanged. The market for refined is the same as it was last week. A good trade is being done.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Business is but fairly active. No line shows any price variation indicative of any notable decline or increase in the demand as it stood last week.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

There is no ebb in the supply but there is a slight improvement in the local demand for the better grades of store packed butter. This is partly owing to the greater scarcity of fine grades, and also partly to the increased use as raw material of the better low grades by bakers, confectioners and cooks against the holiday consumption. The more restricted supply of fine grade butter is a consequence of the season, as line stock is now mostly fed in the barnyards, and grass nourished butter in dairy tubs is no longer strictly new. Also creamery tub butter is scarce, the movement of stock off this market some time ago not having been followed by any considerable re-stocking. Creamery rolls are done, that is rolls made at the creamers. The closing up of these industries shuts the sources of supply of that stock, but there are rolls made of creamery tub in stock. The supply of large dairy rolls, pails and crocks is very liberal, but pound rolls are very scarce, in fact are ceasing to be made. Dairy tub runs from 15 to 17c. for good, 10 to 13c. for medium, and from the lowest of these prices downward for very low grade stock put up in store-tubs. Large rolls, crocks and pails are 16 to 17c., and pound rolls are 18 to 19c. Creamery tubs are 21 to 22.

MARKETS—Continued.

Cheese is in moderately strong request for domestic consumption and is rather firm at old prices. September stock is 10½c., summer is 9 to 9½c., and half-skims are 7½c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Stock fit for the English market, that is, hard, well-packed fruit, brings $3.50 to $4. There are very few fall apples now, a small quantity of snows making up the bulk of the supply. These are $2.50.

BEANS—Prices have gone down since our last report, the falling away of the winter demand for the west and north-west having weakened the position of this stock. Small lots are $1.65, and large ones are $1.50.

DRIED APPLES—Trade is in very much the same position as it was a week ago, holders yet asking dealers to quote, not offering themselves. There may be a little less of that this week, but there is enough to ehow that the uncertainty of holders has more faith than nervousness in it. Laid down here, stock brings 7½c., and is sold in a jobbing way at 7¾ to 8c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Are in fairly free supply at 13 to 13½c.

EGGS—Scarcity is a more confirmed condition of the market and prices are consequently harder, fresh candled bringing 23c., and limed 18 to 20c.

GAME—Partridges are scarcer, and are worth 60 to 65c., at which prices they are firm. Ducks are plentiful at 25 to 60c., according to size and condition. Rabbits have been scarce, and will perhaps be more plentiful now that we have snow. Deer will soon cease to be killed, and dealers are not buying venison, as they expect soon to have to hide stock. Carcases of bucks are 5c., of does 3½c., haunches are 10c.

HAY—The market continues to be well supplied and the demand is steady. Prices are unchanged, $9 to $9.50 for baled.

HIDES—The market is in a bad way, the United States demand having been made nearly inaccessible by an addition of 2c. duty. There is little buying for export, and prices have been going down like lead. One well-known buyer says he never remembers so sudden and so large a shrinkage in value. Anticipation of the increase in the United States duty caused an unusual activity in this market for shipment of stock across the border before the McKinley Act should come into effect. This hurried prices up to 8¼c., and they are now down to 4¼c. for No. 1 green. A carload of cured was sold on Monday at 5c.

HONEY—There is no improvement in demand or prices, but rather a weakening of the latter. Good clear is 12½c., medium is 11c., and low-grade is 7 to 8c. Sections are 14 to 20c.

HOPS—Good new are worth 30 to 40c., the bulk of the buying being at prices not under 35c. Old is now unchanged but scarce at 20 to 25c.

OATS—Are in liberal supply at 42 to 43c.

ONIONS—Red are firm at $2, and white equally firm at $2.25.

POTATOES—The advantage has completely shifted from the consumer's to the holder's side of the market. Good stock is now firm at 60 to 65c. on track. The influences which have thus improved the situation are first, the scarcity of good stock, second the sharper weather, third the developement of a strong demand from the United States. Of the stock offered a considerabte proportion is shown to be inferior, and there is now more or less of it frozen. The frost improves the price by adding to the risk. At western points 60c. f.o.b., is paid for shipment to Chicago.

POULTRY—There is a better supply of turkeys, and the price is correspondingly easier, being 9 to 10c., instead of firm at 10c. Geese are unchanged at 6 to 6½c. Chickens are more plentiful and weaker, selling at 25 to 35c., according to size and mode of plucking. Ducks are better, 50 to 65c. being readily paid.

SKINS—Sheepskins are improved, more as an effort of local competition than as a consequence of organic change in the market. They are now $1 for good.

STRAW—Oat straw is in better request, but not changed in quotation, the prices being $6 to $6.50.

TALLOW—Rough is 2c., and refined 5½c.

WOOL—There is no stock offering, but 20c. stands as the price.

FISH.

This is the first week of advent, which has a temporary improving effect upon the fish trade, owing to the abstinance from meat by the Roman Catholics and other religious bodies. Finnan haddie are scarcer on account of the rough weather of late, although it has not changed the price. There will not be much change in other classes of fish till after Christmas, as poultry can still be had much cheaper. The prices of fish will hearafter be found only in the Prices Current.

MARKETS—Continued.

was not expected to be any movement among retailers analagous to that for dried fruit, as the fancy stock of green fruit for the holiday trade is always much later in arriving. Jamaica oranges will soon be out of stock, as their season is nearly over. The finest grades are not now to be had here, and ordinary fruit is $8. The supply of Floridas is but limited yet, and values are $4.50 to $5. At the close of this week the first arrival of Valencias is expected, and the price at the outset will be $6.50. This is specially for the Christmas holiday trade. Messina lemons are pretty firm at $5 to $6, Malaga lemons are 3.50 to $4.50, and fancy Palermos are $5.50 to $6. Sweet potatoes are up, being nearly done. They are selling at $5 per barrel. Malaga grapes have also made a stiff advance, being quotable now at $7.50 to $10.

CRANBERRIES.

Cape Cod fruit is $10 to $11 per barrel, North Shore berries are $8 to $10 per barrel. The closeness of the holiday season has stiffened prices very much. The demand is strong and the limitations of the stock are becoming apparent, while the colder weather makes stock more difficult to keep.

PROVISIONS.

While the movement of stock to the North West has ceased and this affected this market, there has been increased zest given to the local demand by the severer weather, that has pretty well restored the briskness notable in the last days of lake navigation. There is an abundance of products, however, and prices are steady. The very liberal supply of hogs has reduced and weakend prices for dressed stock.

BACON—Long clear is fairly firm at 8 to 8¼c., backs at 10 to 11c., bellies at 11c., and rolls at 10c.

DRESSED HOGS—Are arriving both by rail and farmers' delivery very freely. Packers quoted $5.35 as the top for choice quality and weights, though fancy lots brought 5c. more. Light and very heavy weights sold at $5.

HAMS—Are firm at 12 to 12½c. for smoked.

LARD—Is steady at 9 to 9½c.

MESS PORK—Is $15 to $16.50, and firm at these quotations.

SALT.

There has beeen no important change in the Salt market since our last report. Firmness in prices still holds. A very good business was transacted during this week. The Toronto Salt Works report the following sales for the week: 2 cars sacks at 70c., 3 cars bbls. at $1.40; 1 car dairy at $1 25. Smaller quantities sell at $1.55 to $1.60 for bbls; 85 to 90c. for sacks, and 55 to 60c for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

Orders are flowing in freely since the change in the weather began, that having given a decided impulse to business of a sorting character for the winter trade. Woollens are consequently as firm as ever. In dyed cotton goods there has also been increased activity, on account of the advance at the mills which brings these goods 10 to 15 per cent. dearer. Retailers are therefore making a strong run upon stocks at present in wholesale hands, because these having been bought before the advance are still to be had at old prices.

RAW FURS.

Trade is particularly good. Demand fair. dealers paying following prices:—Beaver per lb., $4.50 to $5; bear, per skin, $10 to $25; cub, per skin, $5 to $12; fisher $3.50 to $5; fox, red, 81 to $1.25; fox, cross, $2 to $5; lynx, $1.50 to $2.50; martin, 75 to 90c.; mink, dark, 75c. to $1.25; Muskrat, fall, 12c.; winter, 15c.; otter, $8 to $13; racoon, 25 to 80c.; skunk, 25 to $1.25.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Dec. 3, 1890.

GROCERIES.

Business has not opened out yet in a general sense and we have still to note a quiet condition of affairs. Dried fruit rules firm while there is no particular change in sugar, tea or other leading lines, while produce such as butter cheese, eggs, etc., move along quietly. The cold weather of the past few days has made trade a little brisker in poultry, venison, etc., but it has not amounted to much in the aggregate as yet.

FRUIT.

The market is unchanged, and neither dried or green fruit have shown any alteration in the way of business since our last report, the tone being generally firm as far as holders are concerned, while buyers usually are only taking sparingly. In dried fruit there is no change in the spot position of either raisins or currants. Buyers show no disposition for business in a general way, while sellers of the former continue firm and no concession is made. In fact, as we said last week, the stock in first hands is small, and although buyers point to some sales in bond in New York at 4¼c., holders contend that it does not affect their prices here, so that former values—viz., 6¼ to 6½c., according to quality—are maintained. On currants advices from Patros are somewhat easier, but the position here is unaltered. Stocks are small, and to move anything at present would certainly cost 5⅞ to 6¼c., which we quote as a range. A sale occurrs in New York to-day which, however, may affect the position here on dried fruit, as several of our leading operators are known to have instructed brokers there regarding purchases, but nothing is known yet. One matter appears certain, that prime stock will not go off to any appreciable extent, although business may be done in inferior grades at a lower range. Importers will maintain values for the more desirable class of goods, especially as the opening of the year usually brings some stiffening to the position.

In green fruit their is no change of importance, and business is of a purely jobbing character. Valencia oranges are offering in a small way at present, and move along quietly at $5 25 to $5.50, with a few Florida at $4 to $4.50. A few Malaga remain and sell slowly at $5 to $5.50. Lemons are unchanged at $3.75 to $4, while bananas encounter a small business at $2 to $3.

In nuts business is quiet. New Grenoble walnuts are a ½c. easier at 15½ to 16½c., while Tarragona almonds range from 14 to 15c.

SUGAR, SYRUPS, AND MOLASSES.

There is no change to the position of the market and business was on the whole quiet during the week. Refiners report a fair quiet trade moving at steady prices 5⅛ to 6c. for yellows and 6½c. for granulated.

Syrups rule quiet but firm and some activity is anticipated shortly natural to this season of the year. Prices rule steady to firm at 3¾ to 4c.

Molasses quiet, and we have nothing of importance to note.

TEAS.

Business in this branch has been fair during the week, several small lots having been turned over around 17c. for Japan, while blacks keep firm and advices to hand cite firmness in England.

RICE.

We have no new business to note in this line and we quote: Common $3.90; Japans $4.00 to $4.25 and Patna $5.50.

CANNED GOODS.

Trade may be called flat and quiet in this line. Tomatoes and salmon move slowly, and although no change can be cited it is enly stated that concession would readially be allowed were a round lot in question. We quote lobsters $7.25 to $8.00 per case, mackerel $4.75 to $5.00, and salmon $1.30 to $1.40 per dozen; tomatoes $1.20 to $1.25 and other lines about the same.

EGGS.

There is no change in the general position of the egg market, the feeling being one of continued firmness. The demand continues good with limed stock in good enquiry owing to the high prices of fresh stock. We quote strictly fresh 24 to 25c. held 20 to 22c, and limed 18 to 20c. per dozen.

POULTRY AND GAME.

Receipts of poultry continue light and with a brisk demand induced by the cold snap prices have a stiffening tendency. One mixed lot of chickens, 800 lbs., was sold at 7c. to-day. We quote turkeys, 9c.; ducks, 8 to 9c.; and geese and chickens 6 to 7c. Partridge are more plentiful and all offering are readily taken at 55c for No. 1, and 30c. for No. 2 per brace, and saddles of venison are selling at 8c., and carcasses at 5 to 6c. per pound.

APPLES.

The apple market rules quiet, and there is nothing particular to note. Business, as far as spot transactions are concerned is practically over for the season, except the ordinary jobbing trade, which moves along quietly on a basis of $4 to $4.50 for the best winter varieties. Dried and evaporated apples are quiet and steady. The former are held at 7 to 8½c., and the latter at 13 to 14c.

HOPS.

The market has not developed any pronounced change since our last, but there has been a little more inquiry from brewers of late which although much business has not resulted shows a disposition that way. In fact we know that one lot of 55 bales has passed out of second hands, the price however being an inside one. In this particular buyers are unchanged, and still stick out for concession. We quote 35 to 40c. as a range although no business has occurred at the outside figure.

FISH.

This market still rules quiet, and beyond a small jobbing trade there is nothing to note, nor will there be until the snow comes and some country movement takes place. The position continues firm with light stocks, lighter than they ever have been, as instanced by the fact that stocks of green cod here hardly exceed 500 barrels, whereas they rose up into the thousands last season. Labrador herring also are firm and are quoted $5.00 to $5.50 per barrel. No. 1 green cod are stiff at $5.50, and No. 2 $4.25 to $4.75 while other lines rule firmer and unchanged.

BUTTER.

The conditions are unaltered, with buyers and sellers still apart as regards business in a large way in bulk lots. Creamery holders are apparently determined to stick out, while with buyers for export a fraction below their ideas no business results. Locally a fair jobbing movement transpires in the way of immediate requirements, and no difficulty is experienced in moving nice selections of dairy at 18 to 20c., while creamery jobs out at holders figures. Western dairy is dull, while rolls are selling at 15 to 16c. We quote: Choice late made creamery 21 to 22c.; Choice Townships dairy, 19 to 20c.; Held Townships dairy, 15 to 16c.; Western rolls, 15 to 17c.; Choice Western, 14 to 14½c.; Medium grades, 11 to 12c.

CHEESE.

It cannot be said that the market presents any pronounced change although there is some new animation. However, holders are confident, and it would take 9⅝ to 9¾ to move any choice stock, in fact we know that the outside figure has been paid. As regards the country, stock is now generally admitted to be out of first hands and the market may with safety be called a steady one on its present basis. Strictly fancy makes 9¾ to 9⅞c; finest makes 9½ to 9⅝c; fine stock 9¼ to 9⅜c; medium grades 8⅜ to 9c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The grain market continues quiet, with nothing but a jobbing trade in oats reported. Prices are unchanged as follows:—No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.03 to $1.5; peas, 70 to 72c. per 66 lbs., in store; 72 to 74c. afloat; oats, 42 to 43c: corn, 72 to 73c., duty paid; 64½c. in bond; feed barley, 50 to 52c.; good malting do., 65 to 70c.; rye, 60c.

The flour market is unchanged and the movement small and unimportant; in fact there is nothing doing except some business in broken lots, for which it is hardly possible to give a quotation. Receipts are small and stocks continue to show a steady decrease. Patent spring, $5.70 to $5.80; Patent winter, $5.10 to $5.40; Straight roller, $4.55 to $4.70; Extra, $4.35 to $4.70; Superfine, $4 to $4.10; Fine, $3.25 to $3.50; City strong bakers', $5.50 to $0.00.; Strong bakers', $5.50 to $0.00; Superfine bags, $1.75 to $1.90; Extra bags, $2 to $2.10; Fine bags, $1.50 to $1.65; Oatmeal, standard, per bag, $2.25 to $2.35; Oatmeal, granulated, $2.40 to $2.50; Oatmeal, rolled, $2.40 to $2.50.

THE STOCKS IN STORE.

The stocks of flour in store shows a decrease of 317 barrels compared with a week ago, and 26,936 barrels compared with the same date last year.

The stocks of grain in store compared with those of a week ago show an increase of 39,118 bushels of wheat, 6,169 bushels of barley, and a decrease of 100 bushels of corn, 6,559 bushels of peas, 1,578 bushels of oats and 765 bushels of rye. Compared with the same date last year there is a decrease of 212091 bushels of wheat, 19,775 bushels of corn, 57,617 bushels of peas, 19,670 bushels of barley, and an increase of 22,487 bushels of oats.

ST. JOHN, N. B., MARKETS.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Dec. 3, 1890.

As the holiday season draws near, there is considerable activity among the retail dealers. Wholesale men are also busy, and a good deal of goods are being sent out There was recently placed on the market from the firm of D. W. Hogg & Co., Fredericton, N. B., canned apples. The apples are peeled and cored, and are put up in gallon cans. The article is said to be excellent for cooking, and retains all the flavor of the fruit. The cans are finding their way rapidly into all the retail stores. They are quoted at $3.00 per case, containing one dozen cans.

FLOUR AND MEAL—Flour remains steady. Oatmeal is firmer and 5c. higher. Following are the quotations: Medium patent, $5.20 to $5.25; Canadian High Grade Family, $5.40 to $5.50; Manitoba Spring Patents, $6.40 to $6.50; Oatmeal, standard, $5.10 to $5.20; Roller Oatmeal, $5.20 to $5.25; Pot Barley $4 to $4.25; Cornmeal (kiln-dried) $3.20 to $3.30; do (granulated, $3.60 to $3.75.

FISH—Pollock continues firm. Shelburne herring are becoming scarce, but prices remain unchanged. Among the receipts for week were 161 barrels, and 38 half-barrels, pickled herring; 240 quintals Codfish; and 3,300 boxes smoked herring, besides a lot of fresh haddock, cod and hake. The quotations are:

Codfish, per quintal, large, dry, $4.75 to $4.90; do. Tolquol, $4.40 to $4.50; do. medium, $4.15 to $4.25; Pollock, $1.90 to $2.00; Haddock, $1.75 $2.00; Herring, Bay, per bbl. split, $3 to $3.25; do. per half-bbl. $1.50 to $1.60; do. Shelburne No. 1 $4.75 to $5; do. No. 2 $3.25 to $3.50; Canso, $6 to $6.50; Labrador, $4.50 to $5. Smoked Herring—Grand Manan, sc'd, per box, 11 to 13c. Tucktails, lengthwise, 10 to 11c.; Shad, per hf.-bbl. $6.50 to $7.

Oats have again taken another turn upward, and are firm at 1 to 2c. higher. Quotations are: Oats, P. E. Island, 51 to 53c.; oats, Canadian, 51 to 53c.; beans, prime, $1.70 to $1.80; hops, 20 to 22c.

PROVISIONS—P. E. Island mess pork are marked down 50c.; plate beef show an advance of 25c. The quotations are: Clear pork, $16.50 to $17; Am. mess pork, per bbl. (new), $15 to $15.50; P.E.I. mess pork, per bbl., $16 to $16.50; ex prime pork, in bond, per bbl., $12 to $12.50; plate beef, in bond, per bbl., $8.25 to $8.50; extra plate beef, in bond, per bbl., $8.50 to $8.75; cheese (new), 10 to 11c.; butter, per lb. (choice), 17 to 19c.; butter, per lb. (old), 12 to 14c.; lard, per lb., 9 to 11c.; eggs, per doz., 19 to 20c.

SUGAR—The only change recorded is in granulated, which show a decline of 1/8c. The quotations are: Bright extra C, 5 1/2 to 5 5/8c.; good, 5 3/8 to 5 1/2c.; common, 5 1/4 to 5 3/8c.; granulated, 6 3/8 to 6 1/2c.; Barbados, 6 to 6 1/4c.; Paris lumps, 7 1/2 to 8c.

BRAINS IN BUSINESS.

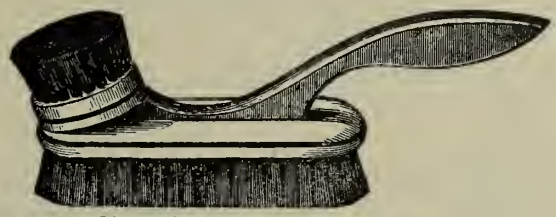
A writer in The Office says: One great secret of success in business—the secret, in fact, of success on a large scale—is to conceive of it as a matter of principles, not merely as a series of transactions. There are great merchants as there are great statesmen, and there are small merchants as there are small politicians, and the difference between the great and small men is very much the same in both. The small politician works by the day, and sees only one opportunity before him; the small merchant does the same thing—he is looking for the next dollar. The statesman, on the other hand, is master of the situation because he understands the great principles which control events; this knowledge enables him to deal with large questions and to shape the future.

The great merchant does the same thing. His business is not a mere money-getting affair, not a mere matter of barter, but a science and an art; he studies the general laws of trade, watches the general condition of the country, investigates present needs, foresees future wants, and adapts his business to the broad conditions of his time and place. He puts as much brains into his work as does the statesman, and he ends by being not a money-getter, but a large-minded and capable man.

An eminent successful man of the statesmanlike quality said the other day that the more he understood of life, the more clearly he saw that it was all done on business principles; by which he meant not only that the universe is governed by unvarying laws, but that promptness, exactness, thoroughness and honesty are wrought in every fibre.

On these business principles all life is conducted—if not by men, at least by that Power which is behind man. It ought to be the ambition of every young man to treat his business from the point of view of the statesman, and not from that of the politician.

Goods conveniently located save time, money and temper in showing.



The tie of a seven years' fellowship was very gracefully parted on Saturday afternoon, when the office staff of Smith & Keighley's, wholesale grocery, marked the leave taking of their associate, Mr. Edwin Scott, with a flattering address and a diamond ring. Mr. Scott made a suitable response.

Shortly after five o'clock on the morning of the 26th ult. fire broke out in the flour and feed store owned and occupied by John Gibb, Elora. The flames spread with great rapidity to his adjoining grocery store and later to the dry goods and grocery store owned by John Bowes. The two buildings were totally destroyed. Mr. Gibbs lost everything. Mr. Bowes succeeded in saving a considerable portion of his stock, although in a much damaged condition. The insurance is not large on either store, and both parties sustained heavy loss. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A reputation for truthfulness is indispensable to permanent and satisfying success.

According to the statement of Mr. R. J. Woods, of the Cascade Packing Company, a regular system of barefaced smuggling into northern British Columbia from Alaskan points is now carried on. There is no secrecy about the work, as whole sloop cargoes of canned goods, tobacco, rifles, ammunition, gum boots, and other dutiable goods are landed and sold from time to time.—Winnipeg Commercial.

The new Vancouver sugar refinery received recently 250 tons of raw sugar. They will commence operations as soon as they can obtain power enough to run their machinery. They depend on the water works for power, and owing to some breakage in the mains the water works company have not been able to turn on the full force of water for some time. As soon as the break is repaired they will be able to supply power enough to run the refining machinery.—Winnipeg Commercial.

Mr. Carl Trostroff, representing a manufacturing concern in Prussia, was met by the following gentlemen in the council chamber of the Toronto board of trade last Friday afternoon: Hugh Blain, Archibald Blue, James Hedley, R. H. Tomlinson, James Goldie, Guelph; W. M. Stark, Joseph Harris and R. H. Lawder, Lindsay. The meeting had been called by Mr. Lawder with a view to having Mr. Trostroff explain to leading financiers the feasibility of expending $255,000 in the erection of a beet sugar factory. A number of the gentlemen expected failed to turn up and those present were evidently not favorably impressed with the scheme. The meeting was adjourned without any action being taken.

The New Westminster Truth says: "A prominent firm of canned fruit importers, Simpson & Co., write from Liverpool, England, to the Colonist to suggest that a good market can be found for British Columbia canned fruit in England, if packed in 1 pound and 2½ pound tins. They add that the preservers should insist on more fruit and less syrup than the Californians put in, the fruit, moreover, being 'carefully selected, unspotted, unstained, refined to the necessarily precise mature yellowness, nothing more, nothing less.' All this requires great care, but not more than our fruit canners, some of them already skilled, should be able to bestow."

Restore goods to their proper places as soon after using as possible.

Leaves from the Diary of a Commercial Traveller.

BY WM. H. MAHER.

CHAPTER XIII.

My next stop was at the little city of Clifton; "little that is compared with New York or Chicago, but large enough to be well enveloped in city airs, and containing some large business houses. I arrived there after dark, but took a stroll through the main business street to see where the hardware stores were, and how they looked from the street. The one nearest the hotel looked like a jobbing estabishment, and had Sullivan over the door. A little further on was another large establishment, and then another, and toward the end of the street a small stove store,but with one corner devoted to hardware. There was only one man in the store, and I concluded then was a good time to call on the proprietor.

He dropped his paper as I lifted the latch, and answered my "good evening" pleasantly.

"Keep your seat," said I, seeing him about to get up; "I want to bother you a few minutes, but I can do it just as well if you sit down."

By this time he saw I was a stranger and looked at me questioningly.

"I didn't feel like sitting in the hotel," said I, giving him my card, "and I walked down the street this far to see who might be in."

"Come and sit down," said he; "I don't do much in hardware, but I've got plenty of time to visit."

He was a very pleasant voiced man, and we were soon chatting away sociably upon topics of the day, until we touched upon politics. He began to take very decided Democratic ground, and I agreed with him when I could, and when I couldn't I remained silent. I couldn't very well be a Democrat with one man and a Republican with another without loosing self-respect, but I was not obliged to run tilt with every one who did not think as I did, and if my silence was consent I had to remember that my business was selling hardware.

Mr. Arnet was an enthusiastic Democrat, and the way he pitched into corrupt Republicans was edifying. He read the Enquirer daily, and was a pretty good talker, and I imagine must have been a strong wire-puller in his ward.

As it began to near the time when he might want to shut up, I felt that I ought to hange the current of talk around to business.

"How is your stock of hardware, Mr. Arnet?" I asked.

"Oh, I don't do anything in hardware."

"I see you keep knives and forks, sad irons and pressed ware," said I.

"Yes I have to keep a few such things, but I deal mostly with Sidney Shepard. I get my tin of him, and when I'm ordering tin I might as well get other things."

"Did you ever buy in our town?"

"Yes, I once gave a hardware man from your place an order, but I was awfully took in. And was most an allfired good Democrat, too!"

"That's bad for the town and the Democracy," said I, "but I'll be to see you in the morning, and I think that I can promise that if you give me an order you will not be taken in."

In the morning I made him an early call, and after a deal of persuasion, brought him to the ordering point. I went back of the counters with him and looked in the boxes, calling his attention to everything that was low. He was very cautious; would not order until he had compared my price with the cost mark on his goods, and once or twice came very near catching me tripping. I held to him until I had sold him a bill of about $40, and had learned all the secrets of the Democratic party, and then I prepared to try my hand with some of the larger houses.

The first one I came to was evidently doing a large business, and the proprietor was so busy I was turning to go away, when he came up to me and asked me if there was anything he could do for me, supposing me to be a customer.

I did not blame him for looking disgusted when I turned out to be a drummer, but he was going to get out of the difficulty by the shortest cut, and that was by assuring me, with emphasis, that he did not need a thing; his stock was as full as it could be.

"I am sorry to come when you are so busy," said I, "and I was on my way out intending to come in again to see you; perhaps you have more leisure at some other time of day?"

"No, I don't know as I have," said he, so as to choke off any more visiting from me; "I am about as busy as this all day."

Well, thinks I, I have you now, and I may not have you again, and I guess I might as well open up my batteries.

"I didn't expect to sell you a stock of goods, Mr. Taylor," said I; "but unless you are different from all other hardware men, you are obliged to sort up frequently. I am going through here regularly, and I want to do some business with you, providing I can do it to your satisfaction. I make a good profit where I can, and I sell low to close buyers, and I promise you my very lowest prices if you will try me with a little order."

"I don't need a thing to-day."

Just then a man came in and asked to see a churn. Taylor turned as if to dismiss me, but I headed him off.

"Don't mind me, Mr. Taylor." said I; attend to your customer; I can wait."

I followed him leisurely and watched him try to sell the churn to the man. The customer was in doubt about it; it wasn't the churn he came to buy, and while he very evidently liked this churn, he seemed to think nothing would do for his wife unless it had one particular brand on it. Taylor did not know the churn the man wanted, but as luck would have it, I did. Just as the man was turning to go I concluded I would take a hand in the dicker.

"Look here, friend," said I to the customer, "I'll show you a wrinkle this churn has that the churn you want hasn't." He turned back and Taylor looked interested. I went on and explained the difference in the two churns, praising Taylor's at the expense of the other, When I said, "The churn you want has such and such defects," the man said, "That's so.', and I ommitted to mention the defects that I saw in the churn before us.

Taylor looked quite pleased and took hold of the man again and ended in selling him a churn. Out of politeness now he was forced to give me a little of his time, and I made the best of it, ending up by saying;

"You must undoubtely have something on your want book, Mr. Taylor; why not let me have the order if I can sell you the things right?"

"Let's go and see," said he.

I followed him back to the desk, and upon opening the book, the first item mentioned was No. 25 coffee-mills. I would rather have had almost anything else there.

That particular coffee mill was known to every dealer; it was sold close by all jobbing houses, and it was so heavy that Eastern houses had all the advantage. As rates were then, they cost 90 cents a dozen freight, which was over 8 per cent. of their value at the factory.

"What can you sell them for?" he asked.

I wasn't going to be bluffed at the very first step, so I quoted at about cost.

He thought a moment and then said, "Send me half a dozen."

The next item was bed-casters, another staple. I looked at him a minute, and thought to myself there was no use throwing all the profit away, so I put 10 per cent. to the cost, and give him the figure.

"You're high," said he.

"I guess not," said I.

"Well send me fifty set, anyway."

We managed to get along pretty well until we came to one-inch corner chisels.

"You don't handle Ohio goods, do you?" he asked.

"No, sir, but I have just as good a tool for less money."

"I don't believe that."

"But it's so. I warrant every tool, and if it isn't all right you are to take it back. You can't say any more for the Ohio."

"What do you ask for them."

The Ohio was selling for $22; ours cost $14 I wanted to sell him, and so I quoted at $16.

"I dont want them," said he, promptly; "they are too cheap."

That was a fault easily remedied. "I have a brand I can sell you for $18, and I give you my word they are as good as the Ohio at $22."

"Well," said he, "you may send me half a dozen: I'll try them; $4 a dozen is worth saving."

We were now through with the memoranda, and I took my leave, after seeing that the bill would count up to about $75.

At the next store the proprietor was not in the city, and then I made my way to Sullivan's.

Mr. Sullivan was very polite, agreed with me in everything, but I could not come within a mile of selling him. I could mention nothing that he was out of, or anything new that he wanted. I talked my best, tried every argument, but it was all of no avail; I could not sell him a dollar's worth. Out of patience at last, but careful not to show it, I went to the hotel to see when the first train went to Greenville.

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE.

A Delicious and Nourishing Beverage.

For purifying the blood and invigorating the system. In the herbs of the field and forest are found properties that antidote nearly all the diseases to which humanity is liable. It has been ascertained that German Dandelion Root, when taken in proper quantities, acts directly upon the liver, producing healthy action, and through it making the whole system strong and vigorous. We have taken advantage of this property in the Dandelion, and have prepared a Breakfast Beverage of great excellence, incorporating in it a very high grade of fine Coffee and a proportion of this valuable herb.

The price is low enough to be within the means of all to take advantage of its rare qualities.

We offer it to the public confidently believing that it will be found satisfactory to all who give it a fair trial. Prepared only by

I followed him leisurely and watched him try to sell the churn to the man. The customer was in doubt about it; it wasn't the churn he came to buy, and while he very evidently liked this churn, he seemed to think nothing would do for his wife unless it had one particular brand on it. Taylor did not know the churn the man wanted, but as luck would have it, I did. Just as the man was turning to go I concluded I would take a hand in the dicker.

"Look here, friend," said I to the customer, "I'll show you a wrinkle this churn has that the churn you want hasn't." He turned back and Taylor looked interested. I went on and explained the difference in the two churns, praising Taylor's at the expense of the other, When I said, "The churn you want has such and such defects," the man said, "That's so.', and I ommitted to mention the defects that I saw in the churn before us.

Taylor looked quite pleased and took hold of the man again and ended in selling him a churn. Out of politeness now he was forced to give me a little of his time, and I made the best of it, ending up by saying;

"You must undoubtely have something on your want book, Mr. Taylor; why not let me have the order if I can sell you the things right?"

"Let's go and see," said he.

I followed him back to the desk, and upon opening the book, the first item mentioned was No. 25 coffee-mills. I would rather have had almost anything else there.

That particular coffee mill was known to every dealer; it was sold close by all jobbing houses, and it was so heavy that Eastern houses had all the advantage. As rates were then, they cost 90 cents a dozen freight, which was over 8 per cent. of their value at the factory.

"What can you sell them for?" he asked.

I wasn't going to be bluffed at the very first step, so I quoted at about cost.

He thought a moment and then said, "Send me half a dozen."

The next item was bed-casters, another staple. I looked at him a minute, and thought to myself there was no use throwing all the profit away, so I put 10 per cent. to the cost, and give him the figure.

"You're high," said he.

"I guess not," said I.

"Well send me fifty set, anyway."

We managed to get along pretty well until we came to one-inch corner chisels.

"You don't handle Ohio goods, do you?" he asked.

"No, sir, but I have just as good a tool for less money."

"I don't believe that."

"But it's so. I warrant every tool, and it it isn't all right you are to take it back. You can't say any more for the Ohio."

"What do you ask for them."

The Ohio was selling for $22; ours cost $14 I wanted to sell him, and so I quoted at $16.

"I dont want them," said he, promptly; "they are too cheap."

That was a fault easily remedied. "I have a brand I can sell you for $18, and I give you my word they are as good as the Ohio at $22."

"Well," said he, "you may send me half a dozen: I'll try them; $4 a dozen is worth saving."

We were now through with the memoranda, and I took my leave, after seeing that the bill would count up to about $75.

At the next store the proprietor was not in the city, and then I made my way to Sullivan's.

Mr. Sullivan was very polite, agreed with me in everything, but I could not come within a mile of selling him. I could mention nothing that he was out of, or anything new that he wanted. I talked my best, tried every argument, but it was all of no avail; I could not sell him a dollar's worth. Out of patience at last, but careful not to show it, I went to the hotel to see when the first train went to Greenville.

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE.

A Delicious and Nourishing Beverage.

For purifying the blood and invigorating the system. In the herbs of the field and forest are found properties that antidote nearly all the diseases to which humanity is liable. It has been ascertained that German Dandelion Root, when taken in proper quantities, acts directly upon the liver, producing healthy action, and through it making the whole system strong and vigorous. We have taken advantage of this property in the Dandelion, and have prepared a Breakfast Beverage of great excellence, incorporating in it a very high grade of fine Coffee and a proportion of this valuable herb.

The price is low enough to be within the means of all to take advantage of its rare qualities.

We offer it to the public confidently believing that it will be found satisfactory to all who give it a fair trial. Prepared only by

STABILITY OF THE NEW EGG MARKET.

Mr. Geo. Wait, of Geo. Wait & Co., Montreal, has just written Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs, the latest results obtained by the firm in question. Mr. Wait's shipment's have been exceedingly lively, and of a total shipment of 1,500 cases to England 900 cases have been exported since the 22nd November. One feature of the new trade is that we hear no more about trial shipments. The character of the Canadian eggs appears already to be so well established in the London market that cable messages for quotations, replies to the same and the closing of the bargain, like any other staple product, are now of daily occurrence in the offices of Mr. Wait and other leading Montreal dealers. These. last shipments will net the exporter in Montreal 22½c. per dozen, and as each case contains 30 dozen, of eggs the total amount received for Wait & Co's shipments, between the two dates referred to, will be not less than $6,075.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE CREAMERIES CONVENTION.

As officially announced in another part of this issue, a convention of the Ontario Creameries Association will be held in the town of Berlin on the 13th and 14th of January next. Country merchants are invited to be present, and we hope a goodly number of them will accept the invitation. The Association aims to select the very best ground on which to scatter the seed of its cause, in order that the propagation of that cause may be as rapid as possible. Clearly there is no better medium through which its influence can filter than the general country trade. The country merchants have the intelligence of business men, and systematic attention on their part to the presentation and discussion of the problems which come before the Association would do much to shorten the period of transition from the domestic dairy to the scientific creamery, a transition in which our butter-making industry has been hanging in equilibrium already too long a time.

Not only does the enlightenment of the country traders make them desirable as co-adjutors of the creamery men for the discouragement of domestic butter-making, but their manifest interest in such a change is almost enough on which to bespeak their hearty co-operation. Time and again have we referred to experiences with which our readers are too familiar, and which cannot but make the trade wishful for deliverance from the miserable sort of barter they are now forced to practise with every one who owns a cow. Loss, loss, loss, is the steady refrain of the trade upon its experiences in butter dealings. There would be more solvency to-day in the trade if creameries had been general during the past twenty years. The country would have been richer, farmers' homes would have been happier, and the state of agricultural civilization would have been raised higher by the emancipation of the women from the slavery of the domestic dairy. The benefits that have followed the displacement in other lines of the individual producer by the factory will ensue the transfer of butter-making from the home to the creamery, and those benefits will affect favorably both the producer of the raw material and the producer of the finished product. The farmers cannot lose, even temporarily as the English peasant-weavers or the Belgic domestic glassmakers lost by the invention and establishment of machinery processes. For the farmer will continue to supply the raw material, on which he can now make some profit, which before he could not owing to the labor and loss through home modes of manufacture. The farmer will be a more eligible customer than ever, as his means will be increased by the change in the method of disposing of his milk. The country merchant will be therefore promoting trade by giving his support to the creamery, as thus he will aid in the enrichment of his customers.

A letter has been received by the Toronto Board of Trade from J. J. Metcalf & Co., butter and egg merchants, Liverpool, Eng., to the effect that they would be pleased to have a trial shipment of fifty cases of Canadian eggs. The letter also said that they had been called upon by the Canadian special commissioner in the furtherance of Canadian egg shipping.

A CASH EXPERIMENT.

We published a paragraph a few weeks ago stating that Messrs. T. & J. N. Andrews & Co., general merchants, Thornbury, had launched upon a sixty days' experiment of unalloyed cash selling. We felt that our readers would be interested in learning the considerations which led this firm to take such a step, and an inquiry sent to Messrs. Andrews & Co. elicited the following reply:

THORNBURY, ONT., NOV. 28TH, 1890.

J. B. McLEAN, Co., Toronto.

DEAR SIRS,—Yours of November 24th received. Re the change we have made in our business, I do not know that I can give you very many particulars about it. We have for the last twenty years been doing a very large credit business, but this last two or three years the farmers seem to have found out an easier way to pay these accounts than by doing it with money. Of course, farm property around here has depreciated a great deal in the last few years, for instance, five years ago a farm worth $3,000 would have a mortgage of about $2,000 on it. To-day the same farm would not sell for more than $2,200 or $2,300. The farmer will let a year's interest run behind, and then go to a money lender and chattel mortgage all his stock, quietly sell his grain in another town, and move out after getting in debt all he can. This will be all done so easily that only a few intimate friends will know anything about it. In just such cases we have lost a great many accounts, so on the 1st ult. we got out circulars notifying every person that on the 15th we would sell no more on credit, and we fully meant it. So far we have not broken the rule, neither do we intend to break it. Of course for sixty days we are giving ten per cent. off, and by that time we will have our stock all marked at cash prices. We find so far it works splendidly. Our cash sales are fully doubled, and there is very little complaining among our customers. Of course we think it will be a little more difficult to make it go in the summer, when money will be a little scarce, but what goods we cannot sell for cash or produce, we intend to keep on our shelves, as we are heartily sick of the credit system, and we also believe it will be better for the country at large.

Now, sir, we have given you all the information we can, and if you can pick enough out of it to make a small item which would be of any benefit to any of your many readers, your are at perfect liberty to do so.

I remain, yours, etc.

T. & J. N. ANDREWS & CO.

Reckless credit giving or credit forcing is always the cause of reckless buying. No doubt the age of credit is one in which the quality of personal self denial has languished rather than flourished, as formerly the indulgence of one's wishes was limited at all events more to the means at one's immediate command than it is now. That intangible resource, credit, however, has enlarged the sphere of one's purchasing liberty, and people buy what they would not have paused to admire a half century ago. Liberty of credit has made people thus prodigal, and it might be interesting to observe what degree of shrinkage in their actual supplies they could stand if once they were subjected to the necessity of retrenching. A local test is being made by Andrews & Co., and a good effect may be educated in habits of economy.

SPROUTS OF ASSOCIATION SENTIMENT.

The Secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association invites the other associations throughout Ontario to send in the names of their officers, that he may compile their addresses for reference. He at the same time asks them to correspond with him upon questions affecting the retail grocery trade of the country.

THE GROCERS' COMBINATION.

EDITOR CANADIAN GROCER,

Dec. 5, 1890.

Now that the Toronto R. G. Association has got to work against combinations, it will never do to quit until the crusade is complete. I hear that at their last meeting (November) a committee was appointed to report what goods were under combine prices, with a view to removing them as much as possible from the retailers' shelves. This is a step in the right direction, but in order to make it as effective as possible they must have the country with them. In your fall number their secretary threw out suggestions as to a central body consisting of members from kindred associations throughout Ontario, and I understand these suggestions are to be put into practicable shape at next meeting. This being so, I would urge that the sooner it is done the better. The retailers through the country feel the burden and are prepared to assist. I have no doubt such a body would prove a very hard nut for the wholesalers to crack. It would also teach manufacturers that if they want to reach the consumers they will have to be very circumspect in the way they treat retail merchants. I have already heard of a manufacturers' agent who feels very much afraid that his goods will be consigned to oblivion, and he has much cause for his fear, for he was one of the first to place the goods of his house under combine. He will have company, however, so that he will be able to receive as well as extend sympathy. Now, about this central body. Let us have a meeting at once, and invite the merchants from outside to come along, bringing their experience and suggestions. For the present let the Toronto boys have the lead. They have been and are, doing well. Let them prepare their programme first, study it well in all its details, and then send it out to other associations, and to leading merchants where there is no organization; also, call the meeting a certain time from the sending of the programme, and map out a line of action.

All the delegates would come with the views of their local associations, and the result would be a lasting benefit to all concerned. At present the various bodies are laboring under great difficulties, and need a leader. Their energies are being wasted in useless talk, but once they centralize, their attention will be directed into proper channels, and the power now being lost would be put to good use. I have no doubt the December meeting in Toronto will open up the way for the ideas I have spoken of, and it of course remains to be seen how the country will respond. I have more to say upon this matter, and, Mr. Editor, if you grant me the use of a little space, I will write again shortly.

Yours truly,

W. A.

JOIN WITH TORONTO.

EDITOR GROCER.

It will be remembered by your readers that in your fall number I wrote advocating the formation of a central body, towards which local associations could look for guidance in matters affecting the trade of the province. I then touched a note which has already been responded to. It has happened in the past and will again no doubt in the future, that the Toronto body has been in the front of the fight and has battled for the whole trade. Now, I am of opinion that in places where an association does not exist, the retail grocers would do well, and strengthen our hands by joining our association at a cost of two dollars per year. It will be asked what benefits would accrue to members living away from our city. In answer to that I point to our record, and let it speak for itself. In some places there will be from ten to thirty merchants in the grocery trade. Suppose a number of them join. I hold that in time these men would have sufficient influence over the remainder to cause them also to join, at any rate they would be lending a helping hand, and when strong enough they could start their own meetings.

TORONTO SECRETARY.

Another circular has been issued by the Inland Revenue Department in reference to the destruction of cigar boxes. It states that dealers who desire to keep empty cigar boxes in their shops as "dummies" may do so if they will cut diagonally one cover of each empty box, the portion removed to be at least three inches on each side from the corner.

John P. Chetwynd, the Halifax lobster packer, under arrest for forgery, smuggling and perjury, has been committed to the Supreme Court for trial on the first charge, and is now being tried before the magistrate upon eighteen other counts of forging the name of A. J. Tower, of Boston, to bogus invoices and circulating the same. After the cases are disposed of he will be proceeded against for smuggling. The detectives allege that of $50,000 worth of oil clothes imported Chetwynd only paid duty on $15,000, and imports of $4,000 worth of goods would be entered at the customs for $500. Chetwynd's place of business was on the wharf where the steamer Halifax lands her freight, and when say ten cases of goods were imported one would be sent to the appraiser's office and the other nine dropped off at Chetwynd's warehouse.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS.

THEIR ASSOCIATION HOLDS ITS ANNUAL MEETING—THE PRESIDENT WALKS OUT OF OFFICE WITH A CANE—HIS SUCCESSOR FIRST TAKES THE CHAIR AS HOST.

The series of unusually progressive meetings held by the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association this fall, culminated on Monday night in the annual meeting, in which enthusiasm, unanimity and the broadest fellow-feeling characterised the essential proceedings, and supplemented them. The hedge of individual exclusiveness which a few years ago was so zealously kept preserved by members of the trade, is now completely trampled down by the mutual exchange of experiences and opinions among the grocers who are knit together in this Association. This fact was signally illustrated at the meeting on Monday night. Of the members who attended that gathering, the following names represent those most active in the Association's progress: Messrs. Mills, Thackray, Gibson, Williamson, Booth, Binnie, Westren, Sinclair, Johnston, F. Britton, W. F. Britton, Hodgins, Clarke, Mara, McCulloch, Donald, Radcliffe, Butcher, Dallimore, Shaw, White, Barron, Parkhill, Jones, Roberts, Barron, jr., Mr. Mills, the President, was in the chair.

The Secretary read the minutes of the last monthly meeting, which upon the motion of Mr. Clarke, seconded by Mr. Johnston, were received and adopted.

RESPONSES TO THE ANTI-COMBINE DECLARATION.

The following replies, acknowledging receipt of copy of anti-combine resolutions, were read by the Secretary. Some of them, where the case required or where the nature of them warranted, were reported to have been answered by the Secretary when received:

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 14, 1890.

J. F. THACKRAY, Esq., Toronto, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—I have been away on a hunting tour for a month, and just returned a few days ago. I had a good time and bagged a lot of game. I was much pleased that the R. G. A. of Toronto had awakened to their senses in regard to combines. I hope you will stick to it until the Guild is broken up, as they are the most selfish and unjust organization on the face of the earth to-day. I sent you a paper the other day with the action taken by the grocers of this city. I expect we will have quite a discussion when the matter comes up.

Yours respectfully,

ADAM BALLANTINE.

MILVERTON, Ont., Nov. 22, 1890.

J. F. THACKRAY, Esq.

SIR,—At a meeting held at Wellesly on the 21st inst. of our Board of Trade, consisting of merchants from the counties of Waterloo and Perth, the following resolution was passed:

"That the T. R. G. Association will have the hearty co-operation of the Board of Trade, which awaits the action of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association with deepest interest.

Yours truly,
H. GLEISER, Sec.

MONTREAL, Nov. 21st, 1890.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

GENTLEMEN,—I am instructed to forward you the following resolution adopted unanimously at a meeting of the Montreal Grocers' Association on Thursday the 13th November, instant, in Mechanics' Hall.

That this association tenders their thanks to the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association for the communication received and that they entirely and heartily endorse the resolution just read, adopted by the said association.

I am also instructed to ask the views of your association on the practicability and advisability of selecting certain staple articles from certain manufacturers and keeping only the articles so selected to the exclusion of all others, be they or not in the combine.

I remain, gentlemen,
Respectfully yours,
J. MONIER, Sec. M. G. A.

LONDON, Nov. 26th, 1890.

J. F. THACKRAY, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—At a meeting of the London Retail Grocers' Association, this afternoon a resolution was passed : That the Secretary communicate with your association enquiring what action you are taking regarding the Wholesale Grocers' Guild and what are the results.

Awaiting your reply, I remain
yours respectfully,
E. SUTTON, Sec.

THE SEC. TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASS.

DEAR SIR,—I have been instructed by the Simcoe Retail Grocers' Association to ask you for a copy of your constitution. We have organized in our town and are with you in any action against all objectionable Guilds and Combines.

Kindly send copy of constitution by return mail and oblige.

Yours very truly,
J. C. WATSON,
Sec. S. R. G. Ass'n.

SIMCOE, Nov. 21st, 1890.

MR. J. F. THACKRAY,
Sec. T. R. G. Ass'n.

DEAR SIR,—The Simcoe R. G. Association had a meeting last evening, and among other matters discussed, was the possibility of holding a provincial meeting or convention of representatives of all the different associations of the province, to be held in Toronto, at some date in the near future, for the purpose of uniting in an effort against such combinations and guilds as are objectionable to our business. We believe that if the province was united on this matter we would have much greater power, but individually we can do little or nothing.

We thought that by suggesting this to you, you could consider it at your next meeting. We are looking to your association for guidance to a certain extent.

I might say that we have decided quietly, to buy everything we can outside the Wholesale Guild. We will be glad to hear from you with any suggestions that will be of use to us.

Yours very truly,
J. C. WATSON,
Sec. S. R. G. Ass'n.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 17, 1890.

J. F. THACKRAY, ESQ., Toronto,

DEAR SIR,—The retail grocers of our city are entering the battle-field between right and wrong, especially at the present crisis. We meet on Thursday night, the 20th, to fully organise, and the writer has been instructed to write and ask you to please forward at once your rules, regulations, and anything else which would be of any interest to us in organizing. Possibly you are not willing to give us any instructions, but if not asking too much would you also send sample copy of your collecting letters, which the writer has heard about. Kindly reply early so we will have them on Thursday evening, and afterwards we will advise you of our proceedings. By so doing you will greatly oblige

Yours truly,
A. ELLIOT,
Secretary.

KINGSTON, Nov. 18, '90.

DEAR SIR,—We are going to hold a meeting Thursday. Let me know what action you have taken, so I can lay before the meeting.

Yours ever,

NAPANEE, Nov. 19th, 1890.

J. F. THACKRAY, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—The grocers of this town have in contemplation the organization of an association such as you have in your city, and as we are not very well posted, I have written to you for information on the subject. Please send us a copy of by-laws and any other papers you may think of service to us, and you will greatly oblige,

Yours truly,
GEO. A. BLEWETT.

A WHOLESALE OVERTURE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 2nd, 1890.

DEAR SIR,—Referring to the question of a change in the terms of credit and discounts, we beg to say that a meeting of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild will be held in this city on Thursday 4th inst., having for its immediate object the forcing of our firm into compliance therewith.

This may not have any special interest for you, but as it is only another phase of the Combine system, to which we understand the Retail Association of Canada strongly object, we venture to suggest that you place in our hands either by return mail or by telegraph on Thursday morning a vigorous protest from your local association, signed by its principal members, or failing this, a letter numerously signed by the most prominent merchants in your town, and we will take means to submit this to the refiners and others interested.

We have never appealed to you for help in the past. We only do so now because we feel that you are interested equally with ourselves in putting an end to an intolerable state of things.

Your obedient servants,
LIGHTBOUND, RALSTON & CO.

To this communication, the Secretary reported he had made the following reply, after conferring with the President, the matter being too urgent to be put off for the deliberation of the Association :—

MESSRS. LIGHTBOUND, RALSTON & CO.,
Montreal,

GENTLEMEN,—In reply to yours, which reached me at noon, to-day, I have not had the time to get signatures to a letter, but after conferring with our president, I may say that we are decidedly opposed to all further efforts of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, either by prices or by coercion. and if any of these means are put in force, the Dominion Grocers' Guild will certainly hear firing all along the line. We discuss the whole question at our meeting on Monday night next, and will be glad to hear full particulars of what is done, giving us also the names of those who make themselves especially active in these matters. The stand our Association has taken will not be receded from, and the other associations throughout the country are with us. Correspondence from these bodies reaches me daily, and we are now making preparations for centralizing them so as to act in conjunction.

Mr. Scales, the tobacco merchant, (this city), sells all tobaccos, (Macdonald's as well as the others), 4 months, or 3 per cent. 30 days. I am informed that the local guild made representations to Macdonald, of Montreal, to force him to abide by their terms. I am also informed that the reply to Mr. Scales was to go on and sell at his own terms. Why can you not do the same ? In conclusion, we trust that you will make a firm stand in the matter, as you may be assured that the time has come when the retailer will no longer sit down and do the Wholesale Guild's bidding.

I remain,
Respectfully yours,
J. F. THACKRAY, Sec.

Mr. Thackray stated that no reply had so far been received from Lightbound, Ralston & Co.

ACCOUNTS.

These were passed :

Rent, $22.75 ; Telegram advertising, 95c., and advertising in World not itemized.

PIC-NIC RELICS.

Mr. Westren, the treasurer of the pic-nic committee, reported a balance of $15.37, exclusive of $7 of outstanding subscriptions. This $7 he had been unable to collect. He had not the audited statement with him.

Mr. Johnston moved, and Mr. McCulloch

To Grocers !

There are three articles which the consuming public have decided are the best of their kind in the market, and it will pay every grocer to keep them in stock. They are

The "Horseshoe" brand of canned fruits and vegetables.
Packed by Bowlby Bros. & Co., of Waterford, Ont.

"Cairns" Home-made marmalade, jams and jellies.
Packed by Alexander Cairns, Paisley, Scotland.

The "Trident" brand of canned salmon.
Packed by Ed. Wadhams, Ladner's Landing, B.C.

Every package of the above brands guaranteed as to quality and weight.

BLAIKLOCK BROS, Agents,

seconded, that the treasurer's report of the pic-nic accounts be received. Carried.

With reference to the delinquency of subscribers, whose $7 could not be collected by the treasurer, Mr. Mara moved, seconded by Mr. Johnston, that Barnett & Son be communicated with for the purpose of obtaining their subscription of $2 and a case of catsup which they had engaged to donate. Mr. Mara said the firm had been asked for this subscription, and had refused to give it. Carried.

Another cash subscription which had been undertaken, but of which the promise was not redeemed, was referred to Mr. Gibson, who felt it would be premature and perhaps unjust to summarily pass upon it.

Mr. Mara inquired, if it was a fact that Fearman & Co., of Hamilton, had repudiated a subscription made by them to the pic-nic fund. He understood they were engaged to donate a ham.

Mr. Westren said it was a fact. Their Toronto agents, Barnett & Son, had, he believed, promised without the special consent of their principals, and the latter refused at the last moment to ratify the promise. Mr. Westren took it that Fearman & Co. behaved thus to show that they would not recognize the Association, as he understood the Toronto agents had written to the Hamilton firm to say that the subscription was made.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Mr. Thackray presented the report of the Executive Committee upon the questions referred to it at last meeting. This was (1) that the Single Tax communication be discussed in full meeting, if an expression of opinion be deemed advisable by the Association; (2) that instead of having cards printed as heretofore for the purpose of announcing that no Christmas presents would be made, the Association spend $10 for newspaper advertising of the same notice; (3) that Chas. Boeckh & Sons' prize be given to Mr. Saunders, as the first grocer's clerk married since the pic-nic; (4) that the list of combine goods and the other information relative thereto ordered in resolution at last meeting are not yet ready; that the Association consider the advisability of admitting to it members from places outside of Toronto.

Upon the motion of Mr. Clarke, seconded by Mr. Williamson, this report was received.

With reference to the suggestion that the announcement relative to Christmas presents be made solely through the newspapers, Mr. F. Britton moved, seconded by Mr. Johnston, that since slips could be got cheaper than cards, slips be used for posting in the stores the notice that presents would not be given, and that a small amount be added to that named in the report for the purpose of advertising the fact in the press and on the slips. Carried.

THE ANNUAL STATEMENT.

The Secretary reported a balance on hand from current funds of $54.77, remaining from an income of $227.45, after an outlay of $172.68. Of the special fund, he could not give a complete statement. It was, at the beginning of the year, $624.24, and expenditure from it was $207.55, but the interest was not known to him. Mr. Barron supplemented the secretary's report by saying there was a balance of $411 and some cents, together with six months' interest, the exact cents not being in his memory, he having left the statement by accident behind him.

Mr. Westren, for the auditors, reported that they had found the accounts correct.

The Secretary's statement was left over for reception at the next meeting.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

PRESIDENT BARRON.

Mr. Robert Barron, the sole nominee at the last meeting, was unanimously chosen for President.

Mr. J. G. Gibson was re-elected by acclamation to the office of Vice-President. Mr. Thackray was re-elected by acclamation to the office of Secretary.

Mr. Hodgins was elected Treasurer unanimously, but upon representing it as impossible for him to serve, he obtained permission to resign, his resignation being moved by Mr. Gibson, seconded by Mr. Clarke, and accepted by the Association. Mr. Hodgins then proposed Mr. Williamson for the office and Mr. Gibson seconded the nomination, whereupon Mr. Williamson was unanimously re-elected Treasurer.

Mr. McCulloch was re-elected inside guard by acclamation.

Of the nine members nominated for Directors at the last meeting, Messrs. Mills, Donald, Clarke, Binnie were elected by ballot.

FOR AN AT HOME.

Mr. Gibson moved, seconded by Mr. Clarke, that the following be a committee to take into consideration the question of an At Home: Messrs. F. Britton, W. F. Britton, Westren, Sinclair, Roberts, Booth, Butcher, Radcliffe, Hodgins and the officers of the Association.—Carried.

CLOSING COMPLIMENTS.

The business of the evening having now been completed, President Mills took the opportunity to thank the Association for its cordial support and assistance in the discharge of his duties during the past year. He should remember the past term of office with feelings of unalloyed pleasure. Under the guidance of the in-coming President he believed the Association would go much farther upon its career of progress. He had pleasure in introducing Mr. Barron to the chair of office.

Mr. Barron having thus been installed in the President's chair, said he had never sought the office, but would do his best to fill it conscientiously. He believed in members of the trade dwelling together in unity and amity, and was assured the Association was a promoter of that desirable harmony. He concluded by inviting the meeting to an oyster supper at Harry Webb's. The invitation was accepted with applause.

Mr. Thackray rose to say that he owed the retiring President his thanks for considerate and painstaking attention to all the multifarious matters of business necessarily brought by the Secretary before the President. He begged to express his thanks.

Mr. Butcher felt that the meeting should not close without its meed of approval having been given to the services of another officer, namely, the Secretary. His services were not merely of mechanical value, as they were given freely, outside of the routine duties of the office for the advancement of the Association. He moved, seconded by Mr. F. Britton, that the executive committee take into consideration the justice of adding $50 to Mr. Thackray's salary as Secretary. Carried.

The meeting then adjourned to Harry Webb's supper rooms.

THE NEW PRESIDENT'S HOSPITALITY.

Arrived at Webb's, the company sat down at about 10.15 p. m., to a repast which was a credit to the chef of that cafe. Mr. Barron did the honors with grace and consideration. After ample justice was done to the excellent viands, the toast list opened by the President proposing the health of "Her Majesty the Queen," which was responded to by the National Anthem. "The Army and Navy" was answered by Mr. Donald in a patriotic speech. "The Association" was coupled with the name of Mr. Mara, who made a humorous speech, in which he hoped that Mr. Barron's way of taking office would become an institution, which would be all the better if it were quarterly. He spoke hopefully of the prospects of the Association.

"A Song" was the next contribution from Mr. Donald, who gave it well.

The next feature of the programme was a surprise to the worthy ex-President, in the form of the following address, accompanied by a handsome ebony gold-headed cane:

R. MILLS, ESQ., Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—We the undersigned members of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association present our respects to you upon your retirement from the office of President of the Association, having rendered valuable services during your term of office. We have the pleasure of presenting to you this gold-headed cane, and accompanying address as a memento of our good-will and esteem, and trust you will long be spared to look upon them and recall the many pleasant events in connection with the Association.

We also wish to convey through you our kind regards to Mrs. Mills and family for the great hospitality shown at all times, and hope they will enjoy the blessings of health and prosperity, and share with you the pleasure of this life and look forward to a grander life beyond.

The address was handsomely framed and beautifully engrossed, while upon the head of the cane was engraved the inscription of the presentation. The valuable testimonial of fraternal regard was the gift of friends, and did not occasion any draft upon the Association funds.

Mr. Barron in a neat speech formally handed the cane to Mr. Mills.

Mr. Mills replied as a man under the disadvantage of extreme surprise and full appreciation of the honor might be expected to reply. His feeling remarks were received with applause.

Mr. Mara proposed the health of the newly-elected President, to which Mr. Barron made a suitable response.

The toast, to "The Coming Men, was coupled with the names of Messrs

NOT WHAT YOU PAY FOR AN ADVERTISMENT, BUT WHAT IT PAYS YOU!

1891

Hoary headed 1890, with tottering step, is fast approaching the dark abyss into which he will disappear never to return. We honor and respect his grey hairs. He has smiled on some and frowned on others. But all troubles and trials undergone during his reign are now forgotten in the excitement and preparation for his youthful successor, 1891. You are now comparing your profits with previous years. How do they stand? If you know your business, and study its every detail and have been a live advertiser, we say without fearing contradiction that it is on the right side. You are now looking to what '91 has in store for you. You ask "How can I increase my business?" Have you given advertising a fair trial? Our largest wholesale and manufacturing houses are big advertisers. It is a department in their business that they study carefully. The man who says "I never advertise" is a curiosity. He is a survivor of the dark ages.

IF YOU WANT TO REACH THE RETAIL GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER

why advertise in daily and general papers? Seventy-five per cent. of the circulation is thus wasted. The Canadian Grocer is the only journal in Canada that reaches the above class direct. Its subscribers look there and there only for your announcements. Isn't one bushel of grain sown in good soil better than twenty bushels thrown to the winds with hopes that it will find a fertile bed? Again, papers which are printed with coal tar, with type worn down to the second-nick, which can hardly make an outline cut show, which are filled with the worst kind of patent medicine advertisements, the live advertiser is better out of than he would be in at the same price. If you want cheap advertising and big circulation among the grocery and general store trade The Canadian Grocer is your medium.

WHEN?

You have decided on what you will do in the way of advertising for 1891 let us hear from you. All we ask is a fair trial. If you are in doubt as to its value we refer you to our large list of subscribers and advertisers. In conclusion we quote from one of our large advertisers letters: "Much better it would be if the advertiser handled his advertising with the same shrewdness he gives to other departments of his business. If $1,000 will pay thrown promiscuously into the newspapers, it will pay 100 per cent. better if put there systematically and intelligently."

Butcher, Radcliffe, F. Britton, all of whom made good speeches.

Mr. Mara proposed "The Vice-President," which was drunk to "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Mr. Gibson made an excellent response.

"The Treasurer" was proposed by Mr. F. Britton. Mr. Williamson responded.

Mr. Radcliffe, in eulogistic words, proposed "The Secretary." Mr. Thackray made a fitting response.

Mr. Mills was then called on by the chair to give a reading, which he did very creditably.

Mr. Hodgins gave a speech in lieu of a song which the Chairman asked for.

"The Press" was replied to by Mr. Mortley, of the Merchant, and Mr. Jennings, of THE GROCER.

Mr. Clarke responded to "The Ladies."

Mr. Barron was moved out and Mr. Mills moved into the chair. Mr. Clarke then moved that the thanks of the Association be voted to President Barron for his hospitality. Mr. Williamson seconded. The motion was carried, and Mr. Williamson formally conveyed the Association's thanks to the President, who made a modest reply.

The company then broke up.

THE SARNIA RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION DINES.

The first annual dinner of the Sarnia Retail Grocers' Association took place Thursday evening, Dec. 4th, at the St. Clair hotel, when the following members and their friends were present: Mr. D. McCart, President (in the chair), and Mr. J. F. O'Neil, vice-chair, R. Kenney, M. Saunders, P. Clark, Geo. Wenino, W. J. Cherney, Donald Simpson, Wm. Hill, C. A. Wenino, Wm. Johnson, W. Kirton, G. Gray, C. A. LaCroix, The following from Point Edward: Wm. Fraser, E. Phelps, F. Boomer. Other members of the company were: Prof. R. J. McCauley, Hamilton; J. Varson (Globe Baking Powder), Detroit and Windsor; Thos. Donnelly, Sarnia Sun; Terence Donnelly, Sarnia Canadian; O. S. Clark, Empire, Toronto; W. B. J. Williamson, Point Edward Post; and G. Hector Clemes, THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Twenty-five in all sat down to the magnificent repast that mine host, Mr. C. A. Hand, had prepared, and which consisted of all the dainties of the season. The dinner committee—namely, Mr. P. Clark and Geo. Wenino — deserve great commendation. After doing justice to all the good things, the meeting was called to order by the President, who briefly referred to the object of the Association. He said: The Association was started a year ago by the younger members of the trade, and was not of the nature of a combine. The wholesale trade were at present putting the screws on the retailers, and we want to talk over the best plan to stop them. Then the credit system and dealing with deadbeats came up for consideration. It was the first time he had ever occupied the chair, and he would ask his friend and fellow grocer, Mr. R. Kenny, the Vice-President of the Association, to address the friends present.

Mr. Kenney said he was glad to congratulate the members on the large gathering present. He had found the deadbeat list a paying part of their Association, it was worth $1,000 to every merchant. The advisability of every one joining the Association was therefore patent. They did not combine to raise prices, but for all to have a uniform price on all goods, putting all on the same footing with respect to price. He concluded with the remark that the best way to keep posted was by reading THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Mr. M. Saunders, secretary, gave a brief history of the association, with a statement of its objects. It was doing everything above board, and was formed to fight wholesale combinations and for mutual protection. When the usual routine of after dinner speech making had been begun, the president proposed THE CANADIAN GROCER. Mr. Clemes replied briefly, thanking them for the heartiness with which the GROCER'S health was drunk. He assured the merchants that anything for the advancement of the grocery interests would always receive the support of THE GROCER.

The next toast was, "The Point Edward grocers."

Mr. O'Neil replied that he was satisfied association work was a good thing. He then made some witty remarks upon previous speaker's statements. He was glad to have a chance to meet the Sarnia merchants. He told how he had started in business without any experience, and what he thought of association work. It was the thing if they would only put all their force together.

Mr. Fraser also responded to that toast, stating that the wholesalers were to blame for most of the failures in the country giving goods to any and every one with liberty to sell at any price at all. He believed there were legitimate failures, but a man who failed through selling at cut rates had no right to be started in business again. In introducing the next toast the president said he would make note of what Mr. Fraser had said, and would see if something could not be done to stop wholesalers giving such men credit.

Prof. McCawley then favored the company with some excellent music on the autoharp.

In response to the "Town of Sarnia and its prospects," Mr. Thos. Donnelly, one of the city fathers, made a speech full of local loyalty and hope for the future.

Mr. J. Varson replied to the baking powder toast.

Mr. Wm. Johnson made a neat and highly applauded reply to "Eggs and Butter.

Mr. Saunders told the story that had appeared in the GROCER about the man who told good eggs from bad ones by shaking them, and how the same game had been played as was done in that case on one of the country merchants near Sarnia.

Mr. O'Neil then gave a description of the battle of Getysburg, where he had served as lieutenant, which held the grocers' spellbound.

Mr. Hill followed on "The manufacturing interests of Sarnia."

Mr. O'Neil followed with a song.

Mr. D. Simpson then loomed up for "The Public Parks." He runs one of the finest grocery places in the town, and cuts a fine figure as drum major in the 27th battalion.

Mr. Boomer followed on the park question and spoke well.

Mr. Williams of the Point Edward Post represented his town well.

THE GROCER man then sang a comic song.

Mr. Phelps was anxious to work with the Sarnia merchants, if it was for the mutual benefit of those in the grocery trade. He said: "If we can keep to agreements and educate our customers into the cash system the trade that now is in a critical condition will soon be on a good footing." He himself was making a living at Point Edward, and he believed his other friends were doing the same, and when they got the C. P. R. to cross at the Point, they could put a little money aside.

Mr. La Croix then favored the party with a song entitled: "The cows are in the clover." Mr. La Croix has a good voice, and did the song justice, gaining "He's a jolly good fellow" tribute from the company.

Mr. Kirton then told how he would have been out many a dollar but for the Grocers' Association and its delinquent list, and that he had not $20 worth of bad debts on his books during the present year.

Mr. Williams then gave "The German Policeman," in a style any one would give an admission price to hear.

Mr. Geo. Wenino spoke for the "Fire Brigade."

Mr. C. A. Wenino talked on the "Sarnia Band" in reply to that toast.

The "marine interests" was responded to by Mr. W. J. Cherney, who has a good trade with the vessels and steamers calling at Sarnia, and told how such trade was growing every day. Mr. Cherney is another of the pushers of Sarnia.

"THE PRESS." To this toast all the reporters spoke.

"The Ladies," by Mr. P. Clark, were well represented.

"Our Host and Hostess." Mr. Hand thanked the grocers for patronizing him on this occasion, and would at all times try and do the grocers any favors that might be in his power to do.

After singing "God Save the Queen," the post prandial proceedings were brought to a close.

MONTREAL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The adjourned special meeting re-assembled in the Mechanics' Hall, Thursday the 27th ult. The following members were present: Mr. Edward Elliott, the president, in the chair, and Messrs. A. D. Fraser, S. D. Vallieres, L. M. Soucy, M. Scanlan, S. Demers, J. E. Manning, B. Connaughton, John Robertson, J. O'Shaughnessy, M. Delahanty, M. Lemieux, A. Daoust, etc.

The report of the last meeting was read. The President stated that the meeting had been adjourned in order to continue the discussion of the wholesale combine and license questions.

Mr. Fraser asked if any answers had been received to the letters that the secretary was instructed to address to the various grocers' associations.

The Secretary explained that he had been prevented by illness from writing those letters before last Friday, and that he had not yet received any reply.

Mr. Robertson, seconded by Mr. Scanlon, moved that the Secretary be instructed to prepare the list of articles at present sold under combine prices, mentioned in the motion made at the previous meeting by Mr. O'Shaughnessy, in order to have this list for the next meeting.—Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Vallieres, seconded by Mr. Delahanty, that the Secretary be instructed to write to Messrs. Hull and Rainville, local representatives in the popular chamber of the Quebec Legislature, asking them to send the Association a copy of the proposed amendments to the license law, and to name the day on which the question would be brought before the House; and that Messrs. Elliott (the President), S. Demers, J. E. Manning, A. D. Fraser, John Robertson, B. Connaughton, A. Daoust, M. Lemieux, Thomas Gauthier, the mover and the seconder, be a committee to go to Quebec to represent the Association.—Carried unanimously. The meeting then adjourned.—Le Prix Courant.

Another special, large, and enthusiastic meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held in the hall of the Mechanics' Institute on the evening of the 3rd inst. Mr. S. Demers occupied the chair in the unavoidable absence, through illness, of the president, Mr. Ed. Elliott. Scores of very favorable answers were read from all quarters of the Dominion, from sister associations, and prominent houses, all expressing their willingness to co-operate with the Montreal association in its action against the combine. In connection with the license question, the following members were appointed to proceed to Quebec and have an interview with Premier.

HAMILTON GROCERS.

On Monday evening a conference was held in the Board of Trade rooms between the Hamilton Wholesale Grocers' Guild and representatives of the Hamilton Retail Grocers' Association. J. J. Stuart, of the former association, occupied the chair. The resolution passed by the retail grocers at their last meeting, protesting against the shortening of the terms and discounts, was presented. A long discussion followed. The wholesalers claimed that the move made by their Guild was in the right direction, and urged upon the retailers to give the change a fair trial. They stated that there was no desire to place fixed prices upon any other articles than sugar and tobacco, the present profits from which, it was well known, did not pay the cost of distribution.

THE TRAVELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

President A. A. Allan presided at the quarterly meeting of the Commercial Travellers' Association of Canada, held in the Public Library building on Saturday night. There were 150 members present.

Secretary Sargant's report showed that the surplus fund of the association amounts to $180,000, and that over $25,000 had been paid out during the year to widows and orphans. There had been an increase of 200 members during the year, the membership now numbering 3,150.

The nomination of officers and directors for 1891 took place. A. A. Allan declined the presidency for another year. These officers were then elected by acclamation: President, John Burns, of Nerlich & Co.; first vice-psesident, C. C. Van Norman, of Orr, Harvey & Co.; treasurer, R. H. Gray; secretary, James Sargant.

R. H. Cosby, T. P. Hayes and R. J. Orr were nominated for second vice-president.

These nominations were made for the Toronto directorate(9): Wesley Bingham, T. M. Bayne, J. P. Balfour, F. T. Butler, C. A Bernard, P. R. Corson, W. Caldwell, J. S. Crawford, H. S. Davison, W. B. TORONTO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Dec. 11, 1890.

GROCERIES.

Since the snowfall trade has been better than ever, and the steadiness of a low temperature has kept up the evenness of one day's trade with another from the beginning to the end of the week. But though there is improvement, there is not yet the activity in trade that is now seasonable. The snow is not general enough, the weather not cold enough to give the glow to trade which it ought to have near mid-December. The retail trade is beginning to be affected by the weather in its buying more than it used to be. If there is soft weather consumers do not celebrate Christmas so expensively as if the weather is favourable to winter pastimes, etc. The past few years have given us so many green Christmas days that the trade are ceasing to depend upon Christmas being a success. They therefore forbare buying as much as possible in special lines and take their chance to sort up. Hence, if the weather continues good, there will be undoubtedly a good demand yet. There is a fair business now in such delicacies as mince-meat, jellies, etc. Canned goods are in more general request. Nuts and dried fruit are in steady demand. Money is not more freely remitted than it was a week ago.

CANNED GOODS.

Prices are firm but are not changed in quotation. In no line are prices easy. Trade has been good for immediate consumption, and a considerable quantity of stock has gone out in lots of 25 cases and smaller quantities. There have been fewer offers on the part of jobbers for car-lots, the firmness of holders being a convincing sign that business could not be done upon easy prices, and the acquisition of stock at present prices promising too little to induce them to buy. Vegetables, fruits, and fish are, however, in very good demand among retailers.

Says the N. Y. Commercial Bulletin:—Whilst high cost may have operated to restrict the sale of canned lobster to greater or less extent it would seem that the outward movement thus far this season has been of sufficient volume to cut supplies down to remarkably narrow dimensions. Instead of receding, as might have been expected in view of the comparatively high cost of the luxury at the early stage of the season, values have not only held their own, but are now showing an advancing tendency. Two-pound tall tins are now bringing $2.20@$2.25 in this market, and are in so light supply that holders are reluctant to sell except to their regular trade. A year ago the same class of goods was jobbed at $1.75@$1.90. In the primary markets prices are relatively higher than those current in this market. In fact, it seems doubtful that desirable stock can be purchased at the present time and landed here except at 10 to 15c. per dozen advance on present local selling prices.

COFFEE.

Trade has continued quiet at unchanged local prices. A little better demand for finer grades is observable as the holiday season draws near.

The Rio News says: "There appears to be some expectation that we are to see an important increase in receipts during the next two months, but the local press are constantly publishing complaints relative to unwarrantable delay in the railway service of the Leopoldina system, and it appears to be questionable if this company can handle very much more coffee than the 4,000 or 5,000 bags that it now brings in per day. This week coastwise receipts should bring up the average somewhat."

DRIED FRUIT.

The demand continues good, but is expected to become much stronger between now and Christmas. The buying has been liberal by comparison with the state of trade in this line some weeks ago, but it is rather moderate by comparison with the usual state of the demand two snowy weeks before Christmas. Wholesalers expect a good jobbing trade during the coming fortnight if the weather remains hard and the snow becomes more plentiful, as the circumstances of the weather are requisite to make consumers good Christmas customers. Currants are firm, and Vostizzas are slightly higher. Valencia raisins are unchanged here, but are rather firmer than otherwise, despite the fact that prices have eased in outside markets. That external easing has not brought prices yet to such a point that Valencias bought now can be laid down here to wholesalers as cheaply as the latter are at present selling stock on hand. Malaga fruit is in strong demand, and the market is low in London layers and almost bare of blue baskets. There are now some cask prunes in stock, the first arrival being on Monday. New Persian dates have also been received, and are selling at 6 to 6½c. There is a good demand for them. Figs in 20-pound boxes are up to 15c., the latest receipts being of finer quality than those arriving earlier in the season.

NUTS.

The trade in nuts is now quite brisk. The bulk of the stock is now in. Grenobles and Marbots arrived on Wednesday. The Grenobles are selling at 18c., the Marbots at 13½c. Brazil nuts are yet too high for stock to be brought upon this market. The lowest Sicily filberts are 11c.

Messrs. Sloan & Crowther received on Wednesday the first shipment of Bordeaux walnuts to reach the market. They will sell at 15 to 16c.

RICE AND SPICES.

Rice is quiet and prices steady. The London Grocer says :

"If we take into account the enormous crop just harvested, it is not unreasonable to suppose that Japan will send us more rice in 1891 than ever before. We may not get large quantities in the early months, but that ultimately a very fair share of the surplus will find its way to Europe seems all but certain. The first sales for December-January shipment have already been made at 13s. 3d. for Germany, and purchases on the same sample for February-March shipments can now be made at 10s. 6d. and perhaps even lower. In view of the tremendous crop, these prices are still too high, and we should not be at all surprised if millers succeed in buying Japan rice at 9s. per cwt. or three-abouts."

There is a very good demand for spices just now, but no change in current prices is to be noted.

SUGAR.

Trade is too tranquil for this season, and cannot be expected to continue to quiet much longer. There is a steady but moderate demand for granulated, which is yet 6⅞ to 7c., and yellows are in still lower request. Powdered and ground whites are in very good demand for Christmas fancy baking, etc.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are not receiving any unusual attention yet, the scarcity of low grades being rather a deterrent to trade. Mollasses, particularly the better grades, are selling well. Prices are unchanged in our quotations.

TEAS.

The firmness of all teas in the primary markets which we noted last week on account of the rise in silver is unabated. The prospect of low-priced teas, which the momentary previous decline in silver favoured, has therefore been completely dissipated, and low-priced Hysons and Japans are as unavailable as ever to importers. In black there is a good trade in the lower grades to be had yet. In all classes there is a good local trade, and more buying of fine teas is perceptible, as the season for consumption of choice articles draws near. Indian teas continue in steady demand, especially for cheap Pekoes. In London the market has been less liberally supplied with Indian teas, and although there is still an active inquiry for the better grades the commoner kinds have been somewhat dull of sale, and slightly lower quotations have resulted. Broken Pekoes have again been moderately offered, the greater proportion of the supplies consisting of whole leaf teas. Consequently the former have been readily taken by the trade, and the few choice breaks with "tip" sold at high prices.

PETROLEUM.

Trade is very good, and prices are slightly easier. Canadian is ½c. down, quoting at 16½ to 17c.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

There is a fairly active trade, but the market has felt no effects upon the prices ruling a week ago.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Low grade butter is arriving and accumulating in tons, and prices are getting in the same position along the scale as they were in last year. Already there have been sales of store pack immeasurably off flavor, at 7c. and there is plenty of stock will never be sold at near that figure if ever it is sold at all. Prime dairy tub is worth 16 to 17c. but 16c. is about the best price there has been any title to in the deliveries of the past week. Large rolls are 13 to 15c. as are pails and crocks. Large rolls are plentiful. Pound rolls are 17 to 19c. and are scarce. There are no creamery rolls. Creamery tub is scarce at 21 to 23c.

Cheese is unchanged and dull. September stock is 10½c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Choice fruit is very firm, holders not being anxious to except $4 to $4.50. Medium apples are $3.50 to $4, and soft are $2 to $3 and scarce.

BEANS—Are unchanged, big lots selling at $1.50, and small lots at $1.65.

DRIED APPLES—Are 7¾ to 8c. and fine stock 8½c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Firm and scarce at 13 to 14c.

EGGS—Fresh caudled are 23½c. and picked are 19 to 20c.

GAME—Partridges are scarce at 70c., rabbits at 25 to 30c. and ducks at 65 to 75c. Venison is now off the market.

HAY—Is over abundant for the keeping of prices, and has weakened to $8.50, the top price being $9.50.

HIDES—No. 1 green are 4½c. and dull.

HONEY—Is dull and weak. Good clear is yet quoted at 12½c., medium at 11c., and low grade at 7 to 8c. Sections are 14 to 20c.

HOPS—Good new are 35 to 40c. and '89 are 20 to 25c.

OATS—Are 42 to 43c. and fairly plentiful.

ONIONS—Red are unchanged at $2, and white at $2.25.

POTATOES—Are scarce and very firm, running from 60 to 65c. in car-lots at and 75 to 80c. out of store.

POULTRY—Ducks are very scarce and bring 60 to 75c ; chickens are none too plentiful for 25 to 40c. ; geese are abundant at 5½ to 6c.; and turkeys are too plentiful at 8½c as top price.

SKINS—Not many offering and prices are firm at $1 to $1.10.

STRAW—Oat is $6 to $6.50 and plentiful.

TALLOW—Rough is 2c. and refined 5½c.

WOOL—Is dull at 20c.

FISH.

The demand is impartial, favoring no particular line, but equally and very moderately bringing all lines upon the market. The only line that is scarce is Finan haddie, which owing to rough weather is still scarce. Manitoba white fish of a superior quality will be on the market next week. What gives moderation to the demand is the fact that poultry is a more seasonable class of provision for consumption just now, and as it is selling at low prices, it receives more attention and fish less.

GREEN FRUIT.

Trade is still rather quiet. The first arrival of Valencias, a couple of car-loads, came in on Monday. They sell at $5.75 to $6. Florida oranges are $4.50 to $4.75. Jamaicas, now the ripest stock on the market, are $8 to $9. Malaga lemons are about done, and are going out at $3 to $4. Messinas are $4 to $5, and Palermos $4 to $4.50. Malaga grapes are $6.50 to $8. Sweet potatoes are $4 to $4.50.

CRANBERRIES.

Cape Cod berries are $10 to $11, and North Shore are $8 to $10.

PROVISIONS.

Trade is fairly active in all products, and prices are steady. Hogs arrive very freely, and harder weather is wanted to keep up prices.

BACON—Long clear is fairly firm at 8 to 8¼c., backs at 10 to 11c., bellies at 11c., and rolls at 10c.

DRESSED HOGS — Choice weights are $5.40, and very heavy weights are $5.

HAMS—Are firm at 12 to 12½c. for smoked.

LARD—Is steady at 9 to 9½c.

MESS PORK—Is $15 to $16.50, and firm at these quotations.

SALT.

The Toronto Salt Works have shipped a large quantity of their new Acme salt, which they are putting before the public as a fine table salt, to St. John, N. B., and Kingston, Jamaica. The sales transacted by the Toronto Salt Works for the week are : 3 cars bbl. salt at $1.40 ; 2 cars sacks at 70c Smaller quantities sell at $1.55 to $1.60 for bbls ; 85 to 90c. for sacks, and 55 to 60c for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

Trade is not up to the hard weather mark any more than the weather is, but there is still a good amount of activity. The prices of cotton goods have been made firmer by the completion of the Cotton Syndicate.

RAW FURS.

Trade continues good in manufactured furs, but there is no alteration in the prices of raw, dealers paying following prices :—Beaver per lb., $4.50 to $5 ; bear, per skin, $10 to $25; cub, per skin, $5 to $12 ; fisher $3.50 to $5 ; fox, red, 81 to $1.25; fox, cross, $2 to $5; lynx, $1.50 to $2.50; martin, 75 to 90c.; mink, dark, 75c. to $1.25 ; Muskrat, fall, 12c. ; winter, 15c. ; otter, $8 to $13 ; racoon, 25 to 80c. ; skunk, 25 to $1.25.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Dec. 10, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The general position has shown little or no change since our last report, but in its leading features it is extremely susceptible of alteration as soon as the movement actually sets in. Raw sugars have been the only line of groceries which have shown any life during the week, and there has been some little enquiry for low grades dark muscovados, which are held pretty firm on the whole, with stocks very light. Japan teas also have been moving. The general feeling is one of firmness, and although dried fruits are weak in New York the position here is unchanged as yet, and the large holders do not appear at all anxious.

FRUIT.

There has been no change to the general position of the market since our last, and consequently there is little additional to say. In dried fruit business has been unimportant and prices are unchanged, for despite the easiness in New York holders here are determined to hold on, and will not talk business under 6¼ to 6½c. for Valencia raisins, while currants are held at 5⅞ to 6¼c. In New York also recent reports state that prime brands are held with a fair degree of steadiness, the weakness being solely due to the stringent monetary position which has caused several firms to realize on holdings, thereby dumping on the market a large quantity of stuff, principally inferior brands, which nobody wants, hence the demoralization existent. As regards the movement from second hands it has been limited also, in fact there are only two jobbers here who hold any quantity of raisins, and we cannot learn that they have been putting through anything of consequence recently. In other lines nothing very particular has transpired. Newly arrived Bosnia prunes are on the market and selling at 8½ to 9c. in a jobbing way, while Grenoble walnuts are easy on the whole owing to increased receipts, and we quote prices ¼c. lower at 15 1-4 to 16c. In green fruit business has been of a purely jobbing character. A few carloads of Valencia oranges arrived from New York on Monday, and are moving pretty freely at $5 to $5.50, while Floridas are fairly steady at $4 to $4.25. Some Jamaicas have been moving also, but the supply is limited to a few odd lots, which move at $6 to $6.50 per barrel. The only lemons on the market are Messinas which rule easy at $3 to $3.50. Almeria grapes are unchanged at $4.50 to $6 per keg, and new dates are offering to arrive at 6 1-4 to 6 1-2c. in a jobbing way. Eleme figs are firm at 11 to 17c. according to quality.

SUGAR, SYRUPS, AND MOLASSES.

Raw sugars have been in better demand during the past week, especially for low grade Muscovadoes, for which there has been quite an enquiry on the basis of 4¾ to 5⅛c., and we quote yellows unchanged at 5 to 6c. and granulated 6½c.

Syrups are unchanged at 3⅝ to 3⅞c. with a fair demand pressing.

Molasses is quiet, and about the only business of importance we have to note is the sale of a 50 puncheon lot at 35½c. on Monday. We quote 35½c. for round lots and 37½c. in a jobbing way.

TEAS.

Stocks here are very small and a good demand is looked for after the turn of the year. Japans have been moving pretty freely on the basis of 15 to 17c., a large portion going West, and we have nothing to note regarding blacks.

RICE.

There has been nothing of importance in this branch since our last, and prices remain unchanged. Common $3.90, Japans $4.10 to $4.25 and Patra $5.50.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned goods are quiet with positively nothing doing. Prices are unchanged.

FISH.

The market is unchanged and beyond a few jobbing transactions nothing is passing out of first hands. Prices rule firm and no change is looked for except upward when stocks are so light as they are at present. The movement is expected some time after the first of the year.

APPLES.

There is little to note in relation to this article which move along quietly in a local way. On export account there has been nothing doing but recent cables give a somewhat better feeling at Liverpool, one on Monday saying "market better," while a second one, but things even more plainly, giving the advance, "hold on to your best stock."

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES.

There has been little doing in this stock since our last, but one holder has succeeded in clearing out his entire lot of evaporated, some 100 boxes, at 13c., and we quote 13 to 19c. as a range. In dried we hear of no business, and prices are unchanged at 8c.

HOPS.

There has been little to note in regard to this market since our last in the way of business; in fact, since the transaction we noted of 55 bales 1890's at 35c nothing has transpired. The feeling on the whole is easy, and buyers talk indifferently, claiming that offers of German hops have been made pretty freely of late at low figures. These offers apply to the stock in bond at New York to which we referred recently, and odd lots have been placed here recently at somewhere under 45c, which would mean of previous years or any criterion that native growth will have to move on a little lower basis than at present if the foreign product is offered with any degree of freedom. At present holders are asking 35 to 37c. for 1890, while yearlings are offering at 25c., on which basis we note a small sale of a few odd bales.

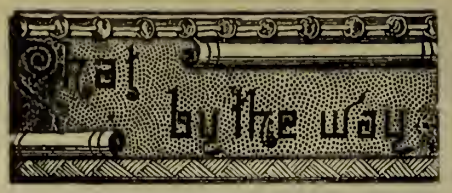
PROVISIONS.

There has been no change in provisions since our last report, but with the settling of the country roads a movement is looked for. Canadian short cut, per brl $16.00 to $16.50; mess pork, western, per brl $16.60 to $16.50; short cut, western, per brl $16.75 to $17.00; hams, city cured, per lb 10 to 11c.; hams, canvassed, per lb 10 1-2 to 11½c.; lard, Canadian, in pails 8¼ to 8 1-2c.; bacon, per pound, 9 to 10c.; lard, com., refined, per lb, 8 to 8½c.

EGGS.

The market continues firm, and receipts rule smaller every day. Consequently prices are stiffly maintained, in fact some dealers are entirely cleaned out. We quote fresh new laid, 25c., held 23c. and limed 20c.



FLOUR AND GRAIN.

There has been no change in these lines since our last report and business generally rules quiet. The feeling, however, is firm, especially in flour, as stocks show a steady decrease as compared with a year ago.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

This market has shown no change recently and the position is as we have repeatedly stated previously very firm. Holders are very confident of securing their own figures, and consequently little business is doing as buyers on the other side have not toed the scratch yet sufficiently to suit holders. It is quite possible however that any move would lead to some stiffening on present values indeed when carrying charges, etc., etc., are tucked unto the original cost, holders will have to obtain a fraction or so more to make any money or come out even at that. Advices from Great Britain do not reveal anything particularly new, but it is evident that had it not been for the uneasy feeling created by the monetary stringency some move would have had its inception ere this. Values at present rule as previously reported, and 9¾ represents the basis for odd transactions that have occurred recently, but it is quite possible as we inferred above that if a buyer went out into the market he could not move a good line of stock except at a fraction. On the whole the feeling is decidedly firm, and one thing to be remembered is the fact that cheese has not been forced up to any extent this season, and this naturally should lead to a fairly steady consumptive movement. In fact, according to reliable data this has not been checked to any appreciable extent on account of cost, and the market therefore should be considered a healthy enough one. This, at least, is the contention of the majority of the trade here, by which they do not mean that values should be unduly forced, but that the position is a steady one on account the present basis, and they are acting accordingly.

The butter market is strictly unchanged, and the firm feeling we have noted all along as regards choice goods is maintained. Business on the whole has ruled quiet, but there have been transactions in bulk lots of both creamery and Townships and Western dairies during the week at fair figures. The jobbing movement also is steady, and the position generally as regards the better descriptions of butter may be described as assentially firm. Creamery moves at from 22 to 23c., Townships dairy, 18 to 20c., and fine Western 14 to 15c., and we quote there values as representing the present position of the market.

Mr. G. J. Wallace, of Collier & Wallace, grocers, Picton, was in town on Tuesday.

Mr. W. P. Clay, grocer, of Galt, was in the city on Tuesday. Mr. Clay is also proprietor of the Galt cheese factory.

Mr. Cane, of the Wm. Cane & Sons manufacturing Co., Newmarket, woodenware manufacturers was in the city last week.

Wm. Milligan has sold his northern store to Charles Newman. The latter has been manager of that branch for some time.

Mr. H. J. Tellier, Tellier, Rothwell & Co., Montreal, spent a short time in Toronto last week. His interests here are carefully looked after by R. S. McIndoe.

Mr. Henry Loch, one of Guelph's successful grocers, has sold out his business to Messrs. Fielding & McLaren, who will hereafter cater to the wants of the customers of the old firm.

On the 3rd inst. Mr. A. E. Sherwood, of Sherwood Bros., commission merchants, etc., Peterborough, was married at the residence of the bride's father to Miss Lottie Pearce, daughter of Mr. Edgar Pearce, county treasurer. The young couple left for Chicago.

Some seven hundred dollars have been collected in fines in the county of Peterborough, from persons who have during the past season been detected in sending deteriorated milk to factories. One-half the money goes to the county and one-half to the factories. Thirty-five convictions have so far been made.

The store and grocery stock of W. J. Hendron, Lakefield, were badly damaged by fire on the evening of the 2nd inst. The loss on the groceries was $1,000, and there was no insurance. In the same fire Mrs. Tanner's dwelling, grocery store and stock were destroyed, the total loss in her case being $3,000.

James Park & Son, pork packers and provision merchants, Toronto, send us two very handsome hangers, which are intended to spread still further the fame of that firm's National brand of hams and breakfast bacon. The hangers are about 18x20 inches, and the attraction upon each is a picture of feminine beauty sufficiently adorned.

The lines of woodenware manufactured by the Wm. Cane & Sons Mfg. Co., Newmarket, are receiving from the trade an amount of attention that puts a heavier strain upon this manufactory than it usually feels at this season. The quality of the material used in their wares and the excellence of the workmanship expended on them have established these goods in the public favor.

At Mr. Thomas Lawry's residence, James street south, Hamilton, at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the 3rd inst., Miss Mary Lawry was wedded to Frank H. Carpenter, son of Mr. A. E. Carpenter, of the same city. A large company assembled to witness the nuptials. Rev. E. P. Crawford performed the ceremony. After the wedding breakfast the happy couple left on the 6 40 train for the east on their bridal trip. The presents to the bride were numerous and valuable.

The other afternoon while J. W. Williams, employed in Griffin's pork-packing shop, St. Thomas, was holding a lantern in a large lard tank the lard caught fire and the tank exploded. Williams was very severely burned about the face and neck, and his whiskers and eyebrows were almost totally burned off. The fire was extinguished with but little damage to the building.

At a meeting of the Brantford retail grocers, on Friday evening, the following resolution was passed :—"That it is the opinion of the Retail Grocers' Association that the terms and discounts recently formulated by the wholesale guild are very unjust and unfair, and that we strongly urge that the former terms be restored ; also that we disapprove of the method adopted by the wholesale guild in fixing prices at which goods are to be sold, thereby abolishing competition for the protection of the consumer,

Mr. J. Clarke, grocer, of Brampton, was in the city last week and dropped in to see if THE GROCER was provided with the necessities of life—money. That Mr. Clarke and many of our advertisers and subscribers should go out of their way to call upon us is something we very much appreciate. Mr. Clarke is strongly in favor of shorter credits. He believes if retailers were compelled to pay in the shortest time possible there would be fewer failures. Inexperienced men would not get into business as easily as they do now. There would be fewer failures and less price cutting.

The Best Grocers Make a Point of Keeping it always in Stock.

A YEAST CAKE FREE OF ORGANISMS.

TORONTO, ONT., Dec. 1st, '90.

MESSRS. J. B. McLEAN, CO.
6 Wellington st. West, City.

GENTLEMEN,—In your issue of the GROCER Nov. 21st, 1890, you publish an article on "Worms in yeast cakes." You inadvertently do us an injustice by withholding the name of the manufacturer. It is, we know, in line with the fair and generous policy of your paper to leave unmentioned such name. But we beg to assure you that it is not the "Barm" yeast that contains the worms, for our yeast is manufactured only from the very finest white meal, specially prepared for ourselves, and guaranteed to contain no worms or insects of any description. We may add that the manufacturers of the "Barm" yeast do not handle baking powders and other etcetera, but devote their time exclusively to the improvement and manufacturing of yeast.

We remain, gentlemen,
Yours truly,
THE "BARM" YEAST MF'G. CO.

[The yeast cakes referred to were not those of the "Barm" Mfg. Co. We have therefore much pleasure in publishing their letter. ED.]

THE EFFECT OF REDUCED DISCOUNTS.

PAISLEY, Ont., 22nd Nov., 1890.

Editor GROCER.

DEAR SIR,—I read with great interest of the conference between the representatives of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild and the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, but I fail to understand how reducing the discounts will mend matters for the wholesale men. I should think that increasing the discounts would be a great stimulant to make all cash buyers, and so lessen the risks to the wholesalers. I was certainly surprised when the Retail Association gave in to the reduced discounts. I shall avail myself of the first opportunity to buy where prices are lowest, taking quality into consideration, and where discounts are largest. If the Wholesale Guild is so much concerned about the 60 per cent. of the retail buyers, well, I say, let them keep them, and let the 40 per cent. of the retail buyers look out for themselves.

By giving some information about the Salt Association in regard to how it is constituted and the time its agreement lasts, you will oblige,

Yours truly,
RETAILER.

[In reply to the subject of our correspondent's last reference, the salt combine, we believe the agreement to uphold prices is a matter of yearly renewal on the part of members, the present covenant expiring on the 31st inst. There is little doubt that it will be adopted for another year.—ED.]

Bad Memory—"Captain," said a grocery-keeper, addressing a well-known gentleman, "do you remember that sack of flour you ordered some time time ago?" "Oh, yes, I remember it." "I suppose so, but I don't remember that you ever paid for it." "My dear sir, I am not responsible for your bad memory. I have remembered my part of it. Memory is a peculiar faculty, and is susceptible of great cultivation. Some of the Grecians could repeat volumes of poetry. Well, good morning."—Arkansaw Traveler.

The laboratory branch of the department of Inland Revenue is engaged upon the analysis of mustards and peppers. A number of samples have already been examined, and many cases of adulteration have been discovered. The names of the manufacturers of these compounded condiments as the pure article will be pilloried in a departmental bulletin. There are some manufacturers, however, who avowedly make compounds of these articles, this being allowable by law when nothing deleterious to the public health is added. A standard of the amount of adulteration has, however, to be determined, and it is possible that from the analysis now being made, sufficient data may be acquired to warrant the Governor-in-Council in making regulations upon the subject.

Leaves from the Diary of a Commercial Traveller.

BY WM. H. MAHER.

CHAPTER. XIV.

My next stopping place was a little village containing one large general store, a drug store, a store that was equally devoted to drugs and groceries, not forgetting to mix in some hardware with the groceries, and a half dozen places that might properly be called "shebangs." My first call was at Brown's. There was a profusion of politeness in his manner that reminded one of a Virginian. I carefully watched all his peculiarities, and followed him in them as well as I could, and at last reached a place where it seemed to me I could properly bring business on the stage.

"How is your stock of hardware?" I asked him.

"Well, I don't know; we're pretty full just at present."

"Have you all the cutlery you want?"

"Yes, I guess so; we don't sell a great deal."

We walked to the show-case where he kept his cutlery, and if he had asked my honest opinion, I would have said that he had all the cutlery he ought to have for his town. But he neglected to ask my advice, so I did no, offer it.

"You haven't any fine knives," I said. "Don't you have calls for three bladed knives?"

"Yes once in a while; but I guess we won't get any to-day."

His manner led me to believe that if I had my samples there I could get an order from him; I prepared to act accordingly.

"We have some very taking patterns in three blades," said I, "and if you will let me, I'll bring in my samples; it will not cost you anything to look at them, you know, and I had much rather be showing my samples than sitting here doing nothing."

"Certainly I will look at them," he answered, with a very polite flourish, "though I do not think we will order anything to-day."

That was all right; we would see about the ordering in good time. I had left my samples in the bagage-room of the depot, and I now went there, opened the trunk, and took out eight cards of knives; such cards as contained the styles in one, two and three blades that he would be likely to order. Then I took-table knives and spoons out of my valise, and when I started up town I had my arms full.

Mr. Brown pushed wrapping-paper off the counter to make room for the cards, and I arranged them in order, according to price. Much to my annoynace, he wanted to take every knife off the card, handle the blade, work the spring, and then breath on the polished blade. Whether there is anything in it or not I have never yet learned, but there seems to be a very general impression among men and boys that you can tell something as to the temper of a knife by breathing on it, if the steam vanishes from the blade rapidly it is supposed to be a well tempered one.

My friend Brown went through this formula with each knife, and after he had tested it in this way I gave it a good rubbing and put it back on the card.

When we had been through the cards, examining as I extolled the merits and named prices, I began to prepare for an order.

"If there is anything you need to make your assortment good, Mr. Brown, I would be glad to send it to you."

"I guess I won't buy to-day; when you come around again I will be in better shape to order."

The bird in hand is supposed to be the most valuable, consequently I would rather have a small order now than the promise of a large one by and by. I took from the cards a knife that I had seen him linger over as if he liked it. "Here is a knife you could sell readily, if you had it," said I, "and you can easily double your money on it. It ought to retail at $1.25: I will sell it to you at $9 per dozen."

"Yes it would sell," he said, "how do they come packed?"

"Half dozen in a box."

"You may send one sixth of a dozen," he said after very mature deliberation.

I at once regretted that I hadn't put another dollar on the price, but was prepared with the rest.

I saw that he bought knives because he liked to buy them; he was fond of a nice knife, and by tempting him sufficiently I soon sold three dozen of knives, though they were all in one-sixth-dozen lots. It was a slow process, but it paid. I couldn't get out of town until late in the evening, and I could well afford the time.

Once I had a little order from him it became easier to get him to add to it, and very soon we were handling the table knives, and he was ordering. After this we went through his stock on the shelves, and found tacks and such things rather low, and in the end I got an order from him of about $50, of course at good profits.

At the large store I met with a very cool reception The proprietor did a good business and controlled the grain trade of the place, and probably was looked up to by all the farmers; naturally he had a good opinion of himself, and bought his stock mostly in New York. Whether he bought it cheaper or not he did not know, but he thought he did, and that was enough for him

One didn't need to be in his store many minutes so see the kind of a man he was, and when I found him at leisure I offered him my card with appropriate humility, not being from Yew York.

"We don't need anything in your line," said he, briskly, and with the intention of cutting off our interview at the start.

I bowed in submission, but proposed to talk a little.

"Have you done anything about shovels and spades yet?" I asked,

"Yes bought them in New York a month ago."

"Are you needing anything in nails?"

"Not to-day; what do you get for nails!"

It was something to get him to ask a price. I quoted nails at 10 cents less than they cost us. I was positive this was 10 cents, if not 20 cents, less than he could buy nailsfor, but he looked as if the figures were about right.

"I would be glad to send you any that you need," said I.

"We are full just at present."

"I carry a large line of cutlery samples, and can offer you some very low figures; how is your stock in that line?,'

"Full"

"I'm coming around this way regularly, and hope to do some trade with you; I will promise to sell as low as you buy in New York—"

"That's all nonsense," said he, with a wave of his hand, as if to settle the question. "You buy your goods in New York, and buy them of the men I buy of; then how can you compete with the houses who supply you?"

"It is possible that we buy goods in a little larger lots than you do" said I, "and then you are mistaken about our buying goods of the houses you patronize. We buy of the manufacturers, and not of the New York wholesalemen."

"Well, I don't want anything to-day," and he turned to go away.

I saw I could not give him goods, let alone sell to him, as all his wares must come from New York, so I gave him a "good-day," and started across the street to the drug store.

A doctor and his son were the proprietors and both were in. I saw a can of white lead in the window, and devoted myself to that artical first. After a sociable chat of a few minutes I came to business.

"I see you handle white lead, Doctor," said I to the senior, "and I want to have you take hold of our brand. How is your stock?"

The son said that one can was all they had. That was encouraging.

"You sell considerable lead don't you?"

Yes, they had a good trade.

I explained all the merits my lead possessed, and after working an hour, induced them to take hold of it; they ordering a case of 200 pounds. Now I changed the tune; didn't they want a cheap lead? Something to retail at a low figure and yet pay well. I went on to show them how much easier it was to sell when they had an assortment; that they could meet competition better, and that there was a class of customers who looked at price more than at quality. They saw it after awhile, and I got an order for 200 pounds of the cheap lead. This was doing well.

Next I took up cutlery; they kept a small stock, and were doubtful about adding to

After every argument had failed I opened my order book at Brown's order, showing them the page or more of knives he had ordered, taking care to keep my hand on the column showing the one-sixth dozens.

"He must sell lots of knives," said the son.

"That's because he keeps a good assortment," said I; "half the men who buy knives do it because they see a pattern that pleases them rather than because they need a knife."

"That's so," said the Doctor.

"Let me bring in my samples," said I; "if you see anything you like, well and good; if you don't why, do not order."

They made no objection, and I went down to Brown's for my samples.

I always like to sell knives to two partners; as a general thing they buy twice as many goods as they would do if but one man was buying. Each one wants the patterns that suit his taste, and the result is a good order.

I spread out my samples and was soon taking down an order, and a good one. They ordered in half dozens, and almost before they knew it I had six dozens on my book. And this settled my trade with them—a bill of about $100, and a good profit on the same.

I had still some two hours before train time; half that time I gave to the Doctor and his son, making myself as sociable as I could, and then went to Brown,s and stayed with him till train time. He helped me carry my samples to the depot, and acted so friendly that I went through his order and cut down the prices on knives about 50 cents a dozen.

This finished my first week on the road, the next day being Sunday. I picked out a good hotel in the town I came to, and hoped to have a quiet, restful Sunday. The week had been one of triumph from first to last, but just how many goods I sold I didn't know; I proposed to figure it up on the morrow, and see how successful I had been.

CHRISTMAS.

The Christmas of 1890, which is now a prospect, will, by the time of our next issue, have become a retrospect. We hope it will have lost none of its brightness for our readers because of their transfer from an approaching to a departing point of view. For those who enjoy it rightly, memory will hallow the day with associations as rich as the deflected rays of anticipation now gild it with. May the aurora of Christmas comprehend as many after-weeks of gratitude, as it has of previous weeks of picturesque suspense in the warm imagination of the Canadian people! For we deem that Christmas becomes prosaic to no one. The splendor in which the fancy of youth can set it gets modified no doubt by our habits and our years, but it is hard to conceive of its fading completely away. There is some glow surely in the most arid nature, amid that environment of good feeling which wraps like an atmosphere every community of Christian people, when they come to celebrate the season of "Peace on earth and good will towards men."

We hope our friends in the grocery trade may find substantial pleasure in the coming Christmas. What gives its specially Canadian character to the season is fine frosty weather and good sleighing. These are adjuncts which give a powerful stimulus to hospitality and good living, and are therefore desirable allies of the grocer. We hope they may come and bring with them that prodigality which is so excusable and so becoming at the Christmas season. Trade drifts in their wake, and liberal trade is the gift for which the grocer's stocking yawns.

Let us say as a last word, Be just before you are generous. Abstain from the folly of making presents to customers. That confusion of business and friendship is an error which has been sincerely repented of by many who made it in former years. You can more easily be just with your creditors when you come to pay them, and just with your customers when you come to sell to them next year, if you resist the temptation to be generous on the wholesale scale that presents require.

We wish you a Merry Christmas.

EXPANSION OF THE CANNED GOODS TRADE.

The manufacture of Canadian canned goods is now a lusty national industry. So far it has not created any considerable class of big capitalists, but that may be the reason why it has got to its present proportions, what would have been profit-secretions in other circumstances having gone to the nurture of the industry itself. It has, at all events, created work, and called into active operation a resource of consumption that had practically been in reserve before. In its inception the germ of a trade, now already flourishing, was planted in our industrial soil. The circumstances in which its start was made were unfavorable to its being an immediate money-making business. The supremacy in this market had to be disputed with outsiders, the domestic demand had to be developed before it would suffice for the maintenance of such an industry, there was danger that native manufacturers would multiply faster than trade would grow, and above all, tin-plate, the raw material for the cans, bore a heavy duty.

In time, however, United States competition was overcome, the demand widened more and more, the weak and inexperienced canners were sifted out, the duty was removed off tin-plate, and producers had a chance. At present there are quite as many factories at work as there is trade for, but they are in the hands of competent men, so that the one remaining danger, that of over-production, finds some check in the business abilities that are now guiding the industry. The most potent check to over-production, however, is an enlargement of the market to which our canned goods have access. The usual abundance of raw stock available to canners would warrant many times the present manufactured output being made by the factories, if there were a demand sufficient to take up that output. There is a great unexplored demand which ought to be made tributary to the Canadian canneries. It is that of the West Indies, Mexico, the Central American States, and the countries of South America. Vegetables, fruits, fish and meats ought to be produced in this country for the people of those lands. Those people do not produce the same natural commodities as we put up in cans, and we have already a commercial connection by steamship with portions of the region in which those countries are situated. Wherever a duty debars our wares, for the removal of that barrier the custodians of canned goods interests in this country ought to bring their influence to bear on our government, to seek by mutual adjustment between itself and the foreign government to have the obstacle removed. Our government should be as ready to recognize the behest of industrial interests in the opening up of markets as in the closing out of alien competition. A market which is now open—namely, that of England—ought to be invaded next year by our canners of small fruits, etc. The capacity of the English demand is large. Under the auspices of increased outside consumption our canned goods industry should develop rapidly.

We begin the next season at an advantage over United States canners. We ought to be able to undersell them in foreign markets. After the first of July next their cans will cost them more, as the duty on tin plate will be greater. With a tax of 2 1-5c. per lb. on their cans, the United States manufacturers must find competition hard to carry on against producers whose cans are free. Therefore, we should feel capable of expanding our canned goods in the face of United States makers wherever we have a line of vessels running.

THE DOMINION WHOLESALE GROCERS' GUILD.

We were unable to give our readers last week any of the particulars of the meeting held by the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild in Montreal the week previous, the secretary of that body having declined to communicate to us the results of the Guild's deliberations. We felt unwilling to publish anything that was unofficial, and refrained from inserting statements made in the daily press, whose representatives we were aware had not been permitted to be present. We have addressed ourselves to other sources of information and have been enabled thereby to confirm one or two rumors that escaped a week ago. One of these is, that the discount feature of the compromise effected between representatives of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association and the Toronto Wholesale Grocers' Guild, has been ratified by the Dominion Guild. That is to say, the Dominion Guild now agrees to give full discount for cash paid ten days after purchase. This is an amelioration of the terms of discount adopted at the September meeting of the Dominion Guild, according to which full discount would be allowed only for spot cash. The terms of credit remain as they were fixed by the September meeting, viz., 30 days for sugar, molasses, syrup, canned goods, fish, produce; and 3 months for general groceries. One per cent. will be allowed off the 30 day goods if paid in 10 days, and 3 per cent. off the 3 month goods, if paid in 10 days. For payment between the ten day limit and maturity, 12 per cent. per annum will be discounted. As for the other clause agreed to by the two parties to the Toronto conference—the engagement to list no other goods—we believe the Guild has concluded to observe it, for some time at all events, though we did not learn that it had formally adopted that part of the Toronto Guild's treaty with the local Retailers' Association.

Among the proceedings of the annual meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, published last week, we printed a letter from Messrs. Lightbound, Ralston & Co., Montreal, in which was expressed the belief that the immediate object of the meeting of the Dominion Guild, which has since been held, was to force Messrs. Lightbound, Ralston & Co., into compliance with the new terms of credit and discounts. The letter also asked that the co-operation of the Toronto retailers be immediately signified, to strengthen the hands of the Montreal firm in its representations to refiners and others interested. The letter concludes with the words "we feel that you are interested equally with ourselves in putting an end to an intolerable state of things." Mr. Thackray had answered for the Toronto Retailers' Association, plainly stating the antagonism of that body to all further combine movements, and asking particulars of the proceedings at the Guild's meeting and the names of the principal participants in the proceedings. No reply came until after the Guild had adjourned, when the following was received :—

MONTREAL, 8th Dec., 1890.

JOHN F. THACKRAY, Esq.,
Sec. Toronto Retail Grocers' Assoc'n,
TORONTO.

DEAR SIR,—We beg to apologize for the few days delay in acknowledging receipt of your esteemed favor of 3rd inst. We are not members of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, and consequently are unable to give you the information asked for, as to names of members making themselves prominent. As a consequence of meetings held here, our terms on groceries are now 30 days and 3 months. Will you kindly convey to your association the thanks of our firm for the prompt reply to our circular.

We are, yours faithfully,
LIGHTBOUND, RALSTON & CO.

That which Lightbound, Ralston & Co. dreaded, and which they besought the aid of Toronto retailers to avert, seems to have befallen them. They had a premonition that the immediate object of the Guild was to force them into compliance with its terms of credit. The Montreal firm experienced a genuine Mahommedan conversion, the option between the sword and the koran being in favor of the latter. Its first letter was a Peter the Hermit outcry against the Guild's terms of credit, its second is the subscription of a proselyte.

CLOSING UP THE RANKS.

The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, in pursuance of a recommendation from their Executive Committee, have decided to admit grocers from outside cities and towns to membership. The reason for this step is obvious. From the commencement they have handled questions which were for the benefit of the whole trade, and not merely of a local nature The idea is to gather the grocers of Ontario into a strong organization, and if the scheme meets with support steps will doubtless be taken to bring all places where associations have been formed into touch with Toronto. For the present the retail grocer in towns and cities where there is no association is invited to throw in his lot with the T. R. G. Ass'n., and the Secretary has been instructed to invite correspondence from all points to that end. It is hoped that the present associations, such as Hamilton, London, Kingston, Brantford, and others, will elect two of their number (President and Secretary, for instance), and pay their fees, amounting to $2 per year each, and make them members of the Toronto body, in order that as trade questions arise all the places may act in conjunction with each other. There are many questions which can only be settled satisfactorily by a joint movement throughout the country, and this would appear to be the best means to accomplish such objects. There should be no difficulty in perfecting such an arrangement, and its benefits would be valuable. Even leaving aside these trade questions, there is a feature which should not be lost sight of. A Kingston merchant wrote the Toronto Secretary about a month ago, giving particulars of a debtor who had left Kingston two years before, and who was supposed to be located in Toronto. The other day the address of the party was forwarded to Kingston by the Secretary, who had unearthed it by means of his delinquent list. Verily, the days of the dead beat would seem to be numbered.

It would be well if the Secretaries throughout Ontario would take active steps to bring the matter spoken of above before their members as soon as possible, as it is proposed to have a gathering in Toronto at an early date for the purpose of adopting a certain line of action—common for all Ontario. We believe it is the intention to ask the Montreal Association to take similar steps for the Province of Quebec. Below we publish the circular sent out by the Toronto Association :

TORONTO, Dec., 1890.

DEAR SIR,—I have to report to you that our Association at their last meeting decided to take the first steps toward the formation of a Provincial Association of Grocers, and in furtherance of that object I now invite your co-operation. It has been decided in the first place to open out our ranks for the admission of members from all Ontario, and it is to this end I now address you. Our membership fee is $2 per year. If you have an association in your city or town, that association is now cordially invited to appoint two or more of its members to represent that association in our body, your association to pay the fees of the delegates, $2 each per year. By this means we hope to unite Ontario into an association for the good of the whole trade. We propose to call a meeting of these delegates together in the near future, and invite as many as possible to attend. You can instruct your delegates as to the means to be taken in combined action. You will observe that we are not proposing to tax associations in any alarming manner, and as the retailers' interests are common all over the country, it is hoped that you will consider our proposition in the most friendly spirit. In conclusion, I may say that this task has not been undertaken without serious consideration, and I would respectfully urge upon Secretaries the necessity of prompt action. Remit by registered post and receipts will be duly forwarded. Give names of members appointed and let me hear from you as soon as possible.

I remain,
Yours respectfully,
JNO. F. THACKRAY.

P.S.—To merchants who receive this circular where there is no organization, a cordial invitation is also extended to join us. We are not by any means seeking to destroy the usefulness of local associations. These have a large sphere for usefulness in their localities, but it is felt that in trade questions of magnitude, we should be united for the protection of our interests.

THE DOMINION COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

The sixteenth annual meeting of the Dominion Commercial Travellers' Association was held on Saturday evening in the hall of the Natural History Society, Cathcart street, Montreal, and, as is usual at such gatherings, the attendance was large, nearly 500 strong, and the interest well maintained. Only one nomination had been made for president, but the contest for vice-president between Col. C. P. Patten and Mr. C. E. A. Patterson had been carried on with considerable vigor, and the boys awaited the report of the scrutineers with the greatest amount of interest. Amongst those present were noticed: Fred Hughes, Gustave Piche, Fred Birks, Samuel Woods, Ed Coote, S. S. Boxer, F. S. Cote, C. K. Adams, Col. Patten, Frank Gormley, W. Percival, John Stephens, Thos. Harris, John Hughes, Jas Croil, H. W. Wadsworth, Harry Mortimer, D. Armstrong, J. H. Morin, W. H. Olive, W. Grose, S. J. Carter. Wm. Galbraith, C. E. A. Patterson, Geo. Sumner, Geo. Snider, W. B. Sumner, John Taylor, D. L. Lockerby, G. McBride, E. T. Copeland, Geo. Forbes, P. Besserer, R. C. Simpson, R. W. McLaughlin, A. M. Weston, Wm. Boon, A. Andrew, A. Reid, W. H. Callaghan, R. J. Logan, Geo. H. Borg, Geo. Brown and many others.

Mr. Gustave Piche, the retiring president, presided, and delivered a congratulatory address, and the secretary, Mr. H. H. Wadsworth, read the minutes of the last quarterly and annual meetings.

The next business was the reading of the annual report. The treasurer's statement annexed showed that the total income for the year is $26,384,25, and the expenditure, including assurance indemnity, $15,354.48, leaving a net gain of $11,029.77 carried to capital account, which now reaches the handsome sum of $92,132.80. The amount realized the past year in investments was $4,444.28, or sufficient to meet the ordinary working expenses of the association. During the year 359 new members were added to the roll, while 235 old members failed to renew their subscriptions, leaving the presents membership at 2,180. Seventeen members, a larger number than usual owing to la grippe, were removed by death, and the sum of $10,800 was paid to their families. Regret was also expressed for the loss of Mr. R. B. Hutchison, treasurer, who removed to Toronto.

After some discussion on the part of members the report as summarized above was adopted unanimously. The educational report was also submitted, showing that five pupils were enjoying the benefits of this useful fund.

Mr. C. K. Adams, chairman of the scrutineers, here reported the following elections:

Fred Hughes, of Caverhill, Hughes & Co.,) president, by acclamation. For vice-president, Col. C. P. Patten received 814 votes, consequently being elected. For treasurer, Fred. Birks. As a board of directors the following gentlemen were returned: John Taylor, R. C. Simpson, D. D. Black, M. Murdock and P. E. Benjamin These names were received with loud cheers, after which Mr. Piche delivered an eloquent speech and left the chair, which was taken by President Hughes, who also delivered a telling address. Col. Patten, the newly elected vice-president, was likewise called upon, and made the speech of the evening. Messrs. Birks, Taylor, Simpson and others also spoke, and it is the general belief that in the persons of Messrs. Hughes, Patton and the other gentlemen elected the association has made a first-class selection.

The question of mortuary benefits was then taken up, and upon motion of Mr. Gustave Piche it was decided to increase the amount from $1,000 at the rate of $25 per year after the tenth year to $1,200.

The temperance people secured quite a victory towards the close of the meeting. The last quarterly meeting having decided that the association furnish wine to the invited guests at the coming dinner at the St. Lawrence hall on the 23rd inst., a motion to cancel this decision was carried by a good majority.

We issue as a supplement to this number of THE GROCER a portrait of the new President, Mr. Fred. Hughes. Most of our readers will recognize the well-known features, as we consider this portrait reproduces them with fidelity.

POULTRY AND EGGS IN ENGLAND.

Mr. John Saunders of Kemptville, who was commissioned by the Dominion Government to make a survey of the English egg and poultry market, its extent, availability and probable profit returns for Canadian shippers, has reported. He says the dressed domestic fowl imports of England are not confused in trade under the general name "poultry," but go to the consumer labelled by the name of the country from which they come. Each trader sells French poultry, Spanish poultry, and so on, and this practice has educated the public into preferences, and has divided consumers into supporters of French, Spanish, Dutch, etc., importations. This may be very good for Canada, if the poultry shipments of this country are sufficiently and continuously good to raise the designation 'Canadian' high among rival national names. Mr. Saunders believes there is a good market for Canadian poultry in England, and particularly at Liverpool. We select from the report the following useful suggestions and remarks:

Fowls should, for the present, be prepared for the English market as follows:

Both turkeys and geese must, before being killed, be starved 24 hours, or at least until the crop is entirely empty. Turkeys should be bled in the neck and the head and feathers left on and entrails undrawn. Geese should be bled in the same manner, but the feathers should be picked off excepting those on the wings, leaving the down on the body and the entrails in. Geese must not be scalded, but simply rough plucked. All poultry should be killed the day before delivery to the Canadian purchasers, so that the animal heat may be completely gone.

Fowls should be packed in cases, each of which should contain not more than 200 pounds weight, say eighteen or twenty fowls. Each package should be marked with the number of birds, the weight of the package, and whether it contains cocks or hens.

Turkeys can be placed on the British market at any time from the 1st December to the 1st March; and from what information I could obtain, geese hold their value in the English market after the holiday season for a longer time than in the United States market, a fact of considerable importance in that line of goods, as after the holidays they are always almost valueless in the American market, in this respect quite differing from turkeys. From all observations, I am strongly convinced that Canadian poultry will compare favorably with any that I saw in the British market, both as to weight of birds and quality of flesh, and will only require to be brought to the attention of the consumer to ensure a ready demand.

I found that the average wholesale prices for fowls at the time of my visit last month were:—Geese, 6d. (about 12 cents) per pound; Turkeys, 8d. (about 16 cents) per pound.

I find on inquiry that the freight rate for dead poultry packed in cases from Montreal to Liverpool would be 40 shillings per ton measurement of 40 cubic feet.

Upon the feasibility of a market for Canadian eggs Mr. Saunders, among other things confirmatory of views already expressed in these pages, says:

I am satisfied from personal investigation, both of raw and cooked eggs, that as to size, weight, and flavor the Canadian egg is equal, on the average, to any egg placed on the British market. To meet the requirements of the market I would advise shippers as far as practicable to make two assortments or classes of eggs, that is, shipping the larger and the smaller eggs separately.

On examination of shipments from Canada, and arriving while I was there, I found them in good condition, the egg not being injured in any way in transport. Before being requested by you to go to England on this mission I had myself made a shipment of eggs which were sold before my arrival. On them I realized a profit of at least one cent a dozen more than I could have got at that time in the United States market. I observed that nearly all the eggs placed on the British market from European countries were packed in long straw, usually bright and clean, but in a few instances not so My own opinion is in favor of packing in clean cut straw, and from the experience I had some years ago I intend using it in future shipments. The eggs should be packed in cases large enough to contain twelve long hundreds—that is, 120 dozen. This size of packages necessitates their being handled by two men, and the experience of European shippers shows that there is a much smaller percentage of breakage than if packed in cases that can be handled by one man. These cases have a central division board so that they can be sawed in two when required for the retail trade. The usual commission for selling is 5 per cent., although I found some houses willing to sell for 3 per cent.

I think, for the reason before stated, in connection with the poultry trade, that Liverpool would be the best distributing point for eggs, and I have not the slightest doubt but that, in a short time, a large and profitable trade can be worked up.

THE HONEST GROCER.

It is an undeniable fact that every seven days this journal grows a week older. Since its birth it has worn out several supplies of type, it has eaten up many hundred tons of paper, it has slaked its thirst with numerous barrels of the best ink, and it has expanded in size, in importance, and has swelled enormously in its own good opinion. This journal is growing old. The experience of age has dispelled many of the illusions of youth, and, sorrowful to relate, its early enthusiasm is giving place to doubt. There was a time when it truly believed that "knowledge is power." That time has passed away, and it has learned the sad lesson that ignorance is a power as great and perhaps greater than knowledge. At one period of its history it had faith in education, and thought that with the spread of education crime and vice would disappear; it has lived to see the burglar and the forger accomplished linguists and mathematicians, and the murderer the possessor of a university degree and a most charming musician. For a long time it accepted as truth the statement that "competition is the life of trade," and now alas, it sees quite clearly that competition is not only the death of honorable trade, but the destroyer of wholesome industrial life. But this is not the moment to moralize. Let us be practical, and dutifully seek to perform the mission of this great journal. Very well, then. Here, upon the polished mahogany of the editorial table, lies a copy of the CANADIAN GROCER, a weekly journal devoted to the interests of the general storekeeper and retailer. It contains much matter of a highly suggestive character. So far from competition being desirable, it shows that the retail grocers have formed associations for their mutual benefit, and that such associations are acting in the public interests. It appears that there are a class of grocers who advertise to sell goods at prices which honest grocers can not deal with, and the class referred to can only sell goods at those low prices because they are spoiled, or bad, but they sell them professing that they are good and wholesome. The honest grocer thus suffers from the fraudulent practices of the dishonest trader. An honest grocer sells butter, let us say at 22c., whilst the dishonest one sells it at 20c., his dishonesty consisting in cheating the farmer from whom he buys it out of 2c. which is honestly his. Another sells salmon at 25c. a can. It is a sound, wholesome article, for which he pays a just price to the fisherman down at the sea side, and when introduced into the stomach of the public it is nutritious, easily digested, and conveys posphate to the brain. But the dishonest grocer sells two cans of salmon for the same price of 25c. and to do so he has to buy a white, poor, fresh water fish, an article largely composed of piscatorial offal, which, when it reaches the public stomach abideth there and causes dyspepsia, and nausea, and instead of conveying phosphate to the brain carries disorganization to the epigastric region. The honest grocer in this wise suffers, for his good salmon remains upon his shelves, and not only does he himself sustain loss, but so also does the salt-water fishermen who listen on the beach in idleness down by the sad sea waves. All this we learn from THE CANADIAN GROCER, and much more of a similar character, so that we feel kindly and charitably towards him when he proposes that honest grocers should join in a union or association and establish fair and just prices both for the buyer and seller. But how about competition? Is it not true that competition in trade has done evil, just as competition in wages has made the laborer a wage slave, and taken from him all but a bare subsistence? And is it not also true that the remedy proposed by the grocers, namely union or association, is the remedy for the wage earners, and, lastly, is it not also true that the competition idea is dying out and being replaced by that of co-operation? Is not individualism giving place to collectiveism? Please think carefully over the last sentence. Should honest grocers desire that this journal should make further remarks on the subject it will do so, and take figs, and dates and raisins for illustrations, samples of which can be forwarded to this office, care being taken that express charges shall be prepaid, just as a guarantee of good faith.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

A feather duster disperses but does not remove the dust from the store.

W. Giddens, grocer, was a loser to the extent of over $2,000 in last week's Cobourg fire.

The stock books for the proposed canning company at Strathroy, are now open, and the committee who have the matter in hand are waiting for citizens make the enterprise a success.

The general store of A. R. Dunn on the Hamilton Road near London was scorched on Monday to the extent of $100. The match of an incendiary seems to have been the cause.

Mr. Aaron Child, who opened a grocery and butcher shop at 1124 Queen west a few months ago, has now a first-class business. He does a large trade in butter and poultry, keeping only the best.

A new canning factory is likely to be started at Picton by a company in which A. Anning, formerly of A. C. Miller & Co., will be a leading spirit. It looks as if he had confidence in the prospects of the trade.

Fielding & McLaren, Guelph, who have bought the grocery business of Henry Loch have been successful tea merchants in that city. They are highly spoken of by the travellers as energetic young men, and likely to do well in their new departure.

It is rumored that Mr. Riddell, the rising young grocer on the corner of Parliament and Gerrard Sts. in this city, will renounce the estate of single desolateness on the first day of the New Year. We wish him the compliments both of the season and of the occasion.

Mr. Thos. McFarlane, Dominion Analyst, is now engaged on an analysis of samples of mustard collected from grocery stores at various points in the city and country. It is suspected that table mustard has been of late badly adulterated with ochre and other impurities, and it is to settle this question that the analyses are being made.

Mr. W. Holditch, Sudbury, Ont., dealer in groceries, fruits, eggs, provisions, flour and feed, solicits consignments of produce, etc. Sudbury is a thriving town in the heart of the new mining district and bids fair to become a large and important place in the near future. Few Canadians have any idea of the extent of the mining industry in Northern Ontario.

Mr. Roderick McKenzie, of London a well-known and much esteemed citizen, died on the 10th inst. The deceased was born in 1829, in Invernesshire, Scotland, and came to America in 1854. The following year he went to London, Ont., and entered the employ of the late T. H. Buckley, grocer, with whom he remained for two years, afterwards being with the late W. S. Smith. In 1870 he entered into business for himself, and was successful, retiring in 1883.

Mr. W. H. Smith, King st. E., Toronto, is again this season making a specialty of Christmas fruits. He has now a stock of Florida and Valencia oranges, choicest brands of Messina lemons, Malaga grapes, figs, dates, nuts, etc., and cranberries. He will take consignments of country produce in return for fruit. As he keeps no travellers, doing all his business through advertisements, he is able to sell at close prices. The firm has been in operation since 1874.

On Saturday night a verdict of guilty was returned against Smith, Brown, Clark, and O'Reilly for robbing the North Star grocery, Kingston, of $50 and the till. The chief evidence was given by a girl named Salter, who was in Clark's house at the time of the affair. Smith received a sentence of seven years and Brown three years in the Penitentiary; Clark and O'Reilly one and a half years in the Central prison. The gang have thus been effectually broken up.

A special freight train of 17 cars, laden with poultry, left Smith's Falls via the C. P. R. and C. A. R. for the Boston Christmas markets on Saturday morning. The shipment is one of the largest ever sent from there. It is estimated that the duties to be taken out of the pockets of United States people on this shipment, as a result of the McKinley bill, will be $15,000. The preference of the Boston people for Canadian poultry is not to be extinguished, at all events at Christmastide, by the United States tariff.

Thomas Swertz, Thomas Kiely and Arch. Stevenson, three young men, at the Orillia Police Court on Monday afternoon pleaded guilty to burglarizing Perry & Alport's general store the previous night. The mayor committed them for trial. About midnight watchman Cuppage, in making his rounds, had heard a noise in the passage way used by the Golden Lion as a goods entrance. He investigated and captured Swertz, his companions getting away. Swertz, however, informed Cuppage who his companions were, and early this afternoon Kiely and Stevenson were arrested with some of the stolen property in their possession. Kiely was formerly in the employ of Messrs. Perry & Alport.

Recently Mr. T. D. Millar, the well-known cheese manufacturer of Ingersoll, applied to the Department of Customs for a drawback on white stoneware, which he has been in the habit of importing from Scotland in which to pack a certain brand of cheese. Mr. Bowell was indisposed to grant the request, his contention being that this particular class of stoneware was manufactured at St. Johns, Que. Mr. Millar said he was not aware that such was the case, but would enquire. He has since made enquiries, and finds that the quality of ware produced there is just what he wants, and accordingly he will utilize hereafter, as it will come to him cheaper than the Scotch product laid down at Ingersoll.

THE SORT OF TEA WE DRINK.

£1 10s. 6d., 6s. 3d., 3s. 8d.. and 2s. 8¾d. —these were the prices per pound, as sold in Mincing lane, without duty, etc., of the teas that a Star man was drinking yesterday. It was in the London establishment of Messrs. Forster, Green, & Co., the big Dublin teamen, that this extravagant spree on tea took place. The primary object of our man's visit was to sample the £1 10s. 6d. tea, which was sold for £2 to a Leicester tea dealer, who is now retailing it at £3 3s. Some of it was sold in 1 oz. packets at 5s. per oz. There was only 15 lb. of this tea in the world, and there may never be such tea again. Previous to this no tea was ever sold in modern times in Mincing-lane at more than 10s. or 12s. a pound. This £1 10s. 6d. tea, therefore, has fairly eclipsed everything. It came from the Heathersett estate, Ceylon; and though this and other estates might supply us with such tea regularly, they are not likely to do so, as the cost is too great. In the first place, it destroys the tea plants, the leaves being gathered just when they are beginning to sprout, and in the next place every one of these very tiny leaves is gathered by hand. As for the appearance of the tea, it is like very fine cut tobacco of a light color. To an ordinary observer it dosen't look like tea at all. And as for the taste—well, to the amature, it is dissappointing at first, but after you taste another—say 6s.3d. per pound—tea and then go back, you begin to think there is something in it, after all. A good many points about the liquor and the leaves, and the clouds the milk formed when added were explained by Mr. Hollaway, Forster Green's London man, to our representative who, however, was unable to follow him into the subtle distinctions he drew. One point of public interest he gathered, viz., that in London tea tasters infuse the tea exactly six minutes; in Dublin, owing to the difference in the water, the time is eight minutes.

TORONTO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Dec. 18, 1890.

GROCERIES.

Trade is not yet infused with that mercurial spirit whose reviving influence is always looked for during the week's before Christmas. The holidays are being approached at a very staid gait in all lines of the departments whence Christmas stocks are filled, but in none is there scarcity as a consequence of the aggregate effects of the seasons's demand. The chief trade is in dried fruits and nuts. In yellow sugars there has been a slight stir, which was the effect of the dulness, the slow trade driving wholesalers to cut prices. What tended to aggravate the dulness was the loss of the snow, and this will prolong it, unless we have a fall very soon. This week is really the last of the year, though some travellers may be out a day or two next week. The new terms of credit as confirmed by the Dominion Guild this month are : For sugar, syrups, molasses, canned goods, produce and fish, 30 days, for general groceries 3 months. Payments made within ten days on either class of goods will be accepted as cash, and will entitle the buyer to a discount of one per cent. on the 30 day goods, and 3 per cent. on the 3 month goods. Payments made after the ten days of grace and before maturity will secure the retailer a discount of 12 per cent per annum upon that unexpired time.

CANNED GOODS.

Both trade and prices have been almost stationary since our last report, the only noteworthy movement being the hardening of prices in tomatoes, which quote now at $1.35 to $1.40. The resources of the supply appear to be unequal to the strain of consumption that it is estimated will begin its work in a month or more. Salmon is as firm as ever and as quiet as any line. The trade among jobbers is still at a lull, as has that between jobbers and retailers been for some time.

The New York Bulletin quotes a San Francisco observer as follows: "There is nothing extraordinary in the situation. There is no very active enquiry just now, but there is a certain and good market for it all before the opening of the new season. The reports about short packs and full packs have done a great deal to hinder the regular distribution of salmon and to disturb prices unnecessarily, and it is to be hoped that there will be less said on the subject in the future. There is no shortage this year of any significance. The Pacific cost salmon pack for 1890 is just about what it was last year. There may be a shortage of 50,000 cases in the Alaska pack, but take it all around the product of the industry will show no significant falling off in volume. But there need be no fear in marketing it all. Our receipts in San Francisco and our sales for consumption in the East have been very large this season. There are now about 200,000 cases of salmon held in this city. The ordinary demand will clean up the balance of the pack and any extraordinary enquiry might have the effect to advance prices, but in a general way it may be said that the situation suggests a steady movement at fair prices until the distribution of the present pack."

COFFEE.

The coffee trade is one of the dullest now transacted. The demand is contracted and diverse, running to low grades and fine ones with about equal strength. The N. Y. Merchants Review says of Rios : Dealers have no confidence in the maintenance of present values but expect them to rule lower very soon. The warehouse deliveries at all seaports during November were 240,191 bags against 228,331 bags same month last year. The consumption of coffee in United States and Europe for the five months ended Nov. 30 shows a heavy decline compared with same time last year.

DRIED FRUIT.

The retail traders of the country continue to order instalments of their season's stock. The mistrust of late December weather which the last few years' experience has taught them, makes them chary of large purchases in advance of a settled winter temperature over a good coat of snow. The prices of currants and raisins of all classes are unchanged, and are fairly firm. The same is true of figs, dates and prunes, which share with the other staples in the steady, limited demand. Fancy packages of raisins, etc., are in very good request, as trade in them is less dependent upon fluctuations of the ordinary demand.

NUTS.

The importance of this line of merchandise has been greatly enhanced by the season, and by the lateness of arrivals. Trade in nuts is very good, in fact better than the general features of business would warrant one in estimating. Grenobles and Marbots are in stock yet, though not in large quantities, and the few Bordeaux that arrived last week have all been taken off. Prices are unchanged.

RICE AND SPICES.

The trade in rice might almost be neglected in a summary of the business now being done in wholesale grocery warehouses. Patna is particularly hard to get. On spot holders ask 5½ to 6c. Canadian milled B can be bought here at 3⅞c. but according to the figures asked by the mills it would cost more to lay down. Spices are receiving a good amount of seasonable attention, but no price note has developed from the business done.

SUGAR.

Granulated sugar is quiet. The prices are yet 6⅞c. to 7c. The trade in yellows has been rather better than granulated, but even in yellows the situation appeared to need stimulating, and dealers have faced the dull demand with easier prices. Yellow is now selling as low as 5 to 5½c. for the darkest grade. From the present state of trade, one is apt to deduce the conclusion that all sugars are weak. Outside, the position of sugars is weakening, as a result of the revolution which is becoming perceptible in the United States market, and which is a consequence of the change in that country's tariff, whereby the raw commodity is admitted duty free. Granulated is now offering for February delivery in the New York market at 4 1-2c.

M. Licht's November estimates of the beet crop are 3,635,000 tons, against 3,627,967 tons last year and the cane crops 2,350,000 tons, against 2,058,292 tons last year, a total of 5,985,000 tons, against 5,686,250 tons last year. The production of beet sugar for first two months of the campaign year shows a decrease of 35,000 tons, against the preceding year. The consumption for 12 months to October 31, in Europe and North America, shows an increase of 435,000 tons. The visible stock and floating cargoes of Europe and North America are given as 622,637 tons, against 780,338 tons last year, and 600,536 tons the year before.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

A fairly good business is kept up by the demand for both syrups and molasses, the lower grades of the former and the higher grades of the latter being the most in request. The prices current show no change.

TEAS.

Very little of the moderate acceleration that has been given to the grocery trade by the Christmas demand, has been felt by the tea-business. That has remained quiet, the slight stimulus, noted a week ago, which was imparted to the demand for fine grades now having spent itself. The resources of stock are still limited as to grades, though full enough as regards quantity of higher grade tea. Young Hyson and Japan at easy prices would no doubt be an acquisition to the cause of trade, but they are not to be had. Not much attention has been paid to Indian teas this week. From London we hear that the market is slightly easier for medium Pekoes and common kinds, while fine and finest still obtain good values.

PETROLEUM.

Trade is very good, but with the increased demand prices do not strengthen, as might be expected of them. On the contrary, they are weaker, and Canadian refined quotes another half cent lower, now standing at 16 to 17c.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

The demand is improving. The most striking thing in the market is the advance of cocaine, which has leaped from $6.50 to $10. Bicarbonate of soda is also up, and is quoted in our prices current at $2.50 to $2.75. If it had to be bought now, it would cost $2.80 laid down here. The advance in winter freights is the cause.

Liverpool letters of November 27, referring to chemicals, say: "The establishment of the union has been exciting buyers, who have been eagerly taking up both bleaching powder and soda ash over the whole of next year, even paying a premium on the minimum prices fixed by the union to secure contracts. So much caustic soda had been bought up before the union started that demand has almost entirely dropped off for the present, and the prices may have to be reduced to make sales. Sulphate of copper is getting dearer again.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The demand side of the butter market is improving as Christmas preparations and the laying in of supplies against holiday consumption proceed. The demand is better both as to quantity and to quality, grades not strictly first class being bought more freely for baking purposes, while prime is wanted for table use. The other side of the market is not exhibiting signs of equal improvement, but manifestly grows worse as the turnip nurtured butter begins to come in. The turnipy flavor is now very general, and the qualities of the butter that are due to the maker have not got any better. The supply of poor stock is coming in entirely beyond the resources of the market to take up and work off, so that accumulations are being built up. Good dairy tub is 16c. and medium or store packed is 8 to 12c. Large rolls, pails and crocks are 12 to 16c. and are plentiful. Pound rolls are scarce and wanted at 16 to 18c. Creamery tub is scarce at 24 to 25c.

Cheese is 8 to 9c. for early summer, 7 to 8c. for half skims and 10 1-2c. for September make. The demand is fair.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Good stock, hard and sound, brings $4 to $4.50, but there are grades received corresponding to $3 to $3.50. There are no soft apples coming in.

BEANS—Are unchanged and dull, small lots being worth $1.65, and large ones $1.50.

DRIED APPLES—Continue to attract interest on account of scarcity, though that condition is not revealed by current business so much as it is estimated from comparison with the visible supplies with the long time the stock has to last. Prices are yet 7¾ to 8c.

EVAPORATED APPLES — Are as firm and scarce as ever, and sell at 13 to 14c., with but fair business being done.

EGGS—Are very scarce, but buyers do not agree in price, some giving 23c. and some 25c. for fresh. Limed are 21 to 22c.

GAME—Partridges are in none too free supply at 75c. per brace. Ducks are very scarce at 65 to 75c., and rabbits are in request at 30c.

HAY—Good timothy brings $9.50, and prices grade away from that to $7. Receipts are liberal, and keep the supply ahead of the demand.

HIDES—No. 1 green are 4½c., and a cent off for each succeeding lower grade, and unbroken dulness in the market. Cured sell at 5¼c., and are in quiet demand.

HONEY—Is very dull. The quotations are yet: 12½c. for good clear, 11c. for medium clear, and 7 to 8c. for low grade clear. Sections are 14 to 20c.

HOPS—Are steady at 35 to 40c. for new, and 20 to 25c. for yearlings.

OATS—Are 42 to 43c. and firm, as supplies come but slowly.

ONIONS—Red are still $2, and white $2.25. The demand is persistent but not of large capacity.

POTATOES—Have taken an unusual jump. Carloads are now selling from 80 to 90c., and 5-bag lots are selling out of store at $1 to $1.05. Stock is hard to get.

POULTRY—Is in excellent demand and in short supply in everything. Chickens are 30 to 40c. for good, geese are 6 to 7c. turkeys are 7 to 11c. the lower quotation being for a stock of thawed turkeys of which the flesh is darkened. Ducks are 65 to 70c. for good.

SKINS—Good sheep are worth $1 to $1.05.

STRAW—Oat is in free supply at $6 to $6.50.

TALLOW—Rough goes at 2c. and refined at 5 1-2c.

WOOL—Is dull and unchanged at 20c.

FISH.

The local fish dealers report a quiet trade in the fish market. Quietness will prevail until the New Year. The Manitoba white fish will be on the market to-morrow.

GREEN FRUIT.

Stocks are now replenished and all that is wanting to make business lively is a good exertion on the part of the demand. That exertion is not betokened by any symptoms yet, as all the buying being done is at the ordinary every day rate. If a big business was likely to come before Christmas we should look for a lull in which the demand would be gathering strength, but as the trade goes on at its ordinary pace, a very big movement is not now expected. Jamaica oranges are going rapidly out of stock at $8 to $8.50. Florida are $4 to $4.50. Valencias are $5.50. Messina lemons are $4 to $4.50, and Palermos are $3.50 to $3.75. Sweet potatoes are $4 to $4.50. Malaga grapes are $7 to $9.

CRANBERRIES.

Cape Cod are $11 to $13, and North Shore are $8 to $9, the advance in prices being coincident with the growing consumption of turkeys which the season inaugurates.

PROVISIONS.

Trade has been as active as it was the week before, and a considerable amount of business for local consumption has been done. The prices of hogs have firmed, though supplies have not greatly fallen off, a cause of the firmness being the slight improvement in the weather, and another cause being the fact that the advance supplies of the packers are nearly all manufactured.

BACON—Long clear has weakened to 7¾c. in car lots and 8⅜c. for smaller quantities; bellies are 10 to 11c.; rolls are 9½ to 10c.; and backs are 10½c.

DRESSED HOGS — Receipts have been lighter the past few days. Heavy and very light are $5, and select weights are $5.50 to $5.60.

HAMS—Are easier at 11 to 12c.

LARD—Is 9 to 9¼c. in tubs and pails.

MESS PORK—Is $15 to $16.

SALT.

Now that the railway companies have advanced their freights. Toronto Salt Works have to advance their prices 1c. per hundred weight all round, a thing they have not had to do on the above account for 14 years. The following are the sales reported by the Toronto Salt Works for the week: 2 cars bbl. salt at $1.43; 2 cars sacks at 72c.; 1 car dairy $1.30. Smaller quantities are now sell-

NOT WHAT YOU PAY

FOR AN ADVERTISEMENT,

BUT WHAT IT PAYS YOU!

Hoary headed 1890, with tottering step, is fast approaching the dark abyss into which he will disappear never to return. We honor and respect his grey hairs He has smiled on some and frowned on others. But all troubles and trials undergone during his reign are now forgotten in the excitement and preparation for his youthful successor, 1891. You are now comparing your profits with previous years. How do they stand? If you know your business, and study its every detail and have been a live advertiser, we say without fearing contradiction that they are on the right side. You are now looking to what '91 has in store for you. You ask "How can I increase my business?" Have you given advertising a fair trial? Our largest wholesale and manufacturing houses are big advertisers. It is a department in their business that they study carefully. The man who says "I never advertise" is a curiosity. He is a survivor of the dark ages.

IF YOU WANT TO REACH THE RETAIL GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER why advertise in daily and general papers? Seventy-five per cent. of the circulation is thus wasted. GROCER is the only journal in Canada that reaches the above class direct. Its subscribers look there and there only for your announcements. Isn't one bushel of grain sown in good soil better than twenty bushels thrown to the winds with hopes that it will find a fertile bed? Again, papers which are printed with coal tar, with type worn down to the second-nick, which can hardly make an outline cut show, which are filled with the worst kind of patent medicine advertisements, the live advertiser is better out of than he would be in at the same price. If you want cheap advertising and big circulation among the grocery and general store trade The Canadian Grocer is your medium.

WHEN?

You have decided on what you will do in the way of advertising for 1891 let us hear from you. All we ask is a fair trial. If you are in doubt as to its value we refer you to our large list of subscribers and advertisers. In conclusion we quote from a large advertiser's letter: "Much better it would be if the advertiser handled his advertising with the same shrewdness he gives to other departments of his business. If $1,000 will pay thrown promiscuously into the newspapers, it will pay 100 per cent. better if put there systematically and intelligently." ☞ Address The Canadian Grocer, Toronto, Ont.

MARKETS—Continued.

ing at $1.55 to $1.60 for bbls ; 85 to 90c. for sacks, and 55 to 60c. for ¼ sacks.

DRY GOODS.

The spring trade is expanding as the season moves on. Orders have came in very briskly the past few days, the aim of retailers being to buy of wholesale stocks which were laid in before the advance. The firmness of prices shows no modification. There is a very good sorting up trade also being transacted.

RAW FURS.

The unusually good trade done this season in manufactured goods makes prices steady and firm for raw. They are yet :—Beaver per lb., $4.50 to $5 ; bear, per skin, $10 to $25; cub, per skin, $5 to $12 ; fisher $3.50 to $5 ; fox, red, 81 to $1.25; fox, cross, $2 to $5; lynx, $1.50 to $2.50; martin, 75 to 90c.; mink, dark, 75c. to $1.25 ; Muskrat, fall, 12c. ; winter, 15c. ; otter, $8 to $13 ; racoon, 25 to 80c. ; skunk, 25 to $1.25.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Dec. 17, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The approach of Christmas has led to some little accession of business in lines of goods demanded at this season, but the general position remains quiet on the whole, with its ruling features unchanged. Dried fruit remains unaltered, and the same applies to sugar, tea and other staples in which a fair business has been transacted, but simply in a jobbing way.

FRUIT.

This branch of trade in a small kind of way has led to some movement in dried fruit, while there has been the usual jobbing trade in green stock. In the former, Valencia raisins are the most prominent article and there has been no appreciable change since our last. There has been some call for the choicer lines for the Christmas trade, and this has led to some movement in layers and prime Valencias. A fair sized lot of the former passed out of first hands on Monday at 7½c. and prime Valencias have brought 6¼c, but there are brokers who claim they can be moved for less. These latter base their calculation on sales in bond at New York, which we think is hardly a fair guide to the position of stocks held here, while the N. Y. Bulletin admits that prime stock in that market is held very firm. Currants rule steady and there has been some business in them at former figures 5½c. In green fruit business has been steady, and the opening of the week saw an appreciable accession due to enquiry on Christmas account, and receipts of oranges of various varieties have been very free recently in Valencias, Floridas, and Jamaicas. Prices are somewhat lower, as some cutting has been done to effect sales. Nice prime Valencias are worth $4.75, although business has been done at $4.50, but the best fruit could not be had at this figure. Floridas move steady and are 25c. easier at $3.75 to $4.00 under increased receipts. Jamaicas are unchanged, $6 to $6.25 per barrel. In other lines no change is to note, lemons being firm at $3.75 to $3.75 for prime Messina stock. Nuts have been a fair trade during the week and filberts, grenoble, walnuts and almonds have moved along in a quiet way. Spanish chesnuts are on market at 11 to 12c. per lb.

SUGAR, ETC.

The market has shown little change during the week, but there has been a fair average movement with some little accession recently on holiday account. Yellows are quoted at 5 to 6c., and Muscovadoes 4¾ to 5c. Syrups are unchanged at 3½ to 4¼c., and molasses 35½ to 37½c.

TEAS.

The market has been without special feature and stocks of high grade Japans continue scarce, while the feeling remains strong.

RICE.

There is nothing new to report concerning the article which keeps quiet. We quote common $3.90 ; Japan $4.10 to $4.25, and Patna $5.50.

FISH.

Stocks of this article continue light, and the week has witnessed no important feature or change in any line, business ruling very quiet. Labrador herring keep steady at $5 to $5.50 ; new Cape Breton $5 to $5.75; Green Cod is a scarce article, small sales of No. 1 have been made at $5.50, while large drafts have been placed at $5.75. Holders, however, are not urging sales at all, as stocks are so light. Other lines were without feature.

APPLES.

The improvement that we noted in the tone of the Liverpool apple market last week has been maintained, and several satisfactory account sales have been received One for a lot of 600 odd barrels assorted varieties netted $4.05 here, while another for some mixed lots went at $3 net in the West. The steamer Circassian, which arrived from Portland this week, has several thousand Canadiau apples on board, mostly choice varieties, and they are being held. Locally there is a fair jobbing movement at $4.50 for best varieties.

HOPS.

This market has shown little change during the week, and brewers as a general rule prove indifferent. Ontario sellers are urging sales here, and have offered long credits for the sake of effecting sales, a recent lot of 50 bales being placed at 35c. six months. For cash transactions a couple of cents under that appears to be the idea, and we cannot cite any business. However, with German hops allowed into Canada at 9c. lb. less duty than the States some are bound to find their way here and have already done so, so perhaps holders would be unwise to hold too long. For bids in the country, 32c. appears to be the idea, but we cannot learn that it has resulted in much recently.

ASHES.

The market continues quiet and uninteresting, as receipts are small and unimportant. We quote : First pots $5.70 to $5.75, and seconds $4.90 to $5.

EGGS.

Receipts of eggs are small, in fact practically nil, and it is therefore easy to understand that prices keep up while the supply of held stock is none too heavy. Demand is of a fair, steady nature and we quote prices stiff at 26 to 27c for fresh boiling stock, limed 22 to 23c.

POULTRY.

This week will witness the commencement of the Christmas demand for poultry, and dealers have been preparing for it, but they state that their supplies are none too ample. In fact there has been a steady demand all along, and this has kept stocks down pretty well. The quality of some of the receipts has still to be complained, and to farmers who wish to realize good prices on their stock we would repeat our remarks about care in dressing and packing. They will have no difficulty at all in obtaining good prices if their stock is clean and dry picked and not scalded. We quote : Turkeys, 9 to 10c.; geese, 6 to 7c.; chickens, 6 to 7c.; and ducks, 8 to 8½c.

DRESSED HOGS.

Business in dressed hogs was fair during the week and a good clearance of stock was made during the early portion. Demand consequently was rather slack for the few last days as buyers had filled their wants, but the tone of the market is fairly steady and prices are unchanged. We quote car lots $5.55 to $5.65 and jobbing lots $5.75 to $6 per 100 pounds.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The firm position of this market is fully maintained and holders have great confidence in the future as regards prices. Stocks of finest are undoubtedly small here considerably less than last year at this time, while there seems to be an outlet for it in several directions. In the first place there is a good jobbing enquiry for choice selections which induces a nice little movement in selection of creamery and Townships dairy on the basis of 23c. for the former and 18 to 20c. for the latter. Then there is the export demand which runs mainly to creamery and Western dairy and we have to note some fair business during the week. Some 1000 packages of creamery have been moved at 22c. and over, while some fair sale of Western dairy have transpired on the basis of 14 1-2 to 15c. Most of the stuff is going to Bristol, and the sales indicate that the article is wanted when it can be had at a figure and is satisfactory in point of quality. These recent transactions have reduced the stock of finest considerably, and some even contend that an order for a round lot of best creamery would be hard to fill here, but although we admit that stocks are small, we incline to the opinion that an order at a price could be filled in spite of what the more bullish ones say. We quote late creameries 22 to 23c., earlier makes, 20 to 21c., fall Townships, 18 to 20c., eastern daries, 16 to 17c., finest western, 14 1-2 to 15 1-2c. and medium grades, 10 to 12c.

There have been few features to note regarding the cheese market during the past week and business has been unimportant, in fact, we cannot cite any transactions of magnitude recently. The feeling though is firm and holders are very sanguine, averring that it is only a matter of time for a movement to occur, and we think there are reasonable chances for their expectations being fulfilled. About 9¾c. is a nominal price at the moment and represents the value for the most recent transactions, but would probably cost a fraction or so more if a buyer went on the market really meaning business. We quote finest late made, 9¾ to 9⅞c., fine, 9½ to 9⅝c., medium, 9¼ to 9⅜c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The grain market has presented the same uninteresting features all along, and aside from the business in oats there has been little to note. Transactions in them have occurred as high as 46½c. Nothing is doing in wheat on spot, but purchases by millers at interior points in the Northwest are reported on the basis of $1.05 for No. 1, and $1.02 for No. 2 laid down here. The stocks in store show an increase of 27,196 bushels of wheat, 490 bushels of corn, 6,177 bushels of peas, and 53,004 bushels of oats, compared with those of last year, and a decrease of 129,275 bushels of wheat, 14,023 bushels of corn, 75,714 bushels of peas, 67,980 bushels of barley, and an increase of 5,653 bushels of oats, and 9,079 bushels of rye, compared with the same time last year. We quote: No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.03 to $1.05; peas, 73c to 74c per 66 pounds in store Manitoba oats, 44c; Upper Canada do., 46c to 46½c; corn 72c to 73c. duty paid; feed barley, 50c to 52c; good malting no., 65 to 70c; rye 60c.

The flour market rules quiet with business principally of a jobbing character. The tone is fairly steady and the stocks remain favorable with a further decrease as compared with a year ago. They show an increase of 2667 barrels compared with a week ago and a decrease of 27,954 compared with a year ago. New wheat strong bakers' however are on the easy side and prices are rather lower, although city millers deny any radical decline. We know however that business has been done on the basis of $5.00, of course for something a little off grade, but quote prices at a reduction of 10c. at $5.30 to $5.40 per barrel. Patent spring, $5.70 to $5.80; patent winter, $5.10 to $5.40; straight roller, $4.75 to $4.80; extra, $4.40 to $4.50; superfine, $4.00 to $4.10; fine, $3.25 to $3.50; city strong bakers', $5.40 to $5.50; strong bakers', $5.40 to $5.50; superfine bags, $1.75 to $1.90; extra, bags, $2.00 to $2.10; fine bags $1.50 to $1.60; oatmeal, standard, per bag, $2.25 to $2.30; oatmeal, granulated, $2.40 to $2.50; oatmeal, rolled, $2.40 to $2.50.

ST. JOHN, N. B., MARKETS.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Dec. 16, 1890.

There is no change reported in the markets during the past week, and prices of all commodoties are the same as quoted in the last GROCER. Beyond receiving a few odds and ends to fill up, the retailers are supplied with their holiday goods. Fruits moved very freely during the past week. There were several large importations of rasins, currants, nuts oranges and lemons, and they found a ready sale. Steamer "Damara" arrived a couple of days ago from London with a general cargo. Among her cargo was 1223 packages of tea, also a lot of dates. A small cargo of Demerara molasses was also placed upon the market during the week

Everything now has a holiday appearance. The stores are gaily trimmed, and the prospect for a lively trade among the retailers is good. There has been a light fall of snow, and this will enable the country people to come to the city. Very little change is expected by the wholesale houses until after the holidays.

Following are the quotations :—

CAUTION TO EGG SHIPPERS.

LONDON, 29th Nov., 1890.

DEAR SIR,—Having, in connection with the proposed trade with this market in Canadian eggs, had not a little to do with the dissemination of information as to the conditions and requirements of the business this side, we would again urge that the utmost caution be exercised by prospective shippers in feeling their way into the trade here. Although the English people are very large consumers of eggs, there is a limit to their capacity, and therefore the greatest tact and discretion must be exercised by Canadian shippers, to enable them so to gradually edge into this market, as not to bring about an all round lower level of prices through undue competition. Any attempt to take this market by storm would not only mean loss to your shippers, but prejudice very greatly the present fair prospects of building up in time a satisfactory trade.

The market this side continues in a healthy position, and prices remain good, this being the season of the year when we have, more than usually, to depend on foreign supplies. The points of economy in packing, careful selection, quick transit, etc., have all yet to be carefully worked out, and any shippers who act on the opinion that this market is in a condition for large supplies will run risk of losing money, and discover that the saying of "more haste less speed," is truly applicable to any hasty pioneering of this trade.

Yours faithfully,
TULLOCH & Co.

That our efforts to obtain access to new markets may be as little as possible of a haphazard character, the statistics branch of the Canadian Department of Agriculture continues to compile and tabulate relevant information from the records of past trade. This gives an inductive basis for departures that the recent closing of the United States market forces us to make. Two recent issues from the statistics branch are "Imports and Exports of Agricultural Produce, year ended 30th June, 1889," and "Imports into Great Britain during the years, 1887, 1888, and 1889." In these a large amount of information is concisely exhibited, and everyone interested in the expansion of our trade should obtain copies.

New beet root sugar factories are being started in the Western States. One is reported this week of 350 tons daily capacity now building in Utah. The bounty clause in the U. S. tariff bill is already producing a feeling of interest in beet culture which may produce great results in the next few years.

A convention of lobster packers, including representatives of American and English firms, was held in Halifax on the 11th inst. to consider suggestions made by the Department of Marine in regard to the catching and packing of lobsters. The conference declined to adopt the department's suggestions, and voted that the existing law was ample for the preservation of that fishery if enforced. There was much complaint about the regulation limiting the legal size of a lobster to 9½ inches, and it was voted that a close season was far more effective in preserving the fishery than any regulation regarding size. It was stated that the cruisers were valueless for enforcing the law. The moment she started out for a cruise word was telegraphed along the shore, "The cruiser is coming," and before she arrived all evidence of illegality was hidden. It was stated that 3,000 cases of lobsters were illegally packed between Halifax and Canso this season.

THE LAY OF A SHELBURNE GROCER.

A tenth muse, she who presides over the rhyming advertisement department of modern business, ought now to be apotheosized, and added to Apollo's sacred nine. Her time of probation is surely fulfilled when her pinions show such strength as is evinced in the following lines, in which F. A. Campbell, Shelbourne, announces in the local press an era of good bargain's inaugurated by cash dealing. Here is the poem, which is robust and diverting, and sure to be read :

Ye Shelburne "cits," the situation's grave ;
The times are hard—the question how to save
Now occupies your minds. A chilling wave
Has struck the town,
And so your best attention now I crave,
Ere you're done brown.

By this I mean, of course, before you're 'busted.'
I'll whisper, if past history be trusted,
Full many a one has Shelburne left disgusted;
Nor slow to give Reasons most cogent. Where their all they lost had
They couldn't live.

Expenses high, cash scarce and profits low ;
How else but downward, downward could they go?
They struggled hard, economized, but no,
The downward track
Things kept. What marvel that on Shelburne so
They turned their back?

But now, behold, a wondrous change has come—
One that brings speech unto the very dumb,
The deaf shall hear, though bursts each silent drum
Auricular,
Good news ! one need not not be to send it home Particular.

What is the news? Why Campbell's to the fore,
With goods the cheapest he has crammed his store ;
And now a host who always felt quite poor
Are on their feet.
They are themselves again, for as of yore
They make ends meet.

Grinning just like a horse that's eating thistles,
No more each customer, with back up, bristles,
Nor, discontented, hurling wordy missiles,
Parades the street.
Each laughs, guffaws, cracks merry jokes and whistles
"Times can't be beat."

With goods so cheap, as happy as a clam,
Each customer of Campbell's is quite calm,
Nor has o'er bills a solitary qualm.
He then can meet,
Nor cares a nickle now for any man
That walks the street.

Why is this "thusness" with things at "hard pan"?
His patrons buy for cash. Adopt the plan.
Men make their luck ; 'tis time that you began.
Turn a new leaf,
And buy where bottom prices lead the van,
Where honest dealing rules 'twixt man and and man--
"The Maple Leaf."

On the 2nd inst. a fire broke out in the third flat of the building occupied by R. G. Lambert & Sons, Harriston, as a general store, totally destroying the second and third flats and badly damaging the lower one. Messrs. Lambert & Sons succeeded in saving part of their stock in a damaged condition, on which there was an insurance of $7,000, divided among the Wellington, Waterloo, Economical and Mercantile insurance companies. There was also an insurance on the building.

THE GUILEFUL FAKIR.

No more striking instance of the futility of patronising the bum advertising fakir is recorded than the one which recently took place in Port Hope, whereby a number of business men were induced to insert advertisements in a frame which was to be posted in a public building in Port Hope and some of the surrounding villages. The terms were $7.50, payable three months after delivery of the frames. Almost as soon as the Port Hope frame was hung up fakir No. 2 hove in sight and commenced to collect, allowing a discount for cash. One of the advertisers asserted he did not know whether the frames were hung in the villages named, and said he would not pay until the three months were up, whereat the fakir threatened all sorts of calamities, and at last, for peace sake, the money was paid. No advertising pays as well as that done in the local papers, where the advertiser is on the spot and can see that a contract is faithfully carried out. Not only that, but it keeps money in your own town, a pointer our town Council would do well to remember when erecting any further public works.—Port Hope Times.

SOME VALUABLE HINTS.

The magnificent autumn number of THE CANADIAN GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER (just issued) contains the following sensible paragraph :—

"Business men in the various towns throughout the country are constantly troubled with these fakirs. There are local fakirs also who publish calendars, time-tables, etc., who sell space in hotel registers, around the clock, etc. The best paying advertisement for a retailer is the one he puts in his local paper. Set your back against all other schemes. Let the matters in your advertisement be such as will attract attention. Tell the truth in it. Do not make extravagant statements. Briefly, study advertising as carefully as you do any of the details of your business. If you do not make your advertisement in your local paper pay the fault is yours, because others have."

The local paper is undoubtedly the best advertising medium—for farmers and stockmen as well as for business men. It reaches the very class whose attention and patronage it is most desirable to secure, and its columns are more closely and eagerly scanned than are those of journals published outside the local constituency.

These remarks, of course, apply only to live, clean newspapers, and not to those horrible blotches miscalled newspapers, of which a few still survive.—Streetsville Review.

DRUM TAPS.

Leaves from the Diary of a Commercial Traveller.

BY WM. H. MAHER.

CHAPTER XV.

Sunday to the drummer, is a day of rest. The average commercial traveller does not go to church, because his clothes are hardly up to the church standard. There are men who go prepared with a nice suit, but they are the dandies of the road; men who fish for invitations to go out and see the girls, and who divide their time between drumming and flirting, always giving their preference to the latter employment when the two conflict. During years of experience on the road I noticed that the handsome young men who drove the country girls wild, in their own opinion, and who were much more ready to talk about their conquests than about trade, were never among the best salesmen; and I do not recall an instance where such a salesman was ever given an interest in the firm. The clerk in the store can do as he pleases with his hours after the store is closed, but the salesman on the road is paid to devote every hour of his time to business.

After breakfast I borrowed pen and ink of the clerk and went to my room. I copied off the orders taken the day before, then figured up my sales for the week. I had been told that $600 would pay; that $900 was about the average of our experienced traveling man, and that ten to twelve hundred was an exceeding good figure. My sales during the week were between $1,300 and $1,400; and no one could be more surprised at my success than I was.

I had worked hard, and had worked every minute of the time; with every man I met I called into play every bit of nervous force in me, and tried to make him see things as I saw them. When I went out of a store I usually felt as if I had been holding some immense weight, and the recreation left me weak and tired out.

Certainly there was nothing about the business to make one love it; even a weeks experience had shown it up in not a very agreeable light. Pushing one's self into the presence of men and remaining there when one could see that he was more than unwelcome, was not agreeable to a sensitive person. Begging for favors of men whom one would scarcely care to recognize as acquaintances if they were out of trade was not always calculated to improve one's self-respect; and living and eating, among strangers never two nights at the same place, was turning life into a dry and dreary affair.

But the business had to be done; modes had changed till business was where it must be "drummed;" not because the retail trade would not buy just as many goods if drummers were kept away, but each house must send out its salesmen because, if it did not, some one house would have the advantage. The expense of the drummer was a costly one to the house, but it had to be borne.

And drummers did not make any attempt to lessen their importance to their houses. On the contrary, where they could do it, they arranged that the trade should hold their orders for them instead of sending them in to the house. He was a very superficial observer who did not see that the traveling men were yearly gaining a position where they could dictate to their own houses. Much of the trade knew only them, saw only them, and knew nothing of the house more than they told. If the salesmen should go to another house he might carry every dollar of this trade with him, and he was not slow to avail himself of this knowledge.

Consequently it became a sure step to promotion to control a good country trade, and disagreeable as the work was in every way, it offered the surest avenue to advancement, providing the man did not contract habits that offset his abilities as a salesman. If I saw all this before I set out on my trip, I saw it more clearly now, and I determined to stick to the road and worked my way into something better than a second-class clerkship.

I started on this trip with my notions largely formed from the talk I had heard among old traveling men. In listening to them about their sales, and their efforts to change a reluctant buyer into a willing one, I had observed that the saloon and treating bore a very prominent part. So when I started out I had supposed that as a matter of course, I would find it necessary to use the same means and the same arguments. It did not take me long to discover, however that this was not true; that the better class of trade could not be reached by any such influence, and that there was no place where it was really necessary. In my first few days I would have done anything, no matter what to secure an order; but as my confidence in myself grew I discarded the idea that beer or whiskey was a necessary adjunct, and I was able to prove myself right. Not only this, and I satisfied myself that the drinking men among my customers had more regard for me because I was not seen in saloons, and put more confidence in me. I am able to say now, after many years' experience and observation, that the man who depends upon the help of the saloon to give him trade is making a woeful blunder. His chances of holding such trade are small; he is sure, in time, to lose himself. In an early part of my story I told of inviting a customer to a saloon for a glass of wine: so I make this statement here that no young man need say my example led him astray.

I know it would be tedious to the reader to follow me daily through my next two weeks. In the next town I reached I found a letter from the firm congratulating me on my success and cheering me on. I did not go into a town but that I took an order there, and my average sales during the next two weeks were over $200 a day, the gross profit averaging well.

At the end of the third week I finished my trip and went home. I had sold $3,700 worth of goods, and collected every dollar due us on the route, and I had a confident feeling that whenever I should go over the road again I would meet with a welcome. The clerks in the store praised me without stint; the proprietors were more cautious, probably thinking of the increased salary I might be demanding one of these days; but the senior said to me when we were alone:

"I guess you had better keep on the road, don't you?"

"I will drum the route I have been over," I said, "but to start out every sixty days will be often enough; in the meantime I would like to keep at the books."

It was settled in this way, though, in addition to keeping the books when at home, I had to sell goods, thus keeping me tolerably busy. Of course the same process that made one successful on the road made him an equally good salesman at home. But in addition to this, there were attentions that could be shown a merchant in your city that could not be given in his town. For instance, an invitation to a man to go to a theater with you, or an hours drive with him, showing him the city, or giving him a little lunch—there are numberless things one could do, and every one touches a man on a sensitive point and tells in one's favor.

When the country merchant goes to the city he is willing to combine business with a little pleasure, and while he is anxious to see everything, he is generally at a loss to find anything, or, if he goes to a place of public amusement, he feels lost and more or less awkward. But with some one beside him who knows "the ropes" he enjoyes all he sees, and appreciates every attention.

I took care of such trade as I could get acquainted with, and every day saw my influence increasing in the house. Then my position at the books gave me opportunities of adding a word to a bill, or a letter, that kept the customer personally acquainted with me, and did me no harm when next he was in town.

My second trip over the C. & T. Road was as good as my first one; I sold some new men and nearly all those I sold before, and did not hear a complaint from a single customer.

I travelled over that road for eight years; during that time I never had a customer leave me, and in my eight years' sales I made less that $100 of bad debts. Meantime the firm prospered; I added another route to my C. & T. trip and was equally successful there, and the house was preparing to move into more commodious quarters when the senior died.

There was no question about the business going right along, and though I had only the little money that I had saved from my salary, some $1,500, I did not worry as to the future. Although I had been so much on the road, I had always gone to work at the books the moment I came in from my trip, and when the senior died I was the only one in the house who could take his place in the office. Then my sales that year had been over $50,000, in a total for the whole house of $ 148,000 and I could not afford to be at ease.

The result was as I anticipated; the survivor and I went into partenership, and the succeeding years were the best the house had ever seen. I kept my routes and managed the books for awhile, but after a year of this, and some changes among our clerks, I was compelled to devote my time to the books and to the management of the business and thus ended my "Drum-taps."

Aluminum is a costly material. The lowest price we have seen quoted is $2 per pound, and that price is guaranteed only when a person purchases 1,000 pounds or more. But we understand a company has been started by which this metal can be sold at 10 cents per pound.

LISTS OF DELINQUENT DEBTORS.

A delinquent debtors' list is coming to be as indispensable to retail traders as the reference books of such commercial agencies as Bradstreet's, and Dun, Wiman & Co., are to the givers of credit on a wholesale scale. In the reports of these commercial agencies the retailers are themselves financially pilloried. For that matter so are many of their customers, but as these are not therein scaled according to their honesty, such books are of only partial service to the retailer. Tens of thousands of consumers are not named in these annual commercial reports, and this fact further circumscribes the usefulness of the reports to dealers who sell to people whose financial standing is insignificant.

What is wanted is a list equal in the scope of its territorial extent and superior in the accomplishment of its purpose, to the lists of the commercial agencies, but which shall be an accurate annual gazette of that portion of the public that has proved itself undeserving of credit. To this list it would be necessary that all trades and all localities should be contributory. Such a manual would be of immense commercial service. It would clear the way for a fair trial of the credit system, for which there is not at present a clear arena, because of the fact that the question of honesty gets confused with that of solvency and perplexes the trader. If there was a good wide basis of authority to which a trader might appeal to determine his giving or withholding of credit, there would finally be a means of calculating the respective weights of the pro and con considerations relative to the credit system.

The means of collecting the information which should form the matter of such a reference list, would, if continued on the present local lines, be very trustworthy. No entry would be based, as in the case of the commercial agency's report, upon an estimate or a surmise, but would be gleaned only from strictly documentary records. These records would be the book-accounts of the retailers. To get the results of these accounts internal organization would be necessary, and as each trade in a place organized and collected its list, it could exchange lists with the various associations of other local trades, and thus arrive at a complete local list. Such a list, instead of issuing from one man's judgment, would have the sanction of the whole community of traders, and would thus have an additional check upon the chances of error. But association is required to get at such a result, and if there were no other motive to association this one should suffice.

The delinquent list of any body of trade in any place of reasonable size may be a veritable centipede, with its hundred feet touching as many places far apart. This is a big feature of such a list. It makes a bad payer have a local habitation and a name to the trader, wherever the trader may be and whencesoever the bad payer may come. A list in Toronto may befriend a dealer in Kingston, as has actually been done.

Two weeks ago we published from the after-dinner proceedings of a meeting of the Sarnia Retail Grocers' Association some remarks of Mr. Kenney, the vice-president of that body, wherein he placed the value of the local trade delinquent list at $1,000 to each member. He knew whereof he spoke, and did not undervalue the list.

A VANISHING USAGE.

It is no doubt beautiful to behold business and social sentiment at their best, dwelling together in unity. It is a spectacle of millenial-like harmony, of an earthly state of things from which paradox has been eliminated. The contemplation of the idea in the fulness of its loveliness is vouchsafed only to those poetic spirits who are unconscious of the gross trammels of the mere mortal and mundane part of human existence. To us whose conception is more darkly "walled about" with this "muddy vesture of decay" it is permitted to get but a glimpse of the transcendental vision. The balloon of our imagination is too heavily ballasted for the craft to reach that point in the clouds where the idea may be familiarly mixed up with. But at the distance at which we are forced to anchor from the phenomenon, we are constrained to say we are pleased with the unsubstantial but consummate thing. We always speak in the same wary way, when we find ourselves groping in regions beyond the boundaries of plain common sense. Thus by our caution we escape the odious name Philistine. So have we sat in outward ecstacies, through a nocturne of Chopin, through a choral tragedy of Sophocles, through an art exhibition, and through a lecture by Eli Perkins; though as to the meaning of the whole thing we were considerably befogged.

But to get back at the circumscribed view we take of the fusion of business and social sentiment. That circumscribed view prevents us giving our unreserved approval to the sacrifice which the idea sometimes involves. A man must often have to choose between making a pleasant personal impression and making a profitable sale. We do not hold that he should always choose the latter, but he should be led to his choice by purely business considerations. He ought in our opinion to weigh each alternative, not only by its present but by its probable future effects. In determining his choice he is thus admitting strictly business arguments. If he finally inclines to the option of making a pleasant personal impression, he then does so not because of weak good nature, but because he has estimated the business value of gratifying a customer. There is a sphere in which disinterested generosity may play without being regarded as weakness, where indeed it may be a sign of the grandest strength, but between that sphere and strict business there is no communication. But we believe, a good politic use of the resources of an obliging and liberal disposition is a good thing, and far reaching in its benefits. Liberality that is laid out without an eye to some other business equivalent being reaped from it is apt to make him who invests it a slave to his customers.

That is the effect of giving Christmas presents. The man who follows this practice with a few favorite customers must follow it with all, or lose the less favored ones. To keep all he must bribe all. Therefore he loses. Or if he does not lose, he must recover in his prices, and thus drive trade to a cheaper dealer. He has to do with everybody from necessity what he started to do with a few from choice. One of our daily contemporaries some time ago bewailed the decline of a practice which had become one of the Christmas amenities of the grocery trade. It had become an amenity which was irreconcileable with the management of trade. Profit had to go or the amenity had, and we are glad to see that the latter is what is commonly sacrificed these days. We hope that sign of the embodiment of social good feeling in trade, the Christmas present, will soon be a vanished extravagance. Good feeling as a business factor should be cherished in business, but not at any sacrifice.

THE SPOIL OF DEBT.

The sudden disappearance of James N. Henry, a Chatham produce merchant, removes the keystone from a considerable fabric of debt which that trader managed to build up, and which now consequently is falling to pieces. He seems to have victimized very many of the people he did business with, the total haul being estimated at $25,000 to $30,000. It is said that he succeeded in negotiating drafts to the amount of $11,000 at the local Bank of Montreal on the receipts of the Grand Trunk station agent for six or seven car loads of pork, a car load of beans and other produce, of which only an insignificant portion was actually on board, but promised to be completed the same day. Numerous farmers about Kent Bridge and Louisville, where Henry had warehouses, are known to be losers. The following are Chatham losers :—Col. Smith, $514; Glenn & Sons, about $600; James Milner, $1,100; S. Barfoot, $300; George Stephens, $280; Tighe & Stringer, $500; C. Stringer, $200; C. Northwood, $800; P. T. Barry, $300. The assets are nil. There are town property and a farm in Oxford, on which there was a mortgage of $11,000, and on investigation it is found that a chattel mortgage for a big amount was effeeted on Saturday. The creditors will therefore suffer a total loss of the sum named.

The same man is alleged to have carried on an extensive business in St. Thomas over twenty years ago, and to have departed from that town in everybody's debt, owing $20,000 to Montreal creditors alone. He then sojourned a while in Kansas, whence he returned to Chatham.

BUSINESS CREDITS.

The following letter respecting credits given by wholesale grocers has been sent by John T. James, of International Bridge, to James Turner & Co., Hamilton. It will be remembered that Mr. James wrote a very interesting letter which was read at the Merchants' Convention :

Gentlemen : Having had my attention drawn to the change of credti on groceries, and the many letters, pro and con, which have appeared from day to day in the public press relative thereto, I am disposed to favor the public, through you, with a few unbiassed, unprejudiced thoughts on this burning question. I submit that the change was made somewhat precipitately, and in this respect the retail merchants have some ground for complaint. Further, there has been so far no appreciable change of prices, or better discounts, and upon the face of it, this seems unjust toward the retailer. As a cash buyer, I am personally interested in securing the best discounts available, and that there should be a good margin, between the slow, time-extending, note-renewing purchaser and the cash buyer, I am fully persuaded. But of what avail is it to us, that large discounts are given for cash, when many slow-time buyers are getting extension after extension, and selling goods under our noses, for less than a living profit, and in some instances for less than they cost us, until the end of their tether is reached, and they burst, assign, compromise, and renew the farce? It is usually conceded that the cash buyer can afford to sell at lowest prices. Gentlemen, this is not true. Men who pay honestly for their goods will invariably sell them for a living profit. It is the extension, renewal, assignment, compromise man who can, and does, sell goods below their actual value and cost ; and it is the cash buyer, and through him the general public, who pays the fiddler. We are constrained to ask, what remedy is there, or can there be, for this evil? I submit, gentlemen, first, that the wholesale grocers' guild has made the first step in the right direction for the removal of much of the existing rottenness of trade. Second, that all other branches of the wholesale and jobbing trade should move promptly in the same direction. Third, that a step should be the precursor of a general curtailing of credits and reduction of discounts, thus bringing trade to its proper level, and goods to a fair standard value. I shall be met at this point with the plausible objection that this is an impracticable scheme, as many business men of long standing are conducting their business upon a credit system, and would therefore be compelled to do a more limited trade, or perhaps be driven out of the trade altogether. So much the better. If men, either in retail or wholesale, will be content to do a legitimate trade, they will not require to take or give long credits, and if they have been conducting their business on false principles the sooner they face the matter squarely and put their business upon a cash basis the better it will be for them, their customers and their creditors, not to mention their fellow-tradesmen. I submit, gentlemen, that there is a limit to the amount of business to be done in this or any other country, and that extensive credit and repeated renewals cannot, and do not, increase the volume of trade one iota, but only serve to divert it from its proper channels (namely, through the medium of cash dealers) into the tortuous, uncertain and frequently disastrous course of failure, bankruptcy, and general panic. I am credibly informed by travellers upon the road that in some towns the retailers are combining to resist the action of the wholesale grocers' guild, and are purchasing as far as possible outside the guild. This is certainly a little shortsighted as far as cash men are concerned.

I have no quarrel with the wholesaler for shortening my discounts, provided, always, that he correspondingly shortens the credit time, and abolishes renewals ; it is to our advantage as cash purchasers to bring all retailers upon a level platform. But I have —and so long as the evil exists, I expect to have—a very decided quarrel with the retailer who, never intending to pay full value for his goods, floods them upon the public at "less than cost," "below wholesale prices," etc., and I have equally a quarrel with the wholesaler who supplies and encourages that kind of trade.

I would suggest to the 100 cents on the dollar retailers throughout this province, and throughout the whole Dominion of Canada, let us form a combination in the interest of square-dealing, pay-as-you-go trade, making it a prominent plank in our platform that we will not buy from any wholesale firm or manufacturer who is known to give long credits or renewals.

This is our grievance, and so far as the Wholesale Grocers' Guild moved in the direction of redressing it, I for one bid them God-speed, and extend to them the right hand of fellowship. Success to the movement in favor of short credits and close prices. I am, gentlemen,

Yours sincerely,

JOHN T. JAMES.

TO PRESERVE THE FRESHNESS OF EGGS.

The following is a copy of a letter containing a suggestion as to the best means of keeping eggs fresh for a long time. It was received by the Minister of Finance a few days ago, and we submit it to our readers that they may examine it by the light of experiment. We should be glad to have the views of egg-men upon it :—

40, Lee Park, Lee, S. E., London.

The Hon. The MINISTER OF FINANCE,
Ottawa.

Re EGG TRADE.

SIR,—Being desirous of extending the trade of Canada, especially now that the McKinley tariff is in existence, I have the honour to inform you that I have been let into a secret which will prove invaluable to the egg trade, by the preservation of the eggs in a fresh condition from a period of six months to a year without impairing their goodness, and which would suit the export trade ; the shipping trade for the use of passengers, or for the domestic retail trade, by accumulating them while plentiful and cheap, for the winter when they are scarce and dear.

The plan is simply to place them in a net, and then to place them in clean boiling water for 30 seconds only, when they will keep for a year perfectly good and fresh. The number of boilers to be employed would be in accordance with the amount of business done.

Please do not allow the simpleness of the plan to deter you from recommending the practice, which will result in great benefit to Canada.

I have, etc.,

(Signed) WM. G. BOYES.

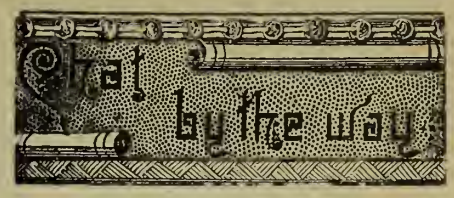
We have asked some of the leading egg buyers of this city what they think of the foregoing suggestion, but find them unprepared to express an opinion. The method had never been tried by any of them. The only other way we can come by farther knowledge of the practicability and economy of this plan is by experiment, but experiment can yield a satisfactory result only after it has been months in trial. In the lack, therefore, of evidence based on experience or experiment we cannot well criticise the method. Evidently, it is approved by Mr. Boyes, but sometimes even the most careful observation of one man will overlook essential drawbacks or neglect to estimate important effects of clearly observed properties. The fact that the treatment recommended is open to the investigation of everybody makes it appear obvious that the results reached are similar to or identical with those desired.

What the action of the hot water is we can only conjecture. Directly or indirectly it must seal up the pores of the shell so as to make that air-tight. Possibly in the momentary expansion of the shell which the heat causes, the enlarging of the pores may give egress to a vapory portion—also a consequence of the heat—of its expanded contents. The release of this may leave the surface layer of the interior in a state favorable to coagulation, whereby the soft matter of the egg may be provided with a protective coat when the cooling process is completed. Or it may be that intensely hard water is used, from which the calcium carbonate is deposited upon the kindred shell, as it is upon a lime-stone pebble placed in boiling hard water. This would be something the same as pickling the egg, however, and the salts of lime would soon be exhausted from a vessel of natural water. The effect would, therefore, be non-preservative of freshness, and would show that a purely hot-water process would need eventually to be modified by the introduction of lime. All this is mere surmise, and we may be enabled to say more when practical men have had time to report something upon the matter.

FAIRBANK'S LARD.

Among the number of new industries brought to life by the National Policy of our Government, perhaps the most important in its bearing to the grocery trade is the Canadian factory of the world-famed house of A. K. Fairbank & Co., refiners of lard compound.

"Fairbank's" lard is a household word on both sides of the line, and the brand of the Hungarian Boar's Head needs no introduction to the readers of THE GROCER.



It is, we think, in the neighborhood of twenty or twenty-five years since Fairbank & Co. entered this market, and during this time they have secured and retained a large business, the uniform excellence of their goods keeping their brand in demand, so that, when the recent advance in the tariff put the duty on lard at 3c. per lb. and actually prohibited its importation from Chicago, this firm making a virtue of necessity, and rather than relinquish a trade that took twenty-five years to build up, simply changed their base of supply from Chicago to Montreal and there erected a plant of capacity sufficient to supply their Canadian trade. In coming into Canada as manufacturers, Fairbank & Co. do not come as strangers but as old friends, and as far as the Montreal branch is concerned, as bona-fide settlers with a very substantial interest in the success of the great Dominion.

Fairbank's have also been careful to observe the Dominion Statutes as relating to branding of compounds and under the Act of 1886 and amendments of 1890, every package leaving their factory is branded just exactly what it is, "Refined Lard Compound."

The Canadian management is in the hands of tried and able men and there should be no doubt that this last arrival will not some day aspire to the proportions of the parent houss.

STEPS TOWARDS FEDERATION.

The Secretary of the Toronto R. G. Association is already in receipt of replies to his circular asking the co-operation of other associations as well as retail grocers all over Ontario. These letters form very interesting reading, and show that the steps taken are in a forward direction and are meeting with a cordial reception from the country.

Canadian sardines are to be taken to Europe, in hopes of competing with the Mediterranean and Breton product. Immense quantities of sardines are caught on the New Brunswick coast, and this year the yield is so large that the fish are almost unsaleable.

A fire in Lockport, N.S., on Friday morning last, destroyed the general store and dwelling of Austin Murphy, which were insured ; Wm. Chipman's store, Allen Locke's grocery store, and Geo. Redding's crockery ware store. Other stores were also damaged seriously. Mr. Austin Murphy saved his life only by jumping from an upper window.

We have it on good authority that the license commissioners of London, Ont., intend to give notice that after next license year they will give no liquor license to grocers. The liquor trade must be a separate and distinct business. This action is to do away with glass and other partitions with a hole in the wall for the cash to run through, this is following the example of Toronto, St. Thomas, and other places.

As announced in yesterday's Bulletin, the Sugar Trust officials have decided to pack refined sugars in bags, instead of barrels, owing, as alleged, to scarcity of cooperage material. The sweet will be placed in cotton sacks, with an outer covering of heavy bagging material. Pending practical experience jobbers have little comment to make on the innovation, but it is expected that the retail trade will enter a vigorous protest, more particularly against the proposed 200-pound bag.—N. Y. Trade Bulletin.

Mr. Gibson has also been appointed selling agent for Messrs. Couter & Jacques, proprietors of the Dominion Vermicelli and Macaroni Works, of Montreal, the quality of whose goods is highly spoken of.

We have pleasure in directing the attention of our subscribers to the advertisement of Messrs. W. H. Storey & Son, found in another column. The goods advertised are a specialty designed for a particular class of work, and possessing particular merit—besides the guarantee of a firm first in its line of productions on this Continent. It is needless to add that W. H. Storey & Son's name is particularly identified with first-class goods, and known from one end of Canada to the other. The firm, besides producing this specialty, manufacture the finest class of gloves known to the trade, and numbering four or five hundred varieties—from the finest kid to the heaviest buckskin. All their goods are stamped W. H. Storey & Son, Acton, Ont., and none are genuine without.

William MacGregor, tea importer at No. 119 Front street, New York, is financially embarrassed. He said yesterday that his trouble was solely on account of being involved with R. M. Montgomery & Co., tea auctioneers; that his matters depended entirely on the outcome of that firm's affairs, and that he owes nothing to the trade. Mr. MacGregor has for thirty years been identified with the tea trade in this city, China, and Japan. He started in business in New York in 1866 as the "Co." of the firm of T. J. Daly & Co., in which he remained until 1876, after which he carried on business until January, 1883, when he admitted Wm. Dallas as a partner, as Wm. MacGregor & Dallas. This firm dissolved in September, 1886, since which time Mr. MacGregor has been alone. He formerly claimed a capital of about $20,000. His business was principally with Canadian customers.

The Dominion Government has determined upon a new form of declaration to be made by the foreign owner of any goods shipped to Canada on consignment before the collector or chief municipal officer in the United Kingdom or other place in Her Majesty's possessions abroad whence the goods are shipped, or before a notary public, and at any other place before a British consul, or if there is no British consul, then before a foreign consul at such place. The declaration provides that the invoice must contain a full and true statement of the fair market value, when sold for home consumption, of the goods at the time and place of the exportation direct to Canada; that such fair market value includes any bounties, drawbacks, royalties, rents or charges allowed or paid on the goods, or payable on patent rights, or because of the lease of such goods, and that no different invoice or account has been or will be furnished to anyone by the exporter.

TORONTO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Dec. 25, 1890.

GROCERIES.

The Christmas trade has come to an uneventful close. The last week lacked the one condition that could have had a regenerating effect, that is, plenty of snow with bright frosty weather. That condition would have offset the cautious buying of the earlier part of the season by a spell of sprightly business in the final week. But it did not come, and the majority of the retailers made no material additions to supplies in hand. But although trade has gone at a sober pace ever since the influence of the prospective Christmas demand began to operate, and although it has closed without a spurt, it has nevertheless been as satisfactory in the aggregate as the trade of any other of the mild holiday seasons we have had the past few years. The sugar trade was below the average, but the trade in dried fruits was above, while in other lines the level of other snowless Decembers was simply preserved. The past week the buying of dried fruits and nuts was the main feature of the business done.

CANNED GOODS.

The canned goods market is as placid as ever, undisturbed by a strong demand and without a ripple of anxiety for the future. In this state of equlibrium the market will remain until the winter demand, which usually becomes strong after the holidays, gets to work. It is not expected, at the present, that that will reveal any points of weakness. In the meantime firmness remains an uncompromising feature. Though there is little doing between jobbers and the trade, or between jobbers, there have been some sales made by packers, of goods yet in manufacturers hands, and at established current prices. The general firmness of the prices at which the goods changed hands from the packers to the jobbers betokens genuine strength in the situation, as the present scarcity of money would have exposed any radical weakness in the position of holders.

The following are the imports of preserved lobsters and salmon (in cases) into the United Kingdom for the present and two previous years, viz :

Salmon,	3161	81,404	302	658,886	590,415	284,618

COFFEE.

The climax of dulness seems to have been reached in the coffee trade of the past week. The local market is nearly lifeless. Brazil papers agree pretty well in forecasting a good 1891-2 crop in the neighborhood of Santos, although it is said the drought in the Minas district had done so much damage that the first large estimate of it must be discounted fully 50 per cent.

DRIED FRUIT.

The extent of this year,s Christmas trade in dried fruit might easily be underestimated if guaged by the undemonstrative course of that trade. But it must be remembered that selling has been continuous since the first arrivals of new crop goods, and inside of that time the most phlegmatic demand constantly operating would move a great quantity of stock. This, therefore, has been one of the best seasons for dried fruits we have had for years. Prices have been comparatively easy, which was one cause of the liberal buying. Another cause was the scarcity of native fruit, the moderate abundance of foreign dried fruits determining prices which favorably counterbalanced the high ones of our home staples. All foreign dried fruits are now easier in the New York market, as the scarcity of money is forcing intending speculators in fruits to part with their stock before their opportunity has ripened. Prices here have from the outset been without that speculative inflation which they took on in the New York market at the first. The present lowness, however, both here and in New York, is expected to be succeeded before long by an advance, if the usual effects of strong consumption are realized, as low prices are expected to stimulate consumption, Filiatra and Provincial currants have both declined in value,barrels of the former selling at 6⅛ to 6¼c. now, and of the latter at 6 to 6⅛c. Half-barrels and case have correspondingly eased, as is shown in our Prices Current. Valencia layers are half a cent lower, selling at 8 to 8½c. Loose muscatels are virtually sold out, and all blue fruit is in small compass. Prunes are easier in New York, though at first they were higher in that market than in this one. Even now we could not bring them from New York and sell on the present basis. The New York decline is a condition forced upon holders by the scarcity of money, which has caused a shrinkage in the prices of so many commodities. In Trieste, on the other hand, prices have reached their highest point, so that unless New York is overstocked we may expect ultimate firmness in and perhaps advance upon present local prices. Persian dates are up to 6½c. inside prices.

NUTS.

In no other line has the demand brought its strength to bear with such celerity as in the case of nuts. In other departments the movement of the demand was desultory or very steady and easy, but in nuts it was strong and sudden. The Marbot stock of walnuts was absorbed four days after its arrival. The bulk of the Grenoble walnuts was delayed in arrival, the main supply coming in on Monday to find the market bare. They will now be plentiful, but not excessively so. The shipment of Bordeaux on which the wholesalers depended also arrived only on Monday, two weeks later than usual. Consumers will get the benefit of this delay, as the stock is not so green as it was in former years. The market is bare of almonds, and cannot be replenished so as to stock the retailer below 16c. Brazil nuts are too high to bring here, as they would cost 20c. laid down, and they will not sell at that price.

PEELS.

Under date of Leghorn, 1st inst., the report is made that "citron has again advanced in sympathy with a wide speculative movement in the raw fruit, and now commands the full parity of 54s. per cwt., f.o.b."

RICE AND SPICES.

Very little rice has been taken off this market since the quasi monopoly of attention has been given to dried fruits and nuts The change in prices is therefore to be noted in local trade. The American Grocer says of the N. Y. market :

Trade is fairly active, and dealers evince a little more confidence. The monetary situation has improved and shows itself in enlarged purchases and less inclination to

"dicker" on part of the buyers. On the whole, it seems to be the prevailing opinion that the market is in splendid tone. Foreign has a steady call and prices are well sustained.

Spices are selling well. The cheapness of some lines, as cloves, pepper, etc., is improving business.

SUGAR.

The symptoms of weakness which were noted in our last roport have turned out to be not misleading, as all white sugars went down ⅛c. on Monday morning. Prices now are 6¾ to 6⅞c. for granulated, 7⅜ to 7½c. for Paris lumps, 7⅞ to 8⅛c. for extra ground, and 7 to 7¼c. for powdered. Detailed quotations are in our prices current. Yellow sugars still shade down to 5c. The position of the sugar market now appears to be at its best for the buyer, as the reasonable probability is that the next movement is unlikely to be downward, though there is no commodity more capricious in its market fluctuations than is sugar. We forbear, therefore, from venturing any sanguine opinion as to the next move or as to the duration of the present state of depression. The situation on all hands is indicative of weakness. The decline in United States prices of granulated, as signified in the offer noted last week to supply at 4½c. for February delivery, may have had a sympathetic influence upon our prices. But the real over-ruling circumstances was the dull trade that has been done in sugar for the past six weeks. That dulness, again, may be partially accounted for by the new terms of credit which were inaugurated on the first of November. Under these the retailer had to pay for his sugar in 30 days, instead of in 60 days as previously. The effect of this was that retailers would have the sugar engagements they had made in November maturing at the same time nearly as those made in October. A dealer who bought sugar on the 20th of October would have it to pay for about the 20th of December, while the sugar he bought on the 20th of November would have to be paid for at the same date. To ease the effect of the two engagements, the retailer would naturally keep the latter purchase as low as possible, limiting it to the quantity estimated as sufficient for one month instead of two. The effect of this would be to throw the carrying of what may roughly be called half the quantity he formerly carried from his shoulders upon those of the refiners'. The refiners, with this added burden in the face a season naturally dull might be looked for to weaken ; and they have done so.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Dark and medium syrups are very scarce. They are also in strong demand because of the use of them in baking, which many consumers continue because of their ignorance of the great improvement in molasses from the grade which years ago was so common and unavoidable a constituent in cooking. Molasses also sells freely, and is very firm at 38c. upwards.

Sloan & Crowther have received a direct shipment of a fine sample of St. Croix molasses, which they are offering at 42½ to 45c. in barrels.

TEAS.

The tea market is quiet, which is usual during the weeks before Christmas, as retailers concentrate their attention on dried fruit, to the neglect of tea. After the opening of the New Year a good trade is looked for. Prices are unchanged, with firmness the leading characteristic.

Ceylon planters are rejoicing over the prospect of an extensive introduction of Ceylon tea into the Russian market in consequence of the recommendation of the tea by Russian officials. "It is a fact worthy of notice in connection with Russian trade in general," says the Ceylon Mail, "that it is subject to such heavy duties, charges and land carriage that the first cost of the commodities consumed there, forming but a fraction of the total cost to the consumer, has but little effect on the selling price. Hence, as a rule, the best qualities only are bought for the Russian market. It is probable, therefore, that Ceylon tea will speedily gain favor there because of its excellence, and that our finest crops will gravitate into that channel."

PETROLEUM.

Unchanged prices with business good is about all that can be said.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

The Christmas trade in lines of strictly drug-store stocks has been good. In certain fancy lines, as perfumes, fine soaps, etc., there has also been a good trade. No change in prices is to be noted.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The best half of the trade in the matter of quality is still the demand. Good butter is wanted, and the freer supply of it would raise prices rather than lower them, as the present ruling condition in prices now is the excess of bad butter, which drags down the value of the little good stock that is furnished. The prices of a week ago hold still, and the supply of each class is also about the same. Good dairy tub is 16c. and medium or store packed is 8 to 12c. Large rolls, pails and crocks are 12 to 16c. and are plentiful. Pound rolls are scarce and wanted at 16 to 18c. Creamery tub is scarce at 24 to 25c.

Cheese is 8 to 9c. for early summer, 7 to 8c. for half skims and 10½c. for September make. The demand is fairly good.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—The gap between the lowest and the highest price widens as the improved market brings on inferior grades. Prices now run from $3 to $4.50 per barrel in car lots.

BEANS—A sign of weakness was the offer on Monday of broken lots at $1.40, but the sample was not choice. Good stock in car lots is worth $1.50, and in small quantities $1.65.

DRIED APPLES—The market is fitful. On Saturday a car was sold at 8½c. f.o.b. for shipment to the North West, while on Monday a car offered here at 8c. was not taken. The fact that the North West demand is still a market factor, notwithstanding the close of navigation augurs well for prices.

EGGS—Their scarceness is more pronounced. Good fresh are worth 24 to 25c., and limed are 22 to 23c. The late returns of sales of Canadian eggs in Great Britain have been satisfactory. Fine selected cost about 25 1-2c per dozen delivered at London and Liverpool, and they sold at 28c, leaving a profit of 2½c. per dozen.

GAME—Partridges are scarce at 75 to 88c. Rabbits are also in demand at 30c.

HAY—Timothy is $8.50 to $9, and mixed is $6.50 to $8. Supplies are liberal.

HIDES—Green No. 1 are 4½c., with 5c. occasionally paid. Cured are 5¼c.

HONEY—There is no break in the spell of dulness. Good clear is 12 1-2c., medium clear is 11c., and low grade clear is 7 to 8c. Combs are 14 to 20c.

HOPS—The position is unaltered, and seems to be strong, as business is fairly active at 36 to 40c. for new crop, and 20 to 25c. for yearlings.

OATS—The demand maintains the firmness of prices, which range from 42 to 45c.

ONIONS—Are unchanged and quiet, at $2 for red and $2.25 for white.

POTATOES—Are slightly weaker, going at 80 to 85c. on track, and at 95c. to $1 in small lots.

POULTRY—A strong market for poultry takes off at good prices the large supplies that come in daily. Turkeys are 11 to 12c., geese 6½ to 7c., ducks are 60 to 75c. per brace, and chickens 35 to 40c. Canadian poultry has been sold in the English market and has done well there, sales having been made quite readily at profitable prices.

SKINS—Are in good demand and fair supply, at $1 to $1.10.

STRAW—Oat is steady, at $6 to $6.50.

TALLOW—Is 2c. for rough and 5½c. for refined.

WOOL—Fleece is 20c. There have been a few enquiries for pulled, but buyers and sellers are apart, the latter asking 22¾ to 23c. for supers and 27 to 28c. for extras, while buyers will not go within 3 per cent. of these figures.

FISH.

The Christmas trade in dried fish is very good. There is a great demand for finnan haddie, but it is very scarce. Pickled white fish is also scarce. Pickled lake herring there is very little demand for, and local traders have put it down to $2.75 ½ bbl. to clear off the stock. British Columbia salmon is scarce; always is at this time of season. For Manitoba white fish there is a big demand, there being 20 ton in this market just now. The demand for cod is strong.

GREEN FRUIT.

The market is still rather sluggish, as the most necessary present needs continue to be all that receive any attention on the part of retailers. Stocks are full. Our prices current show a decline in values, which is a consequence of the large stocks and the passing away of the special Christmas demand. Sweet potatoes are about out of stock now, as at this season they do not keep well. They are $4 to $4.50; Malaga grapes are $7 to $9.

CRANBERRIES.

The point reached last week is that at which prices stand this week, viz., $11 to $13 for Cape Cod, and $8 to $9 for North Shore fruit. Trade is good.

PROVISIONS.

The trade in provisions has been up to its usual activity at this season. There is a very good demand for fine smoked meats. The chief activity of the moment is in the hog market.

BACON—Long clear is 7¾ to 8¼c., bellies 10 to 11c., backs 10½c., and rolls 9½ to 10c.

DRESSED HOGS — Select weights were taken at $5.50 to $5.60, and other grades from that down to $5. Products were in fair demand at unchanged prices. Receipts both by rail and street are numerous.

HAMS—Are 11 to 12½c.

LARD—Is unchanged at 9 to 9¼c. in tubs and pails.

MESS PORK—Is steady at $15 to $16.

DRY GOODS.

There is a considerable output of goods now that have been called for in spring orders. These orders are also coming in quite freely. The sorting trade is rather quiet. Money is scarce both for purchase and remittance.

RAW FURS.

A fairly good demand for raw furs is still active. Prices are unchanged. The following are the quotations:—Beaver per lb., $4.50 to $5; bear, per skin, $10 to $25; cub, per skin, $5 to $12; fisher $3.50 to $5; fox, red, 81 to $1.25; fox, cross, $2 to $5; lynx, $1.50 to $2.50; martin, 75 to 90c.; mink, dark, 75c. to $1.25; Muskrat, fall, 12c.; winter, 15c.; otter, $8 to $13; racoon, 25 to 80c.; skunk, 25 to $1.25.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Dec. 24, 1890.

GROCERIES.

Business generally in groceries aside from the seasonable activity in lines of green fruit, etc., has been quiet and unimportant during the week, in fact there is nothing particular to note in a wholesale way except a transaction in dried fruit referred to in the appended review, which fully indicates the firm position of the market as far as holders are concerned.

FRUIT.

In a strictly wholesale sense there has been no business doing during the week just past, or no notable change in position. The only movement has been some odd transactions in a jobbing way in dried and the usual daily trading in various lines of green fruit. Dried fruit, despite all that that has been said about large stocks in New York and depressed markets, is firmly maintained in value here. It is quite likely, therefore, that to move a smaller lot would take more money. We quote firsts firm and unchanged at 6¼ to 6½c., and seconds 6c. Currants remain firm and unchanged at 5⅞ to 6¼c. In green fruit the usual jobbing business has been done. Receipts of oranges, Valencias, Jamaicas, and Floridas have continued fair, and the movement in them has been proportionate, for we do not know of any great accumulation; in fact business has been quite active. The Jamaicas show very fine quality, selling at $6 to $6.50 per barrel, and the Valencias $4.50 to $4.75 per case, while the Floridas bring $3.75 to $4.00 per box. Nuts also have been a good trade in a jobbing way. Grenoble walnuts being steady at 15 to 16c.; other lines unchanged.

SUGAR, SYRUPS, AND MOLASSES.

Business in these articles during the past week was of a steady character but limited dimensions, the tone being unchanged. Raw sugars show no material change, and there was some movement of high grades out of first hands, some vacum pan being turned over at 6c. Refined may be quoted 5⅛ to 6c. for yellows and granulated 6½c.

Syrups have met some enquiry recently at steady prices and some fair business has been done at 3¼ to 4¼c.

Molasses have only a small jobbing movement 36 to 37½c. being still the idea.

TEAS.

There is nothing doing in this line and stocks here are very small especially low grade Japans. Advices quote continued firmness in blacks in Great Britain but there is nothing to note here. A good active trade is anticipated after the holidays as supplies in dealers hands must be pretty well reduced.

RICE.

There is nothing doing in rice and prices rule the same, common $3.90; Japan $4.10 to $4.25, and Patna $5.50.

CANNED GOODS.

Trade has remained dull in this line, in fact more so than usual at this holiday season. This can only be attributed to the fact that dealers stocked up pretty well ahead at the low prices and don't require anything. Prices as a general rule are steady, but salmon have an easy tendency, some recent receipts offering at slightly lower figures. Nothing has resulted, however, so we are unable to quote an actual change. We quote:—Lobsters, per case, $7.25 to $8; mackerel, per case, $4.75 to $5; sardines, per case, $8.50 to $9.50; salmon, per doz., $1.30 to $1.40; clams, 1lb tins, per doz., $2; oysters, 1lb tins, per doz., $1.75 to $1.85; New Brunswick sardines, per 100, $5 to $5.50; Quebec tomatoes, $1.20 to $1.25; peaches, per doz., $2.50 to $2.65; bartlett pears, 2lb. tins, per doz., $2.10 to $2.25; strawberries, 2lb tins, per doz., $2.25 to $2.50; pineapples, 2lb tins, per doz., $2.30 to $2.40; plums, 2lb tins, per doz., $1.75 to $2; corn, Erie & Aylmer, per doz., $1 to $1.10; corn, Boeggs, $1.25 to $1.30; peas, 2lb tins, $1.20 to $1.30; string beans, 2lb tins, per doz., 80 to 85c.

FISH.

The market has shown no change whatever, and as far as wholesale business is concerned the movement is nil. There has been some jobbing movement in fresh fish, several carloads of frozen tommy cod arriving from the Maritime Provinces, and are moving at $1.50 to $1.75. The general tone of the market continues very firm as stocks are very light. We quote: Labrador herring, per barrel, 5.00 to $5.50; do. half-barrel, 3.00 to $3.12; Cape Breton herring per brl., 5.00 to $5.75; do. half-brl., $3; dry cod per quintal, 4.75 to $5; green cod, No. 1 $5.50; do. No. 2, 4.25 to $4.75; do. No. 1, large, $5.50; do. large drafts, $5.75; Labrador salmon, No. 1, per brl., $15; do. No. 2, $14; do. No. 3, $13; mackerel, No. 1, half-brl., 11.00 to $11.50; do. No. 1, kit, 2.50 to $2.75; finnan haddies, Canadian, per pound, 7 to 7½c.; oysters, per barrel, 2 to $4; Red Sea trout, per barrel, 9.00 to $9.50.

PROVISIONS.

Business in this branch has been unimportant and confined to an odd jobbing trade. Prices are unchanged, as follows:—Canadian short cut, per brl $15.50 to $16.00; mess pork, western, per brl $16.00 to $16.50; short cut, western, per brl $16.00 to $16.50; hams, city cured, per lb 10 to 11c.; hams, canvassed, per lb 10 1-2 to 11½c.; lard, Canadian, in pails 8¼ to 8 1-2c.; bacon, per pound, 9 to 10c.; lard, com., refined, per lb, 8 to 8½c.

EGGS.

The egg market is strong in tone and is likely to continue so while the cold weather

A BIG BOY NOW !

THE sands of time are sinking," and "Getting a Big Boy Now," have been sung in the best families for years. THE CANADIAN GROCER is singing them now. The sands of time have been sinking from round our rapidly expanding body, bringing us week by week more prominently before the world of commerce. That we have become a big boy now and that when we speak both high and low stoop to listen, is proven by the many letters received daily congratulating us on our success and of the value of THE CANADIAN GROCER. Another proof is our fat advertising columns, patronized by the best advertisers in the land. We have climbed the steep ascent, slowly but surely, and now stand on the last step of 1890 and shout "Excelsior." Volume five starts out with the New Year, with brighter prospects than ever before. Our old advertisers have discovered the value of our columns and are increasing their space, believing that "in Union is Strength" or that one good advertisement is better than six small ones.

A FINGER POST

A well-worded, neatly displayed advertisement is a finger post on the thoroughfare of business, ever pointing the wayfarer to your place of business. This wayfarer will judge you and your business by your advertisement. Therefore it should be of a fair size and full of life. If you want to reach the retail grocer and general storekeeper why advertise in daily and general papers? Seventy-five per cent. of the circulation is thus wasted. THE CANADIAN GROCER is the only journal in Canada that reaches the above class direct. Its subscribers look there and there only for your announcements. Isn't one bushel of grain sown in good soil better than twenty bushels thrown to the winds with hopes that it will find a fertile bed? Again, papers which are printed with coal tar, with type worn down to the second-nick, which can hardly make an outline cut show, which are filled with the worst kind of patent medicine advertisements, the live advertiser is better out of than he would be in at the same price. If you want cheap advertising and big circulation among the grocery and general store trade THE GROCER is your medium.

AN ADVERTISER BURIED

Have you ever compared carefully THE CANADIAN GROCER with other papers? You never see OUR advertisers buried out of sight. You cannot say the same of other papers. An advertiser's interests are our own interests. If it pays you it will pay us. Therefore our interests are mutual. What have you for us for the coming year? All we ask is a fair trial and we know you will be satisfied. Write us for rates.

lasts or until the holidays are over. There is a continued good demand especially for limed eggs at 22 to 23c.; held are selling at the same figure, and fresh stock from 25 to 26c.

POULTRY.

The poultry market naturally has been an active one during the past week and the activity continues. On Saturday every receiver in the city was well cleared up, and a buyer who wanted a good straight lot of turkeys and geese could not fill his order. In fact the supply this year is smaller than last, owing to the fact that the Americans have been buying largely in the Brockville and Perth districts and very little is being received from there; in fact we do not know of any. Turkeys especially keep well sold up at firm prices, and 11c. is now the idea for choice straight lots, but 9½ to 10c. is a fair quotation for ordinary birds. Geese are quoted at 6 to 7c., chickens 6 to 7½c., and ducks 8 to 9c. Partridge are in demand, all offerings being freely taken at 55 to 60c. per brace for No. 1 and 25 to 30c. for No. 2.

DRESSED HOGS.

Dressed hogs have been moving along steadily during the past week; $5.65 to $5.75 for car lots, and $5.80 to $6 in a jobbing way.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

There is no change in flour or grain, business being of a quiet nature and the movement of limited demensions. The stocks of grain in store show an increase of 10,567 bushels of wheat, 501 bushels of corn, 3,137 bushels of peas, and 14,750 bushels of oats, 3,250 bushels of barley, and 4,839 bushels of rye. Compared with the same time last year there is a decrease of 130,801 bushels of wheat, 9,953 bushels of corn, 112,652 bushels of peas 54,680 bushels of barley, and an increase of 102,398 of oats, and 11,721 bushels of rye. We quote No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.01 to $1.02; peas 73c to 74c per 66 pounds in store; Manitoba oats, 44c to 45c; UpperCanada do., 47c to 47½c; corn 72c to 73c. duty paid; feed barley, 50c to 52c; good malting do., 65 to 70c; rye 60c.

The stock of flour in store shows and increase of1610 barrels compared with a week ago and a decrease of 27,139 barrels compared with a year ago. Patent spring, $5.79 to $5.80; patent winter, $5.10 to $5.40; straight roller, $4.75 to $4.80; extra, $4.40 to $4.50; superfine, $4.00 to $4.10; fine, $3.25 to $3.50; city strong bakers', $5.25 to $5.30; strong bakers', $5.25 to $5.30.

BUTTER.

The position of this article is undoubtedly a strong one in marked improvement to the one it occupied at the same time last season. It is now generally admitted that the available supply of finest is considerably less than it was a year ago, in fact it is in very small compass, especially creamery, and the demand on home account even if there is no export outlet may be expected to account for the bulk of it. In dairy there is the same feeling, and considerable business has been done of late, both in export and local account. The most recent transaction of magnitude in Western dairy being the purchase of 1000 packages at 14 1-2c., which brings down the residue in first hands to very small dimensions. The same remarks may be said to apply to townships, for aside from a few inconsiderable lots in different section stock these have been pretty well weeded out. Late made creamery 22 to 23c; Earlier makes 20 to 21c; Late made Townships 18 to 20c; Western rolls 15 to 17c; Finest Western 14 1-2 to 15 1-2c; Medium grades 10 to 12c.

CHEESE.

Little that is new can be advanced regarding the position of the market, and aside from some recent transactions in the Brockville district no business has actually transpired. These comprise 2,000 odd cheese, and the prices paid would indicate that there is considerable faith in the future of the market, as they were speculative dickers and not purchases on actual orders. The range was from 9¾ to 10c, which is cheap enough to allow of business, unless the Englishman has decided that he will not take any cheese at all.

RICHARD TEW & CO.

IMPORTERS OF

Crockery, Glassware, China, Lamp Goods, Etc., Etc.,

10 FRONT ST. East,

(Adjoining Board of Trade Building.)

TORONTO.

Please examine our lines of fancy cups and saucers, vases, china cabarets, etc., specially selected for the Xmas trade. With our ADAR and WENEN glassware—an entirely new line to the Canadian market—we challenge competition. Our varied assortment of Opal Baskets is meeting with large demands. As the most attractive lines are continually running low, the Trade would do well to place their orders at once, and thus take advantage of our leading lines.

THE CANADIAN GROCER PRICES CURRENT.

TORONTO, Dec. 24, 1890.

This list is corrected every Thursday. The prices are solicited for publication, and are for such qualities and quantities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit.

Goods in large lots and for prompt pay are generally obtainable at lower prices.

All quotations in this department are under the direct control of the Editor, and are not paid for or doctored by any manufacturing or jobbing house unless given under their name; the right being reserved to exclude such firms as do not furnish reliable information.
